SCRIPTURAL CHART;
Being a complete Historical, Chronological, Geographical, and Genealogical Chart of the Sacred Scriptures, from Adam to Christ; presenting, in a condensed form, the History, Chronology, and Geography, of the Sacred Records; and exhibiting, in one view, the Nation, Tribe, Family, Lineal Descent, and Posterity, of all the persons mentioned in the Scriptures, so far as furnished by the annals of sacred and profane writers; to which is affixed an index.*

RECOMMENDATIONS.

The Rev. Mr. Shimeall has shown me his elaborate Scriptural Chart, which he proposes to publish in an engraved and elegant form, should an adequate patronage authorize the undertaking.

The size of the Map, comprising about twenty superficial feet, will make it (as its valuable contents will much more) an appropriate and excellent ornament to the parlor, a proper appendage to the study, and a peculiarly instructive and ready assistant to the department of every Sunday School—which may indeed be said in reference to any other School. It is a full synopsis of Chronology, Geography, Genealogy, and History, in combination; illustrating the sum of the historical Scriptures, both of the Old and New Testaments. Its author, without claiming (as on such a subject the claim were impertinent) entire originality, has so arranged, displayed, and grouped, the several parts, as to deserve more than the title of a tasteful, laborious, and successful compiler. As to correctness, in the minutiae of so complicated a performance, while his Map must ultimately speak, and its author vouch on their own responsibility, I have some reasons f... derable to the Christian—because of its devoted subserviency to the science of the word of God, the oracles of everlasting truth.

Whatever has a tendency to invite public attention to a study of the Sacred Scriptures, and to aid the Biblical Student in the prosecution of his work, is valuable, and deserves public patronage. The Chart projected by the Rev. Mr. Shimeall, and submitted by him to our inspection, professing to give a general view of Scripture History, Chronology, Geography, and Genealogy, we consider as belonging to the class of very useful productions.

Without vouching in detail for the perfect accuracy of so complicated a performance, we do unhesitatingly say, that it is a specimen of combined ingenuity and laborious research, which, connected with its unquestionable utility, renders it an object of deep interest to all those who love the Bible, and who wish to propagate its heavenly instructions.

PRINCETON THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY, NEW JERSEY.

We have been favored with a cursory inspection of the Chart of Sacred Geography, History, Chronology, and Genealogy, executed by the Rev. Mr. Shimeall; and, although our examination has not been sufficiently minute to enable us to judge of the details of the work, yet we have no hesitation in saying, that we have received an impression strongly favorable to its general character. Its ingenious construction; the variety and value of the matter which the compiler has contrived to combine and exhibit in a single view; and the convenient adaptedness of the whole to furnish aid in reading the Sacred Scriptures with intelligence and profit, renders it, in our opinion, well worthy of public patronage. We hope the ingenious compiler will receive that encouragement to which his indefatigable labor to facilitate the study of the Bible entitles him.

It is universally conceded, that an acquaintance with the facts, and their connection with and reference to each other, is essentially necessary to a correct and satisfactory knowledge of the "word of truth." Any work, therefore, which will clearly, accurately, and succinctly, thus place Scriptural facts before the mind of the Biblical Student, will deserve the encouragement and patronage of the Church of Christ. The Chart prepared by Mr. Shimeall, embracing such a variety and amount of facts, giving them a locality and definiteness both of being and relation: naturally and easily leading on the student to the acquisition of, and aiding the memory in retaining and using them, appears to me to merit, in no ordinary degree, the decided encouragement of all who feel the importance of a knowledge of the Scriptures.

This Chart is ingenious in its arrangement; accurate in its details; and comprehensive in its plan; embracing more valuable information, and that which can be relied on, than any other work of the kind of which I have any knowledge.

For the CLERGYMAN, the SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER, the member of the BIBLE CLASS, and the HEADS OF FAMILIES, it will prove not only a desirable, but an invaluable auxiliary, in rendering lucid, instructive, and interesting, facts and narratives too frequently made dry and barren, and devoid of interest to young minds, by the mode of exhibiting them.

It will enable them to economize much time, much labor, and much expense.

I therefore most cordially recommend it to the patronage and study of the Christian public.

ADVERTISEMENT

TO THE AMERICAN EDITION.

The specific design of this system of Bible Questions, is, to render the Scriptural Chart mentioned in the title page, more practically beneficial, in the various departments to which it may be appropriated; and they have been prepared for that purpose, at the repeated solicitations of many of its patrons. These Questions, however, will be found to answer all the purposes of such Scripture helps, without the Chart.

The order in which the Questions have been instituted upon the history of the Old and New Testaments, as embodied in this work, was originally suggested by its division into Six Epochas, as connected with the Chronology of the Chart. From an inspection of Dr. Watts' "Scripture History," however, this order was found to be so far and so happily anticipated; as to answer all the purposes desired, with the exception of such alterations in the arrangement of some of its parts, as the adaptation of its design in accompanying the Chart, rendered necessary; together with such additional auxiliaries, as were deemed essential, in the ordinary prosecution of biblical research.

The additions and alterations made in the original work, consist principally of the following:
1. The answers printed at length in Dr. Watts' Scripture History, are omitted where references are made; and the book, chapter, and verse only, are inserted.
2. Besides other additional, matter, Dr. Watts' Questions have been considerably amplified. To distinguish the additional Questions, Notes, and Scripture references from the original, they will be included in brackets thus, [——].
3. The alterations made in the arrangement of some parts of the original work, for the reasons above specified, effect no material change in the main body of that work. The first regards the introduction of Chronology into the divisions of Dr. Watts' History by Chapters and Sections; which, though evidently controlling his mind in the arrangement of that history, he has omitted to insert in numerals. In supplying this deficiency, an alteration in the titles of most of these Chapters and Sections was unavoidable. The second, and most prominent departure from the original plan, regards the history of the Kings of Judah and Israel. In the original work their history is taken up separately; whereas upon the Chart it is blended. In order, therefore, to adapt the Questions to the use of the Chart in that department, it was necessary to adopt the same plan in the book. Every Chapter and Section are also divided into lessons of suitable length for learners.

4. In addition to the explanatory notes as given by Dr. Watts, others are inserted, supplying the place of Questions which would otherwise involve the necessity of reference to works inaccessible to many; and every effort tending to render the study of the Scriptures either insipid or irksome, by an unnecessary multiplication of additional Questions, has been studiously avoided.

5. To those prophecies in Dr. Watts' history, which relate exclusively to Christ, and by which he preserves a connection between the Old and New Testaments, the other prophecies of Scripture are added, with their respective accomplishments, as relating to the past, the present, and the future: the object of which is, to facilitate the reading of history both sacred and profane, as connected with these events. In this department, Newton on the Prophecies, &c. have been freely consulted. Considerable assistance was also derived in the classification of the Types and Antitypes, from a treatise on that subject, by the estimable McEwen. In preparing the Catalogue of proper names, the Geographical Index, and the Vocabulary of other Scripture terms; a free use has been made of Robinson's Lexicon, as translated from the 'Clavis Philologica' of C. A. Wahl; Dr. Alexander's Bible Dictionary; Calmet, &c.
6. Finally, as this volume of Scripture History, as now prepared, is intended to accompany the Biblical Chart; embracing the History, Chronology, Geography, and Genealogy, of the sacred records; the reader is requested to compare the following with the entire preface of the London copy of Dr. Watts' history, in order the more fully to discover their joint adaptation to modern use.

It is proper also here to observe, that Scripture Questions, designed for general use, in a great degree subvert their own tendency, when connected with any thing sectarian. It is believed nothing will be found embodied in this book, of a doctrinal character, which will not meet the concurrent views of all evangelical Christians. And it is now recommended to the different Clergy, and all engaged in the pious instruction of youth, to annex their respective Catechisms to the ordinary course of biblical instruction; the benefits of which will appear from the great importance of possessing a knowledge of both.

The Question now to be decided, regards the method best calculated to impart a comprehensive knowledge of the Sacred Scriptures, as connected with the above named important subjects, so as to render them,

(1.) Intelligible to the smallest capacity.
(2.) Relieve the mind of all ordinary embarrassment in reading the Scriptures.
(3.) Facilitate the acquisition of a knowledge of them in the shortest period of time.
(4.) Render their research the most interesting to all ages, sexes, and classes, and particularly the young. And,
(5.) Bring the purchase of an article, embracing every necessary aid in these departments, within the reach of all.

In reply to the above inquiries, the following is respectfully submitted. In the Chart is presented to view,

I. A complete Epitome of Scripture History, as may be seen by an inspection of the two Vignettes. The upper one embraces a representation of all the prominent events of the Sacred Narrative, from the Creation to the Babylonish Captivity. The other, a group of all the principal personages of Jewish history, from Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, down to Mary and Christ; arranged in the order of their succession, and accompanied with some appropriate marks, significant of their particular character and office. And it will require but a partial inspection of these, to connect in the mind all the prominent features of that department. To facilitate subsequent research,

II. The History, Chronology, Geography, and Genealogy of the Sacred Records, are so arranged and condensed, as to present them to the eye in one view; each department being entirely distinct from the other.

1. The History commences with the Creation, and terminates with the completion of the second Temple, under the direction of Nehemiah; furnishing a complete nucleus to every department of Scripture History, and including an account of the ancient Assyrian Empire.

2. The Chronology extends from the Creation to the birth of Christ; giving in the 5th and 6th Epochas, the dates of the Prophets, major and minor, as cotemporary with the Kings both of Judah and Israel.

3. The Geography comprises seven separate Maps, and embraces the whole field of Sacred Geography, both Antediluvian and Postdiluvian. And,

4. The Genealogy embraces every name mentioned in the Bible, (of whose origin any account is given,) traced out in the order of their descent; exhibiting the distinctive Nation, Tribe, Family, Lineal Descent, and Posterity of the whole Jewish people, and preserving entire the line of the genealogy of Christ, from Adam.

These several departments, (except the history, which is condensed,) are complete; and calculated to furnish a knowledge of all that is essential to them, and may be studied separately, as occasion requires. But as these departments, if only studied separately, are still calculated to subject the mind to comparative embarrassment, as it respects their relation to and connection with each other, and to save the time and labor of research and comparison in the ordinary way; they are,

III. So incorporated together, as to show the relation which each bears to the other, thus presenting the whole in a complete chain of connection. In the history, the pupil will find a constant recurrence of scriptural names, which, being cotemporary, link the whole together. The Chronology is introduced in a similar manner; and when any thing of a geographical character occurs, immediate reference is made to the Map on the Chart, where the whole is delineated.

Further. As it is not intended that the Chart, complete as it may be, shall, in the smallest degree preclude the use of the Bible, but rather excite to emulation in its perusal, the hope is indulged,

IV. That the sacred volume will not be neglected on account of any advantages which it may afford. The Chart, as a handmaid, may assist in obtaining a knowledge of the Scriptures in the above departments; it is not pretended that it can, in itself, consummate that knowledge. It is only designed as an auxiliary; not as a substitute. They are to be used in connection with each other. Finally, as at proper intervals, in the prosecution of this useful and interesting study, it is important to know what proficiency is made.

V. The following Questions have been prepared, adapted particularly to the use of the Chart. In furnishing answers to these questions, the pupil is referred to the Chart, in connection with the book, chapter, and verse, where the whole is inserted in the Bible, and from which it is expected he will frame an answer in his own language; except where it is thought necessary to supply it at length. This will render him at once familiar with the Scriptures, and more forcibly impress upon his mind the subjects of investigation.

These Questions, as adapted to the history, &c. of the Bible, will be divided into Chapters and Sections; to each of which will be affixed a separate title, thereby preserving more distinctly the historical order, and Chronological connection of the whole.

The history of the Jews, from the Old Testament till the time of Christ, is inserted as in the original—Types and Antitypes; and the additional prophecies, with their respective accomplishments, are inserted at the conclusion of Questions upon the New Testament. Following these, is the Catalogue of Scripture proper names; the Geographical Index; and the Vocabulary.

The reader will now very readily perceive, that the plan here adopted, is a progressive one: presenting to the eye in the first place, a general outline of Scripture history, &c., and then progressively filling up each prominent division with such particulars, as are essential to a comprehensive knowledge of the whole.

Experience has demonstrated, that in most instances, these subjects have been rendered dry and uninteresting, by the very methods adopted to impart a knowledge of them. It has therefore been the particular design of this plan, in the progress of the pupil, to engage his attention, and thereby lead to research. If we can, by pleasing the eye, at the same time inform the mind, and render a knowledge of the contents of the Sacred Volume comparatively unavoidable; much is accomplished towards the removal of that prevalent deficiency in such knowledge, predicated of a want of disposition to "search the Scriptures."

Finally, the public are hereby most confidently assured, that in the use of this Chart, (which precludes the entire possibility of abridgment or enlargement of matter in its present form,) they have a combination of all that is to be found in the almost numberless Books, Maps, Charts, &c. now in the reading market; and which, owing to their enormous expense, as also the great amount of labor and consequent perplexity in using them, are never found in the hands of thousands who habitually read the Bible.

Something is wanted to supply their place:—and for this purpose, the Scriptural Chart was originally designed.

The Clergy who have already possessed themselves of many Scripture helps upon all the above named departments in detached forms, will soon save ten dollars worth of time in the use of this Chart, as an article of reference; and those who have neither, will greatly promote their pecuniary interests, by availing themselves of its advantages.

Superintendents and Teachers of Sabbath Schools, and members of Bible Classes, will find it an article well adapted to afford such a preparation for their several duties, as their limited time demands. This is also strictly applicable to men of business, whose several avocations necessarily limit their opportunities for a profitable perusal of the Scriptures.

It is further presumed, that no other articles when collected together, claiming similar pretensions, will so happily tend to engage the attention of the young, and thereby lead them to "search the Scriptures" with so much "daily" pleasure; and which will so rapidly accelerate their knowledge of its Sacred contents, as the Scriptural Chart. It requires no additional lectures; no appendage of explanations, other than what is found upon its own surface.

All those, therefore, engaged in the education of youth in Schools, Academies, and Seminaries, favorable to the promotion of Biblical Literature; will find this Chart admirably adapted to promote that object.

Finally, it is particularly designed for the use of Families. The laity of the different Churches, and the community at large, may and ought to be "thoroughly furnished" with a comprehensive knowledge of all these Scriptural subjects.
DIRECTIONS, &c.

I. For using the book without the Chart.

(1.) References to the Chronology, Geography, and Genealogy of the Chart from the book, will be passed over. The Chronology of the most prominent events are inserted in the book throughout. The location of places is given in the Geographical index; and the Genealogy, in the catalogue of Scripture proper names.

(2.) Many of the Questions may be divided into 2, 3, or 4 additional ones, being designated by semicolons; to which separate answers are given, thus:

159. Q. What inquiry did Pharaoh make of the five brethren; what was their reply; and what did the king then say to Joseph? Ans. (1.) Gen. xlvii. 3, answer to the first part. (2.) v. 3, 4, answer to the second part. (3.) v. 5, 6, answer to the third part.

This plan of dividing the larger Questions, will be more suitable for younger learners.

II. For using the book with the Chart.

(1.) The advertisement, p. iii., and the General Remarks, p. xvii., should be carefully read.

(2.) Trace out the different events and personages in the two Vignettes, by the explanations given upon the Chart, after which commence with the Questions, p. 21.

(3.) All the Chronological, Geographical, and Genealogical references from the book to the Chart, should be carefully traced out.

(4.) The historical department of the Chart may be read occasionally, as the pupil advances with the Questions; but particularly after their completion; the object of which is, to refresh the memory, by presenting to the eye at one view, the matter embraced in the entire course.
PREFACE

TO THE LONDON EDITION,

SHOWING THE DESIGN OF SUCH A SHORT VIEW OF SCRIPTURE HISTORY, AND THE ADVANTAGES OF IT.

The Holy Scripture is divided into two books, which are commonly called the Old Testament and the New. And as each of these books contains several articles or propositions which God had revealed to men for the direction of their faith and practice in the successive ages of the world; so there are several histories also contained in them, or narratives of the lives and deaths of men, of the affairs of nations, and especially of the transactions of God with mankind.

Some knowledge of these historical matters is necessary and useful, in order to obtain a more clear and full acquaintance with the principles of our holy religion, as well as to assist and engage us in the practice of it by way of motive. It is the history all along which introduces the peculiar doctrines and duties; and all the latter revelations of the mind and will of God, relating to religion, have some connection with, and dependence upon, the events which went before.

The very Gospel of Christ consists partly in the history of his life and death; nor can the other parts of it, namely, the doctrines and duties, be so well understood without some knowledge of the law of Moses, the ceremonies of the Jews, the religion of the Patriarchs, and the transactions of God with Adam, the first father of all mankind.

The great and blessed God at one single view surveys all his own works and designs, from the beginning to the end of them; and every part of his grand scheme stands in a delightful harmony with the rest. He has ordained all his more early dealings with men in such a manner as to let in divine light, by several gradations, upon a dark world, and to lay a happy foundation for its latest and best revelation made by his own Son.
and his apostles; and in many cases the former laws, ordinances, and transactions, are evidently designed to prefigure and shadow out, as well as to introduce, those which follow. Adam, our first father, by whom "sin and death were brought into the world," was a type or figure of Jesus, the second Adam, who brought in "righteousness and life," Rom. v. 14. 1 Cor. xv. 21, 22, 45, 49. The law of Moses was a "shadow of the good things which were to come;" but the body and substance of these blessings was given us by Christ our Savior, Col. ii. 17. Heb. x. 1. And it is certain we may obtain a more extensive and complete knowledge of Christianity, by our acquaintance with the sacred affairs of Adam and Noah, of Abraham and Moses, and the sons of Israel.

Besides, it is the history of the Bible which hath conveyed down to us the knowledge of those miracles and divine wonders which have been wrought by the prophets, the immediate messengers of heaven, to prove that they were sent of God: it is in this history we read of those prophecies of things to come, together with the accomplishment of them, which stand in a beautiful connection from the beginning of the world to the days of the Messiah. All of them join to confirm our faith in the several revelations of religion which God has made to the sons of men; and all concur to establish the last and noblest scheme of religion, that is, Christianity. Thus the very history of Scripture has a powerful and rational influence to establish our belief of the Gospel, and to make us Christians upon solid and reasonable grounds.

I add yet further, that in the historical part of Scripture we read the holy laws of God, exemplified in the life and practice of good men in several ages of the world; and when we see the rules of religion copied out in the words and actions of our fellow-creatures, it renders the performance of them more practicable and more delightful to us. While the word of command stands in the law to require our obedience, the actual obedience of our fathers to those commands recorded in the history invites our imitation, and makes the work more easy.

To conclude; we find not only the precepts but the sanctions of the law of God exemplified in the narratives of Scripture. How often do we read the promises of God fulfilled in the rewards of the righteous, and his threatenings executed against willful transgressors; these things set the government of God before our eyes in a stronger light; they show us that his words of promise and threatening are not empty sounds; and make it appear, with sensible conviction, that he will certainly reward, and that he will as certainly punish. The many wonderful instances of a Divine Providence which concerns itself in the affairs of men, and which are recorded in the word of God, have a natural tendency to awaken our fear of so great and glorious a Being, and to encourage our hope and trust in him. In a word, the perfections of God, whereby he made and governs the world, are set before our eyes by the Scripture history in such divine colors, as give us a more awful and more amiable idea of God himself than any words of description could have done, without such an historical account of his works of nature, grace, and providence.

Since then it appears, that some knowledge of the history of Scripture is necessary and useful to every one among us who would know and love God, and be a partaker of his favor, the next thing to be inquired is how this knowledge may be best attained? how shall persons, whose capacity is weak, or who have little time to employ on these subjects, be led in the shortest and easiest way to a competent acquaintance with the sacred history? and how shall those who are young in years be trained up in the plainest and most alluring manner to some knowledge of these important affairs, till their growing age, and further advantages, shall give them a more extensive and capacious view of all the transactions between God and man recorded in Scripture?

The Bible itself is a very large book, and though it ought to be read (at least many parts of it) by persons of all characters and conditions, yet the reducing of the several things contained in it to a short and narrow view by way of abridgment is so exceedingly useful, that I had almost called it necessary, at least for youth, and for persons in the lower ranks of life, who have fewer conveniences and advantages of knowledge. I have made this sufficiently evident with regard to the doctrines and duties of religion, in my Discourse concerning the composition and Use of Catechisms, to which I refer my reader: and the same argument will hold good with regard to the historical part of Scripture. There I have shown particularly how needful it is to collect the great articles and rules of our religion, which lie scattered up and down in the Bible, into a shorter scheme for the use of younger understandings: and I have given my reasons, also, why the catechetical method of question and answer is preferable to all other methods of instruction; and I need not repeat the same things here, with regard to sacred history.

It is proper the reader should know, that at the end of the History of the Old Testament, I have inserted one chapter, wherein the Jewish affairs are continued from the time of Nehemiah (where the sacred writers end) down to the times of Christ and the Gospel. This is borrowed from the best ancient writings we have of these events, namely, the books of Maccabees in the Apocrypha, and the History of Josephus; though I am greatly indebted also to Dr. Prideaux's Historical Connection of the Old and New Testament, wherein these narratives are so happily reduced to a chronological order, and embellished and improved with many valuable hints from heathen historians.

And to render the work yet more useful in these days of infidelity, I have added another chapter, which I call a Prophetical Connection between the Old and New Testament, wherein the most eminent prophecies relating to our blessed Lord are set down in one view, together with their accomplishment; that young minds may see how much this great Messiah, or anointed Savior, was foretold and expected through all ages, and may have their faith of Christ built early upon a solid foundation.

I have nothing more to add, but to acquaint the reader with the method I have taken in composing this work, and with the use that he should make of it.

In framing this book, I have observed the following rules, namely:

I. I have proceeded, for the most part, according to the order of things as they lie in the books of Scripture; but still endeavoring to maintain some connection throughout the whole history. Yet I cannot say I have always reduced things to that order in which they were transacted; for in several places I found that a strict observation of chronology would have intermingled too many incidents of different kinds, would have broken the scheme of things I had proposed, or interrupted the narrative of some particular event, and rendered the history much more unconnected and disagreeable to those for whom I write.
II. Though I have not been solicitous to insert every incident, and the name of every person contained in the Old Testament, yet I have omitted scarce any name or remarkable transaction which has been referred to or cited in the New, or has any connection with the Gospel of Christ, which is the religion of Christians. It was not possible to insert all the particular narratives contained in the Scripture, without making another book almost as big as the Bible itself: whereas my prime design was to give an abstract or short view of the sacred history, for the use of persons of such age, capacities, or conditions of life, as are not able to attend to much reading, nor gain a fuller and more accurate knowledge of the transactions of God with men.

III. I have added the chapter and verse of one or more texts of Scripture to every answer that required it, that the reader might be invited to search his Bible, and there gain a larger and more particular acquaintance with those historical matters which I have briefly mentioned in a line or two. If young persons, by this means, are allured to grow familiar with the word of God, I am persuaded the advantage they may reap thereby will richly compensate all their labors in reading this historical abridgment of Scripture, and all my pains in writing it.

IV. It is all divided into chapters, and some chapters into sections, with a new title to each. This will, in some measure, give a comprehensive view of the method and order of the whole. It is evident that the catechetical form of question and answer takes off the tiresomeness of reading from younger minds, and perpetually allures their inquiry and curiosity onward by short answers, without that weariness which arises from many long continued pages of mere narrative: and in the same manner, a proper distinction of the history into chapters and sections, under different titles, renders the work of reading much more delightful by these frequent returning rests and pauses.

V. Since I intended it originally for persons of younger years, and the common ranks of mankind, I have studied generally to use such words and forms of speech as are most plain and easy to be understood. It would not have answered my design so well, if I must have sent my reader too often to his dictionaries to inquire the meaning of hard words and Latinized expressions.
VI. Yet I have not so confined myself to the service of my unlearned readers, as to neglect all useful criticisms and occasional remarks to clear up difficulties: but have freely interspersed them throughout the whole book, so far as may inform the inquisitive, and give some hints to the more intelligent reader, for the further illustration of some passages of Scripture both in the Old Testament and the New.

If there should be found any mistakes in drawing up this history, which might have been rectified by further consulting the writings of the learned, I would only mention one apology for myself; and that is, that a great part of it was drawn up in the country, at a distance from my usual habitation, where I had no learned writings to consult, and was confined to my Bible alone.

Let me here speak a word or two more of the particular uses which may be made of this summary of sacred history.

It may be not an improper book to lie constantly in the nursery or the parlor, to assist the instruction of children, or the conversation of grown persons. And if this and other useful books were suffered always to lie in the places appointed for servants, especially in great families, it might be an allurement to them to employ some of their leisure in a profitable manner. The placing it in any room of usual residence, may entice persons often to look into it, and to lead them into an easy acquaintance with the various dealings of God with men from the beginning of the world.

Nor can I think it would be a vain and useless employment for persons who are not furnished with better advantages for scriptural knowledge, to read it over once in a year or two, in order to keep these sacred memoirs ever fresh in their minds. Half a chapter a week would be no heavy task, and this would finish it in twelve months' time.

May the divine blessing attend this feeble endeavor of mine to diffuse the knowledge of divine things among mankind, and to furnish families with useful matter for conversation, whereby they may be better secured against the temptation of loose and vicious writings and vain discourse, which give an unhappy tincture of the imagination in early years, and tend to defile and destroy the soul.
GENERAL REMARKS,

INTRODUCTORY TO THE SCRIPTURES OF THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENT.

[The term Bible, is the title by which the Sacred Scriptures are most generally known. This term derived its origin from the custom of the Grecian fathers, and signifies, by way of excellence, that it is the Book of books, or that it is of divine origin.

I. The first grand division of the Bible consists of two parts; the Old Testament and the New. The original word for Testament, is also frequently translated Covenant. (Jer. xxxi. 31, 34. Heb. viii. 6—13.) We would here further remark, that it never was intended that the Old Testament Scriptures should be at all superseded by the addition of the new. (Matt. v. 17.)

II. Another division of the Bible, is, into Canonical and Apocryphal. The former of these relates to those parts of Scripture, which are unquestionably divine, and consequently infallible. The latter, to those which are of doubtful or spurious origin. The following evidences confirm this opinion respecting them: (1.) They are never quoted by the writers of the New Testament. (2.) Josephus and Philo never mention them. (3.) The Christian Church was for some centuries ignorant of them. (4.) The early fathers unanimously concur in rejecting them, not being found in the Catalogue of the Canonical books. (5.) They were not written till after the days of Malachi, with whom the spirit of prophecy ceased. (6.) They contain fables, lies, and contradictions. (1. Macc. vi. 4, 16. 2 Macc. i. 13—16 and ix. 28.) (7.) They never were acknowledged Canonical, except by a Popish Council in 1550. And (8.) They are now rejected by all Protestants. The present arrangement of the Canonical Scriptures, both by Jews and Christians, is ascribed to Ezra, after the termination of the Babylonish Captivity.

III. Our Savior makes another division of the Sacred writings, into, (1.) The Law of Moses; (2.) The Prophets; and (3.) The Psalms, or Hagiographa.*

IV. But the division which now prevails is into, (1.) The Pentateuch, or first five books of the Old Testament. (2.) The Historical books, from Joshua to Esther inclusive. (3.) The Poetical books, from Job to the Songs of Solomon. And (4.) The Prophetical books, including the remainder.

V. The last division of the Scriptures consists of chapters and verses. The books of the Old Testament were divided into chapters, by Cardinal Hugo, in the year 1240. And the chapters into verses, by Rabbi Nathan, a Jew, in 1445. And verses were introduced into the New Testament by Robert Stephens, a learned Frenchman, A. D. 1545.

The Pentateuch, written by Moses, (Luke xvi. 19,) bears date 700 years further back than any other writing extant.

The want of infallibility in man, is a sufficient evidence of his want of qualification to produce such a system of rules for the regulation of his faith and practice, as his fallen condition requires. But man has such a system, and that system is found alone in the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments. Consequently, these Scriptures must have been given by inspiration from God; by which inspiration, the several penmen were directed to express themselves with infallible precision, and so influenced their very language, as in all instances was best calculated to convey the mind of the Holy Spirit.

The evidences accompanying the truth of this divine revelation, are the following. (1.) The desirableness and necessity of a revelation. (2.) The antiquity of the Scriptures. (3.) Historical evidence. (4.) Miracles. (5.) Prophecies. (6.) Character of Christ and the Apostles. (7.) Coincidence of Mosaic history with pagan tradition, and the appearances of nature. (8.) Coincidence of the Epistles with the Acts. (9.) Propagation of Christianity. (10.) Analogy of religion to the constitution and course of nature. (11.) The harmony of the writers. (12.) The purity of the doctrines. And (13.) Their fitness to answer all the purposes for which they were originally intended.

As it respects the correctness of the present version of the Scriptures; considering the lapse of time, together with the various transcriptions through which they have passed, and their repeated exposures to innovations by designing and wicked men, they have been most remarkably preserved.

Ptolemy Philadelphus, king of Egypt, ordered the Hebrew Scriptures to be translated into Greek, two or three centuries before the Christian era. This is called the Septuagint, and is the oldest translation extant.

The Vulgate, or Latin version, is a very ancient translation, made subsequent to the Christian era, and the only one which the Roman Catholic Church acknowledges to be authentic.
The English version of the Scriptures was commenced under the authority of King James I., of England, in A. D. 1607. The persons engaged in this great work, were distinguished both for learning and piety. And after translations had been made by six different classes of men, numbering in all, forty-seven, and each of these undergoing separate revisions, by an interchange of translations by those several classes, the result of their labors was published in A. D. 1611. It still continues to be the standard version.]

1 Q. What is the object of the two Vignettes, at the top and bottom of the Chart?

Ans. They are intended to exhibit an epitome of Scripture History, Chronology, Geography, and Genealogy.

* [As the design of the two Vignettes upon the Chart is to give a general outline of the whole field of Scripture history, as connected with the Old Testament, the Questions instituted upon them are inserted as a substitute to the original introduction, as best calculated to subserve its use. This introduction, however, would have been printed as a recapitulation of the preceding questions, but for the difficulty of prefixing to it, in its original form, the chronology of the periods embraced in the whole, which is considered of primary importance throughout the body of this work. The substance of the original introduction is retained.]

LESSON III.

Recapitulation of the preceding questions, divided into six Epochas, or periods. See Chart, top margin.

I. Ep. The Old Testament history commences with a brief account of the Creation of all things; of the primitive holiness, happiness, and innocence of our first parents, and of their final apostasy; of the increase of the human species, the posterities of Cain and Seth; and of their accumulated iniquities, which resulted in their total destruction by the Deluge, except Noah and his family, A. M. 1656.

II. Ep. The history of Noah, and his descendants, next follow. By them were commenced the erection of the tower of Babel, which resulted in their Dispersion, A. M. 1757. The history of this period extends to Abraham's Vocation, A. M. 2083.

III. Ep. It then treats of the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah, A. M. 2107; of the Immigration of Jacob (or Israel) and his family to Egypt, by the invitation of Joseph; of their subsequent bondage for 430 years; and their final deliverance by Moses, A. M. 2513, when they commenced their journeyings through the wilderness. This is called the Exodus, or departure of the Israelites from Egypt.

IV. Ep. The history continues with a rehearsal of their Encampments in the wilderness; of the announcement of the Moral Law at Sinai; of their sins and punishments; of their final occupation of the promised land, forty years after their departure from Egypt; of their government by Judges after the death of Joshua, for the space of 342 years; and of their government by Kings, from Saul to Solomon, in whose reign the first temple was finished and dedicated, A. M.
3000.

V. Ep. Then follows an account of the division of the kingdom of Solomon between Rehoboam and Jeroboam, and of the government of the two kingdoms of Judah and Israel, by a long succession of Monarchs, till they were both led captive by the Assyrian and Chaldean powers, the last of which was called the Babylonish Captivity, under Nebuchadnezzar, A.
M. 3416.

VI. Ep. Finally, the Sacred history closes with an account of the restoration of many of the captive Jews, (chiefly of the tribes of Judah and Benjamin,) and the rebuilding of the temple under Nehemiah, A.
M. 3488. The first advent, or nativity of Christ, took place A. M. 4004.

CHAPTER I.

THE HISTORY OF MANKIND BEFORE THE FLOOD.

PERIOD I.

[Extending from the creation to that event, commonly called the Antediluvian age, and embracing a period of 1656 years.]

LESSON I.

The Creation.

1 Q. How came this world into being? Ans. Gen.
i. 1. Ex. xx. 11.

i- 3, 6, 9, &c. Heb. xi. 3. Ps. xxxiii. 9.
[Note. In the Hebrew, (in which language there are three numbers,) the word Elohim, translated God, is plural, though joined to singular verbs. By this is intimated the doctrine of the Divine Trinity in unity;—God: Father, Son, and Holy Ghost. Hence the work of creation is ascribed to them respectively. First. "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth." Gen. i. 1.]

Second note. We are informed in the New Testament, that "God created all things by his Son Jesus Christ." Eph. iii. 9; and that his name is "The Word of God." John i. 3. Rev. xix. 13. [Is. xlv. 24.]

Third. In the civ. Psalm, 30th verse, it is declared, "Thou sendest forth thy Spirit, they are created." See also Job, xxvi. 13, xxxiii. 4. Gen. i. 2, 26.

[3 Q. What is said of the original state and appearance of the earth at its first creation? Ans. Gen. i. 2.

4 Q. What followed the formation of the earth in the order of creation? Ans. Gen. i. 3.]

5 Q. What time did God spend in making the world? Ans. Gen. i. 31. Ex. xx. 11.

6 Q. What was his work on the first day? Ans. Gen. i. 3, 5.

7 Q. What did God make the second day? Ans. Gen. i. 6. [7, 8. Ps. civ. 6—9.]

8 Q. What did he do on the third day? Ans. Gen. i. 9—12.

9 Q. What was the work of the fourth day? Ans. Gen. i. 14—19.

10 Q. What was the fifth day's work? Ans. Gen. i. 20—23.

[Note. The similarity of birds and fishes, in the propagation of their species; and also of the mode of their existence in their respective elements, reconciles the 20 v. of this ch. with the 19 v. of the ii. ch.]

11 Q. And what was the sixth or last day's work? Ans. Gen. i. 24—26.

[Note. The consultation intimated by the expression, "Let us make man," v. 26, confirms the observations made in the note under Q. 2. See also ch. ii, 22, xi. 7. Is. vi. 8.]
12 Q. What was said of the character of all created things at their completion? Ans. Gen i. 31.

[14 Q. Are we to understand by the term “rest,” in v. 2, that the great Creator has ceased to work? Ans. Is. xl. 28. John v. 17.

15 Q. Does the sabbath date its first institution from this event? Ans. Gen. ii. 1—3.

Note. The object of the original institution of this sacred day, as a festival commemorative of the stupendous works of the great Creator; and intended, as it was, to preserve a knowledge of God and religion in the world, was admirably adapted to man’s condition in a state of innocence: and considering man as now in a fallen state, in order to secure the same noble end, it seems doubly necessary that this institution be perpetuated. That it has never been abrogated, seems evident from the word “Remember,” Ex. xx. 8: an evident allusion to an institution of long standing. It has its origin in the moral, not the ceremonial law. Paul refers to this sabbath, Rom. xiv. 5, 6. Col. ii. 16. This institution, however, has undergone a change, since the introduction of Christianity, from the seventh to the “first day of the week.” Acts xx. 7. 1 Cor. xvi. 2. Rev. i. 10.]

LESSON II.

The Creation, continued.

16 Q. Who were the first man and woman that God made? Ans. Gen. v. 1, 2. 1 Cor. xv. 45. Gen. iii. 20. See Chart, Ad. and Eve, No. 1.

17 Q. In what manner did God make Adam? Ans. Gen. ii. 7.

20 Q. Where did God put Adam and Eve when he had made them? Ans. Gen. ii. 15.

[21 Q. Where was the garden of Eden located? Ans. “Somewhere in Media, Armenia, or the northern

22 Q. Name the four rivers contiguous to Eden? Ans. Gen. ii. 10—14. See Chart, as above.

24 Q. What was their food in that garden? Ans. Gen. i. 29, and ii. 16, 17.

[25 Q. Was there no exception to this privilege, and what was the name of that [interdicted] tree? Ans. Gen. ii. 16, 17, and iii. 5.

26 Q. As there was one tree so dangerous, that it exposed him to death, if he ate of it, was there not also a tree that would secure him from death? Ans. Gen. ii. 9, and iii. 22. &c.

[27 Q. What was the design of Adam’s location in the garden of Eden? Ans. He was placed there upon probation, as a test of his obedience to his Maker.] “The tree of life,” v. 9, is reasonably supposed to be designed as a pledge or seal of eternal life to him, if he had continued in his innocency.

[28 Q. Who designated and appropriated names to the beasts of the field, the fowls of the air, &c.? Ans. Gen. ii. 19.

29 Q. By what mark of pre-eminence was Adam distinguished above the brute creation? Ans. Gen. i. 26—28.

30 Q. What was the religion of Adam in the state of innocency? Ans. The practice of all the duties toward God, and toward his creatures, which the light of nature or reason could teach him; together with his observance of this one positive precept, of abstaining from the fruit of the tree of knowledge; and this was given him as a special test or trial of his obedience to his Maker. This is called the dispensation of innocence.

LESSON III.

The Fall of Man.

[32 Q. What was included in the term “death,” as the penalty of man’s transgression? Ans. Gen. iii. 19, and Rom. vi. 23, 1st clause.]

33 Q. How came Adam to disobey God, and eat of this forbidden tree? Ans. Gen. iii. 12.

34 Q. Who tempted Eve to eat of it? Ans. Gen. iii. 1. 2 Cor. xi. 3. Rev. xii. 9. See Chart, upper Vignette.

[35 Q. What is related to have passed between them and their Creator immediately after their apostasy? Ans. Gen. iii. 7—14.

37 Q. What consequence immediately followed this act of disobedience? Ans. Gen. iii. 14—19.]

39 Q. Then God did not put Adam and Eve to death as soon as they had sinned? Ans. Gen. iii. 19—23.

40 Q. Did God, who spared their life, show them any further pity? Ans. Gen. iii. 15, 21.

41 Q. What was the kind promise that he gave them? Ans. Gen. iii. 15.

42 Q. Who is this seed of the woman? Ans. Gal. iv. 4.

[43 Q. What are we to understand by the “enmity” between “the seed of the woman” and that of the “serpent?” Ans. Gal. iv. 29—31, v. 17. Rev. xii. 17.]

44 Q. What is meant by his “breaking the serpent’s head?” Ans. 1 John iii. 8. Heb. ii. 14, 15.

45 Q. Whence came the skins of the beasts with which God clothed Adam and Eve?
Adam and Eve driven out of Paradise.

Murder of Abel.
Ans. It is likely God taught Adam to offer sacrifices at this time, and that these were the skins of the beasts that were offered in sacrifice. [See Lev. vii. 8.]

Note. Whether flesh was eaten by the religious families before the flood, is uncertain; but it does not appear that God had given Adam express leave to eat flesh—Gen. i. 29, ii. 20, and ix. 3—and then there could be no skins to be had from beasts killed for food. But the sin of man deserved death; and it was probably at this time that God appointed beasts to be sacrificed or put to death, to show that sin deserved death, and to make a sort of typical atonement, or answer for the sin of man; since cutting and burning God’s living creatures does not seem to be a contrivance of man himself to appease God for his own sin. Then it is natural to suppose, that God clothed Adam and Eve with the skins of those beasts which were sacrificed; to show them, in a typical or figurative way, that as clothes covered the naked body from shame and harm, so sacrifices, offered according to God’s appointment, should in some sense protect them from the punishment which sin had deserved.

And it is very possible God might inform Adam that all these appointments were only a figure of Christ, the great sacrifice, “the seed of the woman,” who should make a real and effectual atonement for sin hereafter by his own death. I confess all this does not so evidently appear in the writings of Moses; nor could it be expected, where the account of things in these early times is so exceeding short, though it is very agreeable to the discoveries made in the following parts of Scripture. I add yet further, that sacrifices might be instituted at this time with this view and design, even though Adam himself might not be informed of it; for the great God does not always immediately reveal to his creatures the reason and design of all his precepts or his providence. Job xxxiii. 14.

46 Q. What was the religion of man after the fall or sin of Adam?
Ans. All the duties of the light of nature which were required before: and besides these, he was now called to repentance for sin, faith or trust in the mercy of God, expectation of the promised Savior, and offering of sacrifices. This is called the Adamical Dispensation of the covenant of grace, and it reached to Noah’s flood.
LESSON IV.
The Murder of Abel, &c.

47 Q. Who were Adam's first children? Ans. Gen. iv. 1, 2. See Chart, Ad. and Eve, No. 1.

[48 Q. When were they respectively born? Ans. Cain, A. M. 2; Abel, A. M. 3. See Chart, chron. I. Ep.]

49 Q. What was Cain? Ans. Gen. iv. 2. last clause.

[51 Q. When did this event take place? Ans. A. M. 129. See Chart, chron. I. Ep. and upper Vignette.]

[53 Q. How are we to account for the different reception of their offerings? Ans. Heb. xi. 4.

54 Q. What followed this wicked act of Cain? Ans. Gen. iv. 11.]

57 Q. What were the posterity of Cain? Ans. Gen. iv. [17—22.] See Chart, Ad. and Eve, No. 1.

[58 Q. Who was the first man who practiced polygamy? Ans. Gen. iv. 19.

59 Q. What were the names of his two wives, and of his children? Ans. Gen. iv. 19, 20—23. See Chart, Ad. and Eve, No. 1.

60 Q. What was the character of Cain's descendants? Ans. Gen. vi. 5.]
LESSON V.

Adam's Posterity to Noah.

62 Q. In what year of the world was he born? Ans. A. M. 130.

63 Q. What persons descended from Adam in the line of Seth to Noah? Ans. Gen. iv. 25, 26; and v. 9, 12, 15, 18, 21, 25, 29. See Chart, Ad. and Eve, No. 1.

66 Q. Did they grow degenerate afterwards? Ans. Gen. vi. 5—7, [or 1—6, 8.]

67 Q. Who were some of the chief persons of Seth's posterity, mentioned in Scripture, in those early times?

Ans. Enoch and Methuselah, Lamech and Noah, were the most remarkable.

Note. When Enoch and Noah are said to "walk with God," some learned men have supposed, that it does not only signify that they have behaved themselves always as in the presence of God, and conversed with him by meditation and prayer, and walked in his ways; but that God appeared of old to these pious men, as he did to Abraham, and walked and conversed with them in a bodily form; and this was the original of that phrase, "walking with God," to signify the practice of religion.

the ages of Adam, Seth, Enos, Cain, Leel, Jared, Enoch, Methuselah, Ans. Gen. v. 5—31. See Chart, chron.

73 Q. In what year of the world did Adam die? Ans. A. M. 930.
74 Q. When was Enoch translated? Ans. A. M. 987.

CHAPTER II.

OF NOAH, ABRAHAM, AND THEIR FAMILIES, AFTER THE FLOOD.

PERIOD II.

[Extending from that event to Abraham's vocation, embracing a period of 427 years, A. M. 2083.]

SECTION I.

OF NOAH.

LESSON I.

The Deluge.

3 Q. What was his character; and what mark of the divine favor was granted him? Ans. Gen. vi. 8, 9, and vii. 23.

4 Q. How did God drown the world? Ans. Gen. vi. 5, 6, 7; and vii. 4, 11—24.

5 Q. How was Noah saved? Ans. Gen. vi. 14, &c.

Note. Noah had warning of this judgment of God one hundred and twenty years before it came to pass, Gen. vi. 3; and as he was a preacher of righteousness, 2 Pet. ii. 5, so we may justly suppose he gave continual warning to a sinful world while the ark was building. 1 Pet. iii. 19, 20. Heb. xi. 7.

[6 Q. When was the building of the ark commenced? Ans. A. M. 1536. See Chart, chron. I. Ep.

7 Q. Can you describe this vessel? Ans. Gen. vi. 14—16.*

8 Q. When did this event take place? Ans. A. M. 1656. See Chart, chron. II. Ep.]

[10 Q. What was the result of the exceeding wickedness of the inhabitants of the earth at this period? Ans. Gen. vi. 7. See Chart, upper Vignette.

Note. The descendants of Seth, for many generations, supported the religion of their forefathers, and were denominated "the sons of God." Gen. vi. 2. Deut. xiv. 1. 2 Cor. vi. 18—while those of Cain became exceedingly corrupt, and were called "the children of men." Gen. vi. 2. Finally, the former, by intermarriage with the latter, partook of their vicious habits, which resulted in the formation of their character, as expressed v. 5; and propagated an impious race of men called "giants," more on account of their excessive depravity, than of their bodily stature. That such connections are improper not only, but sinful, see Deut. vii. 3, 4. Mal. ii. 15. 1 Cor. vii. 39. 2 Cor. vi. 14; and that they have often been attended with the worst of consequences, see Gen. xxvii. 46. Judg. xiv. 1—4. Neh. xiii. 23—25. In the answer to the above question, you perceive it ended in the total destruction of the whole human race, except Noah and his family.

* Compute the length, breadth, and height of the ark, at eighteen inches the cubit.

12 Q. How is the Divine Being said to be affected in view of the excessive wickedness of mankind? Ans. Gen. vi. 6. See also Ps. cvi. 45. Jer. xviii. 7—10.

Note. The term repentance, as applied to God in these and other places, does not in the least affect the immutability of his nature; but is intended to show, that changes in the dispensations of his government over the moral world, take place, in view of corresponding changes in the conduct of men.

13 Q. Did God grant the Antediluweans any time for repentance, previous to their destruction? Ans. Gen. vi. 3, last clause.

LESSON II.

The Deluge, continued.

14 Q. After the waters began to abate, upon the top of what mountain did the ark rest; and after how long a time from the commencement of the deluge? Ans. Gen. viii. 4. See Chart, upper Vignette."

[16 Q. In what part of Armenia do you find the mountains of Ararat? Ans. See Geog. Index and Chart, map No. i.

17 Q. How did Noah ascertain that the waters were assuaged? Ans. Gen. viii. 6—12.

18 Q. What did Noah now do? Ans. Gen. viii. 15, 16.]

Note. The religion of Noah was the same with that of Adam after his fall, (see chap. i. Q. 30,) with these few additions here mentioned. And this was the NOAICHAL DISPENSATION of the covenant of grace, whereby all men, from Noah Noah leaving the Ark.

Joseph cast into a Pit. to Abraham, were to seek salvation: and whereby all, besides the family of Abraham, were to be saved, even all the heathen world, till they hear of Christ.
[The reason why blood was prohibited for food, see Lev. xvii.
11—13. The same restriction is enforced under the Christian dispensation. Acts xv. 29.

20 Q. What was the penalty inflicted for shedding

Note. With Noah was established the first ordinance of civil magistracy. To them, accordingly, belong the power to inflict penalties, in proportion to the magnitude of offenses, Rom. xiii. 4: and in no case of willful murder is it their prerogative to exculpate the criminal, Prov. xxviii. 17. Query. Is not dueling willful murder?

21 Q. Did God accept of the offerings made by Noah; and what determination followed? Ans. Gen.
viii. 21, 22.

22 Q. What promise [or covenant] did God make 23 Q. What was the seal of this covenant? Ans.

Gen. ix. 12—17. See Chart, upper Vignette.

[24 Q. Who and what were included in the be-
8—11.]

25 Q. Was there no rainbow before the flood?
Ans. It is probable that there was no rain before the flood; for the earth was watered daily by a thick mist, Gen. ii. 5, 6; and then there could be naturally no rainbow, for this is made by the sunbeams shining upon falling rain.

SECTION II.

OF NOAH'S SONS, SHEM, HAM, AND JAPHETH.

LESSON III.

The Dispersion.

First. Of Shem.

26 Q. Who were Noah's three sons? Ans. Gen.
ix. 18, 19, and x. 32. See Chart, Noah, No. 2.
27 Q. What is said of them in the commencement of the ninth chapter? Ans. v. 1; 2.

28 Q. How long did Noah live after the flood; and what was his age when he died? Ans. Gen. ix. 28, 29. See Chart, chron. dep. II. Ep.

29 Q. By whom was the earth peopled after the death of Noah? Ans. Gen. ix. 19.[

30 Q. Did mankind freely divide themselves after the flood into several nations? Ans. Gen. xi. 4.

32 Q. In what year of the world was Shem born? Ans. A. M. 1558. See Chart, chron. II. Ep.]

33 Q. Who were the offspring and posterity of Shem? Ans. Gen. x. 21, 22.

36 Q. In what year of the world was Arphaxad born? Ans. A. M. 1658.

37 Q. What were the names of Arphaxad's son and grandson? Ans. Gen. x. 24. See Chart, Shem, No. 4.

38 Q. Of whom was Eber or Heber the forefather? Ans. The Hebrews. See Chart, as above.

39 Q. What were the names of his two sons? Ans. Gen. x. 25. See Chart, as above.

40 Q. When was Peleg born? Ans. A. M. 1757. See Chart, chron. II. Ep.

41 Q. Did any thing remarkable occur in the days of Peleg? Ans. Gen. x. 25.

* It was thought expedient to introduce the 15th and 16th questions of the London copy, which are the 30th and 31st of this work; and which refer to the dispersion, in the beginning of sec. ii., as most suitable to the proper arrangement of the history.
42 Q. Of what Arabian families was Joktan, the ancestor? Ans. Gen. x. 26–29. See Chart, his descendants, as above.

Note. The Arabian families are not inserted on Map No. 1; several of them are not known. But of those which follow, from Shelep, came the "Selapenes, in south Arabia; Hazarmaveth, of Hadramaut; Jerah, near the last; Uzal, Sanaa in south Arabia; Sheba, the Sabeans, in south Arabia; Ophir, probably in Oman, of south Arabia; Havilah, of Hualan; and Jobab, the Jobabites, between Hadramant and Oman." (Alexander's Geog. of the Bible.)

43 Q. Where did Lud and Aram locate; and what nations sprang from them? Ans. Lud probably peopled part of Ethiopia. Of Aram, see Chart, map No. 1, Hist. and Geog. Rem. and Gene. Tree.

LESSON IV.

Second. Of Ham.

46 Q. In what year of the world was Ham born? Ans. A. M. 1560. See Chart, I. Ep.]

47 Q. Who were the posterity of Ham? Ans. Gen. x. 6, &c. See Chart, Ham, No. 5:

50 Q. How many sons had he; and what were their names? Ans. Gen. x. 7. See Chart, Ham, No. 5.

51 Q. Where did they settle; and what were the nations which sprang from them? Ans. See Chart, 52 Q. Name the two sons of Raamah; and the places of their settlement; and their respective nations? Ans. Gen. x. 7. See Chart, Ham, No. 5, map No. 1, Hist. and Geog. Rem. No. 2, and Gene. Tree.

54 Q. How many sons had he; and what were their names? Ans. Gen. x. 13, 14. See Chart, Ham, No. 5.

55 Q. Where were they located; and what were their respective nations? Ans. See Chart, map No. 1, Hist. and Geog. Rem. No. 2, and Gene. Tree.

58 Q. How many sons had Canaan; and what were their names? Ans. Gen. x. 15—19. See Chart, Ham, No. 5.

LESSON V.

Third. Of Japheth.

61 Who were the posterity of Japheth? Ans. Gen. x. 2. See Chart, Japheth, No. 3, and Gene. Tree.
[62 Q. What territory of country was settled by Japhet and his descendants? Ans. Gen. x. 5. See Chart, map No. 1, and Hist. and Geog. Rem. No. 2.

64 Q. Give the names of Gomer's three sons, with their respective locations? Ans. Gen. x. 3. See Chart, Japheth No. 3, map No.1, and Hist. and Geog. Rem. No. 2.

65 Q. What nations sprang from them? Ans. See Chart, Gene. Tree.

69 Q. What countries were settled by Tubal, Meshech, and Tiras? Ans. See Chart, map No. 1, Hist. and Geog. Rem. No. 2.

71 Q. Wherein did Ham, the father of Canaan, do amiss? Ans. Gen. ix. 21, 25.

Note. It is probable that Canaan joined with his father Ham in the mockery of his grandfather Noah, and therefore he was cursed; and, besides, this gave early notice to the Israelites, that the Canaanites, whose land God gave them to possess, were a people under an ancient curse. [The fulfillment of this prophetic curse began to be accomplished when the Gibeonites, or Hivites, Josh. ix. 3, 7, were detected in their hypocrisy, in beguiling the Israelites into a covenant of peace with them, v. 23, and 1 Kings ix. 20, 21. That this curse is in a course of fulfillment to the present day, may be seen from the enslaved and degraded condition of the African race, the descendants of Ham. It is not to be doubted, however, that an infinitely heavier curse is reserved for those who, as agents, have imposed the galling yoke of slavery upon the necks of Ham’s posterity.

72 Q. When did this event take place? Ans. A. M. 1663. See Chart, II. Ep.

Note. Though the knowledge of the true God and religion were chiefly preserved in the family of Shem, yet it is evident that some branches of Ham’s family, and probably of Japheth’s too, preserved it for some hundreds of years; for Melchizedek, a king of the Canaanites in Abram’s time, was a priest of the most high God; and Abimelech, a king of the Philistines, feared God, and had a sense of religion; and both these are derived from Ham. See Chart, Ham, No. 5.

77 Q. In what year of the world was Abram born? Ans. A. M. 2008.

Note. The sacred narrative, as is generally supposed, justifies the opinion that the “one language” and “one speech,” mentioned in v. 1, of the eleventh chapter, was the Hebrew, the language originally given of God to Adam, and preserved in the family of Eber or Heber, the progenitor of the Hebrew nation, subsequent to the dispersion. With the birth of Peleg, commenced the confusion of tongues, ch. x. 25. Journeying from the east, probably with Nimrod at their head, chap. x. 8—10, the inhabitants of the earth settled in the plains of Shinar, and projected the building of “a city and tower,” which resulted in the accomplishment of the very end which they intended to prevent; viz. their Dispersion.

From question 31st of this chapter to the end, is given an account of this dispersion; showing not only the general Geographical divisions of Japheth, Shem, and Ham, with their descendants, but their particular locations, and the origin of their respective nations.

In order to preserve a connection in the history from Noah to Abram, the pupil has only to trace the line of genealogy through Shem to Terah, with whom Noah was cotemporary. Terah was born A. M. 1878; and Noah died A. M. 2006: Abraham was born A. M. 2008; and Terah died A. M. 2063, 77 years after the death of Noah. See Chart, chron. dep. I. Ep. The ensuing history, therefore, will commence with Abraham.]
CHAPTER III.

OF ABRAM AND LOT, ISHMAEL AND ISAAC, ESAU AND JACOB, AND THEIR POSTERITY—OF JOSEPH—BONDAGE OF THE ISRAELITES—THE EXODUS.

PERIOD III.

[Extending from Abram's vocation, A. M. 2083, to the Exodus, or departure of the Israelites from Egypt, embracing a period of 430 years; A. M. 2513.]

PART I.

From the calling of Abram, A. M., 2083, to the carrying away of Joseph into Egypt, A. M. 2975, embracing a period of 192 years.

SECTION I.

OF ABRAM AND LOT.

LESSON I.

The Calling of Abram.

1 Q. Who was the most famous man of Shem's posterity in these early ages? Ans. Gen. xi. 27.

2 Q. What was the first remarkable thing recorded of Abram? Ans. Gen. xii. 1—4.

[Note. The design of the calling of Abram from the midst of an idolatrous people, as here described, is expressed Ex. xix. 6. God's promise to him, as mentioned in v. 3, first clause, is repeated Gen. xxvii. 29, Ex. xxiii. 22, and Num. xxiv. 9: and the manner in which that part of the promise embraced in the latter clause of v. 3, ch. xiii., was fulfilled, is explained, Mark xvi. 15. See also Gen. xxi. 10—12, and Gal. iii. 16, 29, iv. 22—31.

3 Q. When did this event take place? Ans. A.M. 2083. See Chart, III. Ep.]
4 Q. What were the names and number of Terah's sons? Ans. Gen. xi. 26, 28. See Chart, as above.

5 Q. What was the name of Haran's son; and the place of his (Haran's) death? Ans. See Chart, as above. Gen. xi. 28.

6 Q. Whom did Abram and Nahor marry? Ans. Gen. xi. 29. See Chart, as above.

Note. Iscah, who is said, v. 29, to be the daughter of Haran, is the same with Sarai, Abram's wife. In ch. xx., where Abram, in the presence of Abimelech the Philistine king, calls Sarai his sister, reference is made to Iscah, as above, to prove this identity of persons. Abram calls her sister, though a niece, in the same sense that he elsewhere calls Lot brother, though his nephew. Gen. xiv. 12, 16.

7 Q. Where; and at what age did Terah die? Ans. Gen. xi. 32. See Chart, chron. dep. II. Ep.]

8 Q. Whence did Abram come; and whither did he go? Ans. Gen. xi. 31, and xii. 5. Heb. xi. 8, 9.

9 Q. Where did Abram reside at this time? Ans. Gen. xii. 4.

10 Q. What was his age when he left Haran? Ans. See Chart, chron. dep. III. Ep. and map No. 2. Gen. xii. 4.

Note. This remarkable instance of Abram's obedience to the divine command, is beautifully described by the Apostle Paul. Heb. xi. 8—10.

12 Q. Whither did he go after leaving Sichem; and in what did he engage? Ans. Gen. xii. 8. See Chart, map No. 2.

13 Q. For what reason did he leave Canaan; and whither did he go? Ans. Gen. xii. 10. See Chart, map No. 2.

Note. The features of the country embracing Canaan and Egypt, may be seen in map No. 3.

15 Q. As they were about to enter Egypt, what did Abram say to Sarai? Ans. Gen. xii. 11—13.

Note. This instance of a want of faith and confidence toward God, on the part of Abram, serves to illustrate the weakness of human nature, even when possessed of the influence of the most pre-eminent grace. The words of Christ to his disciples, Mark iv. 40, might have been well applied to him on this occasion: "Why are ye so fearful? How is it that ye have no faith?" He had forgotten that "the fear of man bringeth a snare." Prov. xxix. 25. The nature and magnitude of his sin, may be inferred from ch. xii. 18, 19, com. with ch. xx. 2, 9—13.

Note. The kings of Egypt at this time were named Pharaoh, which name they retained for many subsequent generations. Ex. ii. 5. 1 Kings iii. 1.

17 Q. What was the consequence of Pharaoh's having taken Abram's wife? Ans. Gen. xii. 17. See Ps. cv. 13—15.

18 Q. What did Pharaoh say of Abram's conduct; and how did he treat him and his wife? Ans. Gen. xii. 18—20.

19 Q. To what place did Abram return after he left Egypt? Ans. Gen. xiii. 1—4. See Chart, map No. 2.

LESSON II.
Lot leaves Abram, &c.

[21 Q. What is now said of the temporal substance of Abram and Lot? Ans. Gen. xiii. 3—5.]

Note. The reason why mention is made of the Canaanite and Perizzite, in connection with the strife between the herdsman of Abram and Lot, as dwelling in the same place, is to show the evil of exposing religion to the ridicule of the ungodly, from the want of a due regard to uprightness of conduct on the part of those who profess it. See Neh. v. 9.

24 Q. What was the conduct of Abram towards Lot on this occasion? Ans. Gen. xiii. 8, 9.

26 Q. When did this event take place? Ans. A. M. 2086. See Chart, III. Ep.]

[Note. Several things worthy of remark are suggested, in view of this selection made by Lot. He located himself in the midst of the society of the wicked, Ezek. xvi. 49, against which we are solemnly warned, Ps. i. 1; though he seems not to have been infected by the general corruption, 2 Pet. ii. 6, 7. And it teaches us, that in all our removals of residence, we should have respect to the character of the society with which we must associate. See Ruth i. ch.]

Note. Kirjath-arba was the first name of this place. Gen. xxiii. 2. Josh. xiv. 15.
30 Q. What kings are mentioned in the commencement of this chapter; and with whom did they wage war? Ans. Gen. xiv. 1, 2. For Chedorlaomer, see Chart, Shem, No. 4; the other three, Ham, No. 5; the other kings, Ham, No. 5.

31 Q. Were the territories of the kings last named contiguous to each other? Ans. Gen. xiv. 3. See Chart, map No. 2.

32 Q. What occasioned the war between these kings? Ans. Gen. xiv. 4.

33 Q. What nations were destroyed by Chedorlaomer, previous to his engagement with the kings of the plain? Ans. Gen. xiv. 5—7. See Chart, map No. 2.

35 Q. What kings were victorious; and to what circumstance was it owing? Ans. Gen. xiv. 10.]

38 Q. When did this event take place? Ans. A. M. 2090.] See Chart, III. Ep.

[Note. The prophet Isaiah, ch. xli. 2, 3, makes a most beautiful allusion to this signal victory of Abram over Chedorlaomer.]

40 Q. When Abram returned from the slaughter of the kings, what honor was done him? Ans. Gen. xiv. 18—20.

41 Q. Who was this Melchizedek? Ans. Gen. xiv. 18. See Chart, Ham, No. 5. Ps. cx. 4. Heb. v. 6, 10, 11; vi. 20; vii. 1—8.

Note. Melchizedek, in an historical sense, was a type of Christ. Being "without father, without mother, without descent, (or pedigree,) having neither beginning of days nor end of life," he was "made like unto the Son of God." Heb. vii. 3. As it regarded his natural birth, he was doubtless like other men. All that is here intended is, to show the entire silence of Scripture, as to any account of the regular order of his genealogy. And in this sense the Messiah, "who is without father as man, and without mother as God," is historically typified in this personage. The type is appropriate, as Christ is "a priest after the power of an endless life."

42 Q. By whom were tithes presented, and by whom received? Ans. Heb. vii. 4. For the law of tithes, subsequently given to the Israelites, see Num. xviii. 20—32.

43 Q. What civility did the king of Sodom show to Abram? Ans. Gen. xiv. 21, &c.

Lesson III.

_Destruction of Sodom, &c._

45 Q. Was there nobody to plead with God to spare them? Ans. Gen. xviii. 23—33.

47 Q. Previous to the destruction of the cities of the plain, whom did Lot entertain, upon their arrival in Sodom at even? Ans. Gen. xix. 1—3. See Chart, map No. 2.

48 Q. What was the conduct of the Sodomites toward these strangers? Ans. Gen. xix. 4, 5. See Prov. iv. 16.

_Note._ This was an evidence of the truth of what the Lord declared concerning them. Ch. xviii. 20. See Judg. xix. 22. Rom. i. 26, 27.

49 Q. Was the expedient adopted by Lot to restrain the fury of the Sodomites, justifiable? Ans. Gen. xix. 8.

51 Q. What was Lot then directed to do? Ans. Gen. xix. 12. The wicked often escape for the sake of the righteous. Ch. xxxix. 5. Josh. v. 22. 1 Kings xi. 34. Acts xxvii. 24.

[55 For what indulgence did Lot petition; and was it granted? Ans. Gen. xix. 18—23.

Note. Lot's reply and petition to the angel both imply that he regarded him as a divine person.

56 Q. By what name was this city subsequently known; and where was it located? Ans. Gen. xix. 22. See Chart, map No. 2.

57 Q. What destruction followed; and what was its extent? Ans. Gen. xix. 24, 25, and xiv. 2, 3. Hosea xi. 8, and Chart, map No. 2.]

[59 Q. What did Abraham do the next day; and what is intimated as the ground of Lot's preservation? Ans. Gen. xix. 27—29.

60 Q. What appearance did the destroyed cities now assume? Ans. Gen. xix. 28.

62 Q. Who followed him to the cave; and what circumstance occurred there? Ans. Gen. xix. 30—36.]

63 Q. Was Lot a religious man? Ans. 2 Pet. ii. 7, 8.
64 Q. Did he maintain his righteous character ever afterwards? Ans. Gen. xix. 30, &c.

SECTION II.
OF HAGAR AND ISHMAEL—ISAAC, &c.

LESSON I.
Their Banishment.

1 Q. Thus ends the history of Lot and Sodom; let us return now to Abraham: in what part of the country did he dwell? Ans. Gen. xx. 1. See Chart, map No. 2.

2 Q. Who was Abimelech? Ans. Gen. xx. 2. xxi. 22, 23.

Note. The reason why God no more reveals himself to man by dreams, see 2 Pet. i. 19. This is the second instance of Abraham's denying his wife. See ch. xii. 11—20. And note under Q. 15 of this chapter.]

5 Q. How came Abimelech to take Abraham's wife? Ans. Because she was a beautiful woman, and Abraham did not call her his wife; but his sister; and by this means he exposed her to be taken by other men, Gen. xx. 2.

7 Q. What was Ishmael? Ans. Gen. xvi. 15. See Chart, Abraham, No. 6.

[8 Q. What was the origin of Hagar, Sarai's handmaid? Ans. Gen. xvi. 1. See Chart, Ham, No. 5.
9 Q. How many years had Abram resided in Canaan, when Hagar became his wife? Ans. Gen. xvi. 3.]

10 Q. How came Abram to take his maid to be his concubine? Ans. Gen. xvi. 1, 2.

Note. That she had no reason for such a complaint, see Prov. xxviii. 10. To this complaint Abram makes a judicious reply, Prov. xv. 1. 1 Pet. iii. 7. Though perhaps he surrendered too much in leaving Hagar at the entire disposal of her mistress.

12 Q. How was Hagar treated by Sarai, and what followed? Ans. Gen. xvi. 6.

13 Q. Whither did she flee, by whom was she found, and what direction was given her? Ans. Gen. xvi. 7—9. See Chart, map No. 2.

Note. From the directions given to Hagar to return to her mistress, we infer that her flight from Sarai was premature. See also Prov. xxvii. 8. Eccl. x. 4.

14 Q. What promise did the angel make to her, and what was to be the name and character of her son? Ans. Gen. xvi. 10—12.

Note. Who this angel was, see v. 13, and ch. xxii. 15—18. Ex. iii. 3—6. The promise here made to Hagar concerning Ishmael was repeated, ch. xvii. 20, and xxii. 13. He finally died in the presence of all his brethren. Ch. xxv. 18.
15 Q. What modern nation, from the similarity of their character to the above prediction, is supposed to have descended from Ishmael? Ans. See Chart, Gene. Tree.

Note. The allegorical characters of Sarai and Hagar will be found, Gal. iv. 22—25.

16 Q. In what year of the world was Ishmael born? Ans. A. M. 2094. See Chart, chron. II. Ep.

Note. The allegorical character of these words of Sarah are explained, John viii. 35, and Gal. iv. 30.

18 Q. Was Abraham pleased with Sarah's proposal, and how was he informed of his duty? Ans. Gen. xxi. 11, 12.
19 Q. What is further said concerning these two sons? Ans. Gen. xxi. 12, 13.
22 Q. Did Ishmael perish in the wilderness? Ans. Gen. xxi. 16—20, and xxv. 16.

Note. In this was fulfilled the prophecy concerning Ishmael, Gen. xvi. 12.

24 Q. In what manner and for what reason was a covenant ratified at this time between Abraham and Abimelech? Ans. Gen. xxi. 22—30.

Note. The wisdom of Abraham in making this covenant with Abimelech, may be inferred from ch. xxvi. 15—22.
25 Q. What name did Abraham now give to this place, what was its import, and where situated? Ans. Gen. xxi. 31. See Chart, map No. 2.

26 Q. Did Abraham continue long at Beer-sheba, and what did he do there? Ans. Gen. xxi. 33, 34.]

LESSON II.

Isaac promised—his birth, &c.

[27 Q. What expression of the divine favor was shown to Abram after his return from the slaughter of the kings? Ans. Gen. xv. 1.

28 Q. Of what did Abram seem to complain, and what was the reply and the promise? Ans. Gen. xv. 2, 3, 4, 5.

29 Q. Did Abram believe this, and was his faith accepted? Ans. Gen. xv. 6.

Note. We are not to infer that Abram disbelieved God, because he asked for a sign. There is a difference between the want of a sign to produce faith, and the want of evidence to confirm it. The former was the case with Zacharias; Luke i. 18—20; the latter with Abraham. See also, Judg. vi. 36—40. 2 Kings xx. 8—10. Is. vii. 11.

The design of dividing the beasts “in the midst,” v. 10, is explained Jer. xxxiv. 18—20. The Levitical law in the sacrifice of birds, the same as above. Lev. i. 17.

The sleep which fell on Abram at this time was supernatural. 1 Sam. xxvi. 12. And the “horror of great darkness,” v. 12, was emblematical of the bondage of the Israelites in Egypt. Ps. cv. 23—25.

33 Q. For what purpose were they to be so long detained in Egypt? Ans. Gen. xv. 16, last clause, compared with Matt. xxiii. 31—33.

34 Q. What occurred at the setting of the sun? Ans. Gen. xv. 17.

Note. This "smoking furnace" has reference to the afflictions of the people of God in Egypt. Deut. iv. 20. Jer. xi. 4. And "the burning lamp" personifies their God in covenant, who should appear to their deliverance. Judg. vi. 21. Is. xlii. 1.

35 Q. What covenant did God that day make with Abram and his seed, and by what nations was the promised Canaan then occupied? Ans. Gen. xv. 18—21. See Chart, map No. 2.

Note. In the reign of Solomon over all Israel, this promise was fully accomplished. 1 Kings iv. 21. 2 Chr. ix. 26. Neh. ix. 7, 8.

36 Q. How old was Abram when God again renewed his covenant with him, and what was embraced therein? Ans. Gen. xvii. 1, 2, 3, 4—8.]

Note. Some learned men have supposed, that the addition of the Hebrew letter ה to the names of Abraham and Sarah, signifies a new relation of God, whose name is Jah; others think it to be a part of the word Hamon, which signifies a multitude; because God promised many nations to spring from them when he changed their names, Gen. xvii. 5, 16.

[39 Q. What was Abraham's conduct on this occasion, and what evidence of deep concern did he evince for the welfare of Ishmael? Ans. Gen. xvii. 17, 18.]
40 Q. What reply was given both concerning Isaac and Ishmael? Ans. Gen. xvii. 19—21.

41 Q. In what did Abraham engage after the Lord departed from him? Ans. Gen. xvii. 23.

42 Q. How old were Abraham and his son Ishmael when they were circumcised? Ans. Gen. xvii. 24, 27.

43 Q. When did this event take place? Ans. A. M. 2107. See Chart, III. Ep.

45 Q. Who were the three persons who stood by him, and how were they entertained? Ans. Gen. xviii. 2—8.

Note. From this instance of entertaining "angels unawares," is founded the admonition of the Apostle, Heb. xiii. 2.

46 Q. After whom did they inquire, and what promise was given to her? Ans. Gen. xviii. 9, 10.

47 Q. What effect had this promise upon Sarah? Ans. Gen. xviii. 11, 12.

48 Whom did Abraham discover the person to be who spoke to him concerning his wife? Ans. Gen. xviii. 13, 14.

49 Q. In what light are we to view the conduct of Sarah on this occasion? Ans. Prov. xxviii. 13.

50 Q. Was Sarah rebuked for her conduct? Ans. Gen. xviii. 15.]

52 Q. Why is Abraham called the father of the faithful, i.e. of the believers? Ans. Rom. iv. 11, 12.

53 Q. What were the three chief promises which God gave Abraham?

Ans. (1) That he should have a son, when he was a hundred years old. (2) That his children should possess the land of Canaan, when he had not ground enough to set his foot on there. And (3) That all the families of the earth should be blessed in him, and his offspring, when he was but a private person, Gen. xvii. 8, 16, 17, and xii. 3. Acts vii. 5.

54 Q. What did this last promise mean? Ans. Gal. iii. 8, 16.

55 Q. What did God appoint to Abraham for a token of these promises and this covenant, and of his own acceptance with God? Ans. Gen. xvii. 7—10. Rom. iv. 11.

[56 Q. What was the consequence of neglecting this ordinance? Ans. Gen. xvii. 14.]

57 Q. What was the religion of Abraham?

Ans. The same with the religion of Adam after the fall, in chap. i, Q. 46, and the religion of Noah, with the addition of circumcision, and the expectation of Canaan, to be given to his seed, as a type of heaven; and a trust in the promise of the Savior who should spring from him, and bless all nations.

Note. This was called the ABRAHAMICAL DISPENSATION, but it was confined to the family of Abraham, in the literal sense of it, with those temporal precepts and promises of Circumcision and the Inheritance of Canaan. Though in the spiritual sense of it, it reaches to every good man; and thus Abraham is their father, Rom. iv. 16, 17.

LESSON III.

Isaac offered, &c.

58 Q. How did Abraham further and most eminently show his obedience to God? Ans. Gen. xxii. 12.

Note. The design of God in tempting Abraham, was to prove the genuineness of his faith. (Deut. viii. 2, xiii. 3. 2 Chron. xxxii. 31.) There is, therefore, no contradiction between this and other similar passages, and that of James i. 13.

Mount Moriah was subsequently distinguished as the site for the temple of Jerusalem. 2 Chron. iii. 1. See Chart, map No. 4.

Abraham's telling the young men that he and his son would both return to them, (v. 5.) when he expected to slay his son Isaac, explained, Heb. xi. 19. The whole of this transaction was typical of that greater sacrifice, the Lord Jesus Christ. John xix. 17, 18. Abraham's faith was rendered the more conspicuous on this occasion, from what is recorded, ch. xvii. 16, xxi. 5—12. Deut. xxxii. 27.

[59 Q. In what year of the world did this event take place? Ans. A. M. 2133. See Chart, III. Ep.]

[61 Q. How was he prevented from actually slaying his son, and what was offered as his substitute? Ans. Gen. xxii. 13.

Note. This substitute prefigured the use of animal sacrifices among the Jews, while it also served as a type of Christ, the Paschal Lamb of God. Ex. xii. 6, 8. 1 Pet. i. 19, 20.

62 Q. What new name did Abraham give to this place; and what was communicated to him when the angel appeared the second time? Ans. (1.) Gen. xxii. 14. (2.) v. 15—18.

Note. Respecting this oath, see Heb. vi. 13, 14. The apostles Paul and James both allude to this instance of Abraham’s faith and obedience; the former, to show his justification before God; the latter, before men. Rom. iv. 2. James ii. 21—23. For the practical import of this event, see Ps. xxxiv. 19.

64 Q. What intelligence did he then receive concerning his brother Nahor, and what is said of his family? Ans. Gen. xxii. 20—24. See Chart, Shem, No. 4.

65 Q. At what place did Sarah die, what was her age, and when did her death take place? Ans. Gen. xxiii. 1, 2. A. M. 2145. See Chart, map No. 2.
66 Q. Of whom did Abraham purchase the cave of Machpelah as a place of interment for his dead, and where was it located? Ans. Gen. xxiii. 3—18. v. 9, 17. See Chart, map No. 4.

Note. Ekron was a Hittite, Chart, Ham, No. 5, a nation descended from Heth, son of Canaan. Ch. x. 15. Ex. iii. 8.
The land purchased by Abraham from Ekron, had already been promised him: why, therefore, pay 400 shekels of silver for it? See ch. xiv. 23. 2 Sam. xxiv. 20—25.

N. B. A shekel of silver was equal to 2s. 7d. sterling.

LESSON IV.

Isaac's Marriage.

Abraham being now 140 years of age, com. ch. xxi. 5, with xxv. 20, sent his eldest servant, Eliezer of Damascus, ch. xv. 2, to Mesopotamia, to obtain a wife for Isaac.

67 Q. What is recorded concerning Isaac, their son? Ans. Gen. xxiv. 63.

68 Q. Who was Isaac's wife, [and in what year of the world was he married? Ans. A. M. 2148.] Gen. xxiv. 3, 4, 51, &c.

[Note. Abraham's precaution in selecting a wife for his son was founded upon the principle embraced in the prohibition, Ex. xxxiv. 16. In this respect, Isaac imitated the example of his father, in selecting a wife for Jacob. Gen. xxviii. 1, 2. It appears that even Abraham's own kindred were not entirely free from idolatry. Ch. xxxi. 30. Josh. xxiv. 2.

69 Q. What passed between Abraham and his servant? Ans. Gen. xxiv. 4, 6, 8.

70 Q. Whither went the servant, at what place did he stop, and at what time? Ans. Gen. xxiv. 10, 11. xi. 31. xxix. 4. See Chart, map No. 2.

71 Q. In what did he here engage, and what ensued? Ans. Gen. xxiv. 15, first clause. Ex. ii. 16. 1 Sam. ix. 11.

72 Q. Who was Rebekah, and what interview was held at their meeting? Ans. (1.) Gen. xxiv. 15, 16. (2.) 17—25. ch. xxii. 23. See Chart, Shem and Abraham, No. 5 and 6.

73 Q. In what way did Eliezer express his gratitude for this signal providence? Ans. Gen. xxiv. 26, 27.

74 Q. Whither went Rebekah at this time, and what did she do? Ans. Gen. xxiv. 28.
75 Q. With what reception did the servant meet from Laban, what did he relate to him, and what follows? Ans. Gen. xxiv. 29—33. 33—48. 49—51. For Laban, see Chart, Shem, No. 4.

77 Q. At what place was Isaac at this time, and what were the circumstances connected with his meeting Rebekah? Ans. Gen. xxiv. 62—67. See Chart, map No. 2.

78 Q. Whom did Abraham marry after the death of Sarah, what was the issue of this marriage, and when did it take place? Ans. Gen. xxv. 1—4. A. M. 2150. See Chart, Abraham, No. 6.

Note. The Midianites descended from Midian; ch. xxxvii. 28; Bildad the Shuhite from Shuah; Job. ii. 11. For an account of Jethro and Joch, see Chart as above.

79 Q. Who inherited all the property of Abraham? Ans. Gen. xxv. 5.

Note. This had been promised before to Isaac. Gen. xv. 4. Christ was typified therein. John iii. 35. Heb. i. 1—5.

80 Q. How did Abraham dispose of the sons of the concubines, whither did he send them, and what were they subsequently called? Ans. (1.) Gen. xxv. 6. (2.) Judg. vi. 3. See Chart, map No. 2.

Note. The names of Abraham's concubines were Hagar and Keturah. These were legal wives, but were not entitled to any of the inheritance for themselves or children. See preceding question.

81 Q. At what age did Abraham die, and by whom and where was he buried? Ans. Gen. xxv. 7, 8, 9, 10. See Chart, chron. dep. III. Ep. and map No. 2.

82 Q. What is said of Isaac after his father's death? Ans. Gen. xxv. 11.
83 Q. How many sons had Ishmael; and what were their names? Ans. Gen. xxv. 13—16. See Chart, Abm., No. 6.

Note. In this was the prophecy respecting Ishmael fulfilled, as recorded Gen. xvii. 20.

85 Q. At what age did Isaac marry? Ans. Gen. xxv. 20.

86 Q. What unhappy circumstance accompanied this marriage; what prayer did Isaac utter, and with what success? Ans. Gen. xxv. 21.

Note. The conduct of Abraham and Isaac differed under similar trials. The former murmured; ch. xv. 2. The latter prayed; ch. xxv. 21.

87 Q. What two nations were to spring from Rebekah? Ans. Gen. xxxvi. 19, and xxxii. 28.

Note. For the accomplishment of the prediction made in v. 23, see 2 Sam. viii. 14, 15. The prophet Malachi speaks of them, ch. i. 1—4. And Paul mentions the names of the two children, Rom. ix. 10—13. Of what the struggling spoken of v. 22, was figurative, see Gen. iii. 16, and Rom. vii. 23.]

[89 Q. In what year of the world did Shem die? Ans. A. M. 2158.]

SECTION III.

OF ESAU AND JACOB, AND THEIR POSTERITY.

LESSON I.

Of Esau and Jacob, and their Posterities.

[1 Q. What was Isaac's age at the birth of his two sons? Ans. Gen. xxv. 26. See Chart, Isaac, No. 6.
2 Q. In what year of the world were they born? Ans. A. M. 2168.

4 Q. What was Esau? Ans. Gen. xxv. 31, 33.

5 Q. What was Jacob? Ans. Gen. xxvii. 27.

[6 Q. To which of the brothers was Isaac partial, and why? Ans. Gen. xxv. 28.

7 Q. What circumstance led to Isaac's removal from Gerar; and whither did he go? Ans. Gen. xxvi. 1—3, and 6. See Chart, map No. 2.

Note. It appears that Isaac in the first place intended to go to Egypt, v. 2. Abimelech was a name common to the kings of this country. Ps. xxxiv. title.

8 Q. What promise made to Abraham is renewed to Isaac, and for what reason? Ans. Gen. xxvi. 3—5.

9 Q. Of what act of duplicity was Isaac here guilty; and in what way was he detected? Ans. Gen. xxvi. 7—11. See note, ch. iii. Sec. i. Q. 14.

10 Q. Did the Lord favor Isaac with prosperity in his temporal concerns; and what effect had this upon the Philistines? Ans. Gen. xxvi. 12—14.

12 Q. What is said of the wells dug by Abraham, and those dug by Isaac? Ans. Gen. xxvi. 18, 19—22.

13 Q. Whither did Isaac now remove; and what event took place while there? Ans. Gen. xxvi. 23—25. See Chart, map No. 2.

14 Q. What covenant was made between him and Abimelech, and how was it ratified? Ans. Gen. xxvi. 26—31.

15 Q. What name was subsequently given to this place? Ans. Gen. xxvi. 33. See Chart, map, No. 2.

16 Q. At what age did Esau marry, what were the names of his two wives, and how were his parents affected by it? Ans. Gen. xxvi. 34, 35. See Chart, Ham, No. 5.

Note. The blessing designed by Isaac for Esau, see v. 26—29.

LESSON II.

18 Q. By what treachery did he [Jacob] obtain the blessing; and when did this event take place? Ans. Gen. xxvii. A. M. 2245.

[Note. Though the agency of Rebekah in supplanting Esau was severely reprehensible, Job xiii. 7, xii. 16, Prov. xvii. 28, yet the prediction, ch. xxv. 23, was fulfilled, and the divine purpose respecting Jacob and Esau was accomplished. Rom. ix. 10, 11. Jacob, through fear of a curse, Deut. xxvii. 18, at first objected, yet finally complied with the rash persuasions of his mother. Eccl. v. 2.]

19 Q. What passed between Isaac and his son Jacob, when he appeared before him? Ans. Gen. xxvii. 18—25.

Note. This blessing had respect to Jacob and his seed, Deut. xi. 11. xxxiii. 13, 28, 29, both in a temporal and spiritual sense; the first of which received its accomplishment in the subjugation of the nations to him, 2 Sam. viii. 14, and 1 Kings iv. 21; the second, Dan. vii. 14, com. with Matt. xi. 27.

21 Q. In what way was Jacob led to a discovery of this deception; and how was he affected by it? Ans. Gen. xxvii. 31—33.]
22 Q. What was the conduct of Esau, when he found he was supplanted by his brother? Ans. Gen. xxvii. 34, 36, 38.
23 Q. What said Isaac in reply; and did he bless Esau also? Ans. Gen. xxvii. 35, 37, 39, 40.

Note. "Thou shalt break his yoke from off thy neck," fulfilled, 2 Kings viii. 20—22.

[Note. This enmity of Esau was ever retained by his posterity towards the Israelites. Ezek. xxv. 12. Amos i. 11. Obad. i. 10—16.]

Note. Rebekah’s fear of sustaining the loss of both her sons, in the event of the death of Jacob by the hand of Esau, was predicated of the law established, Gen. ix. 5, 6. 2 Sam. xiv. 6, 7. Acts xxviii. 4.

26 Q. What circumstance proved a source of domestic trouble to Rebekah, and how was it evinced? Ans. Gen. xxvii. 46.

27 Q. What charge did Isaac give to Jacob; and with what blessing was it accompanied? Ans. Gen. xxviii. 1—4.

Note. This was but the confirmation of a blessing already given to Jacob, in connection with which some important duties are now enjoined, which in scripture generally go hand in hand. Is. i. 18—20. Matt. xii. 28—30. The name by which the Divine Being was known to the patriarchs, was “God Almighty.” Ch. xvi. i. xxxv. 11. xviii. 3. Subsequently he was known by the name, JEHOVAH. Ex. vi. 3.]

Note. Jacob’s name hereafter comes first in order; he having obtained both the birthright and the blessing, v. 5, last clause.

30 Q. Where did Jacob remain all night on his way to Padan-aram; and what did he do there? Ans. Gen. xxviii. 11. See Matt. viii. 20.]

Note. In this vision, which was supernatural, "the angels" represent the "host" of God. Gen. xxxii. 1, 2. It illustrates the superintending providence of God over those who love him. 2 Chron. xvi. 9. Is. xli. 10. It also prefigures the second advent of Christ. John i. 51.

Note. Jacob refers to this vision, ch. xlviii. 3. The use of "oil" on this and other occasions of a similar kind, was emblematic of joy. 1 Sam. x. 1. Heb. i. 9.

Luz was the name by which this place was first known; but Jacob now calls it Beth-el, v. 19. See Chart, map No. 2.

Note. Peculiar manifestations of divine mercy demand of us particular vows of Christian fidelity. Num. xxi. 1—3. 1 Sam. i. 11. These vows should be made to God alone, Ps. 1. 14; and they should be made deliberately, and with a fixed purpose to pay them. Eccl. v. 2, 4, 5. Jacob's vow was of this description, and is worthy of our imitation. See ch. xxxv. 1—15.

34 Q. At what place did Jacob finally arrive; with whom did he meet; and what conversation ensued? Ans. (1.) Gen. xxix. 1—3. (2.) 4—8. See Chart, map No. 2.

35 Q. What other event took place at this time? Ans. Gen. xxix. 9—12.]

LESSON III.

Esau and Jacob, and their posterities, continued.

[Note. It was customary at this period for the bridegroom to furnish the bride with a dowry. Ch. xxxiv. 12. Ex. xxii. 16, 17. Hence the service required of Jacob for Rachel and Leah.}
Laban in this affair was doubtless guilty of the most palpable deception, Ps. xii. 2: but Jacob by this occurrence might have been reminded of the deception which he practiced upon his father in supplanting Esau. Gen. xxvii. 18—25.

37 Q. In what year of the world did this take place? Ans. A. M. 2245. See Chart, chron. III. E.

[39 Q. Who were given to Leah and Rachel as handmaids? Ans. Gen. xxix. 24, 29. See Chart, Shem, No. 4, Ab. Is. and Ja., No. 6.

Note. It does not appear that at this time there was any express law prohibiting polygamy.

40 Q. For which of his wives had Jacob a particular affection? Ans. Gen. xxix. 30, 31.

42 Q. What were their names? Ans. Gen. xxxv. 23—26. See Chart, Jacob, No. 6.

[43 Q. What particular mark of the divine favor was conferred upon Leah? Ans. Gen. xxix. 31—35. See Chart, Ab. Is. and Ja., No. 6.

44 Q. What is now recorded of Rachel? Ans. Gen. xxx. 1—8. See Chart, as above.

Note. This expedient was probably suggested to her by the example of Sarah. Ch. xvi. 2. Her impatience, however, was marked by evident tokens of the divine displeasure. Ch. xxxv. 18.

45 Q. Did Leah follow the example of Rachel? Ans. Gen. xxx. 9—12. See Chart, as above.

Note. The mandrake was a sort of flower or fruit peculiarly fragrant or delicious, and for which Rachel had a passionate fondness.

47 Q. What was the name of Rachel's first son; and what did she say at his birth? Ans. Gen. xxx. 22—24. See Chart, as above.

49 Q. What means did Laban adopt to prevent a mixture of goats, &c.? Ans. Gen. xxx. 35, 36.

51 Q. What was the conduct of Laban and his sons towards Jacob at this time; and what divine command is now given him? Ans. (1.) Gen. xxxi. 1, 2. (2.) 3. See Prov. xxvii. 4. Eccl. iv. 4.

LESSON IV.

Esau and Jacob, and their posterities, continued.

52 Q. What does Jacob now say to his wives; and what do they reply? Ans. (1.) Gen. xxxi. 4—13. (2.) 14—17.

53 Q. What precaution did Jacob use in leaving Laban; whither did he direct his course; and what did he carry with him? Ans. (1.) Gen. xxxi. 19, 20. (2.) 21. (3.) 18. See Chart, map No. 2.

Note. The images, or teraphim, which Rachel stole from her father, were used at that time as symbolic representations of the supreme object of religious worship, the great Jehovah of Israel. They probably bore some resemblance to the cherubim, but less, as to size, and were employed only for private uses. In view of Rachel's motive in thus clandestinely taking away these images, ch. xxxv. 2, her conduct was severely reprehensible: the sin, however, lay principally at the door of Laban, in multiplying them, and thus giving encouragement to the practice of idolatry. See Josh. xxiv. 2. Judg. xvii. 4, 5. 1 Sam. xix. 13.
54 Q. When Laban heard of their flight, what did he do; and how was his intended evil design against Jacob frustrated? Ans. Gen. xxxi. 21—24.

55 Q. At what place did he find Jacob; what did he say to him; and what was Jacob's reply? Ans. (1.) Gen. xxxi. 25. (2.) 26—30. (3.) 31, 32.

Note. The charges alleged by Laban against Jacob were false, and all his professions of intended kindness, the effusions of hypocrisy. Prov. xxvi. 23—25. There is an apparent want of prudence in what Jacob said of the man who may have stolen the gods.

56 Q. Did Laban search for the teraphim; and with what success? Ans. Gen. xxxi. 33—35.

Note. It is natural to suppose that Laban would have been cured of his idolatry, when he saw the objects of his worship suffered themselves to be stolen. See Prov. xxvii. 22.

57 Q. What effect had this upon Jacob; and what did he do? Ans. Gen. xxxi. 36—42.

58 Q. What reply did Laban make; and what did he now propose? Ans. Gen. xxxi. 43, 44.

59 Q. Did Jacob accede to this proposition; and how was the covenant ratified? Ans. Gen. xxxi. 45—47.

60 Q. What names were given to the monuments of stones raised by Jacob and Laban on this occasion? Ans. Gen. xxxi. 47.

61 Q. What were the terms of this covenant? Ans. Gen. xxxi. 48—53.

Note. Laban's name does not again occur in Scripture—Prov. x. 7.

63 Q. Whom did Jacob meet after he left Gilead; at what place; and what did he say of them? Ans. Gen. xxxii. 1, 2. See Ps. xci. 11. Heb. i. 14, and Chart, map No. 2.

64 Q. To whom and where did Jacob now send messengers; what were they commanded to say; and Note. This country was given to Esau as a possession. Deut. ii. 5, 22.

65 Q. What effect had this upon Jacob; and what did he do to appease the wrath of his brother? Ans. Gen. xxxii. 7—23. See Chart, R. Jabbok, map No. 2.

Note. The judicious measures adopted by Jacob on this occasion, were admirably adapted to accomplish the object in view. He prayed, v. 9—12; he divided the people, flocks, &c., into companies, as was best suited to their mutual preservation, v. 7, 8; and he sent Esau presents, &c., v. 13—21. Prov. xvi. xviii. 16—21. Eccl. x. 4. Ps. l. 15.

[Note. The touching of the hollow of Jacob's thigh, and its consequent effect, is an evidence that it was the angel of the covenant with whom Jacob wrestled, the design of which was similar to that expressed 2 Cor. xii. 7—9. The sense in which Jacob is said to have power with men, defined ch. xxv. 31. xxvii. 33—36. xxviii. 4.]

67 Q. Why was Jacob called Israel? Ans. Gen. xxxii. 28. Hos. xii. 4.

[68 Q. In what year of the world did Rebekah die? Ans. A. M. 2249.]

LESSON V.

Esau and Jacob, and their posterities, continued.

[69 Q. What name did Jacob give to this place, and why; and what custom originated among the Jews from the shriveling or dislocating of his thigh? Ans. (1.) Gen. xxxii. 29. (2.) 31, 32. See Chart, map No. 2.]

70 Q. How did his [Jacob's] brother Esau meet him? Ans. Gen. xxxii, [71 Q. What propositions did Esau then make; and what did Jacob reply? Ans. Gen. xxxiii. 12—15.

72 Q. Whither did Esau and Jacob go when they separated? Ans. Gen. xxxiii. 16, 17. See Chart, map No. 2.

Note. It appears it was Jacob's intention at first to go to Seir; v. 14, last clause.]

73 Q. Who were the most famous [of the twelve sons of Jacob] in sacred history? Ans. Levi, Judah, and Joseph.

[74 Q. Where did Jacob go from Succoth; and what did he do there? Ans. Gen. xxxiii. 18—20. See Chart, map No. 2.

75 Q. Who wished to obtain Dinah for a wife; and how was she treated by him? Ans. Gen. xxxiv. 1—3. For Dinah, see Chart, Ab. Is. and Ja., No. 6. For Shechem, Ham, No. 5.

76 Q. How did Shechem make known his wishes to Jacob? Ans. Gen. xxxiv. 4, 6.]

77 Q. What is there remarkable concerning Levi, [whose history is here brought to view?] Ans. Deut. xvii. 9, and xxxiv. 25—29.

79 Q. How did Jacob bear this? Ans. Gen. xxxiv. 30, and xlix. 5.

Note. Jacob had acted more judiciously by retaining in his own hands the management of this concern, instead of surrendering it into the hands of his infuriated sons. 1 Tim. iii. 4. Prov. xxii. 24. They had neither the honor of religion nor the glory of God in view in what they did, v. 25; nor was it their prerogative to offer, much less confer upon, the Shechemites, the seal of God's covenant. Matt. vii. 6. Acts viii. 21.

80 Q. Was this curse executed? Ans. Josh. xxi.

[81 Q. Whither was Jacob now commanded to go; and for what reason? Ans. Gen. xxxv. 1—8. See Chart, map No. 2.

82 Q. What command is given to his household, in reference to the strange gods that were among them; and did they comply? Ans. Gen. xxxv. 2—4. See 1 Cor. v. 7, 8.

Note. These strange gods, or teraphim, were those stolen by Rachel from her father Laban, ch. xxxi. 19; together with those which were probably taken with the spoils of the city of the Shechemites, by the sons of Jacob.

83 Q. How were the Canaanites deterred from falling upon Israel for the murder of the Shechemites? Ans. Gen. xxxv. 5.

84 Q. Where did Jacob arrive; and what did he do there? Ans. Gen. xxxv. 6, 7. See Chart, map No. 2.

85 Q. What death occurred at Beth-el; and what name originated from it? Ans. Gen. xxxv. 8.

LESSON VI.

Esau and Jacob, and their posterities, continued.

87 Q. By what name and memorial was the place distinguished? Ans. Gen. xxxv. 14, 15.

Note. In the time of Jeroboam, king of Judah, this place was polluted with idols. 1 Kings xii. 28, 29.

Note. This place was subsequently distinguished as the birthplace of the Redeemer. Matt. ii. 1. The pillar erected by Jacob as a memorial of Rachel, is mentioned, 1 Sam. x. 2, seven hundred and fifty years after.

89 Q. Where did Israel (or Jacob) now journey; and of what sinful conduct was his first-born son Reuben guilty? Ans. Gen. xxxv. 21, 22.

Note. For this flagrant act, Reuben was subsequently deprived of the birthright. See ch. xlix. 4. 1 Chron. v. 1.

90 Q. How many sons had Jacob; and what were their names? Ans. Gen. xxxv. 22—26. See Chart, Ab. Is. Ja., No. 6.

91 Q. At what place was Isaac, when visited by his son Jacob? Ans. Gen. xxxv. 27.

Note. In the time of Joshua and Caleb, this place was known by the name of Hebron. Josh. xiv. 15. xv. 13.

92 Q. What was the age of Isaac at his death; and by whom was he buried? Ans. Gen. xxxv. 28, 29. See Chart, chron. III. Ep.

Following this is an account of the genealogy of Esau's descendants; the object of which is, not only to elucidate many parts of subsequent scripture history, but to show the exact accomplishment of many preceding prophecies.

93 Q. How many wives had Esau; and of what nations were they descended? Ans. Gen. xxvi. 34. For Adah, or Bashemath, Gen. xxvi. 34, Judith, and Aholibamah, see Chart, Ham, No. 5. For Mahalath, or Bathshemash, Ab. Is. Ja., No. 6.

94 Q. Whither did Esau remove; and for what reason? Ans. Gen. xxxvi. 6, 7. See Chart, map No. 2.

Note. It seems probable that, until after the death of Isaac, Esau remained in the neighborhood of Jacob. This explains the apparent contradiction between ch. xxxiii. 16, and xxxvi. 6—8.
95 Q. What was the name of Esau’s eldest son? Ans. Gen. xxxvi. 10, 15.

Note. This Eliphaz is supposed to be the same with the friend of Job mentioned chap. iv. 1.

96 Q. By what distinguished titles were most of Esau’s descendants known? Ans. Gen. xxxvi. 15, 31. See Chart, Esau, No. 6.

97 Q. What nation sprang from Esau? Ans. Gen. xxxvi. 43. For the kings, dukes, and other descendants of Esau, see Chart, Esau, No. 6.

98 Q. What is there remarkable relating to Juda ? Ans. Gen. xxxviii.

[99 Q. Whither did Judah go, after Joseph was sold; whom did he marry there; and what was the issue of this marriage? Ans. Gen. xxxviii. 1—5. See Chart, Judah, No. 8, and map No. 4.

100 Q. What is recorded of his two eldest sons? Ans. Gen. xxxviii. 6—10.

101 Q. What was then done with Tamar; and what followed? Ans. Gen. xxxviii. 11, 12—26.

Note. See the law concerning the marriage of a deceased brother’s widow among the Israelites, predicated of this circumstance. Deut. xxv. 5. Judah’s intentions in this proposal are disclosed, v. 14, 26, and evince both a want of sincerity and of chastity.

102 Q. What were the names of the twin children of Judah by Tamar? Ans. Gen. xxxviii. 27—30.

Note. The design of the sacred penman, in inserting the name of Pharez, is to show that he was included in the line of the genealogy of Christ. See Chart—where the line should be carefully traced from Adam to Pharez.]

103 Q. Did God forgive this sin? Ans. Gen. xlix. 10.
SECTION IV.
OF JOSEPH.

PART II.
From the carrying away of Joseph into Egypt, A. M. 2376, to his death, A. M. 2369; embracing a period of 95 years.

LESSON I.
Joseph sold, &c.

[104 Q. What is now said of Jacob's affection for Joseph and his brethren's enmity to him? Ans. Gen. xxxvii. 1, 2, 3—11.

Note. For the nature of these dreams, see Job xxxiii. 15, 16. These, together with Jacob's partiality for Joseph, excited the envy of his brethren towards him. Jacob's rebuke, v. 10, was not the result of angry feelings; but, apprehending their prophetic import, v. 11, he speaks thus with a view to allay that criminal excitement prevalent among his other sons.

105 Q. Whither was Joseph sent to his brethren, and for what purpose? Ans. Gen. xxxvii. 12—14, 15—17. See Chart, map No. 2.

106 Q. What conspiracy was raised against him by his brethren; through whose agency; and in what way was it prevented? Ans. (1.) Gen. xxxvii. 18—20. (2.) 21—24. See ch. xlii. 21.

109 Q. After he was cast into the pit, what proposition was made by Judah; and what circumstance suggested this plan? Ans. Gen. xxxvii. 25—27.

110 Q. Was this proposal acceded to; to whom was he sold; for how much; and whither was he carried? Ans. Gen. xxxvii. 28. See Chart, map No. 3.
Note. This whole transaction was typical of the promised Messiah. See Matt. xxvi. 14—16; xii. 40. 1 Pet. iii. 21, 22.

111 Q. When did this event take place? Ans. A. M. 2276. See Chart, chron. III. Ep.]

[113 Q. What effect had this upon Reuben, who was absent when it transpired? Ans. Gen. xxxvii. 29, 30.

114 Q. What means did they then use to cover their guilt? Ans. Gen. xxxvii. 31, 32.]

115 Q. What was his first station in the land of Egypt? Ans. Gen. xxxix. [2—]

117 Q. With what evidence are we furnished of Joseph’s chastity? Ans. Gen. xxxix. 7—12.

119 Q. What false charge was at this time alleged against him; and what was the consequence? Ans. Gen. xxxix. 13—20.

120 Q. Did the Lord forsake him while under this trial? Ans. Gen. xxxix. 21—23. See Psalm cv. 17—22.

121 Q. Who were confined in the same prison with Joseph; and what marks of favor did he receive? Ans. Gen. xl. 1—4.

122 Q. What happened to the butler and the baker; how were they affected by their dreams; and what did they do? Ans. (1.) Gen. xl. 5—8. (2.) 8—11, 16, 17.

123 Q. Did Joseph interpret those dreams; and were they verified? Ans. (1.) Gen. xl. 12, 13. (2.) 18, 19, 20—22.

124 Q. What request did Joseph make of the chief butler, when he interpreted his dream; and did he comply? Ans. (1.) Gen. xl. 14, 15. (2.) 23.

125 Q. What was the period of Joseph's confinement in prison; and what were the circumstances of his release? Ans. (1.) Gen. xli. 1. (2.) 1—7. (3.) 8. (4.) 9—14.

Note. The river mentioned, v. 2, 3, was the Nile, the only river of Egypt, (see Chart, map No. 3,) and sometimes called Sihor or Shihor. Is. xxiii. 3. 1 Chron. xiii. 5. This river annually inundated the surrounding country: hence the "kine" are represented as coming out of the river. For the effect of east winds in those countries, see Ezek. xvii. 10. Hosea xiii. 15.]

LESSON II.
Joseph's promotion, &c.

126 Q. What was the occasion of his advancement? Ans. Gen. xli. [v. 15, 16, 17—24, 25—31.]
[127 Q. Why did Joseph "double" the dream unto Pharaoh; and what advice is annexed? Ans. Gen. xli. 32—36. Ps. cv. 22.]

128 Q. And did this raise Joseph to be the ruler of Egypt? Ans. Gen. xli. 39. [37, 38, 39—44.]
[129 Q. In what year of the world did this take place? Ans. A. M. 2288. See Chart, chron. III. Ep. Isaac died the same year.

130 Q. What new name was now given to Joseph; and with whom was he allied in marriage? Ans. Gen. xli. 45, 46. For Pharaoh, Potiphera, and Asenath, see Chart, Ham, No. 5.

132 Q. What were the names of Joseph's two sons? Ans. Gen. xli. 50, 52. See Chart, Jacob, No. 6.

133 Q. To what extent did the famine prevail; when did it commence; and what was done for the relief 134 Q. Were Joseph's brethren among the number of those who came to Egypt to purchase corn; and when did they first go down to Egypt? Ans. A. M. 2297. Gen. xlii. 1—3, 5.

Note. Benjamin was not permitted to accompany his brethren, v. 4.

135 Q. What office did Joseph now fill in Egypt; and in what posture did his brethren present themselves? Ans. Gen. xlii. 6.

Note. This was a fulfillment of Joseph's first dream, ch. xxxvii. 7.]

[Note. Joseph had now been separated from his brethren about twenty years. Com. ch. xxxvii. 2, with xli. 46; to which add the seven years of plenty in Egypt.]

137 Q. Did he revenge himself upon them? Ans. Gen. xlv.

[138 Q. How did his brethren attempt to vindicate themselves; what did he reply; and what method did he adopt to prove them? Ans. (1.) Gen. xlii. 10—13. (2.) 14—20.

Note. Joseph's swearing "by the life of Pharaoh," was a violation of the principle laid down in Matt. v. 34—37.

139 Q. What was the substance of the conference now held among his brethren; and had they any suspicions that they were understood? Ans. Gen. xlii. 21, 22, 23.

Note. The Egyptians spake a language different from that of the Hebrews. Ps. lxxxii. 5. Joseph spake to them in this language by an interpreter, to prevent their recognition of him as their brother. These acknowledgments resulted from a deep sense of guilt.
140 Q. What effect had this tragical scene upon Joseph; and what did he do to Simeon and his other brethren? Ans. Gen. xliii. 24, 25.

141 Q. What occurred to one of the brethren at the inn; what consternation ensued; and what did they relate to their father on their return? Ans. (1.) Gen. xliii. 26, 27. (2.) 28. (3.) 29—35.

142 Q. What answer did Jacob return to his sons; and what proposal did Reuben make notwithstanding; and with what success? Ans. (1.) Gen. xliii. 36. (2.) 37, 38.

143 Q. How was Jacob finally prevailed upon to send Benjamin to Egypt? Ans. Gen. xliii. 1—14.

Note. What parental affection this! The peremptory refusal of his sons to return to Egypt unless accompanied by Benjamin, and the extremity of the case, arising from the prevalence of the famine, alone induce the aged and venerable patriarch to consent to part with his youngest son; connected with which was the adoption of the most efficient measures to procure the good favor of the governor towards him.

Jacob's experience had previously taught him the pacifying nature of gifts, ch. xxxii. 13—21; to which he now adds the patriarchal benediction. Their return to Egypt was the second year after the commencement of the famine, ch. xlv. 6.

144 Q. What orders were given to the steward of Joseph's house respecting them on their arrival in Egypt; what were their apprehensions of Joseph's motive in bringing them thither; and how did they betray their fears? Ans. (1.) Gen. xliii. 15—17. (2.) 18. (3.) 19—22.

145 Q. How were their fears removed; and what transpired when Joseph returned to his house? Ans. (1.) Gen. xliii. 23—25. (2.) 26—34.

146 Q. As Joseph's brethren were again about to leave the city, what did he command his steward to do? Ans. Gen. xlv. 1, 2.

147 Q. What, after they were gone; and when overtaken, how did they vindicate themselves against the charge of theft? Ans. (1.) 3—6. (2.) 7—10.
148 Q. What did they now do, in order to detect the guilty person; and what occurred after their return to Joseph's house? Ans. (1.) Gen. xli. 11—13. (2.) 14—17.

149 Q. By whom was Joseph addressed in behalf of his brethren; and what was the substance of his speech? Ans. Gen. xlv. 18—34.

Note. This speech of Judah is a most admirable specimen of plain, pathetic, effective eloquence. Prov. xxv. 11. Joseph might have protracted this trial of his brethren; but, with all his native fortitude of soul, he yields to the resistless energy of this address, and proceeds to the disclosure which follows.

150 Q. Relate the manner in which Joseph makes himself known to his brethren, and the effect it produced upon them? Ans. Gen. xlv. 1, 2, 3.

151 Q. While overwhelmed with astonishment at this unexpected disclosure, what did Joseph further say to his brethren? Ans. Gen. xlv. 4—8.

Note. This transaction serves to illustrate and confirm the harmony of the divine sovereignty with human agency in the affairs of men, without destroying their accountability. 2 Sam. xvii. 14. Acts ii. 23. Is. x. 5—15.

152 Q. What effect had this intelligence upon Pharaoh and his house; and what did he propose to Joseph? Ans. Gen. xlv. 16—20.]

LESSON III.
Joseph's clemency towards his brethren.

[155 Q. Against what does he admonish them before they separate; and upon their return to Canaan, how is the aged patriarch affected by tidings of these things? Ans. Gen. xlv. 24, 25, 26.]
156 Q. How was Jacob's incredulity removed; and what did he then say? Ans. Gen. xlv. 27, 28.

157 Q. After the family commenced their journey to Egypt, at what place did they stop; in what did they there engage; and what did the Lord reveal to Jacob? Ans. (1.) Gen. xlvi. 1. (2.) 2—4. See Chart, map No. 2 and 3.

158 Q. What is said of their mode of traveling; and what of the names and number of Jacob's family? Ans. (1.) Gen. xlvi. 5—7. (2.) 8—27. See Chart, Jacob, No. 6.

Note. Jacob had but one daughter, v. 15. Those who entered with him into Egypt numbered sixty-six; and Joseph, with his wife and two sons already there, Ex. i. 5, made the number seventy; v. 27.

The design of this genealogy, as here and elsewhere given, is to illustrate the faithfulness of God in fulfilling his covenant engagement with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; (1.) by increasing the number of seventy souls to "a great nation;" (2.) by preserving distinct the priesthood in the line of Levi; (3.) the "scepter" in the line of Judah; (4.) the distribution of the conquered countries among the tribes; and (5.) to preserve entire the line of the genealogy of Christ from Adam.

159 Q. Whom did Jacob send to Joseph to prepare the way for his entrance into Goshen; and what passed between the venerated patriarch and his son, on his arrival there? Ans. (1.) Gen. xlvi. 28. (2.) 29, 30. See Chart, map No. 3.

160 Q. What did Joseph now determine to do, and what did he instruct his brethren to reply to Pharaoh when questioned about their occupation; and for what reason? Ans. (1.) Gen. xlvi. 31, 32. (2.) 33, 34.

161 Q. By whom was Pharaoh informed of the arrival of Jacob's family into Goshen; and how many of his sons were present at the time? Ans. Gen. xlvii. 1, 2.

162 Q. What inquiry did Pharaoh make of the five brethren; what was their reply; and what did the king then say to Joseph? Ans. (1.) Gen. xlvii. 3. (2.) 3, 4. (3.) 5, 6.
163 Q. Who was subsequently introduced to Pharaoh; and what conversation ensued? Ans. Gen. xlvii. 7—10.

164 Q. What did Joseph now do with and for his father and brethren? Ans. Gen. xlvii. 11, 12.

165 Q. What is said of the state of the famine and of the moneys collected out of Egypt and Canaan? Ans. Gen. xlvii. 13, 14.

166 Q. What proposal did Joseph make to the people as a means to procure bread when their money failed; and did they comply? Ans. (1.) Gen. xlvii. 15, 16. (2.) 17.

167 Q. What proposal did the people make to Joseph, the second year; and was it accepted? Ans. (1.) Gen. xlvii. 18, 19. (2.) 20, 21.

168 Q. What stipulation was then made for the occupancy of Pharaoh's lands; and were they acceded to? Ans. (1.) Gen. xlvii. 23, 24, 26. (2.) 25.

169 Q. Who were exempted from the above stipulations? Ans. Gen. xlvii. 22, 26.

170 Q. How long did Jacob (or Israel) survive after he came to Egypt; what charge did he give to Joseph previous to his death; and did he comply? Ans. (1.) Gen. xlvii. 27, 28. (2.) 29, 30. (3.) 31.

171 Q. What did Israel relate to Joseph, who came to visit him for the last time; and what did he say respecting Joseph's two sons, and his future offspring? Ans. (1.) Gen. xlviii. 1—4. (2.) 5, 6. For Manasseh and Ephraim, see Chart, Joseph, No. 6.

Note. To the first-born belonged a double portion of the inheritance. Deut. xxi. 17. That "double portion," therefore, in the division of the conquered countries among the tribes, would have been allotted to Reuben, had it not been forfeited at the shrine of a criminal passion; ch. xxxv. 22. It is now given, (though more than four hundred years before the actual conquest of that country,) to Joseph's two sons, Ephraim and Manasseh, whom Jacob had adopted as his own; v. 5, and 1 Chron. v. 1. The reason why Ephraim, though the younger, is named first, see v. 19.
172 Q. What did Israel relate to Joseph respecting Rachel, his mother; and what conversation ensued concerning his two sons? Ans. (1.) Gen. xlviii. 7. (2.) 8—12. For Ephrath, see Chart, map No. 4.

173 Q. What objection did Joseph make to the manner in which Israel imposed his hands upon the heads of Ephraim and Manasseh; and what was his reply? Ans. (1.) Gen. xlviii. 13, 14, 17, 18. (2.) 19.

174 Q. What were the peculiar blessings pronounced upon the lads? Ans. Gen. xlviii. 15, 16, 20.

Note. Joseph's blessing was included in the blessings of his sons, v. 20.]

LESSON IV.

Jacob's death, &c.

175 Q. Did Jacob die in Egypt? Ans. Gen. xl ix. 33, and l. 13.

[176 Q. What did he further communicate to Joseph previous to his death? Ans. Gen. xlviii. 21, 22.

Note. This portion of ground given to Joseph was near Samaria, or Sychar. John iv. 5. Jacob is elsewhere said to have purchased this piece of ground. Josh. xxiv. 32. The probability is, that when Simeon and Levi destroyed the Shechemites, Gen. xxxiv. 25—29, the neighboring people dispossessed him of it, and he subsequently regained it by the "sword" and "bow."

177 Q. For what purpose was Israel's sons called around him? Ans. Gen. xlix. 1, 2.

Note. Israel now addresses his sons prophetically; which prophecies relate more particularly to their respective posterities than to themselves.

178 Q. What is said of Reuben; and how is his prophetic character designated? Ans. Gen. xlix. 3, 4.

Note. To him belonged the birthright: the manner of its forfeiture has been already considered. (See sec. iii. q. 89, and note.) It is remarkable, that in all his tribe there is not a judge, prince, or person of eminence, except on account of their rebellion, as Dathan and Abiram. See Chart, Reuben, No. 7. And his tribe was among the first carried into captivity. 2 Kings xv. 27—29. See Chart, map No. 5.

179 Q. What is said of Simeon and Levi; and to what circumstance in their conduct does Israel here allude? Ans. Gen. xlix. 5, 6, 7; ch. xxxiv. 25—29.

Note. See the fulfillment of the prediction respecting them, Josh. xix. 9; xxi. 1—8. See Chart, Simeon and Levi, No. 7, and Hist. Rem. map No. 4.

Note. The tribe of Judah was distinguished above all others; Num. ii. 2—9; vii. 12. Josh. xv. 1—12. Judg. i. 1, 2; and with him continued the regal scepter until Shiloh or the Messiah came. The 11th and 12th verses refer to the luxuriant soil of the lot apportioned to Judah.

181 Q. What was the blessing pronounced upon Zebulun? Ans. Gen. xlix. 13.

Note. This tribe possessed great maritime advantages. See Chart, Zebulun, No. 8, and map No. 4. Deut. xxxiii. 19.

Note. This tribe, little known in subsequent history, was industrious, unambitious, submissive, and greatly attached to peace. See Chart, Issachar, No. 8, and map No. 4.

Note. See the import of this prediction fulfilled in the characters of Dan's descendants, Judg. xiv. xv. xvii. xviii. See Chart, Dan, No. 10, and map No. 4.

Note. Until the time of David, this tribe was frequently subdued by the Ammonites and Moabites. Judg. x. 8. But during his reign they prospered. 1 Chron. v. 11—22. See Chart, Gad, No. 11, and map No. 4.

Note. They were to be valiant in war, affable in peace. Judg. iv. 6, 10, v. 18. See Chart, Naphtali, No. 10, and map No. 4.

Note. The posterity of Joseph was to possess a luxuriant soil, abundance of wealth, and a numerous progeny. Josh. xvii. 14—17. Joseph was a type of Christ; Judah, his progenitor.

Note. This tribe was exceedingly fierce in war. Judg. iii. 15—29, and xx. See Chart, Benjamin, No. 9, and map No. 4.]

189 Q. What became of the families of Israel after Joseph's death? Ans. Ex. i. 13, 14, 16, 22.

[190 Q. What charge did Israel deliver to his sons before his death? Ans. Gen. xlix. 28—32.

191 Q. What next ensued; and what was Israel's age at his death? Ans. Gen. xlix. 33, and xlvii. 28. See Chart, chron. dep.

193 Q. What evidences of Joseph's affection for his father was given at his decease; and what was done to the body? Ans. (1.) Gen. I. 1, and xlvi. 4. (2.) ch. I. 2, 3.

Note. For the process of embalming, see 2 Chron. xvi. 14. Lk. xxiv. 1. John xix. 39, 40.
194. Q. Did the Egyptians sympathize with Joseph in this mournful event; and what request did Joseph make of Pharaoh; and did he acquiesce? Ans. (1.) Gen. l. 3. (2.) 4, 5. (3.) 6.

195. Q. Of whom and of what was the funeral procession formed; at what place did they tarry for seven days; and for what purpose? Ans. (1.) Gen. l. 7—9. (2.) 10. See Chart, map No. 4.

196. Q. What new name did this place derive from this event; and what is said of the fulfillment of Israel's command to his sons respecting his interment? Ans. (1.) Gen. l. 11. (2.) 12, 13.

197. Q. Did the procession again return to Egypt; and what was the substance of the message sent to Joseph by his brethren? Ans. (1.) Gen. l. 14. (2.) 15—18.

198. Q. How was Joseph affected in view of these things; and what was his reply? Ans. (1.) Gen. l. 17, last clause. (2.) 19—21.

Note. Joseph's expression, "Am I in the place of God?" explained, Deut. xxxii. 35. Rom. xii. 19. It is not to be inferred that the design of God, in sending Joseph to Egypt, renders the design of his brethren in selling him the less inexcusable. See Acts ii. 22, 23; iii. 13—15; xx.

200. Q. Did Joseph, as well as his father, profess any hope of his family and kindred returning from Egypt in following times? Ans. Gen. l. 24, 25.

Note. This assurance was predicated of the promise mentioned in ch. xv. 13—16, and was an act and evidence of Joseph's faith. Heb. xi. 22.]

[201. Q. What age was Joseph when he died; what was done to the body; and what charge did he previously give his brethren respecting it? Ans. (1.) See Chart, chron. IV. Ep. (2.) Gen. l. 26. (3.) 25, last clause.
Note. This injunction was complied with about one hundred and forty-four years after. Ex. xiii. 19. Josh. xxiv. 32. See also, concerning the bones of his brethren, Acts vii. 15, 16.

202 Q. When did this event take place? Ans. A. M. 2369. See Chart, chron. III. Ep.]

THE HISTORY OF JOB.*

1 Q. Who was Job? Ans. Job i. 1—13. For the land of Uz, see Chart, Map No. 1.
2 Q. In what year of the world is Job supposed to have lived?
   Ans. In or before the days of Moses; because there is not the least intimation of any transactions of God with Israel in the whole book of Job.

Note. "The book of Job derives its name from the person whose history it records. It contains an account of the singular piety, riches, afflictions, and restoration of that extraordinary character, who lived in Idumea, on the borders of Arabia and Egypt. Job is supposed to have been the Jobab, 1 Chron. i. 44, a great grandson of Esau, and that he lived several years before, or about the time of Moses. Many commentators, however, place him above a hundred years earlier than the times of Abraham, and with much probability, accounting him to have been a connecting link in the church of God between Noah and Abraham. The book of Job is believed to have been written by Job himself, and to have been perfected in the form in which we possess it by Moses. Unless we except the book of Genesis, Job is the most ancient writing in the world."

3 Q. What particular act of piety is related concerning him in his prosperous state? Ans. Job i. 4, 5.
4 Q. What were the afflictions that fell upon Job? Ans. Job i. 6—19.

* Though the history of Job is not immediately connected with the chain of events which precede and follow, yet, as the period in which he flourished is thought to have been before the period of Moses, it is inserted in this place, in order to preserve in the mind more distinctly the chronological order of events. The same plan will be adopted with the histories of Jonah, Jeremiah, Daniel, and Esther. They are printed in the smaller type, so as to prevent all interference with the regular history.
5 Q. Was the devil suffered to vent his malice upon the person of Job? Ans. Job ii. 6, 7.
6 Q. What was the design of God in these providences toward Job? Ans. Job xxiii. 10.
7 Q. What was the behavior of Job under this trial? Ans. Job i. 20—22, and ii. 10.
8 Q. What was a further aggravation of Job's distress? Ans. Job ii. 9, 10.
9 Q. Had Job any comforters? Ans. Job ii. 11.
10 Q. How long did his patience continue in this perfect exercise of it? Ans. Job ii. 13.
12 Q. What were the sentiments of Job's three friends on this mournful occasion; and how did they behave towards him? Ans. Job iv. &c.
14 Q. Wherein did Job fail in his duty towards God in this matter? Ans. Job vi. &c.
15 Q. How was the controversy between Job and his friends compromised at last? Ans. Job xxxii. &c.
16 Q. What was the foundation of Elihu's argument on this occasion? Ans. Job xxxiii. and xxxvi. &c.
18 Q. What effect had this upon his servant Job? Ans. Job xlii. 1—6.
SECTION V.

OF THE BONDAGE OF THE ISRAELITES IN EGYPT—OF MOSES AND AARON, &c.

PART III.

Of the occurrences which intervened, from the death of Joseph A. M. 2369, to the departure of the Israelites from Egypt, A. M. 2513, as introductory to that event; embracing a period of 144 years.

LESSON I.

The cruelty of Pharaoh.

[203 Q. How many souls entered with Israel (or Jacob) into Egypt; and what is related of them after the death of Joseph? Ans. (1.) See chap. iii. sec. iv.
q. 158, and note. (2.) Ex. i. 1—7.

Note. The Israelites, for the first two hundred and fifteen years from the vocation of Abraham, numbered only seventy souls; but when they left Egypt, two hundred and fifteen years after, their warriors amounted to six hundred thousand!
Add to these, others, both male and female, aged and young, and the number probably amounted to near two millions of souls! What a miraculous increase of the ancient covenant people of God! Gen. xv. 5.

204 Q. What account is given of the new king of Egypt? Ans. Ex. i. 8—10. See Ezra iv. 12—16.
Esth. iii. 8. Acts xvi. 19—21; xvii. 7.

Note. This king forgot the “poor wise man,” who “by his wisdom delivered the city.” Eccl. ix. 15. What says Christ concerning such? Matt. vii. 23. “There is no wisdom, nor understanding, nor counsel against the Lord.” Prov. xxi.
30.

205 Q. What was the first step of the Egyptian king towards inflicting upon the Israelites his oppressive bondage; and what the result? Ans. (1.) Ex.
i. 11. (2.) 12. Acts vi. 7.

206 Q. How was the cruelty of the Egyptians further exercised over the Israelites? Ans. Ex. i. 13, 14.
Note. It appears evident that the children of Israel were in some degree guilty of the sin of idolatry while in Egypt. Josh. xxiv. 14. Ezek. xx. 8. This probably was one cause of their sufferings. But the principal design of these afflicting providences was, to create within them a perfect hatred to the name and nation of Egypt, and to encourage them in their advances towards Canaan.

207 Q. What other act of barbarity did the wicked king then devise; were his orders obeyed; and why not? Ans. (1.) Gen. 15, 16, 22. (2.) 17. (3.) 18, 19. For a full drawn portrait of Pharaoh, see Rev. xii. 3, 4.

208 Q. How were Shiphrah and Puah rewarded for their fidelity to God? Ans. Ex. i. 20, 21.]

210 Q. Who was Moses? Ans. Ex. ii. 1—10.

[211 Q. In what year of the world was he born? Ans. A. M. 2433. See Chart, chron. III. Ep.

212 Q. What were the names of Moses' parents, an account of whose marriage is now given? Ans. Ex. vi. 20. See Chart, Levi, No. 7.

Note. The marriage of a father's sister is subsequently forbidden. Lev. xviii. 12.

213 Q. What was at first done with the infant Moses; and for what reason? Ans. Ex. ii. 2. Acts vii. 20. Heb. xi. 23.]

214 Q. How was he in danger of drowning? Ans. Ex. i. 22, and ii. 3.

215 Q. How was he saved? Ans. Ex. ii. 5, 6, 9.

216 Q. When did this event take place? Ans. A. M. 2433.

[217 Q. Was the child returned to Pharaoh's daughter; and what name did she give it; and why? Ans. Ex. ii. 10.

Note. Moses being educated in the court of Pharaoh, was the more amply qualified for his future mission.]
218 Q. Did he continue a courtier in Egypt? Ans. Ex. ii. 11—14.

[Note. Moses at this time was "full forty years old." Acts vii. 23. See Paul's beautiful episode of this transaction, Heb. xi. 24—26. The conduct of Moses in slaying the Egyptian, and that of Phinehas in slaying Zimri and Cozbi, Num. xxv. 7—13, are similar in their character and design, and shared alike the sanction of heaven.]

[Note. The Midianites were descendants of Midian, the most distinguished son of Abraham by Keturah. Gen. xxv. 2. He in the first place settled his descendants in the country east of Palestine and the Edomites, in the desert of Arabia. In Jacob's time they united with the Ishmaelites; Gen. xxxvii. 25, 27, 28, 36; and were also nearly allied to the Moabites. Gen. xxxvi. 35. Num. xxi. 3, 4, 7. These constituted some of the most formidable and inveterate enemies of the Israelites. The land of Midian, in the neighborhood of the mountains of Sinai and Horeb, Ex. iii. 1; xvii. 6, and to which Moses fled, was doubtless peopled by a colony of the descendants of Midian, as above alluded to, and from which both Jethro and Joab descended. These Midianites were friendly to the children of Israel, as will appear in the sequel of this history.

221 Q. What transpired between Moses and the daughters of Reuel, (or Jethro, ch. iii. 1;) and how was he introduced into his house? Ans. (1.) Ex. ii. 15—17. (2.) 18—20.

222 Q. What next ensued; and what was the name of Moses' son? Ans. Ex. ii. 21, 22. See Chart, Kohath, No. 7.

223 Q. What was the condition of the Israelites at the death of the king of Egypt; and what token of the divine mercy is afforded them in answer to their prayers? Ans. (1.) Ex. ii. 23. (2.) 24, 25.

224 Q. In what was Moses engaged at this time; and whither did he go? Ans. Ex. iii. 1. See Chart, map No. 3.

Note. It is supposed that this was “the mountain” to which Lot was directed to flee, at the destruction of Sodom. Gen. xix. 17—19. Hence it is called “the mountain of God.” It still retained its name in the time of the prophet Elijah. 1 Kings xix. 8.]

LESSON II.

Moses’ mission, &c.

[226 Q. What miraculous appearance did Moses discover in the mount; and what did he resolve to do? Ans. Ex. iii. 2, 3.

Note. Who this “angel” was, see v. 6. The burning bush was emblematic of the afflictions of God’s people, v. 7.

227 Q. How did the Lord address Moses; and what was the effect produced upon him? Ans. Ex. iii. 4—6.

Note. Christ refers to this passage to prove the final resurrection of the dead. Lk. xx. 37, 38.

228 Q. What did the Lord next say to Moses concerning his people and himself? Ans. Ex. iii. 7—10.

229 Q. What did Moses reply; and what answer was given? Ans. Ex. iii. 11, 12.

Note. The evidence which Moses here gives of humility, and a sense of personal inefficiency to accomplish this great work, are characteristics of the most exalted piety. See also 1 Sam. xviii. 18. Is. vi. 5—8. Jer. i. 6. God’s promise of his presence with Moses in his mission to Egypt, is the “token” here given; and it was addressed to his faith, not to his senses. Is. vii. 14: xxxvii. 30. Lk. ii. 12.
230 Q. After what did Moses inquire of the Lord, in order to remove a certain anticipated difficulty in the exercise of his mission; and what was the reply? Ans. (1.) Ex. iii. 13. (2.) 14.

Note. The appellation, "I AM THAT I AM," is synonymous with JEHOVAH; which appellation is ascribed to CHRIST. Jno. viii. 58. Heb. xiii. 8. Rev. i. 8.

231 Q. What is further said to Moses; and what concerning the elders and people of Israel? Ans. Ex. iii. 15—18.

Note. The promise referred to in v. 7, is recorded chap. xv. 14.

233 Q. What was his office afterwards? Ans. Ex. xxxii. 34. Deut. xxxiii. 4, 5. John i. 17.

[234 Q. What were Moses and the elders commanded to say to Pharaoh; and what effect did the Lord declare it would produce upon him? Ans. Ex. iii. 18, 19.

235 Q. What consequences were to follow, both as it regarded Pharaoh and the Israelites? Ans. Ex. iii. 20—22.

236 Q. What was the second difficulty anticipated by Moses; and what miracles were wrought to remove it? Ans. Ex. iv. 1—9.

237 Q. What the third; and how was that answered? Ans. Ex. iv. 10—12.

Note. No religion can be authentic which is not confirmed by miracle. Ch. vii. 9. Mk. xvi. 17, 18. John x. 37, 38.

138 Q. Did Moses still plead an excuse; and what ensued? Ans. (1.) Ex. iv. 13. (2.) 14—17.

239 Q. What did Moses now do; and how was he encouraged to prosecute his mission? Ans. (1.) Ex. iv. 18, 20. (2.) 19.
240 Q. What was Moses commanded to do upon his arrival into Egypt; and what was to be the result?
Ans. (1.) Ex. iv. 21, 23. (2.) 21, last clause.

Note. It is a principle immutably fixed in the moral government of God over his creatures, that obduracy of heart is the result of rebellion of will. Gen. vi. 3, and q. 10 note, of ch. ii.

241 Q. What transpired at the inn, on their way to Egypt?

Note. Zipporah's evident disregard and contempt for the religion of Moses, was most probably the ground of his neglect to circumcise his son, and the consequent displeasure of the Almighty towards him.

LESSON III.
Aaron's birth, &c.

242 Q. Who was Aaron?

[243 Q. In what year of the world was he born?
Ans. A. M. 2430. See Chart, chron. III. Ep.]

244 Q. What was Aaron's office afterwards?

245 Q. What command did the Lord give to Aaron; and what ensued when he met his brother?
Ans. Ex. iv. 27, 28. For Aaron, see Chart, Kohath, No. 7.

246 Q. What did they then do; and what was the result?
Ans. (1.) Ex. iv. 29, 30. (2.) 31.]

247 Q. How did Moses and Aaron prove to Pharaoh, and to the people, that God had sent them upon this errand?
Ans. Ex. iv. 1—10.

[248 Q. What was the consequence of their first appearance before the king?
Ans. Ex. v. 1, 2.

249 Q. What was their reply to the king; and how did he answer them?
Ans. (1.) Ex. v. 3. (2.) 4, 5.

250 Q. What were the "taskmasters" now commanded to do; did they comply; and what was the result?
Ans. (1.) Ex. v. 6—9. (2.) 10—12. (3.) 13, 14.
251 Q. Did the officers of Israel complain to Pharaoh for the want of straw; and what did he answer them? Ans. (1.) Ex. v. 15, 16. (2.) 17, 18.

252 Q. What did they then say to Moses and Aaron, whom they met "in the way?" and what followed? Ans. (1.) Ex. v. 19—21. (2.) 22, 23.

253 Q. What did the Lord say to Moses in reply; did he rehearse this in the hearing of his brethren; and with what effect? Ans. (1.) Ex. vi. 6—8. (2.) 9.

254 Q. What said Moses, when he was again commanded to go to Pharaoh; and what charge accompanied it? Ans. (1.) Ex. vi. 10—12. (2.) 13.

Note. For the genealogy of the persons whose names follow in this chapter, see Chart, Kohath, No. 7. The design of its introduction in this place is to show that Moses and Aaron were Hebreus, and that they descended from Levi, the third son of Jacob, in the line of Kohath.

255 Q. In the further prosecution of this extraordinary mission, what connection of character was Moses to sustain to Pharaoh, and Aaron to him? Ans. Ex. vii. 1.

Note. The words, "I have made thee a god to Pharaoh," illustrates John x. 34, 35. Compare also ch. xxii. 28, with Ps. lxxxii. 6.

256 Q. What effect was to follow this repeated mission to Pharaoh; and what was the conduct of Moses and Aaron in view of it? Ans. (1.) Ex. vii. 2—5. (2.) 6.

257 Q. What were the respective ages of the two brothers at this time? Ans. Ex. vii. 7. See Chart, chron. dep. III. Ep.

258 Q. What were Moses and Aaron to do, provided Pharaoh demanded of them a miracle? Ans. Ex. vii. 8, 9.]

259 Q. What was the first miracle? Ans. Ex. vii. 9—12.
[260 Q. What did Pharaoh do when he saw the miracle wrought by Moses and Aaron; and what success followed? Ans. Ex. vii. 11, 13.

Note. The names of the principal Egyptian magicians concerned in these enchantments, were Jannes and Jambres. 2 Tim. iii. 8. Their rods were as really converted into serpents, as was the rod of Moses and Aaron, both being the effect of the same supernatural agency. The pre-eminence of the latter over the former, however, consisted, not only in the actual change of their rod into a serpent, but in causing the rods of their competitors, similarly changed, to be swallowed up by it. But Pharaoh supposed otherwise. Through that hardness of heart which was the result of pride and impenitence, he attributed the miracle apparently wrought by the magicians, in the change of their rods into serpents, to their exclusive agency.]

261 Q. What did Moses and Aaron do further to deliver that people?
Ans. Upon Pharaoh’s refusal to let the people of Israel go, they brought ten miraculous plagues upon the king, and upon all the land, by the authority and power of God. Ex. vii. viii. ix. x. xi. and xiv. 10, &c. Ps. cv. 26, &c.

LESSON IV.
Plagues inflicted, &c.

262 Q. What were these ten plagues?
Ans. (1.) Water turned into blood. (2.) Frogs. (3.) Lice. (4.) Flies. (5.) Murrain among cattle. (6.) Boils and blisters on man and beast. (7.) Thunder, lightning, and hail. (8.) Locusts. (9.) Thick darkness. (10.) The first-born slain.

[263 Q. What is said of the first plague which was to be inflicted upon Pharaoh the next morning, provided he refused to let the people go? Ans. Ex. vii. 14—18.

264 Q. Was this plague inflicted; and what did Pharaoh now do? Ans. (1.) Ex. vii. 19—21. (2.) 22, 23.
265 Q. As the plague continued seven days, how did the Egyptians procure water? Ans. Ex. vii. 24, 25.

266 Q. What of the second plague threatened upon Pharaoh for his obstinacy; and in what way was it removed? Ans. (1.) Ex. viii. 1—6, 7. (2.) 8—11. (3.) 12—14.

267 Q. Was the above change in Pharaoh's conduct permanent? Ans. Ex. viii. 15.

268 Q. What of the third plague; what the success of the magicians in their enchantments; and what did they say to the king? Ans. (1.) Ex. viii. 16, 17. (2.) 18. (3.) 19.

Note. This acknowledgment made by the magicians, we conceive to be a confirmation of the remarks made in the note appended to q. 260. It is probable that the magicians, in the case of these miracles, until now, labored under the same deception as did Pharaoh.

269 Q. What of the fourth plague; and was it to be confined to the Egyptians? Ans. (1.) Ex. viii. 20, 21. (2.) 22, 23, 24.

Note. It does not appear that either the preceding or subsequent plagues extended to the Hebrews.

270 Q. What did Pharaoh now say to Moses; and what did he reply? Ans. (1.) Ex. viii. 25. (2.) 26, 27.

271 Q. Is the king now willing to let them sacrifice in the wilderness; did Moses again intreat the Lord in his behalf; and what ensued? Ans. (1.) Ex. viii. 28. (2.) 29, 30. (3.) 31, 32.

272 Q. What of the fifth plague; and to what extent did it prevail among the cattle? Ans. Ex. ix. 1—7.

273 Q. What of the sixth plague; and were the magicians affected by it? Ans. Ex. ix. 8—11.

274 Q. What is now said of Pharaoh; what was the seventh plague threatened; and was it inflicted? Ans. (1.) Ex. ix. 12. Is. xlviii. 4. (2.) 13—18, 22—26.
275 Q. What were the Egyptians now commanded to do; and who among them complied? Ans. (1.) Ex. ix. 19. (2.) 20, 21.

276 Q. Was the plague again removed at Pharaoh's request; and did he fulfill his engagement? Ans. (1.) Ex. ix. 27, 28. (2.) 29—33. (3.) 34, 35.

277 Q. What was the design of these judgments upon Pharaoh? Ans. Ex. x. 1, 2.

278 Q. What is said of the eighth plague; and what did Moses say concerning its ravages? Ans. Ex. x. 3—6.

279 Q. Did Pharaoh's servants remonstrate with him, and to what effect? Ans. Ex. x. 7, 8.

280 Q. What did Moses reply to Pharaoh, when he said, "Who are they that shall go?" and what was the answer? Ans. (1.) Ex. x. 8. (2.) 9. (3.) 10, 11.

281 Q. Was the plague of locusts finally inflicted; and did Pharaoh again ask Moses to interreat the Lord for their removal? Ans. (1.) Ex. x. 12—15. (2.) 16, 17.

LESSON V.

Plagues inflicted, &c.

282 Q. How were the locusts removed; and where is the Red Sea, into which they were cast? Ans. Ex. x. 19. See Chart, map No. 3.

283 Q. What is said of the ninth plague? Ans. Ex. x. 21—23.

284 Q. Did Pharaoh now consent to let the Israelites go; and was his proposal respecting "the flocks and herds" accepted by Moses? Ans. Ex. x. 24—26.

285 Q. What is further related of Pharaoh? Ans. Ex. x. 27—29.

287 Q. Were Moses and the Israelites esteemed by the Egyptians; and what were the former commanded to do? Ans. Ex. xi. 2, 3.
288 Q. What is said to Moses and Aaron respecting "the month" spoken of in chapter xii. 1, 2? See Contents, table of Heb. Times, &c.

289 Q. What were they commanded to say to the Israelites? Ans. Ex. xii. 3.

Note. The passover is now instituted, A. M. 2513. See Chart, chron. IV. Ep.
This lamb was typical of the sacrifice of Christ. 1 Pet. i. 19. 1 Cor., v. 7.

290 Q. How was the lamb to be disposed of, if more than sufficient for one house; and what qualities must it possess? Ans. Ex. xii. 4, 5.

291 Q. How many days elapsed, before it was to be sacrificed; and at what hour of the day? Ans. Ex. xii.; com. 3 and 6 verses.

Note. The hour on which the lamb was slain, being from three o'clock to sunset, corresponds with the hour of Christ's crucifixion.

292 Q. What was the design of sprinkling the blood upon the door-posts? Ans. Ex. xii. 11—13.

Note. Neither of these observances were ever after repeated on those solemn occasions.

293 Q. How was it to be prepared; and what was the manner of eating it? Ans. Ex. xii. 8—11.

294 Q. By what name was this institution known; and why? Ans. Ex. xii. 11, last clause.

295 Q. What did the Lord say he designed to accomplish among the Egyptians that night; and what was the token given of their security? Ans. Ex. xii. 12, 13.

296 Q. What directions were given in reference to subsequent celebrations of the passover; and what was the penalty in case of neglect, &c.? Ans. Ex. xii. 14, 15. See 1 Cor. v. 8.

297 Q. When and how were the holy convocations to be observed? Ans. Ex. xii. 16.
298 Q. What was the law and penalty respecting the eating of unleavened bread? Ans. Ex. xii. 17—20.

299 Q. Were these things communicated to the Israelites; and what were they commanded respecting their children? Ans. Ex. xii. 21—27.

300 Q. Was the command obeyed; and what took place at midnight? Ans. Ex. xii. 28, 29.

Note. The righteous retribution of heaven was now awarded to Pharaoh, for his cruelty in slaying the Hebrew male children. Ch. i. 22.

301 Q. Were Pharaoh and his people willing to release the Israelites at last? Ans. Ex. xii. 29—36.

[302 Q. Did the Israelites immediately leave Egypt; and what particular circumstance evinced their haste in departing? Ans. Ex. xii. 34.

303 Q. When did this event take place? Ans. A. M. 2513. See Chart, chron. IV. Ep.

This event completes the period embraced in the third chapter.]
CHAPTER IV.

FROM THE EXODUS, OR DEPARTURE OF THE ISRAELITES FROM EGYPT, A. M. 2543, TO THE DEDICATION OF SOLOMON'S TEMPLE, A. M. 3000; EMBRACING A PERIOD OF 487 YEARS.

PART I.

From the departure of the Israelites from Egypt, to the giving of the law at Sinai, three months after.

SECTION I.

THE ISRAELITES LEAVE EGYPT—THEY CROSS THE RED SEA—PHARAOH AND HIS ARMY, PURSUING THEM, ARE DROWNED—THE ISRAELITES ASSEMBLE AROUND MOUNT SINAI.

LESSON I.

The Israelites leaving Egypt.

1 Q. How great was the number of the Israelites that went out of Egypt? Ans. Ex. xii. 37.

[2 Q. By what event was their departure from Egypt particularly distinguished? Ans. Ex. xii. 35, 36.

Note. The conduct of the Israelites in this transaction appears perfectly consistent and justifiable, when we consider that no contract existing on their part obligated the return of the borrowed articles. They left the Egyptians immensely in their debt, having received no remuneration for the faithful services of about 140 years. And from the manner in which they left Egypt, Ex. xii. 34, many of their household utensils must have remained in the hands of the Egyptians, and perhaps more than an equivalent for the borrowed articles.]

3 Q. Which way did the Israelites bend their journey? Ans. Ex. xiii. 18, 21. [Ex. xii. 37.]
[4 Q. Who and what accompanied them? Ans. Ex. xii. 37, 38. Num. xxxiii. 5. See, also, Chart, map No. 3.

Note. Says the psalmist, "He brought them forth with silver and gold, and there was not one feeble person among their tribes." Ps. cv. 37. But the "mixed multitude subsequently proved a great snare to them." Num. xi. 4. 1 John ii. 19.

5 Q. What had they for food at the commencement of their travels? Ans. Ex. xii. 39.

6 Q. How long had the Israelites now been in Egypt? Ans. Ex. xii. 40—42.

Note. In this is typified the deliverance of God's church and people from the power of darkness and sin.

7 Q. What new laws were instituted for the celebration of the passover? Ans. Ex. xii. 43—49.

Note. For the typical import of the last clause of v. 46, see John xix. 33—36.

8 Q. Were they faithfully observed; and was the passover celebrated on the same night of their deliverance from Egypt? Ans. (1.) Ex. xii. 50. (2.) Comm. verses 6—12, 29; with 34, 41, 42, 51.

9 Q. What appropriation did the Lord then require of his people; and for what reason? Ans. xiii. 1, 2. v. 15. ch. xii. 12, 13.

10 Q. What further command was enjoined upon them; and with what design? Ans. (1.) Ex. xiii. 3—7. (2.) 8—10.

11 Q. Did the law of appropriation include beasts as well as man; in what way were they respectively to be redeemed; and what the penalty of neglect? Ans. (1.) Ex. xiii. 11, 12. (2.) 13. Num. iii. 46, 47, and xviii. 16.

Note. See the law subsequently instituted respecting the Levites and the first born, Num. iii. 5—13. Concerning the overplus number of the first born, see v. 40—51.
12 Q. What command was given to parents respecting their children? Ans. Ex. xiii. 14—16.
13 Q. By what route were the children of Israel led from Egypt; and for what reason? Ans. Ex. xiii. 17, 18. See Chart, map No. 3.
14 Q. Whose bones were carried with them from Egypt; and why? Ans. Ex. xiii. 19. See chap. iii. sec. iv. q. 201, and note.
15 Q. Whither did they journey from Succoth; and how were they subsequently conducted through the wilderness? Ans. (1.) Ex. xiii. 20. See Chart, map No. 3. (2.) Ex. xiii. 21, 22. Num. xxxiii. 6.
16 Q. Where were the Israelites now commanded to return and encamp; and for what reason? Ans. Ex. xiv. 1—4, 9. Num. xxxiii. 7. See Chart, map No. 3. See Ezek. xxviii. 22. Rom. ix. 22, 23.]
17 Q. But did not Pharaoh and his army pursue them after they were gone? Ans. Ex. xiv. 5. and xv. 9. [Jer. xxxiv. 12—17. Lk. xi. 24—26. 2 Pet. ii. 20.
18 Q. What effect had a view of Pharaoh's army upon the Israelites; what did they say to Moses; and what was his reply? Ans. (1.) Ex. xiv. 10. (2.) 11, 12. (3.) 13, 14. v. 30.]

[Note. The exact place where the Israelites crossed the Red Sea, is fixed by Dr. Mansford 20 miles below Suez. See Chart, map No. 3. At this place the gulf was three leagues broad, and the water 14 fathoms deep. These circumstances rendered this astonishing miracle worthy of its Author and its object.]

20 Q. What became of the Egyptians that followed them? Ans. Ex. xiv. 28, [or v. 19, 20, 21—23, 24, 25, 26—28. Ps. lxvii. 16—19.]
21 Q. What effect did this wonderful deliverance produce upon the Israelites; and what ensued? Ans. (1.) Ex. xiv. 29—31. See Ps. lxvii. 11—20. (2.)
Ex. xv. 1—21. See also Judg. v. 1—31. 2 Sam. xxii.

Note. This song of the Israelites is supposed to be the most ancient specimen of poetry in existence. As it was given by inspiration from God, the sublimity of style in which it is executed remains unrivaled; and it appears to have been designed as the prototype of the song to be celebrated by the redeemed in heaven. Rev. xv. 8. We are taught by it that God is as well pleased with the praises as with the prayers of his people.

22 Q. How were the surrounding nations to be affected by a knowledge of this event? Ans. Ex. xv. 14—16: verified Num. xxii. 5; and Josh. 11, 9.

Note. The Philistines at this time inhabited Palestina. See Chart, map No. 3.

23 Q. Did this event tend to increase the confidence of the Israelites, as it regarded their future possession of Canaan? Ans. Ex. xv. 17—19.

24 Q: Did the women participate in the celebration of this event? Ans. Ex. xv. 20, 21. See 1 Sam. xviii. 6; and Mic. vi. 4.]

LESSON II.

Journeyings of the Israelites, &c.

25 Q. Whither did the children of Israel go then? Ans. Ex. xiii. 21. xv. 22. Num. x. 33, 34.

26 Q. How did the people of Israel, who had seen all these wonders, behave themselves in their travels? Ans. Ex. xv. 23, 24, and xvi. 2, 3.

27 Q. How long was it before they came to the place that God had promised them? Ans. Num. xiv. 32, 33. See Ps. lxxviii.

28 Q. What did they eat all this time? Ans. Ex. xvi. 4, 15, 35. Deut. viii. 3.

30 Q. What did they do for clothes during these forty years? Ans. Deut. xxix. 5.

[31 Q. Into what wilderness were they now conducted; and of what were they deprived for three days? Ans. (1.) Ex. xv. 22. (2.) Num. xxxiii. 8. See Chart, map No. 3.

33 Q. What covenant was here renewed to them; whither did they then go; and what did they find there? Ans. (1.) Ex. xv. 26. (2.) 27. Num. xxxiii. 9.

Note. At Elim there were twelve wells of water, and seventy palm-trees; among the Israelites there were twelve patriarchs and seventy elders; Gen. xlix. 1—29. Num. xi. 16; and Christ had twelve apostles and seventy disciples. Matt. x. 1. Lk. x. 1.

34 Q. Whence did they journey from Elim; when did they arrive there; and of what sin were they guilty? Ans. Ex. xvi. 1—3. Num. xxxiii. 10, 11. See Chart, map No. 3.

35 Q. In what way were their wants supplied at this time; and what rule was to be observed in reference to it? Ans. Ex. xvi. 4, 5.

36 Q. How did Moses and Aaron vindicate themselves against the charge preferred by the Israelites, v. 3? Ans. Ex. xvi. 6—8: verified v. 13, 14.

Note. This vindication on their part was necessary, because of the constant disposition of the Israelites to attribute to them the sole agency of their deliverance from Egypt, and of their consequent calamities.

37 Q. What were the people now commanded to do; and what was to follow? Ans. Ex. xvi. 9, 10.

38 Q. What promise did the Lord make to Moses in behalf of the people; and was it fulfilled? Ans. (1.) Ex. xvi. 11, 12. (2.) 13, 14.

39 Q. What was the appearance of the article mentioned, v. 14; and what was it called? Ans. Ex. xvi. 14, 15. Compare v. 15 with John vi. 31—33.
40 Q. What did Moses say of it; and what rules were prescribed for gathering and eating it? Ans. (1.) Ex. xvi. 15. (2.) 16—19. See 2 Cor. viii. 14, 15.

Note. An omer contained about three quarts wine measure.

LESSON III.

41 Q. What was the consequence of violating the command, v. 19? Ans. Ex. xvi. 20. See Matt. vi. 25. Heb. xiii. 5.

42 Q. How often was it gathered; what complaint was entered by the rulers against the people; and what was Moses' answer? Ans. (1.) Ex. xvi. 21. (2.) 22. (3.) 23—26.

43 Q. What mark of the divine displeasure attended a violation of the command given in v. 26? Ans. Ex. xvi. 27—30.

44 Q. To what was the appearance and taste of the manna compared; with what design were they commanded to gather a certain portion of it; and where was it deposited? Ans. (1.) Ex. xvi. 31. See Num. xi. 8. (2.) 32. (3.) 33, 34.

Note. This was subsequently placed in "the ark of the covenant," or testimony. Heb. ix. 4.

45 Q. For how long a time did the Israelites eat of this manna? Ans. Ex. xvi. 35.

46 Q. Where did they encamp after leaving the wilderness of Sin; and of what sin were they then guilty? Ans. (1.) Ex. xvii. 1. (2.) 2, 3. Num. xxxiii. 10—14. See Chart, map No. 3.

Note. The word of command for the resumption of their travels, was signified to the children of Israel by "taking up the cloud from over the tabernacle," after its erection by Moses according to the pattern showed him in the Mount. Ex. xl. 36, 37. Previous to this, perhaps something of a temporary nature was used as its substitute. Ex. xxxiii. 6, 7. See note to q. 50, under the article tabernacle, less. iv. of sec. 1.
47 Q. What passed between the Lord and Moses concerning this event; and what was he commanded to do? Ans. Ex. xvii. 4—6. Deut. xxxii. 13.

Note. For the typical import of this "Rock," see 1 Cor. x. 4.

48 Q. Did Moses comply with this injunction; what names originated from this circumstance; and what their import? Ans. Ex. xvii. 6, 7. See Chart, map No. 3.

49 Q. Between whom was a battle fought at Rephidim? Ans. Ex. xvii. 8—10.

Note. The Amalekites descended from Amalek, son of Eliphaz, and grandson of Esau. Gen. xxxvi. 12. These attacked the Israelites without the least provocation, and in the most cowardly and cruel manner. Deut. xxv. 17, 18.

50 Q. What vigorous efforts were made to withstand them; and in whose favor and by what means was the victory decided? Ans. (1.) Ex. xvii. 9, 10. (2.) 11—13.

51 Q. For what purpose was this event recorded; and what was predicted concerning the future destiny of the Amalekites? Ans. Ex. xvii. 14.

Note. This was fulfilled in the time of David. 1 Sam. xxvii. 8, 9.

52 Q. What other memorial distinguished this event; by what name was it known; and what its import? Ans. Ex. xvii. 15, 16.

53 Q. What persons came out to meet Moses in the wilderness; and at what place was he at that time? Ans. (1.) Ex. xviii. 1—4. (2.) 5, 6. For Jethro, &c. see Chart, Abraham, No. 6, (Midianites) and Kohath, No. 7, and map No. 3. Ex. iii. 1, 12.

54 Q. What ensued at their meeting; how was Jethro affected with the narration given him by Moses; and what did he say? Ans. (1.) Ex. xviii. 7. (2.) 8, 9. (3.) 10, 11.
55 Q. What religious ceremony was observed; who officiated on the occasion; and what distinguished guests honored Jethro with their presence? Ans. Ex. xviii. 12.

LESSON IV.
Jethro's advice to Moses, &c.

56 Q. Did Moses govern all this people himself? Ans. Ex. xviii. [17—23.]
[57 Q. Did Moses comply therewith; and what is further said of Jethro? Ans. (1.) Ex. xviii. 24—26. (2.) 27. v. 1—3. See chap. iii. sec. iv. q. 219, and note.

58 Q. Where did the Israelites encamp after leaving Rephidim? Ans. Ex. xix. 1, 2. Num. xxxiii. 15. See Chart, map No. 3.

Note. It will be perceived, that as this covenant has reference particularly (though not exclusively) to the temporal inheritance of Canaan, it was in its character national. The spiritual blessings of the covenant to be transmitted to the "kingdom of priests" and the "holy nation," v. 6, explained Jer. xxxi. 31—38. Heb. viii. 6, 7. For the reason why they were chosen in preference to any other people, see Deut. vi. 6—8.

60 Q. How was this communication received by the people? Ans. Ex. xix. 7, 8.

61 Q. In what manner was the Lord to appear to them; and what preparatory directions were given them by Moses? Ans. (1.) Ex. xix. 9. (2.) 10—13, 14, 15.

Note. The expression, "and Moses sanctified the people," v. 14, explained, Gen. xlix. 7. Ex. xxxii. 35. Jer. i. 10. Moses merely directed; God sanctified.

63 Q. Where were the people stationed at this time; and what is the description given of the Mount? Ans. (1.) Ex. xix. 17. (2.) 18. Deut. iv. 15.

64 Q. Did Moses now venture to speak to God; and where was he commanded to go? Ans. Ex. xix. 19, 20.

65 Q. What charge was delivered both to priests and people, and what did Moses reply? Ans. Ex. xix. 21--23.

Note. Moses supposed that what the people had already seen would be abundantly sufficient to deter them from approaching the Mount. In the midst of these awfully sublime displays of the Divine Being, and the effect produced upon his own mind, he appears for the moment to have lost sight of the desperate wickedness and deceitfulness of the human heart.

66 Q. What further direction did Moses receive on the Mount; and what did he then do? Ans. Ex. xix. 24, 25.]

Following this, is the annunciation of the moral, ceremonial, and judicial laws.

67 Q. You told me that Moses was a lawgiver to the Jews, or people of Israel; pray how came he by those wise and holy laws which he gave them? Ans. Exod. xxiv. 12--18. Deut. ix. 9, 18.

Note. The people of Israel were not all called Jews, till after the return from the captivity of Babylon, the chief part of those who returned being of the tribe of Judah. Yet in all other histories, the Israelites are so universally called Jews, that I have sometimes used this name even in the earlier part of their history. It is plain, that Moses was twice with God on Mount Sinai, and that forty days each time; for Moses coming down, and finding the idolatry of the golden calf, broke the tables of the law which God wrote first; and God called him up a second time, and wrote the law on new tables. See Deut. x. 1--5, 28.
68 Q. What token was there that Moses had been with God? Ans. Exod. xxxiv. 29—35.

69 Q. What sort of laws were those which Moses gave the Jews?

Ans. Moral laws, Ceremonial laws, and Judicial laws, and all by God's appointment, Exod. xxiv. 12, &c. Isa. xxxiii. 22.

70 Q. What was the religion of the Jews, or Israelites?

Ans. The same with the religion of Adam after his fall, of Noah, and Abraham, in chap. i. q. 30, iii. sec. ii. q. 57, with these additions given by Moses.

Note. This is called the Jewish, or Mosaical, or Levitical Dispensation: and herein God may be considered under three characters.

1. As the universal Creator of all men, and as the Lord God and Ruler of the souls and consciences of all, and of the Jews, as a part of mankind. And under this character he required of the Jews all the duties of the Light of Nature, or the Moral Law, which obliged all mankind as well as them, and that under every dispensation.

2. He may be considered as the God of Israel, or the Jews, as a church outward and visible; whom he had separated from the rest of the nations to be a peculiar people to himself; and so he prescribed to them peculiar forms of worship, and special ceremonies and rites of religion, as tokens of their duty and his grace.

3. He may be considered as the proper King of the Israelites, as a nation, and as they were his subjects; and so he gave them judicial or political laws, which relate to their government, and the common affairs of the civil law. But these three sorts of laws are not kept so entirely distinct as not to be intermingled with each other. It is all indeed but one body of laws, and given properly to that one people under different dispensations. And on this account it is sometimes hard to say under which head some of these commands of God must be reduced. Some commands relating to their houses and garments, their ploughing and sowing, and the prohibition of particular sorts of food, are naturally ranked under their political laws: and yet there is plainly something ceremonial or religious designed or included in them. Again, that which we call the Moral Law, or the Ten Commandments, is for the most part the Law of Nature, but it has something of a positive institution, ceremonial or ritual, in it. This is very plain in the fourth command of the seventh day sabbath; but in this catechism it was not proper to enter into too nice inquiries on this subject. The three branches of this distinction of the Jewish laws in the main are evident enough, though they happen to be intermingled in some instances.

SECTION II.

OF THE DISPENSATION OF THE MORAL, CEREMONIAL, AND JUDICIAL OR POLITICAL LAWS OF MOSES, FROM THE EN-CAMPMENT OF THE ISRAELITES AT MOUNT SINAI, THREE MONTHS AFTER THE EXODUS, TO THE DEATH OF MOSES, A. M. 2553; EMBRACING A PERIOD OF FORTY YEARS.

First. Of the Moral Law.

LESSON I.
The Ten Commandments.

1 Q. Which was the moral law given to the Jews?
Ans. All those commands which relate to their behavior, considered as men, and which lie scattered up and down in the books of Moses; but they are as it were reduced into a small compass in the Ten Commandments.

[Note. These precepts are generally distinguished thus:
"The Law"—"The Moral Law"—"The Ten Commandments"—"The Decalogue"—The existence of this "Moral Law" is coeval with the existence of sin. Rom. v. 13. Christ gives us a brief summary of the whole Law in Matt. xxii. 37—
40. It is divided into two parts, or "tables;" the one containing the first four commandments, and treats of those duties which we owe to God; the other the last six, and refers to those duties which we owe to men. Lk. x. 29—37. These Laws, as they reveal the perfections of the Lawgiver, are in themselves perfect; and consequently require of man perfect obedience. Ps. xix. 7. They are "exceeding broad;" Ps.
xix. 96; prohibiting the commission of sin directly, and teaching us to avoid all occasions of sin in ourselves or others.
They are spiritual; Rom. vii. 14; reaching to the thoughts, words, and actions of life. Matt. v. 28. And these laws are all addressed to us individually. "Thou art the man." 2
Sam. xii. 7.]
2 Q. How were these ten commands first given them? Ans. Exod. xix. 18, 19, and xx. 1—18.

3 Q. Where was this moral law more especially written? Ans. Exod. xxiv. 12, xxxii. 15, 16, and xxxiv. 1.

4 Q. What did the first table contain? Ans. Their duty towards God in the first four commandments. See Exod. xx. 3—11. Deut. v. 6—22. [5 Q. What was the first commandment? Ans. Ex. xx. 3.

Note. Atheism and idolatry are the sins here prohibited.

Note. This commandment points out the true object and mode of worship, predicated of the jealousy of Him who enforces it, by the penalty which follows in the same verse. This passage is reconciled with Ezek. xviii. 20, thus: the former speaks of those children who imitate the wickedness of their father; the latter of those who do not. Both unite in admonishing parents to bring up their “children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord.”

7 Q. What, the third commandment? Ans. Ex. xx. 7.

Note. This prohibits all irreverent uses of, or appeals to, the name of God. The lawfulness of oaths in certain cases is inferred from 2 Cor. i. 23, and Heb. vi. 16.

8 Q. What, the fourth commandment? Ans. Ex. xx. 8—12.

Note. Concerning the original institution, object, and change of the Jewish sabbath, see note to chap. i. q. 15. The term sabbath signifies rest; the nature of which excludes all labor aside from works of necessity and mercy.

9 Q. Is God’s resting from his works of creation on the seventh day, the only reason why the Jews were required to keep the sabbath, or day of rest?
Ans. This latter part of the fourth commandment, namely, the reason of the sabbath, taken from the creation, and God’s resting on the seventh day, is entirely omitted in the rehearsal of the ten commands in the fifth of Deuteronomy: and instead of it the Jews are required to observe this command of the sabbath or holy rest, for another reason, namely, because they were slaves in Egypt, and God gave them a release and rest from their slavery. Deut. v. 15. Though it is possible both reasons of this command might be pronounced from mount Sinai, and only that mentioned in Exodus be written on the tables of stone.

10 Q. What did the second table contain?

Note. The duties of children belong to all the various relations of life of which they are capable, as well as to parents, Lev. xix. 2. Rom. xiii. 1—7. The particular duties of children to their parents may be seen, Lev. xix. 3. Mal. i. 6. Eph. vi. 1. The duties of parents to their children, Prov. xxii. 6, and xxiii. 13, 14. Deut. vi. 7. 2 Cor. xii. 14.

12 Q. What, the sixth commandment? Ans. Ex. xx. 13. 1 John iii. 15.

Note. All animals slain merely to gratify a brutish cruelty, is here prohibited. Suicide and dueling are also forbidden; Job xiv. 14; and the taking of life in any way except when forfeited, as in Gen. ix. 6, and Rom. xiii. 2, 4; or in the instance of a just war, or in self-defense.

Note. This commandment prohibits polygamy, illegal divorce, incest, fornication, adultery, &c.

14 Q. What, the eighth commandment? Ans. Ex. xx. 15.
Note. Extortion, usury, robbery, theft, fraud, slothful pauperism, &c. are here prohibited.

Note. Lying, perjury, slander, misrepresentations and exaggerations of the truth are here prohibited. See Mrs. Opie on lying.

Note. Discontent, envy, and particularly gambling and lotteries, are here prohibited. Rom. vii. 7, and Gal. iii. 10.

18 Q. What reply did Moses make to the people, and what did he then do? Ans. Ex. xx. 20, 21.

19 Q. What directions were now given to Moses and the people? Ans. Ex. xx. 22—24.

20 Q. Of what materials, and what the construction of the altar which Moses was commanded to build? Ans. Ex. xx. 25, 26. Subsequently the materials were of a different kind. Ch. xxx. 1—5.]

21 Q. Were these ten commands given to the Jews only, or are they given to all mankind?

Ans. Almost everything contained in these commands is taught by the light of nature, and obliges all mankind: the honor that is done them in the New Testament intimates this also. But there are several expressions in these laws by which it plainly appears, they were peculiarly appropriated and suited to the Jewish nation in their awful proclamation at Mount Sinai.

22 Q. Wherein does it appear so plainly that these laws, as given at Mount Sinai, have a peculiar respect to the Jews?

Ans. This is evident in the preface, where God engages their attention and obedience, by telling them, that "he was the Lord their God, who brought them out of the land of Egypt." This appears also in the fourth command, where the seventh day is the appointed sabbath for the Jews: and in Deut. v. 15, God gives this reason for the sabbath, that "He brought them out of Egypt with a mighty hand." It is yet further manifest in the fifth commandment, where the promise of "long life in the land," literally refers to the land of Canaan which God gave that people: "that thy days may be long in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee." Yet, as is before intimated, the citation of them by the apostles in the New Testament as rules of our duty, doth plainly enforce the observation of them so far on the consciences of Christians.

1 Q. What was the ceremonial law?

Ans. All those commands which seem to have some religious design in them, especially such as related to their cleansing from any defilement, and their peculiar forms of worship.

Note. I have hinted before, that several of the political laws which were given to the Jews by God as their King have something ceremonial in them; and they were designed to be emblems, types, or figures, of some spiritual parts of religion. There was also some part of their ceremonies of purification and their rites of religious worship which have a political aspect, and were prescribed by God as King of their nation. But I choose to rank all their purifying rites, and their rules of worship, rather under this head of the ceremonial or religious laws, because their forms of purification do more plainly and eminently typify or represent to us how much care the people of God should take to be separated and purified from every sin, and from the communion of sinners; and the Jewish rites of worship represent to us, by way of type or emblem, that spiritual and evangelical worship which should be paid to God especially under the New Testament, as the Lord of souls and consciences; as well as those blessings of the gospel, which are brought in by Christ and the Holy Spirit, are represented hereby.
LESSON II.

Of the ceremonies of purification.

2 Q. What were the chief rites or ceremonies appointed for purification or cleansing among the Jews? Ans. Heb. ix. 10, 19, 22. Lev. xv. xvi. and xiii. 33. Numb. vi. 19. Exod. xl. 9.

(1.) Washing [or sprinkling] with water. Heb. ix. 10. Lev. xv.

3 Q. What animal was offered in sacrifice, in order to prepare the purifying water, called "the water of separation?" Ans. Num. xix. 1—10.

4 Q. How was the process completed? Ans. Num. xix. 17. &c.

5 Q. To what purposes was it to be applied? Ans. Num. xix. 11—16. xxxi. 23, 24.

6 Q. In what manner was it to be applied? Ans. Num. xix. 18. Ps. li. 7.

Note. For the typical signification of this purifying water, see Zech. xiii. 1. 2 Cor. vii. 1. Heb. ix. 13, 14.]

(2.) Sprinkling with water or blood. Heb. ix. 19—22. Lev. xvi.

7 Q. Upon what occasions, and for what purposes was this blood to be applied? Ans. Lev. xvi. 11—14. 15—19, and iv. 5, 6.

Note. Its typical import explained, Heb. ix. 7—16. Rom. iii. 24—26.]

(3.) Anointing with holy oil. Ex. xl. 9.

8 Q. Of what was this holy oil compounded? Ans. Ex. xxx. 22—25.

9 Q. To what purposes was it applied? Ans. Ex. xxx. 26—32, 33. See 2 Cor. i. 21, 22.

(4.) The incense of holy perfume.

10 Q. Of what was this article compounded? Ans. Ex. xxx. 34, 37, 38.
11 Q. To what use was it applied? Ans. Ex.xxx. 7—9, 36. xxxv. 15, and xxxvii. 29.]

LESSON III.

Ceremonies of purification, continued.

12 Q. What were those things or persons among the Jews which were required to be purified?
Ans. All persons, houses, buildings, garments, or other things which were set apart for the service of God; and all such as had been defiled by leprosy, by touching human dead bodies, or the carcass of any unclean animal, or by other ceremonial pollutions. See Lev. xi. xii. xiii. xiv. and xv. Exod. xl. 9—15. Numb. viii. 6. and xix. 9, &c.
(1.) All persons.
[13 Q. Was the high priest subjected to those ceremonial purifications? Ans. Lev. xvi. 4. Ex. xxx. 30.

14 Q. Were they likewise to be applied to the people generally? Ans. Lev. xvi. 24—26. Num. xix.]

15 Q. How were the persons or things of the Gentiles to be purified for the use of the Israelites? Ans. Numb. xxxi. 20—24. Deut. xxi. 12.

(2.) Houses, buildings, &c. / [16 Q. What was the process of purifying dwelling houses? Ans. Lev. xiv. 33—53. Deut. vii. 26.]

(3.) Garments, or other things which were set apart for the service of God.
[17 Q. How were garments, &c., purified? Ans. Lev. xiii. 47—59.

(4.) All such as had been defiled by leprosy, by touching human dead bodies, or the carcass of any unclean animal, or by other ceremonial pollutions. See Lev. xi. xii. xiii. xiv. and xv. Ex. xl. 9—15. Numb. viii. 6, and xix. 9, &c. For the manner in which these ceremonial purifications were effected, the pupil must consult the above chapters.
18 Q. Were there not some things which could not be purified at all by any ceremonies?

Ans. All the several nations of Canaanites, and the males among other Gentile captives in war, who had refused the offer of peace, were judged so unclean and polluted, that they were all to be destroyed, Deut. vii. 1—4. Josh. vi. 21. vii. 26. and x. 28, 30, 32, 40, &c. Deut. xx. 13—17; and the houses and garments of the Israelites where the leprous spots could not be taken away, were to be destroyed also, Lev. xiii. 57. and xiv. 45. and those Israelites in whom the leprosy prevailed were to be shut out of the camp as unclean, Lev. xiii. 45, 46.

[19 Q. What other captives of the Gentiles were excluded, and for what reason? Ans. Deut. xx. 10—13.

20 Q. In what cases was it impossible to cleanse the houses or raiment of the Israelites? Ans. Lev. xiii. 57. and xiv. 45.

21 Q. Were the Israelites themselves ever excluded on account of their leprosy? Ans. Lev. xiii. 45, 46.]

22 Q. Were there any crimes of real immorality or impiety which could be taken away by any of these outward ceremonies or purification? Ans. Heb. ix. 13. and x. 4.

23 Q. How then were the sins of the Jews cleansed or pardoned; I mean, their real immoralities and impieties against God, as the Lord of consciences? Ans. Ex. xxxiv. 6, 7. Deut. iv. 29—31. Is. lv. 7, &c.

24 Q. Did these outward rites of purification then do nothing towards the removal of their moral defilements or sins? Ans. Heb. ix. and x.

Note. The following question perhaps might come in properly after the account of sacrifices; but having here inquired whether the ceremonies of purification did any thing toward the removal of the moral defilement of sin, I thought it as proper to introduce it here as a kind of objection against the foregoing answers.

25 Q. But were there not some Jewish sacrifices and methods of purification and atonement appointed for some real immoralities and wickedness, as when a man had committed a trespass against the Lord, by lying to his neighbor, by cheating or robbing him, or by swearing falsely, when he had found anything that was lost, and withheld it from the owner? Lev. vi.
1—7. Is it not said, "He shall bring his trespass, offering to the Lord, and the priest shall make an atonement for him before the Lord, and it shall be forgiven him?"

Ans. This trespass-offering would set him right indeed, in the sight of God, as King of the nation against whose political laws the man had committed this trespass; but it never was designed to free him from the guilt of his sin in the sight of God as the Lord of conscience, unless he repented of this sin in his heart, and trusted in the mercy of God so far as it was revealed in that day; for it is a certain truth, that "the blood of beasts cannot take away sins," Heb. x. 4.

LESSON IV.
Of the holy persons.

26 Q. Having finished the rites of purification, let us inquire now what were the most remarkable things relating to their forms of public worship?

Ans. These five; namely, holy persons, holy places, holy things, holy times, and holy actions.

27 Q. What mean you by calling these holy? Ans.
Numb. xvi. 5. Lev. xxi. 8. and xxi. 15.

28 Q. Who might be called the holy persons among the Jews or Israelites? Ans. (1.) Lev. xxi. 1, 6. (2.)
Num. iii. 6. viii. 14. (3.) vi. 2, 8.

(1.) The Priests.

[29 Q. Into how many classes was the priesthood divided? Ans. Into superior and inferior.

30 Q. By what name was the superior office of the priesthood distinguished? Ans. Acts xxiii. 4.]

31 Q. Who were appointed to be priests? Ans. Lev.
 XVI. 32. and xxi. 17. Exod. xxix. 30. Num. iii. 3, 4, 10, 32. iv. 16. xvi. 40. and xx. 25, 26.
32 Q. Was there no exception to this order of succession in the high priesthood, among the sons of Aaron? Ans. Lev. xxii. 17.

Note. This was the form of priestly inauguration in the time of Moses, &c. Subsequently, it was otherwise. It consisted merely of what follows: (1.) Ex. xxix. 30, 35. (2.) Ex. xxix. 36. (3.) Ex. xxix. 29. And (4.) Ex. xxix. 31. And for the inferior priests, it was thought sufficient if they were without blemish, and were of the family of Aaron, and had previously studied for five years. Num. viii. 24. and iv. 3. Jonathan the Asmonaean, thought a mere investiture of the high priest's habit was sufficient to entitle him to this dignity; but Jonathan the son of Hycan, declined the acceptance of it the second time, from Agrippa king of the Jews, because of its transcendent dignity, and consequent responsibility.

The ages when the high priests first began to officiate, were from 25 to 30 years. After the captivity, however, this also underwent a change; and while some fix the period at 20 years, Josephus asserts that Aristobulus, son of Hycan, was appointed to the office when only 17 years old.]

34 Q. What was the business of the priests? Ans. Lev. i. 5, 7, 8. and ii. 2. Num. xvi. 40. Exod. xxx. 7.

36 Q. Was there any work which the priests performed in common with the high priest? Ans. Deut. xvii. 8—13. and xxi. 5. Num. vi. 23. Mal. ii. 7. [Num. iii. 4—6.]

Note. The priests were appointed to give the sense of the law in civil as well as religious concerns, because the same God who was the object of their worship was also the King of their nation.
[37] Q. Were any of the duties of the high priests performed also by the inferior priests? Ans. (1.) Deut. xvii. 8—11. (2.) Deut. xxi. 5. Num. vi. 23. (3.) Mal. ii. 7.

38 Q. What was the work of the priests generally, aside from that assistance which they were to render the high priest? Ans. (1.) Lev. i. 1—5, 7, 8. (2.) Lev. ii. 2. Num. xvi. 40. (3.) Ex. xxx. 7.]

(2.) The Nazarites.

39 Q. Who were the Nazarites?
Ans. Men or women of any tribe who separated or devoted themselves to the Lord for a time by a particular vow; Num. vi.

[Note. These Nazarites did not belong to any one particular tribe, but were scattered throughout the whole congregation of Israel.]

40 Q. What were the rules of a Nazarite's vow of separation? Ans. Num. vi. 5, 6, 9, &c.

41 Q. How was this point to be finished or ended? Ans. Num. vi. 13, 18.

(3.) The Levites, &c.

42 Q. Who were the Levites? Ans. Num. iii. 41. and viii. 13—19.

Note. These Levites included the whole tribe of Levi, except the family of Aaron.

44 Q. What was the business of the Levites? Ans. Num. viii. 19. and iii. 4, 6.

45 Q. In what particular services did they engage?

Ans. (1.) While in the wilderness. Num. iv. 4—15. iii. 25, 26. iv. 24, 28. iii. 31. iii. 36, 37. iv. 31, 32.

(2.) Upon their entrance into Canaan. Here part of them still attended the tabernacle and ark, and part were distributed among the several cities allotted to them. Josh. xxi. 13—19. 1 Chron. vi. 54—60. The latter, though not immediately engaged in the official duties of their office, were supposed nevertheless to have been engaged as teachers of children, while the family of Aaron constituted the ministry. The priests being divided into twenty-four courses, the Levites, after the completion of the first temple, were divided in the same way.
1 Chron. xxvii. 12, 13. In 1 Chronicles, there are 24 times
24 courses of the Levites mentioned. The first in ch. xxiii.
7—23; the second in ch. xxiv. 20—31; and the third in ch.
xxv. 1. In the temple service, they acted (1.) as porters and guards, 1 Chron. ix. 26. Is. lxii. 6; (2.) as singers or musicians, 1 Chron. vi. 33—38. See also 2 Chron. xvii. 8, 9. xxix. 34. and 5—7. xxx. 27. xxxi. 15—19. 1 Chron. xxiii. 4. xxvii. 17.
xii. 26—28.

46 Q. How were the Levites separated to the service of the sanctuary?  Ans. Num. viii. 6—16.

[47 Q. At what age were they admitted to the exercise of their respective functions?  Ans. Num. iv. 3.
viii. 24, 25. and Ezra iii. 8.

48 Q. Was there any other description of persons engaged in the temple service, aside from those immediately mentioned in the Scriptures?

Ans. In the Jewish writings, mention is made of "the stationary men," or "Israelites of the station," and the "Nethinim." The object of the appointment of this first class was, (1.) To secure the presence of a respectable number (at least ten) at the hour of worship in the temple; (2.) To act as representatives of absentees from the daily sacrifice; (3.) To conduct Jewish women, guilty of ceremonial defilement, within the reach of the head of the animal to be sacrificed for their atonement, &c. These were divided into 24 courses, the same as were the priests and Levites.

The latter class, or the Nethinim, were persons given to the priests and Levites, to perform the servile offices of the tabernacle and temple, Josh. ix. 27. Ezra viii. 20. 2 Chron. ii.
17, 18. Under Joshua, Daniel, and Solomon, these Nethinim were principally composed of the Gibeonites. But after the Babylonish captivity, they were constituted of the Gibeonites, of those under David, and of the Canaanites under Solomon, 1 Kings ix. 20, 21. Ezra. ii. 58. Neh. iii. 26.]
LESSON V.

—Of the holy places, particularly the tabernacle.

49 Q. Next to the holy persons, let us inquire what were the holy places? Ans. Ex. xxv. 8. 1 Chron. xxii. 19.

(1.) The Tabernacle.

50 Q. What was a tabernacle? See Ex. xxvi.
51 Q. From whom was the model for the building of the tabernacle derived? Ans. Ex. xxv. 1—9.

52 Q. Who were appointed to execute and superintend the work? Ans. Ex. xxxi. 1—6; xxxv. 30—35; xxxvi. 1—3; xxxviii. 22, 23; xxxv. 10—19.

53 Q. Of what materials was it made? Ans. Ex. xxv. 3—8.

54 Q. What were its dimensions; and with what were the boards overlaid? Ans. Ex. xxvi. 16—30.

55 Q. Of what materials were the curtains to be made; and what were their uses? Ans. Ex. xxvi. 1—6, 7—14. For the tabernacle, see front plate, No. II, III.

Note. The first ten curtains were intended to cover the inside of the sanctuary or tabernacle; the other eleven to cover the outside, to defend it from the weather.

56 Q. Where did the tabernacle stand when it was reared up? Ans. Ex. xxvii. 9—18. Num. ii. See front plate, No. I.

Note. When Moses had received full orders for making this tabernacle, he came down from Mount Sinai, and found the people had been guilty of idolatry, in making a golden calf: then it is said, "he took the tabernacle and pitched it without the camp, and afar from the camp, and called it the tabernacle of the congregation; and every one that sought the Lord, went out to this tabernacle." This is supposed to be a little occasional tabernacle, made like a small chapel for present worship; for God resided there at the door of it in a cloudy pillar; and Moses went into this tabernacle, and talked with God there, Ex. xxxiii. 6, 7, &c. But when the great tabernacle was finished, according to God's appointment, it stood not without the camp, as appears in the following question.
57 Q. How was the court of the tabernacle inclosed? Ans. Ex. xxvii. 9—18, and xl. 33.
58 Q. How was the tabernacle covered? Ans. Ex. xxvi. 1—14.
59 Q. Into what rooms was the tabernacle divided? Ans. Heb. ix. 6, 7. [Ex. xxvi. 31—33, and xxxvi. 35, 36.]
60 Q. How was the holy place divided from the most holy? Ans. Ex. xxvi. 31, 32, 34.
61 Q. What articles of furniture did the holy place contain? Ans. (1.) Ex. xxx. 1—6. (2.) Ex. xl. 22, 23. (3.) Ex. xxvi. 35; xl. 24, 25.
62 Q. What was the most holy place? Ans. (1.) Ex. xxv. 10—15. (2.) Ex. xxv. 17—21; xxvi. 34. (3.) Ex. xxv. 18—22. See Ezek. i. 5—14.
64 Q. What tribes encamped around the court of the tabernacle? Ans. Num. ii.

Note. The following is an estimate of all the expenses incurred in the erection of the tabernacle, its court, furniture, &c.: (1.) The gold weighed 29 talents, and 730 shekels, and allowing 3000 shekels to a talent, at £4 per oz., it was equal to £175,460 sterling; (2.) The silver weighed 100 talents, 1775 shekels, which, at 5s. per oz., and 3000 shekels to a talent, was equal to £37,721 17s. 6d.; (3.) The brass*, or rather copper, was 70 talents and 24,000 shekels; in all 212,400 shekels, which at 1s. 3d. per lb. amounts to £138 6s. Total sum, £213,320 3s. 6d. sterling. This was exclusive of the workmanship, garments of the priesthood, &c., so that a fair estimation of the whole would be about £250,000 sterling, or $937,506!]

LESSON VI.
Of the temple, &c.

(2.) The Temple.
65 Q. What was the temple? Ans. 1 Chron. xvii. 5, 11, 12. 1 Kings vi. 1, 2.

* Brass is a modern production, composed of copper, zinc, and lapis calaminaris.
[66 Q. Where, and upon the summit of what mount was the temple built?  Ans. 2 Chron. iii. 1.
See Chart, map No. 4.

Note. This temple, with its walls, when rebuilt, covered nineteen acres, fourteen poles, twenty-eight yards, and five inches of ground.

67 Q. By whom was it first built?  Ans. 1 Chron. xvii. 4—10, 11, 12. 2 Chron. iii. 1.

68 Q. What were the dimensions and external appearance of the temple when completed?  Ans. 2 Chron. iii. 7.

69 Q. What is said of the "most holy house" and its appurtenances?  Ans. 2 Chron. iii. 8—17.

70 Q. What of the "altar of brass," the "molten sea," the "lavers, candlesticks, and table?"  Ans. 2 Chron. iv. 1—8.

71 Q. What of the two courts, and their furniture of gold and brass?  Ans. 2 Chron. iv. 9—22. 1 Kings vi.  For the rebuilding of the temple, see Ezra i. 2, 3, 5, and vi. 3, 4.  See also Hist. of the Jews, ch. viii.]

72 Q. But besides these holy places, (namely, the tabernacle and the temple,) was not Jerusalem called the holy city?  Ans. Neh. xi. 1. 2 Chron. iii. 1, and 1 Kings viii. 1.

LESSON VII.

Of the holy things; viz., altars, garments, sacrifices, &c.

73 Q. What were the holy things?  Ans. There was a great number of holy things, made of gold and silver, brass and wood, and fine linen, and other materials, both dry and liquid, which were used in the Jewish worship.

74 Q. What were the chief or most considerable of these holy things?  Ans. Ex. xxxi. 7—11.

(1.) The ark of the covenant.

75 Q. What was the ark?  Ans. Ex. xxv. 10—16. Deut. x. 1—5. Heb. ix. 4, 5.
Note. The rod of Aaron, which blossomed and brought forth almonds, and the pot of manna, which the Israelites lived upon in the wilderness, were both laid up in the ark for a perpetual memorial of those miraculous events. Ex. xvi. 33, 34. Num. xvi. 10. Heb. ix. 4. Though some learned men rather suppose these were only placed before the ark, and not in it.

77 Q. Where was the ark deposited? Ans. Ex. xxvi. 33.]

(2.) The mercy-seat.

78 Q. What was the mercy-seat? Ans. Ex. xxv. 17—21.

Note. A cherub is used in Scripture to denote some angelic power under the figure of some strange animal. It is described always like a living creature with wings, and probably with cloven feet too; but whether it be rather in the shape of an ox, or of a man, the learned are not agreed. Perhaps it was sometimes nearer to one form, and sometimes to the other.

[79 Q. To what particular use was it applied? Ans. Ex. xxv. 21., first clause.]

80 Q. Why was the covering of the ark called the mercy-seat?

Ans. Because God dwelt on it as the God of Israel, between the cherubs in a body of light or a bright cloud, and appeared there as a God of mercy, accepting their sacrifices and prayers. Ex. xxv. 22. Lev. xvi. 2. Num. vii. 89. Psalm lxxx. 1. This light was called by the Jews the Shechinah, or the habitation of God, and sometimes the glory. Rom. ix. 4.

81 Q. Where were the ark and the mercy-seat placed? Ans. Ex. xxvi. 33, 34.

(3.) The altar of incense, the table of shew-bread, and the golden candlestick.

82 Q. What was the altar of incense? Ans. Ex. xxx. [1—5]

83 Q. What was done here? Ans. Ex. xxx. 7, 8.
[Q: Where was it placed? Ans. Ex. xxx. 6.]

Q. What was the table? Ans. Ex. xxv. 23—30.

Q. What was put on this table? Ans. Lev. xxiv. 5, 6.

Q. What was the candlestick? Ans. Ex. xxv. 31.

Q. When were these lamps dressed? Ans. Ex. xxvii. 20. and xxx. 7, 8.

Q. Where were the altar of incense, the table of shew-bread, and the candlestick placed? Ans. In the holy place.

LESSON VIII.

(4.) The altar of burnt-offering, and the laver.

Q. What was the altar of burnt-offering? Ans. Ex. xxvii. 1—5.

Q. What was the use of it? Ans. Ex. xxxviii. 1.

Q. What was one of the chief glories of it? Ans. Lev. ix. 24. and vi. 13.

Q. What was the laver? Ans. Ex. xxx. 18—21.

Q. What was the design of it? Ans. Ex. xxx. 18—21.

Q. Where did the altar of burnt-offering and the laver stand? Ans. Ex. xl. 29, 30.

Q. What other holy things related to the Jewish worship?

Ans. A variety of instruments and vessels made either of gold, silver, brass, or wood.

Q. What instruments were made of gold? Ans. Ex. xxxvii. 16, 23.

Note. These censers are supposed to have been brass, because they were used to hold fire.

Note. These instruments were all overlaid with gold, except the staves to bear the altar of burnt-offering, which were overlaid with brass. Ex. xxxviii. 6.]

(5.) The Holy Garments of the Priests.

101 Q. Having seen the holy things that belonged to the tabernacle, let us now inquire what were the priests' holy garments? Ans. 1 Sam. xxii. 18. Ex. xxxix. 1, 27, 41.

102 Q. What were the high priest's chief garments? Ans. Ex. xxviii. 4. See front plate, No. II.

Note here, the common priests had such a linen coat and girdle, but not embroidered, and such a mitre of linen, but without a golden plate. Ex. xxviii. 40.

103 Q. What was the ephod? Ans. Ex. xxxix. 2, 3.

104 Q. What was the breast-plate? Ans. Ex. xxxix. 8, 9, 10. [Ex. xxviii. 15, 16.]

[105 Q. What were the names and order of division of the twelve jewels connected with the breast-plate? Ans. Ex. xxviii. 17—20. xxxix. 10—13.]

106 Q. What was engraven on these jewels? Ans. Ex. xxviii. 29, and xxxix. 14.

[Note. (1.) The "sardius" was a ruby, or gem, of a splendid red color, mingled with purple; on this was engraved the tribe of Reuben. (2.) The "topaz," or chrysolite, was of a pale green, mingled with yellow; on this was engraved the tribe of Simeon. (3.) The "carbuncle" glittered like lightning, or a coal of fire; on this was engraved the tribe of Levi. (4.) The "emerald," or ancient smaragdus, was a brilliant green; on this was engraved the tribe of Judah. (5.) The "sapphire," or lapis-lazuli, or lazolite of modern chemists, was of a sky-blue color, richly adorned with gold colored spangles, like stars; on this was engraved the tribe of Issachar. (6.) The "diamond," the most splendid of all jewels, was of a purely glittering white; on this was engraved the tribe of...
Zebulun. (7.) The "ligure," or hyacinth, was of a dull red color, mixed with yellow; on this was engraved the tribe of Dan. (8.) The "agate," sometimes beautifully clouded with dusky, black, brown, or red and blue; on this was engraved the tribe of Naphtali. (9.) The "amethyst" is transparent, the color purple; on this was engraved the tribe of Gad. (10.) The "beryl," or the aqua marina of naturalists, is a pellucid gem of bluish green; on this was engraved the tribe of Ashur. (11.) The "onyx" is semi-pellucid, resembling the color of the human nail; on this was engraved the tribe of Joseph. (12.) The "jasper," in color a bright green, occasionally clouded with white, red, or yellow; on this was engraved the tribe of Benjamin.

107 Q. What was the urim and thummim on the breast-plate? Ans. Ex. xxviii. 30. Num. xxvii. 21.

Note here, on this ephod were the urim and thummim in the breast-plate, which are sometimes called the oracle, because the high priest, by consulting this in any inquiry of importance, found the mind of God, and told it to the inquirer. But we know not what this urim and thummim were, or by what signs or tokens, or in what manner, the mind of God was made known on or by his breast-plate to the priests, whether the answer was given by a particular lustre on such letters of the breast-plate as spelled out distinct words, or whether by a voice from the ephod, or from the mercy-seat, is not hitherto agreed by the learned, and their conjectures about it are very various and uncertain.

108 Q. What was the girdle of the ephod? Ans. Ex. xxviii. 8.

109 Q. What was the robe of the ephod? Ans. Ex. xxxix. 22, 23, &c.

110 Q. What was the coat? Ans. Ex. xxviii. 4, 39.

[111 Q. What were the breeches? Ans. Ex. xxviii. 42.

"Note 1. The "broidered coat" was a strait inside garment, worn next to the body. The "breeches," similar to those now used in the east. The "girdle" went round the body from the breast to the loins. The "robe of the ephod" was worn on the outside of the broidered coat, but below or underneath the ephod. The ephod was intended for the back, extending from shoulder to shoulder, down to the feet, according to Lightfoot, and to the loins, according to Josephus.] 112 Q. What names were engraved upon the two onyx stones, and for what purpose? Ans. Ex. xxviii. 9—13. xxxix. 6, 7.

113 Q. What was the mitre? Ans. Ex. xxviii. 36, and xxxix. 28, 30.

114 Q. What was engraved on this plate? Ans. Ex. xxviii. 36—38. and xxxix. 28, 30, 31.

115 Q. What was the extraordinary dress of the high priest, when he entered into the "holy of holies" on the great day of atonement? Ans. Lev. xvi. 4.

Note. These last mentioned garments were by the Jews called "his white garments;" the others, "his garments of gold."

116 Q. Which of these garments of the high priest were worn by the inferior priests? Ans. (1.) Ex. xxviii. 40. (2.) v. 42. (3.) v. 4. 40. (4.) 1 Sam. ii. 18., though inferior to the one worn by the high priest.

Note. These garments were used by the priesthood under the tabernacle and first temple. Under the second, the urim and thummim were never consulted. Phylacteries were worn about them constantly, containing written portions of the law. Ex. xiii. 3—10, 11—16. Deut. vi. 4—9. and xi. 13—21.]

117 Q. Thus much for the holy garments: now let us hear what are the sacrifices that were appointed, which were also numbered among the holy things?

Ans. All sacrifices were offerings made to God: some were of corn, or wine, or oil; and others were offerings of living creatures, birds, or beasts, which were generally to be slain: but all sacrifices must be perfect in their kind, and without a blemish. Lev. xxii. 19, 20.

Note. There is one single exception to this rule, Lev. xxii. 23, where a bullock or a lamb, which had no other blemish but some small natural imperfection or superfluity, might be offered in the case of a mere free-will offering, but in no other cases. The current language of scripture seems every where else so plainly to require sacrifices without a blemish, that some commentators think this text must be explained some other way.
(6.) Holy sacrifices.

[118] Q. What were the names of the Jewish sacrifices or offerings under the ceremonial law?
Ans. [1.] Burnt-offerings.

119 Q. What animals were sacrificed at their burnt-offerings? Ans. Bullocks, sheep, goats, (including the young of each kind, of eight days old,) turtle-doves and young pigeons. Lev. xxii. 27. and i. 14—17.

120 Q. Where was this offering to be made? Ans. Lev. i. 3.

Note. After the temple was built, it was offered in any part of the court of Israel.

121 Q. What was the next thing performed by the owner of the sacrifice? Ans. Lev. i. 4.

122 Q. What was to be done with the blood of the animal? Ans. Lev. i. 5.

124 Q. What did the law further enjoin in reference to the sacrificed animals? Ans. Lev. ii. 13.

125 Q. What was done with the sinew that shrunk? Ans. Gen. xxxii. 32.

Note. These observances relate particularly to the larger animals, such as bullocks, rams, and he-goats, and with the young of the several species.

126 Q. What was the process of offering turtle-doves and young pigeons? Ans. Lev. i. 14—17.

127 Q. Were these burnt-offerings restricted to the Mosaical dispensation? Ans. Gen. viii. 20. xxii. 2. Ex. xviii. 2—12.

128 Q. In what cases were sin-offerings observed? Ans. Lev. iv. 2, 13, 22, 27. ix. 2. xii. 6.

129 Q. For whom, and in what manner, were they to be offered? Ans. (1.) Lev. xvi. 15—19. (2.) iv. 3, 13, 22, 27—35. and v. 1—13.
Note. Christ, who was typified in these offerings, is often spoken of under that character. Rom. viii. 3. 2 Cor. v. 21. Heb. ix. 28. and xiii. 11, 12.

[3.] Trespass-offerings.
130 Q. What was the occasion of trespass-offerings? Ans. Lev. v. 2—5, 17—19.

Note. These and other similar cases were by the Jews denominated doubtful trespass-offerings.

133 Q. What with respect to injury done to a bondmaid? Ans. Lev. xix. 20—22.

142 Q. Was it legal for a stranger to present a meat-offering? Ans. Lev. xxii. 25.
143 Q. How often, and at what festival did the congregation of Israel present this offering? Ans. Lev. xxiii. 15—19.

[5.] Meat-offerings.
144 Q. In what consisted the three meat-offerings of the congregation of Israel? Ans. (1.) Ex. xxv. 30. Lev. xxiv. 5—9. (2.) Lev. xxiii. 9—14. (3.) Lev. xxiii. 15—17.

Lesson X.

Of holy things, continued. Jewish sacrifices.

156 Q. Where were these sacrifices to be offered?

157 Q. But do we not read of Gideon and Samuel, and David and Elijah, building altars, and offering sacrifices in other places?
 Ans. This was not lawful to be done but by prophets and inspired men, or at God's express command.

158 Q. How were the sacrifices offered to God?
 Ans. In some sacrifices the whole was burnt on the altar; in others a part was burnt, and other parts were given to the priests for their subsistence: and in some sacrifices the persons who offered them were allowed to partake also. See the first seven chapters of Leviticus.

159 Q. What was done with the blood of the living creatures that were sacrificed?
 Ans. See Lev. xvii.

160 Q. What was the design of sacrifices of corn, wine, and oil?
 Ans. These were called meat-offerings and drink-offerings, and they were appointed chiefly to give thanks to God for mercy received.

 Ans. Heb. ix. 7, 13, 22.

162 Q. How could the killing and burning of living creatures make atonement for sin?

163 Q. With what fire were the sacrifices burnt?
164 Q. Who were those persons that dared to use other fire in worship than what God appointed? Ans. Lev. x.

165 Q. What was their punishment? Ans. Lev. x. 1, 2.

166 Q. When were these various sacrifices to be offered?
Ans. Daily, weekly, monthly, and yearly, and on many special occasions, as God revealed to Moses.

167 Q. What was the daily sacrifice? Ans. Num. xxviii. 3, &c.

168 Q. What was the design of it?
Ans. To keep the people in remembrance that for their daily sins they needed continual atonement and pardon, and that God required continual thanksgiving for his daily mercies.

169 Q. What were the weekly, monthly, and yearly sacrifices?
Ans. Such as were required on the several holy times, or the festivals and fasts which God appointed.

LESSON XI.

Of holy times and holy actions.

170 Q. Having surveyed the holy things of the Jews, let us inquire what were the chief of the holy times or days appointed to them? Ans. See most or all of these holy times prescribed in Lev. xxiii. and the several sacrifices belonging to them, in Num. xxviii. xxix.

171 Q. What was the weekly sabbath? Ans. Ex. xx. 8, 10. Lev. xxiii. 2, 3. For its original institution, see chap. i. q. 15. and note.

[Note. The sabbath, when first instituted, was simple in its nature, and salutary in its effects. Ex. xx. 8—10. Lev. xxiii. 2, 3. But in our Savior's time, it was by the Jews pressed down under the heavy weight of their traditions, till scarcely a vestige of its primitive glory, excellency, or purity remained.]
172 Q. What special public service was done on this day? Ans. Num. xxviii. 9. Acts xv. 21.
173 Q. Why was this day sanctified or made holy? Ans. Ex. xx. 11. Deut. v. 15.

(2.) The new moons.
174 Q. What was the feast of the new moons? Ans. Num. x. 10. xxviii. 11. 1 Sam. xx. 5. Psalm lxxxii. 3.

[175 Q. How was this ordinance observed? Ans. Num. xxviii. 11—15. x. 10. 2 Kings iv. 23. Is. lxvi. 23. Ezek. xlvi. 1.]

(3.) The passover.
176 Q. What was the feast of the passover? Ans. Ex. xii. 18, &c.

Here note, that the first month of the Jews, for all the common affairs of life, which are called civil affairs, was Tisri, which in part answers to our September, and is the first month after the autumnal equinox, and it was always so to continue for civil affairs, as appears from Ex. xxiii. 16. chap. xxxiv. 22. and Lev. xxv. 8—10. But as to ecclesiastical or religious matters, the first month after the vernal equinox, called Abib, which answers partly to our March, was designed to be the beginning of the year to the Jews, in memory of their great deliverance from Egypt.

[177 Q. How was it originally instituted? Ans. Ex. xii. 3—11, 46.

Note. See its typical character explained, 1 Cor. v. 7, 8.]

178 Q. In what manner was the feast of the passover kept? Ans. Ex. xii. 3, 8, 19. Num. xxviii. 16, 17.

[179 Q. How many days did it continue? Ans. Lev. xxxiii. 5—8.]
180 Q. Was there any particular worship performed on these seven days? Ans. Ex. xii. 16. Num. xxviii. 18, &c. Lev. xxxiii. 10.

[181 Q. Was its celebration observed during the first and second temples? Ans. 2. Chron. xxxv. 7—9. Mark xvi. 1.]

(4.) The feast of pentecost.
182 Q. What was the feast of pentecost? Ans. Lev. xxiii. 15—21. [Deut. xvi. 9—12. Acts ii. 1. xx. 16. 1 Cor. xvi. 8.]

Note. This was called the feast of weeks, Deut. xvi. 16, compared with Ex. xxiii. 16. It was a sheaf of barley that was offered at the passover, and two loaves of wheat at pentecost, both of them as first-fruits. See Pool's Annotat. on Ex. xxiii. 16.

183 Q. What was the reason of the feast of the pentecost? Ans. Ex. xix. 1, 11.

Note. They went out of Egypt the fourteenth day of the first month, Ex. xii. 17, 18. From thence to the beginning of the third month is forty-six or forty-seven days, when they came to the Mount of Sinai, Ex. xix. 1, 2. Then they purified themselves three days, v. 11, 15, and God gave the law the fiftieth day; and this feast was called pentecost, which in the Greek signifies fiftieth.

[184 Q. What particular duties were enjoined upon the worshipers at the celebration of this feast? Ans. Lev. xxiii. 21. v. 17. Ex. xxiii. 14—17. Deut. xxvi. 1—10. Lev. xxiii. 18, 19, 20.

185 Q. How is the entrance of the tribes into Jerusalem at the celebration of this feast described? Ans. Ps. cxxii.

186 Q. What interesting event is recorded to have taken place after the death of Christ, at one of the celebrations of this festival? Ans. Acts ii.]

LESSON XII.

(5.) The feast of trumpets.

187 Q. What was the feast of trumpets? Ans. Lev. xxiii. 24. Num. xxix. 1, &c.

[188 Q. What was the manner of its observance? Ans. Lev. xxiii. 24, 25. Num. xxix. 2—5.

189 Q. How often was it celebrated? Ans. Lev. xxiii. 24.]

190 Q. What are supposed to be the two chief designs of this feast of trumpets?
Ans. (1.) This seventh month having several holy days in it, it was a sort of sabbatical month, or month of sabbaths, and was to be begun with an extraordinary sound of trumpets. (2.) This was counted the first month, and first day of the year for civil matters, as the others were for things religious, and was to be proclaimed by sound of trumpet. See Pool's Annotat. on Lev. xxiii. 24. and xxv. 9.

Note. As the seventh day was the sabbath, or day of rest from labor, so the seventh month was a sort of sabbatical month; the seventh year a sabbatical year, to let the land rest from tillage; and at or after the seventh sabbatical year, that is, once in fifty years there was a year of jubilee, or release, and rest from servitude or bondage. Lev. xxv. 2, &c.

(6.) The feast of annual expiation or atonement.
191 Q. What was the great day of atonement?
Ans. Lev. xxiii. 27. and xvi. 29. and Num. xxix. 7.

[192 Q. What was the time originally appointed for its observance? Ans. Lev. xvi. 29. xxiii. 27, 28.
Num. xxix. 7.

193 Q. What is said concerning the qualifications of the priest to officiate on this occasion? Ans. Lev.
xvi. 4, 12, 13.]

194 Q. What was to be done on that day?
Ans. This was the day when the high priest, dressed in his richest garments, was to enter into the most holy place with the blood of a peculiar sacrifice, and sprinkle it upon the mercy-seat before the Lord, to make atonement for the sins of the whole nation, and to offer incense on the golden censer. See several more ceremonies belonging to this day, Lev. xvi. Let it be observed also, that in the year of jubilee, on this great day of atonement, the trumpet of jubilee was to be sounded through the land, to proclaim liberty to all the inhabitants. Lev. xxv. 8—10.

(7.) The feast of Tabernacles.
195 Q. What was the feast of tabernacles? Ans.
Deut. xvi. 13.

196 Q. What was the design of this ceremony?
Ans. Lev. xxiii. 39—44.

12*
197 Q. How was this feast observed? Ans. Num. xxix. 12, &c.

[198 Q. What was the mode of observing this feast during the time of the tabernacle? Ans. Lev. xxiii. 39—43. Num. xxix. 12—40.

199 Q. Was it celebrated by Solomon under the first temple; and how? Ans. 2 Chron. v. 3. vii. 9, 10.

Note. The particular manner of its observance at this time is uncertain. During the reign of the wicked kings, little regard was paid to it; but in the time of Nehemiah, it was revived. Neh. viii. 13—18.

(8.) The daily service.

202 Q. What duty was enjoyed upon the Israelites in entering the sanctuary? Ans. Lev. xxvi. 2.

(9.) Occasional services.

203 Q. What were the occasional services of the priesthood? Ans. Num. xix. 17, 18. ch. v. 11—31.

LESSON XIII.

(10.) The sabbatical year.

204 Q. What were the particular regulations respecting the sabbatical year? Ans. (1.) Lev. xxv. 4. Ex. xxiii. 11. (2.) Ex. xxiii. 11. Lev. xxv. 6, 7. (3.) Lev. xxv. 2—22. (4.) Deut. xv. 2, 7—11. (5.) Ex. xxi. 2; Jer. xxxiv. 14. Deut. xv. 12—15, 18. (6.) Deut. xxxi. 10—13.

205 Q. In what year after the Israelites' entrance into Canaan, was the sabbatical year observed? Ans. Lev. xxv. 3, 4. Josh. v. 12.

(11.) The year of jubilee.

206 Q. When was the year of jubilee commemorated, and with what ceremony was it commenced? Ans. Lev. xxv. 10. v. 9.
207 Q. In what respect did the year of jubilee resemble the sabbatical year? Ans. Lev. xxv. 11, 12.

208 Q. What were the other distinguishing characteristics of this year? Ans. (1.) Lev. xxv. 14—17, 23, 24, 25—28. (2.) xxv. 31, 29, 30, 32, 33. (3.) xxv. 39—43. (4.) xxv. 47—55. (5.) Ezek. xlvi. 16—18.

(12.) The feast of purim or lots.

209 Q. What occasioned the institution of the feast of purim or lots among the Jews? Ans. Gratitude for their signal deliverance from the wicked designs of Haman, to destroy the family and nation of Mordecai. Esth. iii. 7. ix. 2—5.

(13.) The lesser feasts and fasts of the Jews.

Note. The fourth month, or Tammuz, corresponds with our June; the fifth month, or Ab, corresponds with our July; the seven month, or Tisri, with September; the tenth month, or Tebeth, with December.

211 Q. At what hour did their sabbaths and all their feasts begin and end? Ans. Gen. i. 5. Lev. xxiii. 5, 32.

212 Q. At what place were the feasts to be kept? See Deut. xvi. 16. and Pool's Annot. on Lev. xxiii. 24. 2 Kings xxi. 4.

213 Q. How then could all Israel keep these feasts? Ans. Ex. xxiii. 14—17. Deut. xvi. 16.

214 Q. What was the offering they were to bring unto God when they appeared before him at these solemn feasts? Ans. Deut. xiv. 22, 23.

215 Q. Was it not dangerous for them to leave their own dwellings, in towns and villages, which bordered on their enemy's country? Ans. Ex. xxxiv. 23, 24.

216 Q. Having this account of holy persons and places, things and times, let us now inquire what were the holy actions?
Ans. All those actions may be called holy which were appointed to be a part of this ceremonial worship; but the actions relating to the natural worship of God, such as prayer and praise, are in themselves holy and religious.

LESSON XIV.

The use of the Jewish ceremonies.

217 Q. What were the chief uses of all these ceremonial commands?

Ans. These three: (1.) To distinguish the Jews from all other people, as a holy people and God's peculiar visible church, who eminently bore up his name and honor in the world. Lev. xx. 22—26.

(2.) To empty that people, who were so much given to idolatry, in many varieties of outward forms and rights of religion, lest they should be tempted to follow the superstition and idolatry of the nations round about them Deut. vi. 1, 2, 14, 17. xxix. 1. 9—18.

(3.) To represent by types, figures, and emblems, many of the offices of Christ, and the glories and blessings of his gospel.

218. Q. How does it appear that any of these Jewish ceremonies are emblems or types of Christ and his gospel?

Ans. 1. This appears from many places in the New Testament, where Jesus Christ and the blessings of the gospel are called by the same names. So Christ is called our High Priest, Heb. iii. 1. and iv. 14. He is the Lamb that was slain, Rev. v. 6. 1 Pet. i. 19, 23. Our Passover, 1 Cor. v. 7., and sacrifice to take away sin, Heb. ix. 26. The atonement or propitiation for sin, Rom. iii. 25. 1 John ii. 2. His body is called the temple, because God dwelt in it as in the Jewish temple, John ii. 19, 21. Col. ii. 9.

2. This appears yet farther from the evident and intended resemblance which the scripture represents between several of the Jewish ceremonies and the things of the gospel. The blood of Christ obtained eternal redemption for us, as the blood of bulls and goats cleansed and freed the Jews from ceremonial defilements, Heb. ix. 12, &c. The blood is called the blood of sprinkling, Heb. xii. 24. to sprinkle or cleanse us from a guilty conscience, as the sprinkling of the blood of the Jewish sacrifices purified the people, Heb. ix. 19. and x. 22. The most holy place, where God dwelt of old on the mercy-seat, is the figure of the true heaven where God dwells on a throne of grace, Heb. ix. 8, 24. and iv. 16. The high priest's entrance with the blood of the sacrifice, and with the names of the tribes on his breast, into the most holy place, to appear before God there for the Jews, is a plain figure of Christ's entrance into heaven with his own blood, to appear before God for us, Heb. ix. 12, 25. The Jewish incense was a type or figure of prayer, Rev. v. 8. and viii. 3. The Jewish sabbath, or day of rest, as well as the land of Canaan, was a type of the rest and release of believers from sin and guilt, and from an uneasy conscience, under the gospel, and the final rest of the saints in heaven, Heb. iv. 3, 4, 9, 10.

This might be proved more at large by some other scriptures, where the Jewish rites in general are called figures or shadows of the good things of the gospel. Col. ii. 16, 17. Heb. viii. 5. and ix. 1—14, 23, 24.

219 Q. Did the Jews themselves understand the spiritual meaning of these ceremonies?

Ans. Perhaps a few of them, who were more enlightened, might understand the meaning of some of the chief and most considerable types; but the bulk of the people can hardly be supposed to have understood the spiritual meaning of them; at least the Bible gives us no intimation of it.

220 Q. How could they be appointed as types and figures of spiritual things, if the people who were required to use them in their worship, did not understand the spiritual meaning of them?

Ans. 1. The Jewish dispensation was the childish or infant state of the church of God, as it is described, Gal. iv. 1—3, &c. Now children are sometimes employed in several things by their wiser parents, the chief design and meaning whereof they understand not till riper years.

2. If these ceremonies were not understood by the ancient Jews, to whom they were given, yet they might be designed as types and figures of Christ, and the blessings of the gospel, in order to confirm the religion of Christ and the gospel, when it should be afterwards published to the world, by seeing how happily it answers these ancient types. See Types and Antitypes.

221 Q. Wherein does this appear?

Ans. St. Paul does actually confirm Christianity this way, especially in his epistle to the Hebrews, by showing how these ancient types and ceremonies are fulfilled in the gospel of Christ.

Note. As a prophecy is the foretelling of things to come in words, so a type is the foretelling of something to come, in some real emblem, or figure of resemblance of it; now as there are many ancient prophecies which were not understood by the persons to whom they were first spoken, nor by the persons who spoke them, 1 Pet. i. 11, 12., yet when they are fulfilled, they come to be better understood, and bear witness to the hand of God, both in the prophecy and in the accomplishment: so though types may be obscure when they are first appointed, yet when they are accomplished or fulfilled, they are better understood, and show the hand of God, both in appointing the sign, and bringing to pass the thing signified.

222 Q. Can these things be said therefore to be fulfilled or accomplished in Christ, since the meaning of all these ceremonies or types is not yet known even to Christians themselves?

Ans. The New Testament has revealed to us, and taught us to understand, the chief and most considerable both of the types and prophecies; but neither one nor the other are understood fully: and yet we make no doubt but that the prophecies are, or shall be, accomplished in Christ; and why not the types also? Probably it is reserved as one part of the glory of that happy day, when the Jews shall be converted, that the rest of their prophecies, as well as the rites and ceremonies of their ancient worship, together with their accomplishment in Christ and the gospel, shall be more completely understood.
Third. Of the Judicial or Political Laws of the Jews.

Lesson XV.

Political Laws.

223 Q. We have had a particular relation of the Moral and Ceremonial laws of the Jews; say now what was their Judicial or Political law?

Ans. That which related to their civil government as a nation.

224. Q. Who was their governor?

Ans. God himself condescended to take upon him the title of their King, and he appointed various kinds of governors under him, as he thought fit, Judges viii. 23. 1 Sam. xii. 12, 13. Isa. xxxiii. 22.

Note. Since the same person was both their God and their King, the tabernacle and the temple may be considered not only as the residence of their God, but as the palace of their King also. The court of the tabernacle was the court of the palace; the holy of holies was the presence-chamber; the mercy-seat was his throne; the cherubs represented his attendants as God, and the priests were his ministers of state as King; the high priest his prime minister; the Levites were his officers, dispersed through all the kingdom; the table of show-bread, together with some part of the sacrifices which were given to the priest, represented the provision for his household, &c.

Whatever other governors were made from time to time, either captains, judges, or kings, they were but deputies to God, who put them in and turned them out at pleasure.

225 Q. What did the political or civil laws, or commands, oblige the people to?

Ans. To many particular practices, relating, (1.) To war and peace. (2.) To husbands and wives. (3.) Parents and children. (4.) Masters and servants. (5.) Food and raiment. (6.) Houses and lands. (7.) Corn and husbandry. (8.) Money and cattle. (9.) The birds and beasts. (10.) The first born of all things.
(11.) The maintenance of the Levites and priests.
(12.) The care of the bodies and lives of men.

[1.] War and peace.
226 Q. What were some of the more peculiar laws about war and peace? Ans. Deut. vii. 1—3. and xx. 8.

[227 Q. How were they encouraged in the prosecution of this command? Ans. Deut. vii. 8—24.
228 Q. What were "the fearful and faint heart" commanded to do? Ans. Deut. xx. 8.]

(2.) Husbands and wives.
229 Q. What were some of their peculiar laws about husbands and wives? Ans. Deut. xxiv. 1. xxv. 5. Lev. xx. 10.

231 Q. What constituted a lawful divorce under the law? Ans. Deut. xxiv. 1, 2. Matt. xix. 9. 1 Cor. vii. 15.
232 Q. What privilege distinguished the first year of the newly married couple? Ans. Deut. xxiv. 5.
233 Q. What punishment was inflicted upon a person guilty of adultery? Ans. Lev. xx. 10.]

(3.) Parents and children.
234 Q. What were some of their special laws about parents and children? Ans. Deut. xxi. 17—21. Ex. xxi. 15, 17.

(4.) Masters and servants.
235 Q. What are some of their special laws about masters and servants? Ans. Ex. xxi. 2—6, 7—11. and ver. 26, 27.

Note. This word, forever, signifies till the year of jubilee; for all servants or slaves who were Hebrews were then to have their freedom, and to return to their own lands and possessions in their own tribe. See Lev. xxv. 39—42. And this is the best way of reconciling Ex. xxi. with Lev. xxv. where one text saith, "the servant shall go out free in the seventh year," and another "in the year of jubilee," and the third saith, "he shall serve for ever."
(5.) Food and raiment.
236 Q. What special laws had they relating to their food? Ans. Lev. xi. and xvii. Deut. xiv. 3—21.

Note. In our Saviour’s time they wrote sentences of the law on parchment, and put them on their foreheads and their garments: these were called phylacteries, Matt. xxiii. 5.

(6.) Houses and lands.
238 Q. What are some of their special laws about houses and lands? Ans. Lev. xxv. 2—17, 20, 21, 30, &c.

Note. Every seventh year in which the fields were not to be tilled, was called a sabbath or sabbatical year; and after seven sabbatical years, that is, forty-nine years, was the year of jubilee in the fiftieth. Though some have supposed the jubilee to be the forty-ninth year itself, so that two sabbatical years might not come together; for in the jubilee it is plain, there was to be no ploughing, nor sowing, nor reaping, nor vintage. Lev. xxv. 11.

(7.) Corn and husbandry.
239 Q. What were some special Jewish laws about corn and husbandry? Ans. Deut. xxii. 9—11. Lev. xix. 9, 10, 19. Deut. xxiii. 24, 25.

(8.) Money, goods, and cattle.
240 Q. What were some of their peculiar laws about money, goods, and cattle. Ans. Deut. xxiii. 19, 20. Ex. xxii. 1—9. ver. 3.

(9.) Birds and beasts.
241 Q. What special laws relating to beasts and birds? Ans. Deut. xxv. 4. and xxii. 6, 7.

Lesson XVI.

(10.) The first-born of all things.
242 Q. What laws were given them about the first-born? Ans. Ex. xxii. 29, 30. Num. xviii. 12, 13.
Note. The first-born of men were redeemed by the Levites; the first-born of beasts were to be sacrificed, or some way put to death if not redeemed, Ex. xiii. 2, 12, 13, 15. Num. iii. 41.

(11.) The maintenance of the priests and levites.
243 Q. What were the laws about the maintenance of the priests? Ans. Num. xviii. 8—19.

Note. Heave-offerings were to be moved upwards and downwards, towards heaven and earth. Wave-offerings were to be shaken to and fro, or moved towards the four quarters of the heaven. All this is supposed to signify an offering of them to God, as universal Lord of all parts of the creation, and who dwells everywhere.

244 Q. What were the laws about the Levites' maintenance? Ans. Num. xviii. 21, 24. Josh. xxi.

(12.) The care of the bodies and lives of men.
[245 Q. What was the object of those criminal laws, connected with the judicial polity of the Jews? Ans. It was to promote due respect for them when administered, and make room for an exercise of justice when violated.

246 Q. Into how many parts were these criminal laws divided? Ans. Two: civil and ecclesiastical.]

I. Of civil punishments.
247 Q. What were some of their special laws about the bodies and lives of men? Ans. Ex. xxi. 12, 16. Lev. xxiv. 17—20. Deut. xix. 18, &c.

248 Q. Was there no pardon for him that killed another? Ans. Num. xxxv. 11—33.

249 Q. Was the law the same for the servant or slave, or for the freeman, in case of maiming and of murder? Ans. Ex. xxi. 20, 26.

250 Q. What were some of the usual [inferior and capital] punishments of criminals appointed in the Jewish law?

xxxv. 25—28. (6.) 2 Cor. xi. 24, 25. (7.) Judges i. 6, 7. 2 Sam. iv. 12. (8.) 2 Kings xxv. 7. Jer. xxxix. 7. (9.) 1 Cor. xv. 32. (10.) Ex. xxi. 2. (11.) 2 Kings iv. 1. (12.) Ex. xxi. 23—25.

II. Of ecclesiastical punishments.

251 Q. What were the principal ecclesiastical punishments of the Jews? Ans. Admonition, separation, cutting off; casting out, &c.]

252 Q. What is the meaning of being “cut off from the people,” or the “congregation?”

Ans. In some greater crime, such as presumptuous rebellions against the laws of God, willful sabbath-breaking, &c., it may signify capital punishment or death by the hands of the magistrate. Num. xv. 30, 31. Ex. xxxi. 14. In some cases it may intend a being devoted to some judgment by the immediate hand of God, Lev. xvii. 10. and xx. 5, 6. But in some lesser crimes, perhaps, it may signify no more than to be excommunicated, or shut out of the congregation of Israel, and the privileges thereof; as for eating leavened bread at the time of the passover, Ex. xii. 15, or for a man’s going unto the holy things with his uncleanness upon him, Lev. xxii. 3, where it is expressed, “that the soul shall be cut off from the presence of God.” But this question hath some difficulties in it, and learned men differ about the sense of these words, being cut off.

253 Q. If the Jews were permitted to give forty stripes, how came Paul five times to receive but forty stripes save one, from the Jews, who so much hated him? 2 Cor. xi. 24.

Ans. Because they pretended to be very scrupulous in observing the law exactly, and therefore they never inflicted more than thirty-nine stripes, lest they should happen to mistake in the tale while they were inflicting forty, and thus transgress the law.

254 Q. What were their most common ways of putting criminals to death? Ans. Num. xxv. 4. Deut. xxi. 23. xiii. 9, 10. Num. xv. 35.

255 Q. How many witnesses were necessary to condemn a criminal to death? Ans. Deut. xvii. 6, 7.

256 Q. What was the design of God in giving them so many peculiar laws about their civil or political affairs?

Ans. (1.) To let them know that God was their King as well as their God, and to keep them distinct and separate from the rest of the nations, as his own people and kingdom.

(2.) Many of these laws were in themselves excellently suited to the advantage of that people, dwelling in that country, and under those circumstances.

(3.) Some of these laws had a moral or spiritual meaning in them, which might partly be known at that time, and which was further discovered afterwards.

257 Q. What instances can you give of moral lessons taught by these political laws?

Ans. “Thou shalt not take the dam with the young,” Deut. xxii. 6, 7, is to teach men mildness and compassion. “Thou shall not muzzle the ox that treads out the corn,” Deut xxv. 4, is to show that ministers, who provide us spiritual food, ought to be maintained themselves, 1 Cor. ix. 9, 10, for so the apostle Paul had explained it.

SECTION III.

OF THE SINS AND PUNISHMENTS OF THE JEWS IN THE WILDERNESS.

LESSON I.

Journeying of the Israelites, &c.

1 Q. After all this account of the moral, ceremonial, and judicial laws, can you tell me whether the people of Israel obeyed them or not?

13*
Ans. No; they often broke the laws of God, and sinned against him, and were often punished. Isa. lxiii. 10. Psalm lxxxviii. 32—34.

2 Q. What were the most remarkable sins against God in the wilderness? Ans. Ex. xxxii. 4, 8. [Ex. xvi. 1—10, 11—31.; xvii. 1—7.]

3 Q. What temptation, or what pretence could they have for such a crime? Ans. Ex. xxxii. 1—6.

Note. It is scarcely to be supposed that this was the mere image of a common calf, or that the Jews could fall down and worship such an image; or that they could suppose an ox or calf, which was the idol of their enemies the Egyptians, was a proper emblem of the God of Israel, their deliverer from Egypt. Probably, therefore, it was the image of a cherub, partly in the form of a winged ox. And since God was represented immediately afterwards by Moses, as dwelling among the cherubims on the mercy-seat, this might be a common opinion or notion beforehand among the people even of that age:* and it might be made as a visible representation of the presence of God; for they proclaimed a feast to Jehovah, ver. 5, in the same manner as Jeroboam, long afterwards, made, perhaps, the same sort of images for the same purpose, which are called calves. But both this and that being done without God’s appointment, it was all idolatry, and in a way of the utmost contempt, it was called worshiping a calf; and was accordingly punished as highly criminal.

4 Q. How did God punish then for the golden calf? Ans. Ex. xxxii. 27, 28.

[5 Q. What particular transactions occurred about this time? Ans. (1.) Ex. xxviii. 1. xxix. 9. For Aaron, &c., see chart Kohath, No. 7, and succ. of pts. (2.) Num. iii. 6—9. viii. 14. (3.) Num. ch. i. (4.) Ex. xl. 1—33.

6 Q. When did these events take place? Ans. A. M. 2514. See Chart, chron. IV. Ep.]

* There were some things relating to the worship of God which that people had some notion of, before Moses went up into the mount to learn all the particulars from God; as, for instance, they had altars, and sacrifices, and sprinkling of blood. Ex. xxiv. 4, 6, 8. They had priests, Ex. xix. 22, 24, and a tabernacle, or movable chapel, Ex. xxxiii. 6, 7. And they might know that God dwelt among angels, or some glorious winged beings, as his attendants. And these cherubs might be sometimes figured as flying men with calves’ feet, or as flying oxen, as part of the equipage or attendants of God.
The return of the Spies.

Samson killing the Lion.
7 Q. What was another of their remarkable sins? Ans. Num. xi. 4.

8 Q. How was the murmuring punished? Ans. Num. xi. 31, 33.

[9 Q. What sin did they next commit; where were they at this time; and how were they punished? Ans. Num. xii. 1—3, 4—10. See Chart, map No. 3.

11 Q. What particular occurrence is mentioned in connection with this event? Ans. Num. xi. 11—17.

12 Q. At what place did they next encamp; and what transaction occurred there? Ans. Num. xi. 35. xii. and xxxiii. 17. See Chart, map No. 3.

14 Q. Was there a dissension among the spies, in the report made of the promised land? Ans. Num. xiii. 21—33.

Note. By a reference to the Chart, map 4, the rout of the spies, as mentioned v. 21—24, can easily be traced. Rehob is the same with Beth-rehob of the tribe of Ashur, in the neighborhood of Dan. Judg. xviii. 28.

15 Q. When did this event take place? Ans. A. M. 2514. See Chart, chron. IV. Ep.]

18 Q. Who of the spies were saved? Ans. Num. xiv. 6, 23, 24, 37, 38. and xxvi. 65.

[Note. All the children of Israel, who, at the time of this rebellion, were twenty years old and upwards, were doomed to die in the wilderness, except Caleb and Joshua. These, together with all under twenty years, were, at the expiration of their journeyings through the wilderness, to enter the promised land. v. 29—37.

19 Q. What was the success of those who attempted to enter Canaan contrary to the express command of Moses? Ans. Num. xiv. 39—45. For Hormah, see Chart, map No. 3.

LESSON II.

Rebellion of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram.

20 Q. What was their fourth remarkable sin? Ans. Num. xvi. 1—19. For Korah, see Chart, Kohath No. 7.

Note. Probably Dathan and Abiram, being of the tribe of Reuben, who forfeited his birthright, (Gen. xxxv. 22,) and envying the pre-eminence of Judah, aspired after political promotion, as did Korah after the sacerdotal office.]

28 Q. What was done with this rod of Aaron? Ans. Num. xviii. 10.

[In consequence of the rebellion of the Israelites in adhering to the false report of the ten spies, they were turned back again into the wilderness. Num. xiv. 25. For an account of their removals and encampments, from the time they left Rithunah, till their arrival at Kadesh or Miribah, Num. xx. 12, 13, see Num. xxxiii. 19—36. and Chart, map No. 3.

31 Q. Of what sin was Moses and Aaron guilty; and what was their punishment? Ans. Num. xx. 7—13. v. 24. Ps. cvi. 32, 33.

32 Q. What report was returned by the messengers sent to the king of Edom; and whither did they journey in consequence of this refusal? Ans. (1.) Num. xx. 14—21. Deut. x. 6. (2.) v. 22. See Chart, map No. 3.

33 Q. What events took place at Mount Hor; at what age did Aaron die; and in what year of their travels? Ans. (1.) Num. xx. 23—25. (2.) v. 26. (3.) v. 29. (4.) xxxiii. 38, 39. See Chart, chron. dep. IV. Ep. For Eleazar, Kohath No. 7, and succ. of pts.

Note. Pethor, the native country of Balaam, was situated in Mesopotamia. Deut xxiii. 4. He had distinguished himself in his own and other countries, by the power of his divination and magic, and having obtained some knowledge of the true God, was used as the instrument of announcing several inspired predictions. In his career through life, there is the most decided evidence of a mighty conflict between a partially enlightened conscience, and a desperately depraved heart. He may emphatically be considered as the prototype of all who hold the truth in unrighteousness. 2 Pet. ii. 15.

43 Did Balaam finally accompany the princes of Balak; and what circumstances followed? Ans. (1.) Num. xxii. 15—21. (2.) 22—35. (3.) 36—41. xxxiii. 1—10.

Note. The liberty given to Balaam to go to Balak, v. 20 and 35, are to be understood rather as a permission than as a positive command. 1 Kings xxii, 22, 23. Job i. 12.
44 Q. How many unsuccessful attempts did Balak make to procure the curse of Balaam against Israel, after the first blessing was pronounced? Ans. (1.) Num. xxiii. 11—13. (2.) 14—24. (3.) 27, 28. xxiv. 1—9.

Num. xxiv. 20, verified 1 Sam. xxvii. 8, 9. (4.) Num. xxiv. 21—24, verified Ezra iv. 2. 2 Chron. xxxiii. 11.

Note. This last prediction was fulfilled during the wicked reign of Manasseh, son of Hezekiah, who was carried away captive by the Assyrian Esarhaddan, who is the Ashur mentioned Num. xxiv. 22. For Esarhaddan, see Chart, Ashur No. 4.

46 Q. Whither went Balaam after this? Ans. Num. xxiv. 25.

47 Q. What was the sixth remarkable sin of Israel? Ans. Num. xxv. 1, 2.

48 Q. How was this whoredom and idolatry punished? Ans. Num. xxv. 4, 5, 9.

[Note. Paul, speaking of this event in 1 Cor. x. 8, mentions only 23,000. He refers however only to those who died of the plague. Moses includes with those all who perished as mentioned v. 4.]

49 Q. Who tempted them to this idolatry? Ans. Num. xxxi. 16.

50 Q. Why did he tempt them to it? Ans. Num. xxii. 5—12.

51 Q. How did God hinder him?

Ans. Three ways. (1.) By forbidding him to go at first, though afterwards he permitted him. (2.) By making his own ass speak to him, to stop him when he was going. (3.) By inspiring him with prophecies, and compelling him to bless Israel three or four times, instead of cursing them. See Num. xxii. 12, 30, 31. and xxiii. 7, 8, &c.

LESSON IV.
Zeal of Phinehas, &c.

[53 Q. For what act of zeal was Phinehas rewarded; and in what way? Ans. Num. xxv. 6—8. 10—13. For Phinehas, see Chart, Kohath No. 7; for Zimri, Simeon, No. 7; for Cozbi, Abm. and Keturah, No. 7.

69 Q. What was the southern, northern, eastern, and western boundaries of Canaan? Ans. (1.) Num. xxxiv. 3—5. (2.) 6. (3.) 7—9. (4.) 10—12. See Chart, map No. 4.

102 Q. What is said of his general character; and his natural powers at his death; and in what year of the world did this take place? Ans. (1.) Deut. xxxiv. 10—12. (2.) 7. (3.) A. M. 2553. See Chart, chron. dep. IV. Ep.

6 Q. How did Rahab elude the search of the king's messenger, who was in pursuit of them? Ans. Josh. ii. 2—7. For Rahab, see Chart, Aminadab, No. 14.

Note. The term "harlot," as applied to Rahab, alluded rather to her previous than her present character. Her reply to the king's messengers, even though allusion was made to the spies, was justifiable upon the principle of those stratagems common among all nations in time of war, and against which there is no positive prohibition in scripture. Heb. xi. 31. Jas.
ii. 25. It ought not, however, to be adduced as a precedent in common cases.

7 Q. What further transactions occurred between Rabab and the spies? Ans. (1.) Josh. ii. 8—11. (2.)
12, 13. (3.) 14—21.

Ans. (1.) Josh. iii. 2—4. (2.) 5, 6.

their wanderings in the wilderness? Ans. Josh. i.
11.

Deut. xxxiv. 1—8.
13 Q. Did Aaron go with them into Canaan?
14 Q. Why was not Moses, the lawgiver, nor Aaron, the high priest, suffered to bring the people into
xx. 8—13.]
15 Q. What other lesson might God design to teach us by his conduct of providence?
Ans. Perhaps God might teach us hereby, that neither the law of Moses nor the priesthood of Aaron were sufficient to bring us into the possession of the heavenly country, of which Canaan was a figure.

LESSON VIII.
The Israelites cross over Jordan.

16 Q. Who was appointed to lead the people of Israel into the promised land? Ans. Josh. iii. 9—15.
17 Q. How did they get over the river Jordan?

21 Q. What events occurred immediately after; and where did they subsequently encamp? Ans.

Note. From the time of the departure of the Israelites from Egypt, till their entrance into Canaan, was forty years, five days of which were occupied in preparing to celebrate the pass-over. Compare Ex. xii. 2—14, with Josh. iv. 19.

23 Q. What previously suspended ordinance was there revived? Ans. Josh v. 2—9.

Note. The ordinance of circumcision, as a distinguishing mark of God's ancient people, was not so essential while in the wilderness, being then entirely separated from all other nations. This, probably, was the principal reason of its temporary suspension.

24 Q. What are the next events which follow? Ans. (1.) Josh. v. 10. (2.) 11, 12. (3.) 13—15.

25 Q. How were they commanded to deal with the Canaanites when they took their land? Ans. Deut. vii. 16—26.

26 Q. But what right had the Jews to destroy them, and take their country? Ans. Lev. xviii. 24, 25. Ps. cxxxvi. 17—22.

Note. Here let it be observed, that this awful instance of one nation's destroying another, and seizing their lands and possessions, was authorized by God himself, the righteous Judge of the world, in and by a long train of most conspicuous and public miracles and prophecies; so that the Israelites could not be deceived in their divine commission for this bloody work. Nor is it liable to be made a precedent, or a pretense, for any other nation or person to treat their neighbors in a similar way, be they ever so wicked, unless they can show such astonishing and undoubted attestations of a plain com-mmission from God the righteous Governor of the world, and the sovereign Lord of all.

27 Q. What was the first city they took in Canaan?

[28 Q. What is said of the state of Jericho previous to its destruction by Joshua? Ans. Josh. vi. 1. See 29 Q. What did they do when they took the city?

30 Q. Why was Rahab spared? Ans. Josh. ii. 9

[31 Q. What oath was enjoined upon the people 26.

Note. This predicted curse was inflicted upon Israel in the days of Hiel the Beth-elite, 1 Kings xvi. 34, though not upon the subsequent inhabitants of the city. For Hiel, see Chart, Benj. No. 9.]

LESSON IX.
Sin of Achan, &c.

[32 Q. What is said of the fame of Joshua after this conquest? Ans. Josh. vi. 27.]

33 Q. How did the army of Israel succeed against the men of Ai? Ans. Josh. vii. 1--5.

[34 Q. What was the conduct of Joshua and the elders of Israel on this occasion; and what followed?
Ans. (1.) Josh. vii. 6--9. (2.) 10--15.

Note. The reason why Achan's sin was charged to the account of the whole congregation, see 1 Cor. v. 6. For Achan, see Chart, Judah, No. 8.]

36 Q. How did they take the city of Ai at last? Ans. Josh. viii. 13—29. See Chart, map No. 4.

[37 Q. How did they dispose of the spoils, and of the king of Ai, and what did Joshua do, in token of gratitude for this signal victory? Ans. (1.) 27—29. (2.) 30—35. Deut. xvii. 4—6.]

See Chart, map No. 4.

Note. These Gibeonites were also called Hivites, ch. ix. 7. xi. 19., and subsequently the Nethinim, 1 chr. ix. 2., and appear to have been a powerful people. Josh. x. 2. But the Israelites sinned in their manner of receiving them. ch. ix. 14. Nevertheless they could not now violate their treaty. Rom. i. 31. 1 Tim. i. 9, 10. 2 Tim. iii. 3.

41 Q. With what kings did Adoni-zedek, king of Jerusalem, propose to go to war against the Gibeonites; and for what reason? Ans. (1.) Josh. x. 1—3. 5. (2.) 4. For the above kings, see Chart, Canaan No. 5. and map No. 4.

42 Q. What did the Gibeonites now do; and did Joshua comply? Ans. Josh. x. 6. v. 7, 8.]

43 Q. How did Israel conquer the king of Jerusalem with his four allies? Ans. Josh. x. 10, 11.

Note: The book of Jasher has long since perished. The 15th verse is a repetition of the 43d or last verse, misplaced by some ancient transcriber.
45 Q. What did Joshua do with the five kings when he took them? Ans. Josh. x. 16—27.

[46 Q. What other cities were successively conquered by Joshua, and at what place did he finally encamp? Ans. Josh. x. 28—42. (2.) 43. See Chart map No. 4.

47 Q. What kings next confederated against Joshua; what was their number; and what their success? Ans. (1.) Josh. xi. 1—5. (2.) 6—15. See Chart, map No. 4. For the kings, Canaan No. 5.

Note. This army, according to Josephus, numbered between 2 and 300,000. Ps. xxxiii. 16—18.

48 Q. What was the fate of all the cities of these kings, except those which surrendered, and what is the reason assigned for the destruction of the other cities of Canaan? Ans. (1.) Josh. xi. 10—12. (2.) 13, 19. (3) 20. See Chart, map No. 4.

49 Q. Were the Anakims among the number conquered by Joshua; and which of their cities with their inhabitants were left? Ans. (1.) Joshua xi. 21. (2.) 22. Num. xiii. 33. See Chart, map No. 4.]

LESSON IX.

Joshua's further conquests.

[50 Q. Did Joshua proceed to conquer the whole country? Ans. Josh. xi. 23.

51 Q. What was now the extent of the conquered country; and how was it divided among the remaining nine and a half tribes? Ans. Josh. xi. 23.

Note. For a recapitulation of the kings and cities conquered by Joshua, see chap. xii. 7—24. Moses, previous to his death, had conquered the two kingdoms of Sihon and Og, and distributed the territories on the east side of Jordan among the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and the half tribe of Manasseh. Ch. xii. 1, 16. xiii. 8—12. For the boundaries of these tribes, see Josh. xiii. 15—23, 24—25, 29—31, and Chart, map No. 4.

52 Q. What countries yet remained to be subdued, and what consequences were to follow intermarriages with any of the remnant who, through their neglect might be spared? Ans. (1.) Josh. xiii. 1—6. (2.) Com. Num. xxxiii. 55, and Josh. xiii. 13. with 2 Sam. iii. 3, and xiii. 37, 38.

53 Q. Among which of the remaining tribes was the conquered country west of Jordan to be divided? Ans. (1.) Josh. xiii. 7. (2.) xiv. 1—5.

Note. The two sons of Joseph, Ephraim and Manasseh, in the distribution of the conquered countries, supplied the place of Joseph and Levi; still making the number of the tribes twelve, according to the number of the sons of Jacob.

55 Q. For what portion did Caleb petition Joshua at Gilgal; and did he obtain it? Ans. Josh. xiv. 6—15. For Caleb, See Chart, Judah No. 8.

57 Q. What prize was to be awarded the man who should destroy Kirjath-sepher; who obtained it; and what addition was made? &c. Ans. (1.) Josh. xv. 16. (2.) 17. (3.) 18—20. Judg. i. 12—15. For Othniel, see Chart, Chelub or Jephunneh, No. 13.

58 Q. What were the bounderies of the tribe of Judah; the cities embraced therein; and the name of the Canaanitish nation that retained Jerusalem? Ans. (1.) Josh. xv. 1—12. (2.) 20—62. (3.) 63. See chart, map No. 4.

59 Q. What were the allotments made to the two sons of Joseph, Ephraim and Manasseh, and the boundaries of their respective lots when divided? Ans. (1.) Josh. xvi. 1—11. (2.) 5—9. (3.) Ch. xvii. 1, 2. 7—11. See chart, map No. 4.

50 Q. Did they petition Joshua for any other lot; and what was the reply? Ans. Josh. xvii. 14—18.

61 Q. What city did the Ephraimites fail to subdue; were the inhabitants nevertheless brought under tribute? Ans. Josh. xvi. 10. xvii. 12, 13. See chart, map No. 4.

63 Q. Where was the tabernacle first set up after they came to Canaan? Ans. Josh. xviii. 1. See Chart, map No. 4.

[Note. The ark remained in this place 328 years. For an instance of its removal during this period. See 1 Sam. iv. 1—4.]

64 Q. How came it to be set up there? Ans. Jer. vii. 12. See Deut. xii. 5—16.

LESSON X.

Division of Canaan.

65 Q. How was the land of Canaan divided among the people? Ans. Num. xxxii. Josh. xiii. 7, 8, and xviii. 10.

67 Q. What was the portion given to Joshua? Ans. Josh. xix. 49—51.

68 Q. Did not the tribes of Reuben and Gad, and half Manasseh, go to help their brethren in destroying the Canaanites? Ans. Num. xxxii. 16—33. and Josh. i. 12—18.

[69 Q. With what marks of commendation and reward were the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and the half tribe of Manasseh now dismissed by Joshua? Ans. Josh. xxii. 1—9.

70 Q. For what reason did the whole congregation determine to go up to war against the two and a half tribes; and what was the remonstrance made against them by the messengers? Ans. (1.) Josh. xxii. 10. (2.) 11, 12. (3.) 13—20.
71 Q. How did the tribes vindicate themselves, and with what success?  Ans. (1.) Josh. xxii. 21—29. (2.) 30—33.]

72 Q. What memorial did these two tribes and a half leave in the land of Canaan, that they belonged to the nation of Israel?  Ans. Josh. xxii. 34.

73 Q. Where was the tribe of Levi disposed of?  Ans. Josh. xxi. 3.

[75 Q. What duties did he then enjoin upon them, and what resolutions did he express in relation to himself?  Ans. (1.) Josh. xxxiv. 14. (2.) 15.

76 Q. What reply did the people make; and what answer was returned by Joshua?  Ans. (1.) Josh. xxxiv. 16—18. (2.) 19, 20.

Note. The motive of Joshua in his reply to the people as expressed, v. 19, was to impress upon their minds more forcibly the awful consequences of apostasy from God, by a violation of their sacred vows; drawn from the perfect holiness of his nature, and the absolute certainty of their punishment.

78 Q. In what year of the world did Joshua die, what was his age, and where were his remains interred?  Ans. (1.) A.M. 2567. See Chart, chron. dep. iv. Ep. (2.) Josh. xxxiv. 29, 30. Judg. ii. 6—9. See Chart, map No. 4.

82 Q. Did the Israelites go on to drive out the inhabitants of Canaan after the death of Joshua?  Ans. Judg. i. 1—4.
LESSON XII.

Canaanites, &c., subdued.

83 Q. What two tribes now wage war with the Canaanites and Perizzites, and by whom was the Israelitish army conducted? Ans. (1.) Judg. i. 3—5. (2.) 1, 2. See Chart, maps No. 2 and 4.

Note. As Joshua died without a successor, the inquiry made v. 1. was probably conducted as directed, Num. xxvii. 21. And the circumstance of Judah's selection, was a fulfillment of the prediction respecting him, Gen. xlix. 8—10. The reason why Judah chose Simeon to accompany him in this expedition, see Josh. xix. 1.

84 Q. Where was the battle fought, and what was their success? Ans. (1.) Judg. i. 4, 5. For Adoni-bezek; See Chart, Canaan No. 5, and map No. 4.]

85 Q. What did the Israelites do to Adoni-bezek (or the king of Bezek) when they took him? Ans. Judg. i. 6.

86 Q. What remark did he make upon it? Ans. Judg. i. 7.

[87 Q. What were their next conquests? Ans. Judg. i. 8—10. 11—15. Josh. xv. 16—19. For Anak's Sons, See Chart, Mizraim No. 5, and map No. 4.

88 Q. What is recorded of the removal of the Kenite's? Ans. Judg. i. 16.

Note. The Kenites were descendants of Hobab, Ch. iv. 11. who was the son of Raguel, Num. x. 29, or Reuel, Ex. ii. 18, and the same with Jethro, Ex. xviii. 1—7, the father-in-law of Moses. Though in Judg. iv. 11, Hobab is called Moses' father-in-law; but in the same sense in which Abraham calls Lot his brother, though a nephew. Gen. xiv. 14. See Chart, Hobab, Midianites No. 6. "The city of palm-trees" is the same with Jericho, 2 Chron. xxviii. 15.

89 Q. What other cities were conquered by Judah and Simeon? Ans. Judg. i. 17, 18. See Chart, map No. 4.
Note. These cities were subsequently recovered by the Philistines, 1 Sam. vi. 17, by whom the Israelites were much annoyed.

91 Q. What was the success of the expedition which "the house of Joseph" made against Bethel and Luz? Ans. Judg. i. 22—26. See Chart, map No. 4.

92 Q. Did the Israelites drive all the Canaanites out of the land? [Ans. (1.) Judg. i. 21. (2.) 27, 28. (3.) 29. (4.) 30. (5.) 31, 32. (6.) 33. 2 Sam. v. 6—10. See Chart, map No. 4.

Note. The Jebusites were finally expelled in the time of David. 2 Sam. v. 5—8. The Canaanites were reduced to tribute by the Israelites, but contrary to the divine command. Deut. xx. 16.]

94 Q. What were the most common sins that Israel was guilty of after their settlement in Canaan? Ans. Judg. ii. 6, 7, 10—15.

95 Q. To what extremity were the Danites reduced by the Amorites; and to whom were the latter nevertheless made tributary? Ans. Judg. i. 34, 35, 36.

96 Q. What remarkable circumstance now took place with the Israelites? Ans. Judg. ii. 1—5.

97 Q. What effect was produced upon the people by the communications of this heavenly visitant; and for what reason were they thus rebuked? Ans. (1.) Judg. ii. 4. (2.) 10—13.

Note. The terms "Baalim and Ashteroth," are used to signify the male and female idols, worshiped by the surrounding heathen nations.

98 Q. How was their idolatry punished, and what excited the divine compassion towards them? Ans. Judg. ii. 14, 15. (2.) 18, last clause.
99 Q. How were they delivered from the oppressions of their enemies? Ans. Judg. ii. 16, 18.

100 Q. Did they notwithstanding relapse into sin, and what was the consequence? Ans. Judg. ii. 17, 19, 20—23. Is. xlvi. 4.

Note: According to the order of the chapters in this book, the government of the Israelites by Judges now follows. But we would here remark, that all the contents of the last five chapters, relate to events which belong more properly to this period, having occurred between the 40th and 50th years after the death of Moses: and consequently, at a very early period of the days of the Judges. Chap. ii. v. 10. As an evidence of this, Phinehas, the grandson of Aaron, was living at this time. Ch. xx. 28.

As the specific design of this work is to introduce every event (though in some instances not immediately connected with the regular chain of history) in its chronological order; before we commence the questions relative to the government of the Israelites by judges, the contents of these chapters will be introduced; thereby rendering the history, as it regards dates, more intelligible to younger minds.

LESSON XIII.

Of Micah, &c.

101 Q. To what tribe did Micah belong, and what is recorded of him and his mother? Ans. (1.) Judg. xvii. 1. (2.) 2—4. (3.) 5. For Micah, See Chart, Eph. No. 0.

Note. This is the first instance upon sacred record, of the introduction of idolatry among any of the tribes of Israel, by a woman. It was subsequently carried to Dan, Ch. xviii. 27—31, when Jeroboam king of Israel during his reign, set up one of his golden images. 1 Kings xii. 28—30. This is an evidence of the state of anarchy then prevalent among the Israelites. Micah assumes the prerogative of consecrating one of his own sons as his priest, and "every man did that which was right in his own eyes," because "there was no king" among them. Judg. xxi. 2—5.

103 Q. For what purpose did the Danites send out messengers; and what report did they return concerning Laish or Leshim? Ans. (1.) Judg. xviii. 1—6. (2.) 7—10. Josh. xix. 47. See Chart, map No. 4.
104 Q. What were the number of warriors engaged in this expedition; and what took place on their route to Laish? Ans. (1.) Judg. xviii. 11, 12. (2.) 13—21. (3.) 22—26.

105 Q. What was the success of this expedition; and what new city did they build? Ans. (1.) Judg. xviii. 27, 28. (2.) 29.

Note. The Danites retained their idolatrous practices, till the capture of the ark by the Philistines, 1 Sam. iv., which is the captivity alluded to in v. 30.

108 Q. What measures of redress were adopted, how did the Benjamites regard the message of their brethren; and what did they do? Ans. (1.) Judg. xx. 8—11. (2.) 12, 13. (3.) 14—16.

109 Q. What was the result of the three battles; and to what extent was the destruction of the Benjamites carried? Ans. (1.) Judg. xx. 18—21. (2.) 22—25. (3.) 26—43. (4.) 44—48.

110 Q. How many escaped to the wilderness, and where did they abide for four months? Ans. Judg. xx. 47.

411 Q. Did the children of Israel mourn for the Benjamites; and into what difficulty did they discover themselves involved? Ans. Judg. xxi. 2, 3, 6—17.

112 Q. What plan was finally adopted to prevent the utter extinction of the tribe of Benjamin? Ans. Judg. xxi. 4, 5, 8—10, 11—16, 16—18.]
SECTION V.

OF THE GOVERNMENT OF ISRAEL BY JUDGES.

PART IV.

[From the government of the Judges, A. M. 2567, to the reign of the Kings, A. M. 2909*; embracing a period of 342 years.]

LESSON I.

The servitudes of the Israelites, &c.

Note. These officers, or judges, which were set over the people by Moses at the advice of Jethro, were at first chosen by the people in their several tribes, just after they came out of Egypt. Ex. xviii. Moses says to the people, "Take ye wise men, &c." Deut. i. 13. The seventy or seventy-two elders were the gravest and most venerable of these officers, six out of every tribe; for God says to Moses, "Gather to me seventy men of the elders of Israel, whom thou knowest to be officers over them." Num. xi. 16. These were to meet together, and consult upon extraordinary occasions, as when a sort of sedition was raised by the murmurings of the people, Numb. xi., or in such like cases of danger.

The high priest was the chief counselor, and sometimes a judge; for the oracle of God was with him, and he was supposed to be chiefly skilled in the law, especially if he were an elderly man.

The common priests and Levites were also assistants to the judges, by way of council, and in deciding controversies in every tribe, Deut. xvii. 9—12. But still the executive power was vested in the judge of each tribe, and God himself was their king, and the centre of union and government.

But when, through their idolatry and wickedness, God forsook the people, and the officers and judges neglected their duty, the people sustained the miseries and confusion of an anarchy, as it is several times expressed in the book of Judges;

* This period of 342 years, which is computed by chronologists to extend from the death of Joshua to the accession of Saul to the throne of Israel, is called the period of the judges: the greater part of which was distinguished by a state of anarchy, idolatry, and servitude.
there was no king in Israel, and every one did what was right in his own eyes."

And by their disunion, and want of government, they were weakened, and became an easy prey to their enemies round about them; but at particular seasons God raised them up extraordinary judges to recover them from slavery, and to restore government among them. And these had a dominion over many, or all, the tribes, being raised up eminently by God himself.

That this was the original and appointed method of the government of Israel, as I have described it, we may learn partly from Deut. i. 13., where the officers are chosen, and Deut. xvii. 8—12., and xix. 16—18, where Moses appoints the business of the priests and judges; and partly from 2 Chron. xvii. 7—9, and xix. 5—11, where Jehoshaphat makes a reformation throughout the land, and appoints the judges to be executors of justice, the priests and Levites to be the teachers of the people and counselors to the judges, and the high priest to be the chief counsellor; and sometimes he was a judge also, as was before intimated.

2 Q. Was not the high priest the ruler under God? Ans. Deut. xvii. 9—12.

3 Q. Did these ordinary officers do justice, and maintain good order in the land after the days of Joshua? Ans. Judg. xvii. 6. and xxi. 25.

4 Q. Why did God, the King of Israel, leave his people under these inconveniences? Ans. Judg. ii. 11—15.

5 Q. But did not the great God interpose for their deliverance? Judg. ii. 16—19.

7 Q. What were the consequences of their intermarriages with these nations, and what the period of their first servitude? Ans. (1.) Judg. iii. 5—7. (2.) 8. See Chart, map No. 5.]

8 Q. Who were some of the most remarkable of these extraordinary judges? Ans. Ehud and Shamgar, Deborah and Gideon, Jephthah, Samson, and Samuel.

9 Q. Whom did God raise up to deliver them out of the hands of Cushan-rishathaim; and how long a period of rest ensued? Ans. (1.) Judg. iii. 9—11.
(2.) See Chart, map No. 5. For Cushan-rishathaim, See Chart, Aram No. 4.

11 Q. Into whose hands were they next delivered for their sin; and how long were they in bondage? Ans. (1.) Judg. iii. 12, 13. (2.) 14. See Chart, map No. 5.
12 Q. When did this take place? Ans. A. M. 2661. See Chart as above.]
13 Q. Who was Ehud? Judg. iii. 12, 15. See Chart, Ehud, Benj. No. 5.

LESSON II.

The servitude of the Israelites, continued.

[15 Q. In what year of the world did this occur? Ans. A. M. 2679. See Chart as above.]
16 Q. What did Shamgar do toward their deliverance? Judg. iii. 31.

[17 Q. When did this event take place? Ans. A. M. 2687. See Chart as above.
18 Q. By what king were they next oppressed; what the period of their servitude; by whom delivered; and what term of rest followed? Ans. (1.) Judg. iv. 1—3. (2.) 4—9—23. (3.) 24. ch v. 31. See Chart, map No. 5. For Jabin and Sisera, Canaan, No. 5. For Deborah, Ephraim, No. 9. For Balak, Naphtali, No. 10.]
20 Q. How did she deliver Israel from his hand? Ans. Judg. iv. 5, &c.

Note. Gideon had sufficient evidence that this was a message from God himself, for the angel talked with him; and when Gideon had fetched some flesh and cakes to entertain him, the angel bade him lay them upon a rock, and pour out the broth upon them, then with one end of his rod the angel touched them, and fire arose and consumed them.

[25 Q. By whom were the Israelites again oppressed; who was sent to reprove them; who to deliver them; and how was his mission ratified? Ans. (1.) Judg. vi. 1—7, 8—10. Deut. xxviii. 48, (2.) 11—16, 17—21. For Midian, See Chart, Ab. and Ket. No. 6. For Gideon, Manasseh, No. 9.

26 Q. What altar did Gideon erect, and by what name was it called? Ans. Judg. vi. 22—24.]

[28 Q. At what place did the Midianitish army collect? Ans. Judg. vi. 33. See Chart, map. No. 4.]

[30 Q. What particular circumstance proved an encouragement to Gideon on his way to the Midianitish camp; and what preliminary arrangements did he make for an attack? Ans. (1.) Judg. vii. 9—15. Job. xxxiii. 14—16. (2.) 16—18.]

33 Q. When did this event take place? Ans. A. M. 2759. See Chart as above.

[34 Q. How was the jealousy of the Ephraimites removed? Ans. Judg. viii. 1—3. xii. i. Eccl. iv. 4.

36 Q. What was the number slain that drew the sword among the Midianites; and what the fate of the remnant at Karkor, and of the two kings? Ans. (1.) Judg. viii. 10, 11. (2.) 12, 18—21.

37 Q. Did Gideon reign over Israel after this great victory? Ans. Judg. viii. 23.

38 Q. What request did he make in return; to what use did he convert these jewels, and what consequence followed? Ans. (1.) Judg. viii. 24—26. (2.) 27.

39 Q. What release from servitude ensued after this conquest; and what is further recorded of Gideon's residence, family, and death? Ans. (1.) Judg. viii. 28. (2.) 29. (3.) 30, 31. (4.) 32. See Chart, map No. 4.

40 Q. What was the conduct of the Israelites after his death? Ans. (1.) Judg. viii. 33—35. See Chart, map No. 5.

[Note. The Israelites were here guilty of the greatest ingratitude to Gideon, in promoting Abimelech king, contrary to his known desire to the contrary, Ch. viii. 22, 23, and also to the divine command, Deut. xvii. 14, 15, instead of putting him to death for the massacre of his brothers.

42 Q. When did this event occur? Ans. A. M. 2767. See Chart as above.]

Note. This is the first parable mentioned in scripture, and the most ancient extant. The prophetic import of the 20th verse is wonderfully exemplified in their subsequent history.

45 Q. Whither did Jotham then flee, and for what reason; and what occurred at the end of Abimelech’s third year’s reign? Ans. (1.) Judg. ix. 21. (2.) 22—25. Beer. See Baalath, Chart, map No. 4. T. of 46 Q. In what consisted the arrogant conduct of 55 Q. What was remarkable concerning him? Ans. Judg. xi. 30, 31, 34.

Note. It is a matter of doubt and controversy among the learned, whether Jephthah, being a soldier, in those days of ignorance, did not really offer his daughter for a sacrifice, according to his vow, as the Scripture seems to express it; or whether he only restrained her from marriage, and bearing children, which, in those days, was accounted like a sacrifice, and as a sentence of death passed on them.

[Note. For the sacred and obligatory nature of a vow under the law, see Num. xxx. 11. Jephthah was criminally premature in expressing himself as in v. 31, as will appear in the sequel.

56 Q. By whom was he met on his return from the victory; and what ensued? Ans. (1.) Judg. x. 34, 35. (2.) 36, 37. (3.) 38, 39. (4.) 40.

Note. These events transpired about A. M. 2817. See Chart, chron. IV. Ep.

57 Q. Did the Ephraimites again evince their jealousy in consequence of the success of Jephthah, and what was the result? Ans. (1.) Judg. xii. 1—3. (2.) 4—6.

60 Q. Who was Samson? Ans. Judg. xiii. and xiv. &c.

[61 Q. What was the purport of the angel's visit to the wife of Manoah; and what did she now do? Ans. (1.) Judg. xiii. 2—5; (2.) 6—8. For the consecration of a Nazarite, see holy persons, p. 120. q. 39, 40, 41. For Manoah, see Chart, Dan, No. 10.

63 Q. What was his character?
Ans. He was the strongest of men, but he does not seem to have been the wisest or the best.

64 Q. Wherein did his strength lie? Ans. Judg. xiii. 7. and xvi. 17.

[66 Q. Whom did Samson marry; and what did Providence design to accomplish by this event? Ans. (1.) Judg. xiv. 1—8; (2.) v. 4.

67 Q. What events occurred on his first and second visits to Timnath? Ans. (1.) Judg. xiv. 6. (2.) 8, 9. See Chart, map No. 4.

and what became of his wife? Ans. (1.) Judg. xiv. 19. (2.) 20. xv. 1, 2. See Chart, map No. 4.

Note. Samson refused to marry the sister of his wife on account of the law, Lev. xviii. 18.

71 Q. What did Samson further resolve to do; and upon whom did the Philistines take revenge? Ans. (1.) Judg. xv. 3—5. (2.) 6. ch. xiv. 15.

72 Q. What did Samson further do to the Philistines; and what consequence followed? Ans. (1.) Judg. xv. 7, 8; (2.) 9, 10.

73 Q. Of what dishonorable conduct were the men of Judah guilty towards Samson; and what agreement was finally made between them? Ans. (1.) Judg. xv. 11, 12. (2.) 13.

74 Q. What followed upon his arrival at the camp of the Philistines? Ans. (1.) Judg. xv. 14—17. (2.) 18, 19.

75 Q. How was Samson seduced into sin at Gaza; and how did he nevertheless escape from the hands of his enemies? Ans. 1 Judg. xvi. 1—3. Prov. vii. 26. Heb. xi. 32. See Chart, map No. 4.]

76 Q. What befell him afterwards? Judg. xvi. 4—21. For Delilah, see Chart, Mizraim, No. 5, and map No. 4.

[77 Q. What was the result of Delilah's first three attempts to betray Samson; and did she finally succeed? Ans. (1.) Judg. xvi. 6—9. (2.) 10—12. (3.) 13, 14. (4.) 15—19. Num. vi. 5. Eccl. vii. 26.]

78 Q. What was Samson's end? Judg. xvi. 30.

79 Q. Who judged Israel after Samson? Ans. 1 Sam. iv. 18.

Note. Jephthah was succeeded by Ibzan, A. M. 2822; he by Elon, A. M. 2829; and he by Abdon, A. M. 2847. Abdon was succeeded by Eli the same year, and officiated as judge and high priest forty years; during the last twenty of which Samson flourished. He slew the 1,000 Philistines, A. M. 2868; and A. M. 2887, destroyed the temple of Dagon, with which he terminated his own life. Following this is the history of Samuel, &c.
Death of Samson

Sam. 20. v. 12.
The Ghost of Samuel.
80 Q. Who was the last of these extraordinary judges? Ans. 1 Sam. i. 20.

[81 Q. Can you state the particulars relating to the residence and ancestry of Elkanah, Samuel's father? Ans. 1 Sam. i. 1, 2. See Chart, Kohath, No. 7.

Note. Ramathaim-zophim is supposed to be the same with Arimathea. Matt. xxvii. 57. See Chart, map No. 4.

82 Q. Who were priests at Shiloh at this time; and for what purpose did Elkanah annually go up thither? Ans. 1 Sam. i. 3. See Chart, Kohath, No. 7, and map No. 4.

Note. The characters of Hophni and Phinehas are portrayed, ch. ii. 11—17. Notwithstanding this, Elkanah repairs to Shiloh to worship, according to the law in Deut. xii. 5—7, 17, 18.

83 Q. Towards which of Elkanah's wives was he most partial; how was it evinced; and what consequence ensued? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. i. 4, 5. (2.) 6, 7. Mal. ii. 13. Matt. v. 23—25.

84 Q. How was Hannah affected by Peninnah's treatment; and what peculiar token of regard did Elkanah evince towards her? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. i. 7. (2.) 8.

85 Q. What solemn vow did Hannah make in the presence of Eli; and how did he impugn her motive? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. i. 9—11; (2.) 12—14. For Eli, see Chart, Kohath, No. 7, and Succ. of Pts.

86 Q. What is written in honor of Hannah? 1 Sam. i. 15—18.

[87 Q. What name was given to Hannah's child, and why? Ans. 1 Sam. i. 19, 20.]

LESSON VI.

Samuel's dedication, &c.

88 Q. Where was Samuel brought up? Ans. 1 Sam. i. 22—28.
[89 Q. In what manner did Hannah evince her gratitude for this signal favor? Ans. 1 Sam. ii. 1—10.]

90 Q. What was Samuel’s office? Ans. 1 Sam. ii. 18.

91 Q. Was he not also a prophet? Ans. 1 Sam. iii. 4—14.

[92 Q. What is said of the character of Eli’s two sons, and what of Samuel and his parents? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. ii. 12—17. (2.) 18—21.

93 Q. Did Eli hear of the base conduct of his two sons; what did he do to reform them; and with what success? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. ii. 22; (2.) 23—25. (3.) 25, last clause.

94 Q. Whose pious character is again brought into contrast with theirs? Ans. 1 Sam. ii. 26.]

95 Q. What was the great crime of Eli? Ans. 1 Sam. iii. 13.

96 Q. In what manner did God show his displeasure against the house of Eli? Ans. 1 Sam. ii. 27—36. 1 Kings, ii. 27, [35.]

[97 Q. What purpose did the Lord reveal to Samuel concerning Eli; and what remarkable circumstances attended this communication? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. iii. 11—14. (2.) 1—10.

Note. A criminal laxity of discipline on the part of Eli over his two profligate sons, ch. iii. 13, was the procuring cause of all those judgments denounced against him and his posterity. And when the children of pious parents are abandoned to the prevailing vices of the age, it may generally be traced to a neglect of the duties enjoined, Prov. xxii. 6, and xxiii. 13, 14.

98 Q. What was the conduct of Eli when informed by Samuel of the vision? Ans. 1 Sam. iii. 15—18.

99 Q. What is further said of Samuel in this connection? Ans. 1 Sam. iii. 19—21. Chap. ix. 6.

100 Q. With whom did the Israelites now go to war; and what expedient was adopted when they failed of success? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. iv. 1—3. (2.) 4. See Chart, map No. 4.
101 Q. What effect had the arrival of the ark into the camp, both upon the Israelites and the Philistines? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. iv. 5. (2.) 6—9.

102 Q. What was the result of the second battle? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. iv. 10. (2.) 11. Ps. lxxviii. 61, 64.

Note. The shout of the Hebrews upon the arrival of the ark into the camp, when contrasted with the result of the battle and its capture by the Philistines, show that they virtually made it their idol. This event taught them, and it teaches us, the utter vanity of trusting in the mere outward forms or privileges of religion, when destitute of inward grace.

103 Q. What became of Eli himself? Ans. 1 Sam. iv. 17, 18.

[Note. The genuineness of Eli's piety, though remiss in the exercise of parental duties over his children, appears evident from that deep solicitude which he expressed for the safety of the ark while in the camp, v. 13; as also the result of his hearing of its final capture by the Philistines, v. 18. The piety of Phinehas' wife is also to be considered in a favorable light for similar reasons, v. 19—22. From this may be dated the commencement of the downfall of Shiloh; for though the Ark was recovered, yet it was never returned to that place. See vii. 12—14.

104 Q. By whom was intelligence of this catastrophe brought to Shiloh; and what was the effect produced upon the city, and upon Eli's daughter-in-law? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. iv. 12, 13. (2.) 19—22.

105 Q. What did the Philistines do with the ark of God? Ans. 1 Sam. v. 2—5.

106 Q. What punishment did the Philistines suffer for keeping the ark? Ans. 1 Sam. v. 6—12.

107 Q. What became of the ark then? Ans. 1 Sam. vi. 12, 13, 14, 15. See Chart, map No. 4.

108 Q. What did the men of Bethshemesh do? Ans. 1 Sam. vi. 19, 21.

[Note. As the people had now been separated from the ark for seven months, in connection with the humble circumstances which attended its return and its then present appearance, the curiosity of the Bethshemites was excited to venture upon an examination of its interior; not accompanied, perhaps, with such a regard for the sacredness of the thing as became them. Hence the judgment which followed.

109 Q. Whither was the ark then sent; and how long did it remain there? Ans. 1 Sam. vi. 20, 21; vii. 1, 2. See Chart, map No. 4.

110 Q. What effect had the exhortation of Samuel upon the people, and what did he further do? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. vii. 3, 4. (2.) 5, 6. Samuel now acted as judge over Israel, v. 6. See Chart, map No. 4.

LESSON VII.

The Israelites war with the Philistines.

111 Q. What did the Israelites do when they were again molested by the Philistines? Ans. 1 Sam. vii. 7, 8.]

112 Q. How did Samuel deliver Israel from the Philistines when they made a new war upon them? Ans. 1 Sam. vii. 9, 13, [14.] See Chart, map No. 4.

113 Q. How did Samuel govern the people? Ans. 1 Sam. vii. 15—17. viii. 1—4. and xii. 1—5.

[114 Q. How many sons had Samuel; and what were their names? Ans. 1 Sam. viii. 2, 3. See Chart, Kohath, No. 7.

115 Q. What did Samuel do with his sons in his advanced life, and what was the result? Ans. 1 Sam. viii. 1—3.

Note. It is not to be supposed that Samuel was criminal of similar neglects of parental duty over his sons, with Eli. Having doubtless presented before them a most virtuous example, and administered to them the most salutary discipline during their noviciate; yet the love of lucre, "the root of all evil," blasted the most sanguine expectations of their aged and venerable father.]

116 Q. What was the request of the people on this occasion? Ans. 1 Sam. viii. 5. Com. Deut. xvii. 14, 15, with 1 Sam. viii. 5, 19. Hosea xiii. 11.
117 Q. What did Samuel do in this case?
Ans. 1 Sam. viii. 6, 7, [10—18.] 19, 20.

118 Q. Did Samuel gratify them in this desire?
Ans. 1 Sam. viii. 22.

Here closes the government of the judges.

SECTION VI

OF THE GOVERNMENT OF ISRAEL, UNDER THEIR KINGS; AND FIRST, OF SAUL AND DAVID.

PART V.

[From the accession of Saul to the throne of Israel, A. M. 2909, to the dedication of Solomon's Temple, A. M. 3000. Embracing a period of 91 years.]

LESSON I.

Saul anointed king over Israel, &c.

[1 Q. What conspicuous person is introduced to view in the commencement of this history?
Ans. 1 Sam. ix. 1, 2. See Saul's Family, Chart, Jehiel and Maachah, T. of Benj. No. 9.

2 Q. For what purpose did he seek the direction of the prophet Samuel, and at whose suggestion?
Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. ix. 3—5. (2.) 6—10. See Chart, map No. 4.]

3 Q. Who was the first king of Israel?
Ans. 1 Sam. ix. 1, 2.

4 Q. How did Samuel first meet with him?
Ans. 1 Sam. ix. 15—27. and x. 1—8.

5 Q. But how was he made king publicly?
Ans. 1 Sam. x. 19—25.

[Note. Saul was anointed with oil out of a "vial" which denoted that his kingdom was of short continuance. v. 1. David with oil out of a "horn." Ch. xvi. 13, which denoted its stability.

6 Q. When did this event take place?
Ans. A. M. 2909. See Chart, chron. IV. Ep.]
7 Q. With what directions to Saul was this act accompanied; and what occurred after his departure from Samuel? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. x. 2—8. (2.) 9, 10. (3.) 11—13. (4.) 14—16.

8 Q. At what place were the people now called together; for what purpose; and in what way was the king selected? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. x. 17. (2.) 18, 19. (3.) 20—24. See Chart, map No. 4.

9 Q. What ensued? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. x. 25. (2.) 26. (3.) 27.

10 Q. Who now commenced hostilities against Jabesh-gilead; how was Saul affected with his cruel conditions of peace; what did he then do; and what ensued? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xi. 1—3. (2.) 4—6. (3.) 7—8. See Chart, map 4.

11 Q. What was the result of Saul's engagement with the Ammonites; and did he approbate the manner in which the people proposed to honor him? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xi. 9—11. (2.) 12, 13.

12 Q. What transpired after their return to Gilgal; and what address and appeal did Samuel now make to the people? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xi. 14, 15. (2.) xii. 1—5. 6—15.

13 Q. What miracle was performed to convince them of their sinfulness in desiring a king? Ans. 1 Sam. xii. 16—19.

14 Q. How were their fears assuaged after a conviction and acknowledgment of their guilt? Ans. 1 Sam. xii. 20—25.

15 Q. What military force did Saul select from among the people; and how did he dispose of them? Ans. 1 Sam. xiii. 1, 2. See Chart, map No. 4.

16 Q. What circumstance again led to the collection of the Philistine army against Israel; and how were they affected with the sight of their formidable appearance? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xiii. 3. (2.) 4. (3.) 5—7. See Chart, map 4.

Note. This precipitate act of Jonathan, prompted probably by the ambition of his father, was in direct violation of a treaty between the Israelites and the Philistines, who at that time held a number of garrisons within their borders. For this pernicious act, the Israelites were held “in abomination with the Philistines.” v. 4.

LESSON II.

Saul's wicked reign, &c.

17 Q. How did Saul behave himself in his kingdom? Ans. 1 Sam. xiii. 13. and xv. 28.

[18 Q. What did Samuel say of his conduct, and of the future destiny of his kingdom; and what ensued after their return to Gibeah? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xiii. 13, 14. (2.) 15, 16. See Chart, map No. 4.

19 Q. What depredations were committed by the Philistines against the Israelites; and what previous advantage had they obtained over them in prosecuting their war? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xiii. 17, 18. (2.) 19, 20. Is. xlii. 22—25. 2 Kings xxiv. 14.

20 Q. Were the Israelites deprived of all means of preparation for war? Ans. 1 Sam. xiii. 21—23.

21 Q. Where was Saul when Jonathan and his armour-bearer conspired against the garrison of the Philistines; and what was the success of this enterprise? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xiv. 2, 3. (2.) 1, 4—15. For Ahiah, &c. See Chart, Kohath, No. 7, and map 4.

22 Q. Of what premature act was Saul now guilty, while the work of destruction was spreading in the Philistine camp? Ans. 1 Sam. xiv. 16—20.

23 Q. What unexpected accession was made to the Israelish army, and what was the final issue of the battle? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xiv. 21, 22. (2.) 23. See Chart, map 4.

24 Q. Against the use of what did Saul adjure the people; by whom was the oath violated; and what did Jonathan say of the policy of this measure? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xiv. 24—36. (2.) 27. (3.) 28—30.

25 Q. What was the consequence of the oath enjoined upon the people by Saul; and to what had he recourse in this extremity? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xiv. 31—33. (2.) 34, 35.

26 Q. What proposition did Saul then make; and what circumstance prevented its execution? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xiv. 36. (2.) 37.

27 Q. What is now further related of Jonathan the son of Saul? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xiv. 38—42. (2.) 43—46.

Note. Saul, blind to his own sin in wickedly adjuring the people, seeks to rest it elsewhere; and though he is criminally indulgent towards his own faults, yet he is severely cruel in punishing the faults of others. This very act of Saul prevented the total overthrow of the Philistines.

28 Q. What further account is given of Saul's achievements, of his family, and his subsequent wars with the Philistines? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xiv. 47, 48. (2.) 49—51. (3.) 52.

29 Q. Against whom did Samuel now send Saul to wage war; and why were the Kenites exempted? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xv. 1—6. 7, 8. (2.) 6. See Chart, map No. 4. Com. Balaam's prediction, Num. xxiv. 20, 21, and Deut. xxv. 17—19. with 1 Sam. xv. 1—8.

30 Q. In what respect did Saul disobey the command of the prophet, v. 3.; and what was the consequence? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xv. 9. (2.) 10—23.

31 Q. What confession and request did Saul then make; and what occurred in connection with it? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xv. 24, 25. (2.) 26—29.

32 Q. Did Saul still continue his entreaties with the prophet; and with what motive and success? Ans. 1 Sam. xv. 30, 31.

33 Q. What was the final fate of Agag; and what is related of the separation of Saul and Samuel? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xv. 32, 33. 1 Kings xviii. 40. (2.) 34, 35.

34 Q. What was Samuel then required to do; and what precautionary measures were given him of the Lord for his personal safety? Ans. 1 Sam. xvi. 1—5.

Note. Conscious guilt prompted the people to make the inquiry in v. 4, or the fear of incurring the wrath of their rejected king by any token of regard which he might show to the prophet.
LESSON III.
Saul's rejection from the throne of Israel.

35 Q. Whom did God choose in his room? Ans. 1 Sam. xvi. 1. and xiii. 14. For Jesse, see Chart, Amminidab, No. 14, and map No. 4.

36 Q. Who were the forefathers of David? Ans. Ruth iv. 17—22.

[Note. The history of the book of Ruth commences previous to the expiration of the government of the Israelites by Judges Judg. vi. 1—4, about A. M. 2752; so that Boaz, the son of Rahab, Matt. i. 5. 1 Chron. ii. 11, 12. Josh. ii. 1. and Ruth, the Moabitess, was cotemporary with Gideon. "Jesse," the father of David, "descended by two generations from Boaz and Ruth, and Boaz was a descendant of Judah and Tamar." See Chart, Judah No. 8. The history of Ruth, therefore, will now follow, as introductory to that of David, the successor of Saul.

37 Q. In what light are we to view the annexed history of the book of Ruth?
Ans. Both as a supplement to the preceding history of the book of Judges, and an introduction to the ensuing history of the books of Samuel.

38 Q. What is the design of its contents?
Ans. (1.) To illustrate the doctrine of a particular providence. (2.) To preserve entire the lineal descent of Christ from Adam; and (3.) To give a pre-intimation of the calling of the Gentiles to the fellowship of the gospel, by the conversion of a Moabitish woman.

39 Q. What is said of the state of the land in the days of the Judges; and what concerning a family belonging to Bethlehem-Judah? Ans. (1.) Ruth i. 1, first clause, Com. Deut. viii. 7—9. with Lev. xxvi. 19, 20. (2.) 1, 2. 19—21. See Chart, Amminidab, No. 14, and map No. 4.

Note. The reason why this family is called Ephrathites, see Gen. xxxv. 19. There was also another Bethlehem in the tribe of Zebulun. Josh. xix. 15.
It would seem there was a great want of reliance upon the providence of God, on the part of Elimelech, during the prevalence of the famine in Bethlehem-Judah, Ps. xxxvii. 19., which prompted him to escape to the land of Moab for safety. Jer. xlviii. 11. But often, in attempting to flee from one calamity, a greater is inflicted; which appears evident from the following.

40 Q. What calamities befell this family, after their settlement in the land of Moab? Ans. (1.) Ruth i. 3. (2.) 5.

Note. The marriage of Mahlon and Chilion was in open violation of the command, Deut. vii. 3. Ezra ix. 1, 2.]

41 Q. What was this Ruth, [the principal subject of this narrative?] Ans. Ruth i. 1, 4.

42 Q. For what reason did Naomi subsequently remove; and by whom was she accompanied? Ans. (1.) Ruth i. 6, 7. (2.) 8, 9, 10.

43 Q. What is to be thought of Naomi’s intreaties to her daughters-in-law to return to their idolatrous country, rather than accompany her to the nation where the true God was known and worshiped? Ans. Com. Ruth. i. 11, 12, 15, 18, with Josh. xxiv. 19—22. Matt. viii. 18—20.]

44 Q. Did Ruth leave the country of Moab, Ans. Ruth i. 16, 17.

46 Q. What wealthy relation to Naomi is mentioned, chap. ii. verse first; and from what motive did Ruth propose to glean corn in his field? Ans. Ruth ii. 2, 3.

47 Q. What passed between Boaz and his servants upon entering the field; and what subsequently between Boaz and Ruth? Ans. (1.) Ruth ii. 4. Ps. cxxix. 7, 8. (2.) 5—7. (3.) 8—10.

48 Q. What command did Boaz give the young men respecting her; and what ensued upon her return home? Ans. (1.) Ruth ii. 11—14. (2.) 15, 16. (3.) 17—23.
49 Q. What course of conduct did Naomi then prescribe to Ruth; for what purpose, and with what success? Ans. (1.) Ruth iii. 1—7. (2.) 8—12.

50 Q. What said Boaz further to Ruth; what present did she receive at his hand; and what passed between herself and mother on her return? Ans. (1.) Ruth iii. 13, 14. (2.) 15. (3.) 16—18.

51 Q. What kind of providence attended her in the land of Israel? Ans. Ruth iv. [9, 10,] 16, 17.

[Note. This kinsman finally declined redeeming the inheritance, on account of the proposition made, v. 5; resigned all right of redemption, and ratified it by the ceremony mentioned, v. 7, 8; after which Boaz proceeded to consummate his engagement, as in v. 9, 10.

Note. "The house of Phares," in the allotment of the land among the tribes, was divided similar to that of the house of Joseph, by which they became exceeding numerous. From this we may infer the nature of the blessing conferred upon Boaz.

53 Q. In what manner, and for what reason is Naomi particularly congratulated at the birth of Ruth's first born; and how did she express her affection towards it? Ans. Ruth iv. 13, 13—15. (2.) 16.

54 Q. What name was given to the child; and for what reason? Ans. Ruth iv. 17.

55 Q. What other two personages descended from Boaz and Ruth? Ans. Ruth iv. 17, last clause.

LESSON IV.

David anointed king, &c.

57 Q. How many sons had Jesse; and which one of the number was selected, and anointed by Samuel? Ans. 1 Sam. xvi. 6—13. 2 Sam. xxiii. 1, 2. For 58 Q. What was David's employment? Ans. 1 Sam. xvi. 11.

59 Q. What considerable actions did he do while he was a shepherd? Ans. 1 Sam. xvii. 34, 35.

60 Q. How did God anoint him to be king; [and when did this take place?] Ans. 1 Sam. xvi. 13. A.M. 2930. See Chart, chron. IV. Ep.

61 Q. How did David make his first appearance at court? Ans. 1 Sam. xvi. 16, 23.

[Note. Previous to the battle fought between the Israelites and Philistines, an account of which now follows, David had retired from the court of Saul, to enter upon his former occupation as a shepherd, chap. xvii. 16, 58, while three of his brothers, v. 13, still remained with Saul, and accompanied him at the time of the battle.]

62 Q. Did the Philistines renew their hostilities against the Israelites; and what is said of Goliath, their champion? Ans. (1) 1 Sam. xvii. 1—3. (2) 4—7. Josh. xi. 22. For Goliath, see Chart, Mizraim No. 5, and map No. 4.

63 Q. What remarkable action made him more publicly known; [and in what year of the world did it occur?] Ans. 1 Sam. xvii. 19—54. A. M. 2942. See Chart IV. Ep.

64 Q. What challenge was given to the Israelites by this champion; and what effect did it produce upon them? Ans. (1) 1 Sam. xvii. 10, 16. (2) 11.

65 Q. For what purpose was David sent to the camp of Israel; and what ensued upon his arrival there? Ans. (1) 1 Sam. xvii. 17, 18. (2) 24. (3) 25.

Note. The expression, "his father's house shall be free in Israel," explained Ezra vii. 24.

66 Q. What did David then say; how did his brother upbraid him; and what was his manly yet moderate reply? Ans. (1) 1 Sam. xvii. 26, 27. (2) 28. (3) 29.
67 Q. Was David finally brought before Saul; and what conversation passed between them? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xvii. 30, 31. (2.) 32—37.

68 Q. What was the effect of David's being equipped with Saul's armory; and what weapons did he select? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xvii. 38, 39. (2.) 40.

69 Q. What was said by the champions at their meeting; and what was the issue of the engagement? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xvii. 41—44. (2.) 45—47. (J.) 48—51.

70 Q. What was the final fate of the Philistines army; and what the circumstances of David's appearance before Saul after the victory? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xvii. 52, 53. (2.) 54—58.

71 Q. What followed this signal victory of David over the Philistine champion? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xviii. 1—4. (2.) 5.

Note. Jonathan, by investing David with his armor, gave a pre-intimation of his final elevation to the throne of his father, and amounted to a voluntary abandonment of his own prospects of succeeding to the crown.

72 Q. How was Saul affected towards David, when he heard the song sung by the women of the different cities into which they entered; and what was the consequence? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xviii. 6—9. (2.) 10, 11.

73 Q. How was Saul further affected by David's deportment and success? and what project did he devise against his life? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xviii. 12—16. (2.) 17—21.

Note. Saul was under every obligation both by the laws of honor and verity, to give David his daughter Merab to wife. Chap. xvii. 25. This he failed to fulfill. Chap. xviii. 19. Nevertheless, he persisted in offering Michal, Merab's sister, to David, in the hope that between the two daughters, he might yet accomplish his malevolent designs against him. chap. xvii. 21—25. Abundant evidence this, that he was forsaken of God.

74 Q. What were Saul's servants now commanded to say to David; what was his reply; and how was Saul's conditions to him fulfilled? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xviii. 22, 23. (2.) 24—26, 27.

75 Q. Did not Saul marry his second daughter Michal to him [finally]? Ans. 1 Sam. xviii. 17—30.

76 Q. Did David still continue to grow in the esteem of the nation? Ans. 1 Sam. xviii. 30.

77 Q. What purpose did Saul further form against the life of David; and how was he prevented from its execution? Ans. (1) 1 Sam. xix. 1—3. (2.) 4—7.

78 Q. How did Saul employ him afterwards? Ans. 1 Sam. xix. 8.

79 Q. How came Saul then to bear him an ill will? Ans. 1 Sam. xviii. 5—7.

80 Q. Wherein did Saul discover his ill will to him? Ans. 1 Sam. xviii. 10, 11. xix. 10.

81 Q. Whither did David flee from the persecuting hand of Saul? Ans. 1 Sam. xix. 12—18. See Chart, map No. 4. At this time the lxix. Psalm was penned.

LESSON V.

David persecuted by Saul, &c.

82 Q. Who then were the friends of David when the king was his enemy? Ans. 1 Sam. xviii. 3. and xix. 2.

His conduct, therefore, in deceiving Ahimelech, ch. xxi. 2, 8, was severely reprehensible, and cost him subsequently the most bitter relentings. Ch. xxii. 22. 92 Q. How did David save his father's house from Saul's rage? Ans. 1 Sam. xxii. 1—5. See Chart, map No. 4.

[Note. As David's great grandmother Ruth was a Moabitess, this circumstance probably rendered the king of that place propitious to his father's family at that time. See ch. xiv. 47. For the reason of the prophet's command, see ch. xxiii. 1—5.

93 Q. Where was Saul at this time; what did he say when informed of the discovery of David, and by whom was he and Ahimelech the priest betrayed? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xxii. 6. (2.) 7, 8. (3.) 9, 10. See Ch. xxi. 7. For Doeg, see Chart, Esau, No. 6.]

101 Q. With whom did David meet in the wood, and what passed between them? Ans. 1 Sam. xxiii. 16—18.

102 Q. Who conspired with Saul in seeking the destruction of David, and what was their success? Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xxiii. 19—23. (2.) 24—28. See Chart, map No. 4.

Note. Subsequent to this interview, we have no account that Saul and David ever again communed together.

Note. The subsequent history of David, till the death of Saul, shows that his flight to Gath was the violation of a previous command to go to Judah. ch. xxii. 5. Frequent instances of duplicity on his part, followed by evident tokens of the divine displeasure, were the consequences.

119 Q. What was the evasive policy of David towards Achish, who was about to wage war against Israel; and what was the Philistine king thereby encouraged to expect? Ans. 1 Sam. xxviii. 1, 3.

Note. There are many difficulties attending a satisfactory explanation of this tragical affair. Perhaps the most rational construction which can be given of it, is to view it in a light similar to those miracles apparently wrought by the enchantments of the Egyptian magicians, but in reality the product of a divine and supernatural agency. See sec. v. of chap. iii. q. 260. and note. We therefore infer, that the prophet Samuel really appeared before, and talked with, Saul, and predicted the departure of the kingdom out his hands, and also his own death and that of his sons, on the ensuing day.

125 Q. What followed after the prophet left Saul? Ans. 1 Sam. xxviii. 21—25.

132 Q. Did [the prediction, 1 Sam. xxviii. 19.] come to pass?  Ans. 1 Sam. xxxi. 3, 4. [1 Chron. x. 13, 14.] See Chart, map No. 4.

133 Q. Where was David all this while?  Ans. 1 Sam. xxx. 16—20.

134 Q. Did not David offer his services to the Philistines?  Ans. 1 Sam. xxvii. 8—11. xxix. 4. and 2 Sam. i. 1.

135 Q. What did David do upon the death of Saul?  Ans. 2 Sam. i. [1—16,] 17, &c. ii. 1—4. See Chart, map No. 4.

Note. The motive by which this Amalekite was actuated in fabricating the above supposed act of valor, see explained, ch. iv. 10. And David intended his death as a warning to all others, who should, by slaying any member of the royal family, thereby hope to ingratiate themselves in his favor. Ch. iv. 1—12.

[136 Q. How did the Philistines now dispose of the cities which were forsaken by the Israelites; and also with the remains of Saul and his sons?  Ans. (1.) 1 Sam. xxxi. 7. (2.) 8—10.

137. Q. In what terms did David commend the valor of the men of Jabesh-gilead, as mentioned 1 Sam. xxxi. 11—13.?  Ans. 2 Sam. ii. 4—7.]

138 Q. Who reigned then over the rest of the tribes of Israel?  Ans. 2 Sam. ii. 8, 9.

[139 Q. By whom and over what tribes was Ishbosheth constituted king; and how long did he reign previous to the commencement of hostilities between them?  Ans. (1.) 2 Sam. ii. 8. (2.) 9. (3.) 10. For Abner and Ishbosheth, see Chart, Jehiel and Maachah No. 9, map No. 4.

Note. David and Ishbosheth commenced their reigns simultaneously, and peace ensued for the first two years, v. 10., after which hostilities commenced and continued till the death of the latter, when David was proclaimed king over all Israel, and reigned 33 years at Jerusalem. ch. v. 5.

140 Q. What was the cause of the unhappy contest between the captains and servants of David and Ishbosheth; and what was the result? Ans. (1.) 2 Sam. ii. 12—16. (2.) 17.

147 Q. How was he entertained by David on his arrival at Hebron; and what promise did he then make? Ans. 2 Sam. iii. 20, 21.

148 Q. Where was Joab at this time; what did he say to David on his return; and what followed? Ans. (1.) 2 Sam. iii. 22, 23. (2.) 24, 25. (3.) 26, 27, 30. 1 Kings ii. 5. Deut. xxvii. 24.

149 Q. How was David affected with this occurrence; what did he say in defense of his own innocence; and what malediction was denounced against Joab? Ans. (1.) 2 Sam. iii. 31—34, 38, 39. (2.) 28, 35—37. (3.) 29.
Note. Though it was policy in David (as Joab, by his influence over the army, could have easily effected a revolt) to forbear the infliction of such punishment as his crime merited; still it was in direct violation of the command. Num. xxxv. 31—34. He did not, however, ultimately escape the arm of justice. 1 Kings ii. 32—34.

150 Q. What effect did the news of Abner's death produce upon Ishbosheth and his coadjutors? Ans. 2 Sam. iv. 1—3. For Baanah and Rechab, see Chart, Benj. No. 9.

LESSON IX.

David chosen king at Hebron.

153 Q. How long did David reign at Hebron? Ans. Seven years and a half; and then all Israel came to him and chose him for their king, and brought him up to Jerusalem, 2 Sam. v. 1—6.

Note. David, at thirty years of age, began to reign over all Israel. This corresponds with the commencement of the official duties of the priesthood, Num. iv. 3., and also of the ministry of Christ. Luke iii. 23.

154 Q. What was the first thing David did when he came to Jerusalem? Ans. 2 Sam. v. 6—9.

162 Q. Did God encourage him to proceed in it? Ans. 2 Sam. vii. 4—17.

[Note. From the above it would seem that the prophet erred in encouraging David to prosecute his design in building a temple for God, though the intention of the king was accepted. 1 Kings viii. 18. The preparations which he was permitted to make, however, towards the accomplishment of that noble design, may be seen by a reference to 1 Chron. xxii. and xxix. chapters.]

Note. David, by indulgence in remaining at Jerusalem during the above siege, was exposed to temptation, was overcome by temptation, and fell into gross sin and guilt, Ex. xx. 14, Lev. xx. 10, which was subsequently followed by the greatest anguish of soul. His restoration, however, while it encourages a hope of pardon for the most criminal relapses, gives no license for the perpetration of similar crimes.]

[203 Q. How was the body of Absalom disposed of; by whom were tidings of his death brought to David; and how was he affected by it? Ans. (1.) 2 Sam. xviii. 16—18. (2.) 19—32. (3.) 33.

204 Q. In what terms did Joab expostulate with David, on account of his excessive grief for the death of Absalom; and what followed? Ans. (1.) 2 Sam. xix. 1—7. (2.) 8.

205 Q. Why was not David immediately restored to the government; and how was it finally accomplished? Ans. (1.) 2 Sam. xix. 9, 10. (2.) 11—14. See Chart, map No. 4.

206 Q. By whom was David accosted at the river Jordan; what confession was made by him, and what answer did David return both to him and Abishai? Ans. (1.) 2 Sam. xix. 16—18. (2) 19, 20. (3.) 21—23.

Note. Shimei here speaks of himself as belonging to "the house of Joseph," though he was a Benjamite. Joseph is here taken for the eleven tribes of Israel, in contrast with the tribe of Judah. Conscious guilt, and the forebodings of the probable consequences, since David was restored to the kingdom, urged Shimei to this confession, from a conviction that his previous views of the king's character, and the dispensations of God toward him, ch. xvi. 5—14, were erroneous. This confession of Shimei also shows, that he was not directly commanded to curse David, but that David's afflictions presented an opportunity to him to exhibit his long indulged antipathy, which, in the order of Providence, he was permitted to do. What David said to Shimei, v. 23, is to be understood only as a reprieve. 1 Kings ii. 8, 9.

207 Q. Who next came to meet the king; and what conversation ensued? Ans. 2 Sam. xix. 24—30.

208 Q. By whom was David accompanied over the river; what did he propose to him in lieu of his generous invitation, and was it accepted? Ans. (1.) 2 Sam. xix. 31, 32. (2.) 33—37. (3.) 38.

209 Q. What token of affection was expressed between David and Barzillai when they parted; whither did the king then go, and by whom was he accompanied? Ans. (1.) 2 Sam. xix. 39. (2.) 40.
210 Q. What controversy arose between the men of Israel and those of Judah? Ans. 2 Sam. xix. 41—43.

Note. This spirit of jealousy finally resulted in the division of the kingdom under Rehoboam, the son of Solomon.

211 Q. What did David do with his concubines after his return to Jerusalem? Ans. 2 Sam. xx. 3.

212 Q. Who attempted to raise a second rebellion against David, and how was it suppressed? Ans. (1.) 2 Sam. xx. 1, 2. (2.) 4, 5.

213 Q. Who headed the expedition in consequence of Amasa's delay, and what was the cause of his detention? Ans. (1.) 2 Sam. xx. 6, 7. (2.) 8—10, 12.

214 Q. Did the people now follow after Joab, and what was the success of his expedition against Sheba? Ans. (1.) 2 Sam. xx. 13. (2.) 14—22. For Sheba, see Chart, Benjamin No. 9. Ira, Manasseh No. 9.

215 Q. What was the cause of the famine which prevailed in Israel for three years, and how was it removed? Ans. (1.) 2 Sam. xxi. 1, 2. (2.) 3—9. For the genealogy of persons in v. 8, see Chart, Jehiel and Maachah No. 9.

Note. There is no account given in the history of Saul, of the time, place, or other circumstances accompanying this work of slaughter among the Gibeonites.

216 Q. What is said of Rizpah, and how did David dispose of the bones of Saul and Jonathan? Ans. (1.) 2 Sam. xxi. 10, 11. (2.) 12—14. See Chart, map No. 4.

217 Q. What other wars broke out between the Israelites and the Philistines, and what was the result of each? Ans. (1.) 2 Sam. xxi. 15—17. (2.) 18. (3.) 19. (4.) 20—22. For Ishbi-benob and Saph, see Chart, Ham, No. 5. Elhanan, Hur, No. 13. Jonathan, Aminadab, No. 14.
218 Q. In what poetic effusion did David now celebrate his deliverance from all his enemies? Ans. 2 Sam. xxii. which compare with the xviii. Psalm.]

LESSON XII.

David’s pride in numbering the people.

219 Q. What was the other remarkable crime of David, besides his abuse and murder of Uriah? Ans. 2 Sam. xxiv. 2.

220 Q. How was he punished for this sin? Ans. 2 Sam. xxiv. 13.

222 Q. Which of these two judgments did God send upon the land? Ans. 2 Sam. xxiv. 15.

223 Q. How was this pestilence stopped? Ans. 1 Chron. xxi. 15, 16.

[225 Q. What means were adopted to administer to the comfort of David when aged and infirm? Ans. 1 Kings i. 1—4. For Abishag, see Chart, Issachar, No. 8. Adonijah, Aminadab, No. 14.]

226 Q. What was the trouble that David met with from his son Adonijah? Ans. 1 Kings i. 5.

227 Q. How came Adonijah to be so insolent? Ans. 1 Kings, i. 6.

228 Q. What did David do under this trouble? Ans. 1 Kings i. 34, 38, 39.

229 Q. Why was Solomon preferred, when he was a younger brother? Ans. 1 Chron. xxii. 8—10. and xxviii. 5—7.

[230 Q. By whom was Adonijah informed of the coronation of Solomon; how were he and his guests affected by it; and what ensued? Ans. (1.) 1 Kings i. 41—48. (2.) 49, 50. Ex. xxi. 12—14. (3.) 51—53.

231 Q. What charge did David administer to Solomon at the close of his life respecting his duty to God; and what directions in reference to Joab, the sons of Barzillai, and Shimei? Ans. (1.) 1 Kings ii. 1—4. (2.) 5—9. 1 Chron. xxviii. and xxix.

Note. Solomon at this time is supposed to have been about 20 years of age.

232 Q. What were the last words uttered by David? Ans. 2 Sam. xxiii. 1—7.

Note. The 5th, 6th, 7th verses of this chapter are considered strictly prophetical, referring to Christ, the prosperity of his kingdom, and the final destruction of his enemies.

233 Q. What is now said of David's death and burial; and who was his successor? Ans. 1 Kings ii. 10, 11. 1 Chron. xxix. (2.) 12. See Chart, map No. 4.]

234 Q. What became of Adonijah? Ans. 1 Kings i. 50, 53. and ii. 2. 24.

[Note. Adonijah had already attempted to wrest the kingdom from Solomon, ch. i. 5—10, which he acknowledged "was his brother's from the Lord," v. 15. His assertion, therefore, that the kingdom belonged to him, was false, for it could not, in its united capacity, have been given to both. The circumstance of his asking Solomon for Abishag, v. 17, evidently evinced that he had not yet relinquished his entire claims to the crown, and served as a pre-intimation of further efforts on his part to establish his treasonable purposes. This Solomon saw; and as his previous pardon, ch. i. 52, was a conditional one, the king viewed this his petition, in connection with its implied intention, as a forfeiture of his life, and accordingly ordered his execution.]

235 Q. How long did David reign in all? Ans. 1 Kings ii. 10, 11.

236 Q. What were David's remarkable characters, besides that of a musician, a warrior, and a king? Ans. 2 Sam. xxiii. 1, 2.

237 Q. Wherein did his skill in poesy appear? Ans. 2 Sam. xxiii. 1.

238 Q. Wherein doth it appear that he had the gift of prophecy? Ans, Luke xxiv. 44. Acts ii. 29, 30.
239 Q. What further evidences are there of his being a prophet? Ans. 1 Chron. xxviii. 11—13, 19.
240 Q. What did David do towards the building of this temple before his death? Ans. 1 Chron. xxii. 5, 14, and xxviii. 11, 19, and xxix. 2.

SECTION VII.

LESSON I.

Solomon's reign, his wisdom, &c.

1 Q. What was the general character of Solomon? Ans. 1 Kings iii. 12, and iv. 31.

[2 Q. How did Solomon dispose of Abiathar; and where was he commanded to go? Ans. 1 Kings ii. 26, 27. See Chart, map No. 4. Com. 1 Sam. ii. 30—36 with the above, and Chart, succ. of pts.

3 Q. What was the final fate of Joab and Shimei? Ans. 1 Kings ii. 28—34. 36—46.

4 Q. With whom did Solomon now form an alliance by marriage? Ans. 1 Kings iii. 1, with which compare Deut. xxiii. 8.

5 Q. What is to be thought of the conduct of the king and his people, in selecting "high places" in offering up their sacrifices, previous to the completion of the temple? Ans. 1 Kings iii. 2, 4, with which com. Lev. xvii. 3—5. Deut. xii. 2—5. See also 2 Chron. i. 3—5. See Chart, map No. 4.]

6 Q. Wherein did his wisdom towards God appear? Ans. 1 Kings iii. 7—14.

7 Q. What was the first instance of his wisdom in the government? Ans. 1 Kings iii. 16—28.

8 Q. How did he find out the true mother? Ans. 1 Kings iii. 25, 26.
Plan of Jerusalem.

The Judgment of Solomon.
[9 Q. Give the names of those civil and ecclesiastical officers under Solomon which now follow? Ans. 1 Kings iv. 1—6. For Azariah, Elihoreph, Ahiah, Benaiah, Zadok, and Abiathar, see Chart, Kohath, No. 7. The most of these persons also served under David. For the names of persons and places included in v. 7—19, see Chart, index, &c., and map No. 4.

10 Q. What is now said of the grandeur and prosperity of Solomon’s reign? Ans. 1 Kings iv. 20—28.

Note. It is estimated that at this time the population of Solomon’s kingdom amounted to about 8,000,000 souls! 2 Sam. xxiv. 9. Gen. xv. 5. xxii. 17. Ps. lxxii.

11 Q. What of his wisdom, writings, and general popularity as a king? Ans. 1 Kings iv. 29—34.]

12 Q. What special care did Solomon take for the worship of God? Ans. 1 Kings v. vi. and vii. 2 Kings xxxii. 12, and 2 Chron. iv. 9.

Note. In this temple of Solomon there does not seem to be any “court of the Gentiles,” but only “the court of the priests,” in which the house of God or sanctuary stood, and “the court of the people,” to which all Israel resorted: nor can I find the Gentiles forbidden by any express word of God. See 2 Chron. vi. 32. One was “the outer court,” and the other “the inner court.” 2 Chron. iv. 9, and 1 Kings vi. 36. Nor were the people excluded from the inner court. See 2 Chron. xxiii. 10. In the second temple, which was built by Zerubbabel, after the captivity, we do not read of any “court of the Gentiles,” at the building of it. But in following years, when there were more frequent communications and transactions with Gentiles, there was a partition made, called Chell, to divide them from the Jews, and the other part of the outer court was left for the Gentiles. In the temple which Herod built, and which was in our Savior’s time, there was a court made on purpose for the Gentiles, and those Jews which were unclean. But this division does not sufficiently appear to be of divine appointment, though, it must be confessed, “the partition wall” in Eph. ii. 14. seems to refer to it.

13 Q. In what form did he build it? Ans. 1 Chron. xxii. 5. and xxviii. 11, 19.
14 Q. On what spot of ground did he build it?
Ans. 2 Chron. iii. 1, and Gen. xxii. 2. 1 Chron. xxi. 26.

Note. Though the temple was built on Mount Moriah, yet the name of Zion is still preserved by the following holy writers, as the place of the sanctuary; partly because David had written so much in his Psalms concerning Zion, where the ark and tabernacle stood in his days, and made the name familiar to the people: and partly because Zion was literally the city of David, and, in a typical sense, the city or residence of Christ. And indeed Zion and Moriah may be accounted but two distinct heads of the same mountain; and though there was a valley between them, Solomon joined them by a bridge, that he might easily pass from his palace in Zion to the temple. Josephus makes mention of it more than once.

[15 Q. In what year of the reign of Solomon was the temple commenced; how long was it in building; and in what year of the world was it dedicated?
Ans. (1.) 1 Kings vi. 1. (2.) 37; 38. (3.) see Chart, chron. dep. IV. Ep. For the dedication services, see ch. viii. See an account of the temple, chap. iv., sec. ii., art. holy places, p. 123.]

16 Q. How did Solomon dedicate this temple to God?
Ans. 1 Kings viii. and 2 Chron. vi. and vii.

17 Q. In what year of the world was the temple dedicated?

18 Q. In what manner did God show his approbation of it?
Ans. 2 Chron. vii. 1—3, 12.
CHAPTER V.

FROM THE DEDICATION OF SOLOMON'S TEMPLE, A. M. 3000, TO THE BABYLONISH CAPTIVITY, A. M. 3416, EMBRACING A PERIOD OF 416 YEARS.

LESSON II.

Solomon's reign, continued. Rehoboam, &c.

19 Q. Wherein did God bless the reign of Solomon? Ans. 1 Kings x.

[20 Q. What other buildings and temple furniture did Solomon cause to be erected and made; and who was the principal artificer? Ans. (1.) 1 Kings vii. 1—12. (2.) 15—51. (3.) 13, 14. For Hiram, see Chart, Naphtali, No. 10, and map No. 4.

21 Q. What covenant did the Lord now make with Solomon? Ans. 1 Kings ix. 1—9. Com. v. 6—9 with 2 Kings. xxv. 8—12.

22 Q. Did Solomon and Hiram come to an amicable settlement for his services? Ans. 1 Kings ix. 10—14.

23 Q. For what purposes did Solomon levy taxes upon his subjects for several years; and what line of distinction did he make between the remnant of the devoted nations and the Israelites? Ans. (1.) 1 Kings ix. 15—19. (2.) 20, 21. (3.) 22, 23. Compare v. 20, 21, with Lev. xxv. 44. See Chart, map No. 2.

24 Q. What is now said of Pharaoh's daughter, and Solomon's sacrifices, and commerce? Ans. (1.) 1 Kings ix. 24. (2.) 25. (3.) 26—28.

25 Q. What peculiar honors were done to him on this account?

Ans. The princes round about him coveted his friendship, and gave him their assistance and many presents, and the queen of Sheba came to visit him. 1 Kings ix. and x. See Chart, maps No. 1 and 4.

26 Q. What satisfaction did she find in this visit? Ans. 1 Kings x. 1—10.

[27 Q. What further is said of the resources of Solomon's wealth, and of his magnificence? Ans. 1 Kings x. 14—29.

Note. The prosperity, peace, and magnificence of Solomon's reign, is without a parallel. When contrasted with the reign of his father, (1 Chron. xxii. 8—10,) we cannot but perceive the striking features of its character to that glorious period, the millenium, of which it is a type.]

28 Q. Wherein did Solomon displease God afterwards? Ans. (1.) 1 Kings xi. 1—8. (2.) 9—13. (3.) 14—22. (4.) 23, 25. For Hadad, see Chart, Esau, No. 6; Rezon, Shem, No. 4, and map No. 4.

[30 Q. What did the prophet Ahijah now predict concerning the revolt of the tribes under Jeroboam; and what is said of Solomon's conduct towards him; and of his own death? Ans. (1.) 1 Kings xi. 26—39. (2.) 40. (3.) 41—43. For Jeroboam and Ahijah, see Chart, Ephraim, No. 9.

Note. The disturbances which arose from the enmity of Jeroboam to Solomon, was predicated of the enormous and unwarrantable expenses incurred in building a palace for Pharaoh's daughter, together with other edifices, and the consequent taxation levied upon his subjects for those purposes. 1 Kings ix. 24. xi. 27. xii. 4. The above prediction of Abijah was not fulfilled in Solomon's day; the reason for which, see ch. xi. 12, 13. Solomon left but one son behind him at his death, though he had so shamefully multiplied his wives and concubines. The division of the kingdom under the reign of that son now follows.

31 Q. In what year of the world did Solomon commence his reign; and how long did it continue? Ans. From A. M. 2989 to 3029. See Chart, chron. dep. IV. and V. Ep. 1 Kings xi. 41.

32 Q. By whom was Solomon succeeded; and what was his age at this time? Ans. 1 Kings xiv. 21. For Rehoboam, see Chart, David, No. 15.

33 Q. Whither did he and his people repair for his coronation? Ans. (1.) 1 Kings xii. 1. See Chart, map No. 4.]
LESSON III.

The kingdom divided, &c.

34 Q. What was Jeroboam's own pretence for disturbing the government? Ans. 1 Kings ix. 24. xi. 27. xii. 2—4.

Note. Jeroboam doth not appear to charge Solomon with promoting idolatry, or with breaking the laws of God in divine worship; for he himself did so afterwards, when he was king of Israel, which was a high provocation in the eyes of God, both in Solomon and Jeroboam.

[35 Q. What impolitic measure did Rehoboam adopt on this occasion; and what was the consequence? Ans. (1.) 1 Kings xii. 6—15. (2.) 16—20.]

36 Q. And how far did God encourage Jeroboam in this opposition to Solomon? Ans. 1 Kings xi. 29, &c. [Hosea viii. 4.

Note. The revolted tribes are generally considered ten in number, though substantial evidence can be given that Benjamin and Judah (2 Chron. xi. 11, 12,) and also Simeon and a part of Dan, adhered to the house of David. The remnant of Dan, and the two half-tribes of Manasseh E. and W. of Jordan, each being counted for a distinct tribe, together with the remaining seven, all of which revolted under Jeroboam, make up the ten tribes. Ephraim, in the prophecy of Hosea, is frequently taken for all the ten tribes.]

37 Q. What was the meaning of this? Ans. 1 Kings xi. 31. and xii. 20, 21. and 2 Chron. xi. 12.

[38 Q. In what year of the world did this event take place? Ans. A. M. 3029. See Chart, chron. V. Ep.]

39 Q. Was this fulfilled in Solomon's day? Ans. 1 Kings xi. 12.

40 Q. Did Solomon ever repent of his sins that provoked the anger of God against him? Ans. Eccles. i. and ii. and xii. 13, 14.

41 Q. How long did Solomon reign? Ans. 1 Kings. xi. 41—43.
SECTION I.*

THE REIGN OF THE KINGS OF JUDAH AND ISRAEL.

PERIOD I

[The history of the kingdoms of Judah and Israel, from the commencement of the reigns of Rehoboam and Jeroboam, A. M. 3029; to the second captivity under Shalmaneser, king of the second Assyrian Empire, A. M. 3283; embracing a period of 254 years.]

LESSON I.

Reign of the kings, continued.

1 Q. How many kings reigned over Israel after they were separated from Judah?

Ans. These nineteen, and not one of them was good; Jeroboam the first, Nadab, Baasha, Elah, Zimri, Omri, Ahab, Ahaziah, Jehoram, Jehu, Jehoahaz, Joash, Jeroboam the second, Zachariah, Shallum, Menahem, Pekahiah, Pekah, and Hoshea.

2 Q. Who were the most remarkable among these kings of Israel?

Ans. Jeroboam the first, Omri, Ahab, Ahaziah, Jehu, Joash, Pekah, and Hoshea.

3 Q. How many kings and rulers reigned over Judah?

4 Q. Were all these rulers of Judah also great sinners, as well as the kings of Israel?

* In Dr. Watts' works, the questions on the history of the kings of Judah and Israel, are taken up separately. In the scriptures their history is blended. This department of the history of the Chart is also blended. The Chart, in manuscript, was put into the hands of the engraver, before Dr. Watts' book was seen at all. And the extreme difficulty attending the adaptation of his questions upon this subject, to the Chart, by mere transposition, so as to preserve his phraseology entire, rendered it necessary to compile them immediately from the sacred text.
Ans. A few of them were very religious, some very wicked, and others of an indifferent or mixed character.

5 Q. What was the character of Rehoboam? Ans. He followed evil courses; Solomon himself seems to intimate it, Eccles. ii. 19. For Rehoboam, see Chart, David, No. 15.

6 Q. What further occasion did Rehoboam give for the revolt of the tribes of Israel from him? Ans. 1 Kings xii. 8, &c.

7 Q. What followed upon this threatening of king Rehoboam? Ans. 1 Kings xii. 15, 20. 2 Chron. xi. 11, 12.

8 Q. What fell out in Rehoboam's reign, after the ten tribes had made Jeroboam king? Ans. 1 Kings xii. 22—25.

9 Q. Were there no wars between Judah and Israel? Ans. Yes, in the following times there were bloody wars between them.

10 Q. How did the people of Judah behave themselves under the government of Rehoboam? Ans. 1 Kings xiv. 21, 24.

[11 Q. By whom and for what reason was the kingdom of Judah invaded in the fifth year of Rehoboam's reign; and what was substituted in the place of the "shields of gold" made by Solomon? Ans. (1.) 1 Kings xiv. 25, 26. (2.) 27, 28. 2 Chron. xii. 5—8. For Shishak, see Chart, Ham, No. 5.

12 Q. How long did Rehoboam reign over Judah; what is said of the wars between himself and Jeroboam; and who succeeded him? Ans. (1.) 1 Kings xiv. 21. (2.) 30. (3.) 31. xv. 1. For Naamah, see Chart, Lot, No. 6.

13 Q. In what year of the world did Abijam, or Abijah, commence his reign; and what is said of his general character? Ans. A.M. 3046, See Chart, chron. V. dep. Ep. 1 Kings xv. 2—6. For Abijah, see ChartDavid, No. 15. Maachah, Benj. No. 9.]

14 Q. What was the chief character and crime of Jeroboam? Ans. 1 Kings xii. 28—30. For Jeroboam, see Chart, Ephraim, No. 9.
LESSON II.

Reign of the kings, continued.

15 Q. What was the worship he appointed? Ans. 1 Kings xii. 32.

16 Q. Wherein did it differ from the worship at Jerusalem? Ans. ver. 31, 32. and 2 Chron. xi. 14, 15. and xiii. 8, 9.

Note. Here it is not to be supposed that Jeroboam forsook the God of Israel, and taught the people to worship mere calves; but only that he devised of his own heart other times and places, and other forms and circumstances of worship to be paid to the God of Israel; and that by images or idols, which were probably the figures of the cherubs on the mercy-seat where God dwelt; but the scripture, in contempt, calls them calves. And the worship is called idolatry, and "the worship of other gods." The prophet Hosea, who lived in the days of Jeroboam the second, the son of Joash, perpetually rebukes this sin of idolatry, and inveighs against these idols, the calves. Hos. i. 1. viii. 3, 5. x. 5. and xiii. 2.

17 Q. For what end did Jeroboam do this? Ans. 1 Kings xii. 26, 27, 28.

18 Q. What visible token of displeasure did God manifest against this worship which Jeroboam set up? Ans. 1 Kings xiii. 1, 2.

Note. This prediction was fulfilled 334 years after. 2 Kings xxiii. 15.

19 Q. What sign did the prophet give that this prophecy should be fulfilled? Ans. 1 Kings xiii. 3, 4, [6—10.]

20 Q. What other token did God give of his anger against Jeroboam? Ans. 1 Kings xiv. 13.

[21 Q. By whom was the prophet who was sent to Jeroboam seduced into disobedience; what was the consequence; and what the future conduct of Jeroboam? Ans. (1.) 1 Kings xiii. 11—22. (2.) 23—32. (3.) 33, 34.

22 Q. By what circumstance was Jeroboam induced to go to a true prophet; and what "heavy tidings" was his wife required to return to him? Ans. (1.) 1 Kings xiv. 1—4. (2.) 5—16. For Abijah, see Chart, Ephraim No. 9, and map No. 4.

23 Q. Was the prophecy of Abijah in reference to the king's son fulfilled; and how many years did Jeroboam subsequently reign over Israel; and by whom was he succeeded? Ans. (1.) 1 Kings xiv. 17, 18. (2.) 19, 20. xv. 25, 26. See Chart, chron. dep. V. Ep. For Nadab, Ephraim, No. 9.

24 Q. Did Abijah, the son of Rehoboam, do anything remarkable in his reign? Ans. 1 Kings xv. 7. 2 Chron. xiii. 4—17.

26 Q. By whom was Abijah succeeded; when did his reign commence; and what was his character? Ans. 2 Chron. xiv. 1—5. For Asa, see Chart, David, No. 15.]

27 Q. What token of favor did God show him? Ans. 2 Chron. xiv. 9—15. [1 Kings xv. 9—15. 2 Chron. xv. 1—8.] For Azariah, see Chart, Hezron, No. 12.

[28 Q. In what year of the world did this occur? Ans. A. M. 3049. See Chart, chron. V. Ep.]

29 Q. Did Asa continue all his days to fear the Lord? Ans. 2 Chron. xvi. 1—10. [1 Kings xv. 16—22, 32.]

LESSON III.
Reign of the kings, continued.

[31 Q. Who usurped the throne of Israel after slaying Nadab, and all the house of Jeroboam? Ans. 1 Kings xv. 25—31. For Baasha, see Chart, Issachar, No. 8.

33 Q. Who predicted the ruin of Baasha's family; by whom was he succeeded; and in what year of Asa's reign did he ascend the throne? Ans. (1.) 1 Kings xvi. 1—4, 7. (2.) 5, 6, 8. For Elah, see Chart, Issachar, No. 8.

34 Q. How was the prophecy of Jehu against the house of Baasha fulfilled; and who succeeded Ela? Ans. (1.) 1 Kings xvi. 8—14. (2.) 10. For Zimri, see Chart, Issachar, No. 8, and map No. 4.

35 Q. By whom was Zimri opposed; what was his fate; and the consequence of the division of the kingdom of Israel? Ans. (1.) 1 Kings xvi. 15—20. (2.) 21, 22. For Omri, see Chart, Issachar, No. 8, and map No. 4.

36 Q. When did this event occur? Ans. A. M. 3074. See Chart, chron. V. Ep.]

37 Q. Who was Omri? Ans. 1 Kings. xvi. 16.

38 Q. What is recorded concerning Omri? Ans. 1 Kings xvi. 17—28.

39 Q. Who was Ahab; and what was his character? Ans. 1 Kings xvi. 29, 33, and xxi. 25. For Ahab, see Chart, Issachar, No. 8. Com. Josh. vi. 26, with 34 v. of this chapter.

[40 Q. What famous prophet was cotemporary with Ahab and Jehoshaphat? Ans. 1 Kings xvii. 1. For Elijah, see Chart, Gad, No. 11, and chron. V. Ep.

Note. Elijah was the prototype of John the Baptist. Mal. iv. 5.]

Note. The prophecies of Amos were principally directed against the kingdom of Israel, though he was a native of Tekoa, a city in the tribe of Judah. 2 Chron. x. 5, 6. See Chart, map No. 4. Hosea, though of the tribe of Issachar, in Israel, directs many of his predictions against Judah. 147 Q. What did Ahaz now do to strengthen himself against these invaders; what when he arrived at Damascus; and what on his return? Ans. (1.) 2 Kings xvi. 7—9. (2.) 10—15. (3.) 16—18. See Chart, map No. 4.

Note. This invasion of Tiglath-Pileser against Pekah, king of Israel, was in consequence of a combined attack upon Ahaz, king of Judah, by himself and Rezin, king of Syria, 2 Kings xvi. 5, 6. Ahaz having purchased the assistance of Tiglath-Pileser, A. M. 3245, with the golden treasures of the temple, v. 7, 8. But before Tiglath-Pileser came against Pekah and Rezin, they had carried great numbers of the subjects of Ahaz, king of Judah, captive to Damascus, besides smiting them with a great slaughter, 2 Chron. xxviii. 5—7, 8. And now, while the prophet Obed, on the one hand, prevails upon Israel to return their captive brethren, v. 9—15, Tiglath-Pileser, besides taking Damascus and slaying Rezin, 2 Kings xvi. 9, invaded the kingdom of Pekah, and carried captive into Assyria a large proportion of his subjects, 2 Kings xv. 29, 30. xvi. 9. This was the first captivity, A. M. 3263. See Chart, chron. V. Ep.
149 Q. With what kings of Judah and Israel were they cotemporary? Ans. See Chart, chron. dep. V. Ep. For Isaiah, David, No. 15. Micah, Judah, No. 8.

Note. These prophets were cotemporary with Hosea, who is supposed to have prophesied between eighty and ninety years, from Uzziah to Hezekiah. Micah, who was a Moras-thite of the tribe of Judah, uttered his predictions both against Judah and Israel; and, like the other prophets, his book contains the most cutting reproofs for sin, the heaviest denunciations of wrath, encouraging promises, and predictions concerning Christ and his kingdom. Isaiah, in connection with these, uttered various predictions relative to the destinies of other nations; as the Babylonians, the Moabites, the Syrians, the Egyptians, the Tyrians, the Assyrians, the fate of Sennacherib and his hostile army, and the future restoration of the Jews. His predictions of judgments upon God's ancient covenant people for their aggravated sins, are intermingled throughout with promises of pardon to the penitent. They abound with the most glowing representations of the future glory of the kingdom of Christ; of his person, character, offices, work, sufferings, death, &c.; and opening to view both worlds, we are furnished with a prospective of all the prominent evolutions of the militant church not only, but of the unalterable state of the righteous and the wicked in eternity.

150 Q. By whom was Ahaz succeeded in the government of Judah? Ans. 2 Kings xvi. 19, 20. For Hezekiah, see Chart, David, No. 15.

152 Q. What befell the nation of Israel in consequence of the conspiracy of Hoshea against Shalmanezer, and their long continued sins? Ans. 2 Kings xvii. 5—23. xviii. 11—16. For Shalmanezer, see Chart, Shem, No. 4, and map No. 5.
153 Q. Was Judah exempt from the punishment inflicted upon Israel? Ans. 2 Kings xvii. 19. xviii. 17—35. See Is. xxviii. 1—15.
154 Q. What heathen nations now occupied the vacant country of Israel; how were they molested there; and how did they obtain relief? Ans. (1.) 2 Kings xvii. 24. (2.) 25—29.

155 Q. What is further said of these colonists; and how does the chapter close? Ans. 2 Kings xvii. 30—41.

Note. The captive Jews of the kingdom of Judah, carried to Damascus by Pekah and Rezin, 2 Chron. xxviii. 5—7, 8, were returned again to their own country, 2 Chron. xxviii. 9—15. See note to q. 147. But from the captivity of Israel under Shalmanezer, when the remaining tribes left by Tiglath-Pileser were taken, they never were restored, 2 Kings xvii. 1—6, 23. This was the second captivity, A. M. 3283. See Chart, chron. V. Ep. and map No. 5.

PART V.

Note. Though it is not probable that the sacred volume became entirely extinct during the reigns of the idolatrous kings of Israel and Judah, yet such portions of it as most directly opposed their wicked practices, were expunged. By some unknown hand, however, a perfect copy of the sacred volume, and perhaps the one originally written by Moses himself, had been carefully and secretly deposited in the temple, and now discovered by Hilkiah, the high priest, and brought before the king.

11 Q. What was this dream which Daniel rehearsed before the king? Ans. Dan. ii. 31—35.

12 Q. What was the interpretation of it? Ans. [Note. The Babylonish, or Assyrian empire, now gave place to the empire of the Medes and Persians, under Darius, by the transcendant valor of Cyrus, his nephew. To Cyrus, Darius was indebted for his principal conquests. Nevertheless, Cyrus yielded to his uncle the precedence, till his death, about two years after the conquest of Babylon, when, succeeding him to the throne, he became master of the Persian empire, which commenced in 3465. See q. 12.]

36 Q. What were some of his visions and prophecies? Ans. Emblems and representations of the four monarchies of the world, and of the kingdom of Christ: and predictions concerning future events among the Jews, and other nations of the earth; some of which are expressed so plainly, that the enemies of the Bible suppose them to be written after those events came to pass, chap. vii. viii. and xi.

37 Q. What remarkable answer did Daniel receive to his excellent prayer for the restoration of the Jews? Ans. Dan. ix. 20—27.

[Note. According to the prediction of Jeremiah, ch. xxv. 11., the captivity of Judah was to continue seventy years. This period, computing the time from the captivity in the fourth year of Jehoiakim, 2 Kings xxiv. 1–4. A. M. 3398, Daniel found had expired; which was the first year of the reign of Cyrus, king of Persia. 2 Chron. xxxvi.

SECTION IV.

OF THE RETURN OF THE JEWS FROM CAPTIVITY, AND THE REBUILDING THE CITY OF JERUSALEM AND THE TEMPLE.

PERIOD IV.

Extending from the restoration, A. M. 3468, to the completion of the Temple, &c., under Nehemiah, A. M. 3585; embracing a period of 177 years.]

LESSON III.

The Restoration of the Jews.

[39 Q. What prophet predicted of Cyrus, 200 years before his birth; and to what particular circumstance was he indebted for his success in the conquest of 40 Q. What prediction was fulfilled in the proclamation made by Cyrus to restore the captive Jews;

and through whose instrumentality was it procured?
Ans. (1.) Jer. xxxix. 10. (2.) Dan. i. 21.]

41 What was the import of this proclamation; and what effect followed? Ans. (1.) Ezra i. 1—4. (2.)
5, 6.

42 Q. How long did the nation of the Jews continue in their captivity, and their land lie desolate?
Ans. Though the land lay not utterly destitute till the final destruction of Jerusalem, in the days of Zedekiah, which was between fifty and sixty years before their first release; yet, from their first captivity by Nebuchadnezzar in former reigns, their land was in some measure desolate seventy years, according to the
xxv. 11, 12.
Note. Here let it be observed, that as there were several seasons, and under different kings, when part of the children of Israel and Judah were carried into captivity, and several periods whence their desolations may commence; so there were several seasons also of their return and restoration; but the chief duration of their captivity and desolate circumstances was seventy years. See 2 Kings xxiv. 1, 2, 10—14, and xxv. 11. compared with Ezra i. 1, 2, vi. 1—12, vii. 7. and Neh. ii. 1, &c.

43 Q. Who released them from their captivity in Babylon? Ans. Ezra i. 7—11.

Note. Now was that prophecy fulfilled which Isaiah pronounced above a hundred years before, Isaiah lxiv. 28., that it was Cyrus who should say to Jerusalem, “Be thou built;” and to the Temple, “Be thy foundation laid;” and chapter xlv. 13. who should “build the city of God, and release his captives.”

44 Q. Which of the tribes accepted of this commission, and returned to their own land? Ans. Ezra i. 5, and iv. 12.

45 Q. Who were the first leaders and directors? Ans. Ezra i. 11. ii. 2—62. and iii. 8. compared with v. 14—16. and Zech. iii. and iv. For the above names, see Chart, Index, &c.

Note. This Sheshbazzar, or Zerubbabel, was the son of Salathiel, the son of Jehoiachin, or Jechoniah, king of Judah; he was made governor of the land under the title of Tirshatha, by a commission from Cyrus. Jeshua was the son of Jozadak, or Josedeck, the son of Seraiah, who was high priest when Jerusalem was destroyed, and who was put to death by Nebuchadnezzar.

[Jeshua, v. 2., or Joshua, was at this time high priest, Hag. i. 1. Zech. iii. 1. Ezra iii. 2. The Jeshua, v. 9, of this chapter, is another person. Compare the number of the children of Bethlehem, v. 21., with the prophecy which relates to it as the birthplace of Christ, Micah v. 2.

46 Q. What were the number of priests who at this time returned to Jerusalem; and who among them could not prove that they were of the seed of Israel? Ans. (1.) Ezra ii. 36—39. (2.) 59, 60.
47 Q. What was done with those children of the priests who had lost the evidence of their descent? Ans. Ezra ii. 61, 62.

48 Q. What order was now issued from the Tishath, or governor? Ans. Ezra ii. 63.]

49 Q. What was the first thing they did after their return? Ans. Ezra ii. 68, &c., and iii. 1—6.

50 Q. In what manner did they lay the foundation of the temple? Ans. Ezra iii. 10, 11.

51 Q. What remarkable occurrences attended the laying of the foundation of the temple?

Ans. While the younger part of the people shouted for joy, many of the ancient fathers wept with a loud voice, when they remembered how much more glorious the first temple had been than the second was likely to be. Ezra iii. 12, 13, and Hag. ii. 3.

Note. Here it may be observed, that though the foundation of the second temple stood on the same compass of ground as the first, yet a company of poor exiles, returning from a long captivity, could not promise or hope for so glorious a building as the temple of Solomon, neither in the richness of the materials, nor in the magnificence and curiosity of the workmanship. See Dr. Prideaux’s Connection, vol. i. p. 143.

The Jews also generally suppose five things to be wanting in the second temple, after it was finished, which belonged to the first; namely, (1.) The ark of the covenant, and the mercy-seat, which was upon it, with the cherubs of gold, together with the tables of stone in which the law was written, which were in the ark when it was brought into Solomon’s temple, 1 Kings viii. 9. 2 Chron. v. 10. though one would think they should have made an ark and a mercy-seat, before which the high priest should officiate once a year. Some learned men supposed there was such an ark made, and that Ezra’s correct copy of the Bible was laid up in it; and that it is in imitation of this that the present Jews, in all their synagogues, have such an ark, or coffer, wherein they keep the law. (2.) The Shechinah, or divine presence, in a cloud of glory on the mercy-seat. (3.) The Urim and Thummim, whence the oracle came, or divine answers to their inquiries. (4.) The holy fire upon the altar, which came from heaven. (5.) The spirit of prophecy. For though Haggai, Zechariah, and Malachi, lived while the second temple was building, and prophesied after it was built, yet on their death the prophetic spirit ceased from among them.
52 Q. What prophet flourished at this time; and how did he encourage them in the prosecution of their work? Ans. (1.) Hag. i. 1. (2.) 3—9. See Chart, chron. VI. Ep.

54 Q. What was the first hindrance they found in the building of the temple? Ezra iv. 1—5.

55 Q. What was the second hindrance they met with? Ans. Ezra iv. 7—24.

Note. This was not Darius, the first king, and he who took Babylon, and released Daniel from the lions' den; but another, who reigned several years after him, and was called Darius Hystaspes, as the best authors assert; and this also was long before that Darius whom Alexander subdued, and after whose overthrow he put an end to the Persian kingdom.

Here let it be observed in general, that it is not a very easy matter for learned men to agree exactly in adjusting the time of all these events, and the particular accomplishment of every prophecy, because there were several kings of the same name: as three or four Artaxerxes', and three or more Darius's, &c. And there were four decrees from the kings of Persia in favor of the Jews; the first from Cyrus to Zerubbabel, or Sheshbazzar, a prince of Judah, Ezra i. 1—8. The second from Darius the second, to the enemies of the Jews, to forbid the hindrance of the work, Ezra vi. 1—7. The third from Artaxerxes the second, to Ezra, recorded in Ezra vii. 11. The fourth from the same Artaxerxes to Nehemiah, written in Nehem. ii. 1—9.

56 Q. Who persuaded the Jews to go on with their work under the reign of this Darius? Ans. Ezra, v. 1—5. Hag. i. 2—11. Zech. i. 7, &c., and iii. iv. For Tatnai and Shethar-boznai, see Chart, Elam, No. 5.

58 Q. What favorable result followed; and what penalties were threatened to any who should further oppose this work? Ans. (1.) Ezra vi. 1—10. (2.) 11, 12. For Darius, see Chart, Elam, No. 4, called Darius Hystaspes.
59 Q. When was the temple finished? Ans. Ezra vi. 15—22.

Note. Here it may be worthy of our observation, that the threatened destruction of Babylon kept pace with the promised restoration and joy of the Jews. It was Cyrus who, as general of the army of Darius the first, took Babylon by siege, with blood and slaughter, who also released the captive Jews, when he came to be king of Persia. Then the river was turned in upon the country round it: which Isaiah foretold, xiv. 23, "and it became a possession for bitterns and pools of water, and the sea covered it." Yet Babylon was not then destroyed. But when the Babylonians revolted, in the fifth year of Darius Hystaspes, and he besieged them with a vast army, their desolation was very great. They themselves slew almost all their women and young children to make their provisions hold out. Then the prophecy of Isaiah was fulfilled, xlvii. 9. "Two things shall come to them in one day, the loss of children and widowhood." Darius took the city in the end of the sixth year of his reign, (at which time the Jewish temple was finished;) he gave them up to the plunder of his Persian army, impaled three thousand who were chief actors in the revolt, beat their walls down from three hundred cubits high, to fifty cubits. After this Babylon languished awhile, and at last ended in a perpetual desolation.

LESSON IV.

Ezra leaves Babylon, &c.

60 Q. In the reign of what king did Ezra and others come up from Babylon to Jerusalem; and what is said of his descent, profession, and character? Ans. (1.) Ezra vii. 1. (2.) 1—5. See Chart, Kohath, No. 7. (3.) 6, 7, 8. (4.) 9, 10.

Note. This second Artaxerxes is supposed, by Dr. Prideaux, to be Artaxerxes Longimanus, as the heathen historians call him, and to be that same Ahasuerus who made Esther his queen, and so became very friendly to the Jews.
The History of Esther.

61 Q. Who was Esther? Ans. Esther ii. 5, 6. For Esther, see Chart, Jehiel and Maachah, No. 9. For Vashti, Elam, No. 4.
62 Q. Where was she educated? Ans. Esth. ii. 7.
63 Q. To what honor was she advanced? Ans. Esth. ii. 16, 17.

Note. This Ahasuerus is supposed by Dr. Prideaux, and that with great probability, to be that second Artaxerxes, king of Persia, who was called Longimanus; and who, perhaps, being influenced by Esther and Mordecai, gave a decree for Ezra to promote the building of the temple of Jerusalem, after the captivity in Babylon. See chap. xiii. qu. 9 and 13.

64 Q. What was the occasion of Vashti's disgrace? Ans. Esth. i. 10—12.
65 Q. What service did Mordecai do for the king, which laid a foundation for his future advancement? Ans. Esth. ii. 21—23.
66 Q. Who was made the king's chief favorite a little after this time? Ans. Esth. iii. 1, 2. For Haman, see Chart, Esau, No. 6.
67 Q. Wherein did Mordecai offend Haman? Ans. Esth. iii. 2.
68 Q. How did Haman attempt to revenge himself? Ans. Esth. iii. 6, &c.
69 Q. What did Mordecai do on this occasion? Ans. Esth. iv.
70 Q. Did Esther comply with this request? Ans. Esth. v. 1.
72 Q. What was Esther's first request to the king? Ans. Esth. v. 3—8.
73 Q. How was Haman employed on that day? Ans. Esth. v. 9—14.

LESSON V.

74 Q. How did the king pass the time that night? Ans. Esth. vi. 1, 2.
75 Q: What effect had this on the king? Ans. Esth. vi. 11.
76 Q. In what remarkable hour did Haman receive this order from the king? Ans. Esth. vi. 4, 5, 77 Q. When the king and Haman were come to the banquet, what was queen Esther's further request? Ans. Esth. vii. 1—7.

78 Q. What change of affairs ensued on this petition to the king? Ans. Esth. vii. 9, 10, and viii. 1—17.

79 Q. Why was not the order for the slaughter of the Jews rather reversed? Ans. Esth. viii. 8.

80 Q. How did the Jews defend themselves in the day designed for their general slaughter? Ans. Esth. ix. 1—16.

81 Q. What memorial of this great deliverance was preserved among the Jews? Ans. Esth. ix. 20—32.

82 Q. What was the name of this festival? Ans. Esth. ix. 26, 27, and iii. 7.

83 Q. How does this history appear to be a true account of things, since there is not the least hint who was the writer of it, nor is the name of God in it?

Ans. Because it is delivered down to us among the sacred writings by the Jews themselves, who "were the keepers of the oracles of God," Rom. iii. 2; and because this feast of Purim is observed by the Jews to this day, in memory of this deliverance.

85 Q. How did Ezra express his gratitude on this occasion? Ans. Ezra vii. 27, 28.

Note. It is generally supposed that this commission given to Ezra, and also the one given to Nehemiah, were procured by the agency of queen Esther, the great benefactress of the Jewish nation.

86 Q. What is now said of the persons who accompanied Ezra from Babylon; and what was done to supply a want of priests, of which they were then deficient? Ans. (1.) Ezra viii. 1—14. (2.) 15. (3.) 16—20.

87 Q. What did Ezra do in his journey to Jerusalem? Ans. Ezra vii. 21, 22.

89 Q. What reformation did Ezra work among the people? Ans. Ezra ix. and x.

Note. None of the Jews of either sex might marry with a Gentile of any nation, unless they were made proselytes; and even then they suppose the Canaanites of the seven nations, Deut. vii., and the males among the Moabites and Ammonites, to be excluded forever: as they interpret Deut. xxiii. 3.

LESSON VI.

90 Q. How was Ezra affected when informed of the intermarriages of the priests and people with the heathen; and what did he then do?
   Ans. (1.) Ezra ix. 1—4. (2.) 5—15. For the above names, see Chart, Index, &c.

91 Q. With what acknowledgments from the people was this deep humiliation and prayer of Ezra followed; and what expedient was proposed for the removal of the evil?
   Ans. (1.) Ezra x. 1. (2.) 1—5.

92 Q. Was it executed accordingly; and what followed?
   Ans. (1.) Ezra x. 6—8. (2.) 9—17. (3.) 18—44. See Chart, index, &c.

93 Q. Did the Jews rebuild the city of Jerusalem?
   Ans. Neh. i. 3.

94 Q. Whom did God raise up to carry on the rebuilding the city?
   Ans. Neh. i. 11. For Nehemiah, see Chart, Aminadab, No. 14.

95 Q. How was Nehemiah engaged herein?
   Ans. Neh. ii. 1—7.

96 Q. What further encouragement did Nehemiah receive from the king?
   Ans. Neh. ii. 7, 8.

97 Q. How did Nehemiah begin his work?
   Ans. Neh. ii. and iii.

98 Q. What opposition did the Jews meet with in this part of their work?

99 Q. How did Nehemiah prevent the mischief they designed?

100 Q. What reformation did Nehemiah work among them?
   Ans. Neh. v. 7—19.

101 Q. Was the wall finally finished; and what effect did it produce upon their enemies?
   Ans. (1.) Neh. vi. 15. (2.) 16.

102 Q. What other circumstance now occurred to excite the fears of Nehemiah; and what did he do notwithstanding?
103 Q. What followed? Ans. (1.) Neh. vii. 5—7, &c. (2.) 70—73.
104 Q. In what manner did they worship God when the city was built? Ans. Neh. viii. 1—8.

Note. It is a remark of Dr. Prideaux, that though Ezra's authority and government expired before this time, yet he went on as a skillful scribe of the law of God, to preach righteousness, to perfect the reformation, to gather several parts of scripture together, to set forth correct copies of them, and to bring all things in church and state to the rules thereof: and this he did by the assistance of the next governor, Nehemiah, doing the same things by his authority, which before he did by his own.

106 Q. How did they keep a fast on the twenty-fourth day of the seventh month? Ans. Neh. ix. [1—3. 4—37. 38.] and x. 1, 2.

LESSON VII.

107 Q. What did the rest of the people do; and what were the particular obligations embraced therein? Ans. (1.) Neh. x. 1—27. (2.) 28, 29. (3.) 30—39.
108 Q. How were the people disposed of in their habitations? Ans. Neh. xi.
109 Q. How was the wall of Jerusalem the holy city dedicated? Ans. Neh. xii. 27—43.

Note. This young man's name was Manasseh, as Josephus informs us.

112 Q. Had Nehemiah no prophet to assist him in this difficult work?
Ans. It is supposed that Malachi, the last of the prophets prophesied about this time, for he doth not reprove them for neglect of building as Haggai did, Hag. i. 4, 9, nor does he speak of the finishing of the temple as Zachariah did, iv. 7; 9. But supposing that already done, he reproved them about their marriage of strangers, and of several wives, or of taking concubines, Mal. ii. 11, 14, 16; their robbing God of their tithes, chap. iii. &c.; their polluting the altar, and neglect of offering God the best, chap. i.; which were the very things which Nehemiah corrected in his last reformation.

Thus far the holy scripture has delivered down to us the history of the transactions of God with men, and particularly with his own people, the nation of Israel, in a long and continued succession of events, from the creation of the world, to the return of the Jews from the captivity of Babylon, and the settling of the church and state under Nehemiah, whom the king of Persia made governor over the land.

PART II.

INTRODUCTION.

The learned Dr. Prideaux hath written two large and valuable volumes, which he calls the Connection of the History of the Old and New Testament: wherein he gives us an account of all the most credible things that he can find in ancient historians, relating to the Jews and their customs, as well as their history, during that period of time between the end of the Old Testament and the beginning of the New: he intermingles also a large collection of historical matters relating to Persia, Babylon, Egypt, Syria, Asia Minor, Greece, Rome, and all the more known and remarkable nations of the earth, wherein the great affairs of the four monarchs of the world were transacted. This renders his work a little too tedious to those who expected nothing more than a mere continuation of the Jewish history to the times of our Savior.

Now it is only a very brief abstract of the history of the Jews which I endeavor here to set before the reader, that he may gain a little acquaintance with the affairs of the Jews, or the church of God, from the days of Nehemiah, when scripture-history ends, to the beginning of the gospel, and the times of Christ. A great part of it must be taken originally from Josephus the Jewish historian, and from the Books of Maccabees, which I have consulted on this occasion; but I have borrowed much further light and assistance from Dr. Prideaux in this matter, whose laborious collection from heathen writers, and judicious determination in many dubious points, have rendered his work more complete and accurate, and mine more easy.
CHAPTER I.

LESSON I.

Nehemiah's reformation, continued.

1 Q. What further reformation did Nehemiah make in Israel?
   Ans. It is reported by the Jews, that he himself, together with Ezra the scribe, having found a great want of the knowledge of the law among the people, did about this time appoint the reading of the law in the several towns and cities; and on this occasion, it is supposed that synagogues began to be built throughout the land, or at least to be restored and renewed, if there had been any built before.

2 Q. Where were the synagogues to be built?
   Ans. According to the account which the Jews have given us, they might be built in any town where ten persons of full age, and of such condition and easy circumstances of life, could be found as to be always at leisure to attend the service.

3 Q. What was the service performed in the synagogues?
   Ans. Prayer and praises to God, reading the holy scriptures, and preaching and expounding them.

4 Q. In what manner were the scriptures expounded?
   Ans. The Jews and their posterity having lost much of their own language in Babylon, did not so well understand the scriptures in the Hebrew tongue; and therefore when Ezra read the law to the people, the sense was given to them in Chaldee, by many Levites, who stood by, and “caused them to understand the reading,” Neh. viii. 4—8. And this manner of reading the scripture, verse by verse, and translating it into the Chaldee, with some little paraphrase upon it, was the manner of expounding used in the ancient synagogues.

Note 1. This was the original of the Jewish Targums, which word in Chaldee signifies an interpretation. For when synagogues were multiplied among the Jews, beyond the number of able interpreters, it became necessary that such translations of the Hebrew into Chaldee should be made, for the use of the teachers and the people; and that in private families also, as well as in synagogues.

There were formerly many of these Targums, or translations, or expositions, and that upon different parts of scripture, and of different sorts; as there were also many different versions of the scripture into Greek in the following ages for the same purposes. Several of these Targums are lost through length of time; but the chief of those which remain to this day are the Targum or Chaldee paraphrase of Onkelos, upon the law of Moses; and the Targum of Jonathan Ben Uzzieh, upon the prophets: both which some learned men suppose to be written before Christ; and are by the Jews valued as equal to the Hebrew text. As for the Jerusalem Targum, it is an exposition upon the law; and others are upon different parts of scripture; but they are all of less esteem, and of much later date. But neither the one nor the other of the Targums was much known to the primitive Christian writers, though these expositions greatly favor the Christian cause.

Note 2. Among the Jews, the books of Joshua, Judges, Samuel, and Kings, &c., are sometimes called the former prophets; and the books of Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and the twelve minor prophets, are called the latter prophets: but they are called the prophets; thus the law and the prophets make up the whole Bible.

Note 3. That there are in Daniel two hundred verses of the Bible written originally in Chaldee, and sixty-seven in Ezra, and one verse in Jeremiah, namely ver. 11, chap. x. And some suppose, for this reason, there is no Targum on Daniel, and Ezra; neither indeed is there on Nehemiah, though that book be called Hebrew.

LESSON II.

Time of worship, &c.

5 Q. What were the times appointed for this service in the synagogues?

Ans. Two days in the week, besides the sabbath and their other festivals: the law being divided into so many sections or lessons as there are weeks in their year, they read half a lesson on Monday morning, and the other half on Thursday morning; and this same whole lesson they read on the sabbath, both morning and afternoon, Acts xxv. 21. We are told that reading the law was a custom of ancient times on the sabbath; and when reading of the prophets was added to that of the law, they observed the same order in it.

6 Q. What were the hours for their daily prayer?
Ans. At the time of morning and evening sacrifice and incense, Luke i. 9, 10. Acts iii. 1. "While Zacharias was offering incense, the people were praying in the court: and Peter and John went up to pray in the temple at this time." To these hours they conformed their prayers in the temple, and in their synagogue, and usually too in their own houses.

Note. The Jews supposed that the offering up of the daily sacrifices, and the burning of incense at the same time, were designed to render God propitious to them, and make their prayers acceptable; and for this reason they conformed their times of prayer to these hours. So David prays, Psalm cxli. 2, "Let my prayer be set forth before thee as incense," &c. And Rev. viii. 4, 5. "And the smoke of the incense which came with the prayer of the saints ascended up before God out of the angel's hands."

7 Q. Had they any other season of prayer besides these two?

Ans. The Jews inform us, that besides these, they had a prayer at the beginning of night while the evening sacrifice was left burning on the altar. Thus by their three prayers in a day, they imitated the ancients: David prayed morning, noon, and evening, Psalm lv. 17. Daniel prayed three times a day, Dan. vi. 10.

8 Q. Who ministered in the service of the synagogue?

Ans. The priests and Levites were consecrated to the service of the temple; but for the service of the synagogue, persons of any tribe were appointed by some elders of that town, who were called "rulers of the synagogue." So our Savior, being of the tribe of Judah, read and expounded in the synagogue, Luke iv. 16. So after reading the law and the prophets, Paul and Silas were engaged in preaching, when the master of the synagogue asked them for "a word of exhortation" to the people, Acts xiii. 15.

9 Q. But were there not other places of prayer distinct from the synagogue?

Ans. The synagogues were sometimes called prayer-houses, yet there were prayer-houses called Proseuchai, which differed from synagogues in three respects. (1.) Synagogues were built for public worship, but these places of prayer for any one's private devotions occasionally. (2.) Synagogues were covered houses, but the places of prayer were courts or enclosures, with walls, and open to the sky. (3.) Synagogues were chiefly in the towns or cities, the prayer-houses in open fields, or on mountains; such are mentioned where our Savior "spent a whole night in the prayer-house," as it should be translated, Luke vi. 12, and thither pious persons restored, and "prayer was wont to be made," Acts xvi. 13, 16.
10 Q. Is there any certainty that there were any synagogues before this time?

Ans. That there were some places of assembly for divine things in the land of Israel, before the destruction of Jerusalem and the temple of Nebuchadnezzar, seems pretty plain from Psalm lxxiv. 7, 8. "They have burnt all the synagogues of God in the land." Though they might be but very few and not established by any authority, nor so constantly attended as afterwards. And yet, considering that the Jews fell so frequently into idolatry before, and had so few copies of the law, it is questioned by some learned men, whether there were any such synagogues at all in the land of Israel till after the Babylonish captivity.

11 Q. What eminent and remarkable service was done by these public places of worship?

Ans. It is supposed that frequent public readings of the law in the synagogues, after that time, were a special means to excite and preserve in the people of the Jews that universal and perpetual hatred of idolatry to which they were so shamefully prone before; and it did also diffuse and maintain the knowledge of true religion and virtue in the land.

12 Q. Were these synagogues built any where besides in Judea?

Ans. When the Jews were afterwards scattered abroad into various nations, they built places of worship for themselves wherever the rulers of the country would permit them.

LESSON III.

Advantages of synagogues, &c.

13 Q. Of what advantage were these synagogues to the heathens or afterward to Christianity?

Ans. It was by means of these synagogues that the heathens, where the Jews were dispersed, came to know the true God, and some general principles of virtue and piety, and became proselytes of the gate: and by these public places and seasons of worship, there was afterwards an opportunity given to publish the gospel of Christ by the apostles, both among the Jews and Gentiles, Acts xvii. 1, 2, and xix. 8.

14 Q. What is meant by proselytes of the gate?

Ans. Those Gentiles who renounced idolatry, and received the knowledge and the worship of the one true God, the God of Israel; and, as some affirm, they received also the rules of abstaining from blood, and things strangled, and things offered to idols, which were forbidden, Acts xv., to the Gentile converts to Christianity.
Note. These rules, with a few others, have been usually called the seven precepts of Noah, which the Jews make as necessary for all the world to obey, as the law of Moses was for them; and doubtless the laws given to Noah were given to all the world, because all sprang from him.

15 Q. Why were they called proselytes of the gate?
Ans. The word proselyte signifies one that embraces a new religion; and they were called proselytes of the gate, because they were suffered to live within the gates of the Jews, according to the expression in the fourth commandment, "the stranger which is within thy gates." They were also permitted by the Jews to enter the outward court of the temple, called the court of the Gentiles, when that was built, and to worship God there; but they were excluded from the gate of the inner court.

Note. These are they who in the books of the Acts of the apostles are supposed by some to be called the "devout persons," and those who "feared God," &c. Acts x. 17. xiii. 50. xvii. 4. and xiii. 16. Among these was the chief harvest of the first Christian converts; though there might be many persons too, who worshiped the one true God, who were under no proselytism to the Jewish church.

16 Q. What were the other sort of proselytes?
Ans. They were such Gentiles as consented to be circumcised, and obliged themselves to practice all the law of Moses, Gal. v. 3., therefore they were called proselytes of righteousness: they were taken into the Jewish nation, and united with them; and were also called proselytes of the temple, because they were admitted by the Jews into the inner courts.

Note. This distinction of proselytes has been supported by the common opinion for near two hundred years; but since it is said to have no better foundation than the Babylonish Talmud, it is doubted by some learned men whether there were any proselytes, either under the Old or New Testaments, besides those who were circumcised and complete.

17 Q. Having heard this particular account of synagogues and proselytes, proceed now to say what was the last act of Nehemiah's reformation which we read in scripture?
Ans. That he turned out Manasseh, the son or grandson of the high priest, for marrying the daughter of Sanballat the Horonite, Neh. xiii. 28.

18 Q. What did Sanballat do with his son-in-law Manasseh on this occasion?
Ana. He procured a grant from Darius Nothus, who was now king of Persia, to build on Mount Gerizim, near Samaria, a temple like that at Jerusalem, and to make Manasseh, his son-in-law, the high priest of it.

19 Q. What was the consequence of this measure?

Ans. Samaria thenceforth became the refuge of the rebellious Jews, who were called to account for breaking the sabbath, eating unclean meats, or were found guilty in sinning against the law in any remarkable instances.

20 Q. What change was wrought hereby among the Samaritans?

Ans. Their first original was from some eastern heathens, who were planted thereby by the king of Assyria, after the captivity of Israel; but when on several occasions the Jews flocked to them, it made a considerable change in their religion; for though before they worshiped the God of Israel in conjunction with other gods, 2 Kings xvii. 24—41, they now cast off their idolatry; and since a temple was built amongst them, in which the Jewish service was performed, and the law of Moses read publicly, they came much nearer to the worship of the true God prescribed in scripture.

21 Q. Did not the Jews love them the better on this account?

Ans. No, by no means; but they hated them grievously: the enmity which began from the opposition which the Samaritans made to the Jews in their rebuilding Jerusalem and the temple, was so exceedingly increased by their sheltering all the rebellious Jews, that the Jews at Jerusalem published the bitterest curse against them that ever was denounced against any people.

22 Q. What miseries were contained in this curse?

Ans. The Jews forbade all communication with the Samaritans; declared all the fruits of their land and their cattle unclean; excluded them from being ever received as proselytes; and barred them, as far as possible, from having any portion in the resurrection of the dead to eternal life.

23 Q. What appearance of this great enmity do we find in the New Testament?

Ans. This seems to be confirmed by the words of scripture, John iv. 9: "The Jews have no dealings with the Samaritans." And the woman of Samaria asked our Savior, "how is it that thou, being a Jew, askest drink of me, who am a woman of Samaria?" And when the Jews would give the worst name they could to our Savior, they said, "thou art a Samaritan and hast a devil," John viii. 48.
Note. The death of Nehemiah, and the accession of Artaxerxes Mnemon to the Persian throne, occurred about this time.

24 Q. What prophet now flourished?
Ans. Malachi, between A. M. 3568 and 3604.

CHAPTER II.

OF THE JEWISH AFFAIRS UNDER THE PERSIAN AND GRECIAN MONARCHIES, [FROM THE ACCESSION OF ARTAXERXES MNEMON TO THE THRONE OF HIS FATHER, TO THE DIVISION OF THE EMPIRE OF ALEXANDER AMONG HIS FOUR GENERALS, A. M. 3683, EMBRACING A PERIOD OF 71 YEARS.]

LESSON IV.

Jewish affairs after Nehemiah's death.

1 Q. How were the Jews governed after the death of Nehemiah?
Ans. We find not any more particular governors of Judea, made by the kings or emperors of Persia; but Judea seems to be made subject to those whom the Persian kings made governors of Syria; and that under them the regulation of affairs was committed to the high priest; so that he had all the sacred authority, and the civil power also, in a great measure, under the Syrian governor.

2 Q. Did the high priests continue their regular successions, as the eldest of Aaron's family?
Ans. This succession was sometimes interrupted by the emperors of the world, or their deputed governors of the provinces, appointing another person to take that office.

3 Q. What is the first remarkable instance of that kind?
Ans. When Johanan, or Jonathan, the son of Joiada, Neh. xii. 11., had possessed the royal priesthood several years, Bagases, the governor of Syria, appointed his younger brother, Jeshua, to depose him, and take the priesthood; upon which there was a tumult in the inner court of the temple, and Johanan slew Jeshua there.
[4 Q. When did this event take place?
Ans. A. M. 3633.]

5 Q. How did Bagos, the governor, resent this?
Ans. He entered into the inner court of the temple, though the Jews forbade him as being unclean; but he told them he was purer than the dead carcass of him whom they had slain there; and imposed on the priests a fine of about thirty-one shillings for every lamb that was offered throughout the year.

6 Q. What was the next remarkable difficulty and deliverance which the Jews met with?
Ans. They were most remarkably saved from the oppression and resentment of Alexander the Great, who was king of Macedonia, in Greece, when they had refused to assist him in the siege of Tyrus.

7 Q. In what manner were they delivered?
Ans. When Alexander marched against Jerusalem, designing to punish the Jews on this account, Jaddua, the high priest, the son of Johanan, being directed by a night vision, met the conqueror in his priestly robes, with the other priests attending him in proper habits, and all the people in white garments: Alexander being struck with this sight, saluted the high priest with a religious veneration, embraced him, entered Jerusalem in a friendly manner, and offered sacrifices to God in the temple for his late victories.

8 Q. How came Alexander so suddenly to change his purpose, and behave himself with so much mildness?
Ans. Alexander declared that he himself, in Macedonia, had seen this very same person, thus habited, in a night vision, encouraging him to pursue his expedition against the Persians, and promising him success.

9 Q. What further favors did Alexander show the Jews?
Ans. When Jaddua the high priest had shown him the prophecies of Daniel, particularly chap. viii. ver. 21., where the he-goat is interpreted to be the king of Grecia, who should conquer the Medes and Persians; and chap. xi. 3, he bade the Jews ask what they had to desire of him; and according to their request he granted them the liberty of their own laws and religion, and a freedom from tribute or taxes every seventh year, because then they neither sowed nor reaped.

[10 Q. When did this occur?
Ans. A. M. 3662. See Chart, chron. VI. Ep.]

11 Q. Did Alexander succeed in his following wars, and his attempts against the Persian empire, according to the Jewish prophecy?
Ans. When he departed out of Judea and Palestine, he marched into Egypt, which speedily submitted to him: there he built the city Alexandria, and peopled it with several nations, among whom were many Jews, to whom he gave the same privileges as to his own Macedonians. The next spring he hastened to find out Darius Codomannus, king of Persia, whom he had routed once before, and he now vanquished him in a final decisive battle near Arbela, and became master of the Persian empire.

12 Q. How long did he reign after this battle?
Ans. He went on and conquered India: but in five years' time he fell into such riot and drunkenness, that put an end to his life; though others say he was poisoned.

13 Q. What became of the Jews after Alexander's death?
Ans. A little after the death of Alexander, four of his generals divided his empire, who were the "four horns of the he-goat," mentioned by the prophet Daniel, which grew up after breaking the first horn, Dan. viii. 22. and xi. 4. And the Jews fell under the dominion of Ptolemy, afterwards surnamed Soter, who had Egypt, Arabia, Cælo-Syria, and Palestine, or the land of Israel, for his share.

Note. Here it may be observed, that as Ptolemy had Egypt, Palestine, &c., for his share, so Cassander had Macedonia and Greece; Lysimachus had Thrace and Bithynia, and some other provinces thereabout; Seleucus had Syria, and the northern and eastern provinces in Asia. Thus was the empire of Alexander the Great divided among his generals.
CHAPTER III.

LESSON V.

Ptolemy, &c.

[1 Q. By whom was Jaddua succeeded in the high priesthood?
   Ans. His son, Onias the 1st, called the ancient.

   Note. During the exercise of his priesthood, 100,000 Jews were made captives, A. M. 3683. He died in the fifth year of the reign of Ptolemy Soter, over Egypt.]

2 Q. How did Ptolemy, king of Egypt, deal with the Jews?
   Ans. Ptolemy designing to make Alexandria, which was built by Alexander, in Egypt, his capital city, he persuaded a multitude of Jews to settle there, granting them the same privileges as Alexander had done before him; whence it came to pass that Alexandria had a greater number of Jews still flocking to it.

3 Q. What remarkable story is related of one Mosollam, a Jew, who followed Ptolemy about this time?
   Ans. When a certain soothsayer, or cunning man, advised a Jewish troop of horse, in which Mosollam rode, to stand still, upon the sight of a bird in the way, and told them that they should either go backward or forward, as that bird took its flight, the Jew, being a great archer, immediately shot the bird with an arrow, and said, "How could that poor wretched bird foreshow us our fortune, which knew nothing of its own?" Hereby he designed to expose and condemn the superstition of the heathens.
4 Q. How did it fare with the Jews that were dispersed about Babylon?

Ans. Seleucus, another of Alexander's generals, who ruled in the greater and the lesser Asia, built many cities; sixteen of which he called Antioch, from Antiochus his father; nine were called Seleucia, from his own name; six Laodicea, from the name of Laodice, his mother; others Apamea and Stratonice, from his wives; in all of which he planted Jews, and gave them equal privileges with the Greeks or Macedonians, especially at Antioch and Syria, where they settled in great numbers.

5 Q. What considerable person rose among the Jews at Jerusalem about this time, [as successor to Onias the first?]

Ans. Simon the Just, who is spoken of so honorably in the fiftieth chapter of Ecclesiasticus; he was a high priest of the Jews about this time, who merited the surname of the Just by his great holiness toward God, and justice toward men; and he was the last of the men of the great synagogue.

6 Q. What was this great synagogue, and who were the men that composed it?

Ans. A hundred and twenty elders, who, in a continued succession, after the return of the Jews from Babylon, labored in restoring the Jewish church and state; and made it their chief care to publish the scriptures to the people with great accuracy.

7 Q. What part of the work is attributed to Simon?

Ans. It is supposed by some learned men that he added the two books of Chronicles, Ezra, Nehemiah; Esther, and the prophecy of Malachi, to the canon of scripture; which books were scarce supposed to be inserted by Ezra, because several of them are thought to be written by Ezra himself; and the books of Nehemiah and Malachi were most likely written after Ezra's time.

8 Q. Did the Jews, after this time, when the Old Testament was completed, religiously confine themselves to the direction of scripture?

Ans. After this time their traditions began to prevail, that is, the sayings of the ancients delivered down by tradition.

Note. Though traditions prevailed about this time, yet the Mishnah, which is their secondary law, or a collection of traditions, and which they pretend to be dictated from God to Moses, was not compiled and put together till above a hundred years after the time of Christ, by Rabbi Judah Hakkadesh; and this Mishnah, together with their comments on these things, is called the Talmud.

Note. There are two Talmuds; that of Jerusalem, which was complete about three hundred years after Christ; and that of Babylon, about five hundred years: but each of them has the same Mishnah, though with different comments, which comments are called the Gemara.

9 Q. Who were the chief teachers of this secondary law or traditions?

Ans. Antigonus, of Socho, was the first of them, who, being an eminent scribe in the law of God, was president of the Sanhedrim, or senate of the elders at Jerusalem, great master of the Jewish school, and a teacher of righteousness to the people, and of these traditions. Afterward all the teachers or doctors of the Jewish law were in the New Testament, sometimes called scribes, sometimes lawyers, or those who sat in Moses' seat.

10 Q. What special honor was paid to these men?

Ans. Besides other respect showed them by the people, who called them Rabbi, and highly esteemed them, it was out of these doctors that the great Sanhedrim, or council of seventy-two, was chosen to govern the whole nation; and the lesser council of twenty-three, which was in every city of Judea.

Note. These were called rulers, or elders, or counselors; such were Nicodemus, Joseph of Arimathaea, and Gamaliel.

Note here also, That in the Jewish Talmudical books, or their fabulous writings, on which we cannot much depend, we are told that about this time one Sadoc mistook the doctrines of Antigonus of Socho, his master, who taught "that we ought not to serve God in a servile manner, merely with respect to the reward:" and inferred from hence that there were no rewards after this life, and begun the sect of the Sadducees; though it may be justly doubted whether this, and other dangerous doctrines of this sect, arose so early among the Jews.

LESSON VI.

The Septuagint version of the Scriptures, &c.

[11 Q. By whom was Simon the ancient succeeded in the priesthood?

Ans. His brother Eleazar, his son Onias being then a minor.]

12 Q. Since the Jews were dispersed into so many countries, did they not acquaint the Gentiles with their religion?

Ans. Yes; for Ptolemy Soter set up a college of learned men at Alexandria, in Egypt, and began a library there; which Ptolemy Philadelphus, his youngest son and successor, improved to one hundred thousand volumes; this prince is reported to have commanded the Hebrew law to be translated into Greek, to add to this library, that the Gentiles might read it; and accordingly it was done.
Note. This college of learned men was encouraged, and the library increased, by several Ptolemies successively, till it arose to seven hundred thousand books. Both these things made Alexandria a famous place of residence and resort for learned men for several ages. It happened that the larger half of this library was burnt by Julius Caesar in his Alexandrian war: the other part was, by continual recruits, enlarged to a vaster number than the whole library before, but it was finally burnt and destroyed by the Saracens, in the year of our Lord 642.

[13 Q. In what year of the world did this take place?

Ans. A. M. 3726. See Chart, chron. VI. Ep.]

14 Q. In what manner is this translation reported to have been made?

Ans. Aristeas, the most ancient writer on this subject, and Josephus, the historian, who followed him, acquaint us, that after this Ptolemy had gained the favor of the Jews, by paying a ransom of a hundred thousand of their countrymen who were enslaved in Egypt, he procured six elders out of every tribe of Israel (which were in all seventy-two) to come to his court; and after a trial of their wisdom, by some particular question being put to each of them, he appointed them to translate the law of Moses, by conferring together about the sense of it, in the isle of Pharos; which being afterwards read to him, and approved by him, he gave them a liberal reward. Upon this account this translation is called the Septuagint, that is, the translation of the seventy, or seventy-two elders.

15 Q. But did not this story, in following times, grow much more fabulous?

Ans. Philo the Jew, who lived about our Savior’s time, reports that each of these seventy-two elders were put into a distinct cell, and were required to translate the whole Bible apart; and that they performed it so exactly alike, word for word, that it was approved as miraculous and divine; and even several fathers of the Christian church, being too credulous and fond of miracles, have received this story and conveyed it down in their writings.

16 Q. How does it appear to be a fable?

Ans. The great imperfection of this translation discovers that it was no divine work, nor performed by miracle; besides the several contradictions, and the uncertainties that are mingled up and down with this story, do utterly overthrow the credit of it.

17 Q. Upon the whole view of things, what is the best account of this translation?

Ans. In the reign of Ptolemy Philadelphus, there was such a version made of the five books of Moses, by the Jews of 24*
Alexandria, into the Greek language, probably for their own use, and for the use of their countrymen; for the Jews, in their dispersions, had used themselves to the Greek tongue, the conquests of Alexander and his Grecian army having spread their language through the world; and when Ptolemy Philadelphus had erected such a noble library, he was desirous to have this book deposited there. Whether his request or command gave any occasion to this translation, it is difficult to determine.

18 Q. Were not the other sacred writings translated into Greek also, as well as the five books of Moses?

Ans. When the reading of the prophets as well as the law came into use in the synagogues; many years afterwards, in the time of Antiochus Epiphanes, this occasioned a Greek translation of the prophets to be made; and so the whole Old Testament was complete, which we now call the Septuagint.

19 Q. Did the Jews generally come to use this Greek translation of the Bible?

Ans. In and after the time of Ezra, the scriptures were read to the Jews in Hebrew, and interpreted into the Chaldee language, which they had learnt in Babylon, and was become most familiar to them. But at Alexandria, after the making of this Greek version, it was interpreted to them in Greek, which was afterwards done also in all other Grecian cities, whither the Jews were dispersed. And from hence those Jews were called Hellenists, or Grecizing Jews, because they used the Greek language in their synagogues; and by that name they were distinguished from the Hebrew Jews, who used only the Hebrew and Chaldee languages in their synagogues. And this distinction we find made between them, Acts vi. 1. For the word which we there translate Grecians, is in the original Ἕλληνισταί, that is, Hellenists. So Dr. Prideaux.

20 Q. But did not the Evangelists and the Apostles who were writers of the New Testament, pay great honor to this Greek translation?

Ans. Yes; they cited many scriptures of the Old Testament according to this translation, because it was the best Greek translation they had; and it was by this time well known amongst the Jews in Judea, as well as those who were scattered round the nations.
LESSON VII.

Alexander's kingdom divided, &c.

21 Q. Did the Jews in Judea continue in peace under the government of the kings of Egypt?

Ans. The successors of the four generals of Alexander the Great, who divided the world amongst them, and particularly the kings of Egypt and Syria, being frequently engaged in wars for enlarging their kingdoms, the Jews were reduced to very great difficulties, and sometimes were at a loss what side to choose; they were in danger on both sides, and were sometimes distressed and miserably grinded between the one and the other.

22 Q. Did they maintain the purity of their temple and worship?

Ans. They were often exposed to grievous difficulties on this account. When Ptolemy Philopater, of Egypt, reigned over those provinces, he would offer up sacrifices to the God of Israel for his success against Antiochus the Great, the successor of Seleucus, king of Syria: and he was not content to stay in the outer court, but he would have pressed into the sanctuary, and even the holy of holies.

23 Q. How was he prevented from entering?

Ans. The priests and Levites, and all the people, lifted up their hands to God in prayer, and when the king had passed the inner court, and was entering into the temple, he was smitten from God with such terror and confusion of mind, that he was carried out of the place half dead.

24 Q. But did not Ptolemy resent this afterwards?

Ans. He purposed to be revenged on all the Jewish nation; when he came to Alexandria he ordered them to sacrifice to his gods: and if they refused, he took away their privileges, which they had enjoyed in Egypt from the time of Alexander the Great: he ordered them to be enrolled among the common people of Egypt, and to have the mark of an ivy leaf, the badge of his god Bacchus, impressed upon them by a hot iron; and those who refused it, to be made slaves, or to be put to death.

25 Q. What did the Jews of Alexandria do on this occasion?

Ans. A few of them forsook their God to gain the favor of their king: but many thousands stood firm in their religion; and though several of them were enrolled, and branded with the ivy leaf against their will, yet they showed a great abhorrence of all their countrymen that sacrificed to the gods of the king.
26 Q. How did Ptolemy bear with this conduct of theirs?
   Ans. He resolved to destroy the whole nation of the Jews; and therefore he first ordered all that lived anywhere in Egypt to be brought in chains to Alexandria, to be slain by his elephants.

27 Q. And were they destroyed according to the king's appointment?
   Ans. The elephants being made drunk with wine and frankincense, and let loose upon them, instead of falling upon the Jews, turned all their rage upon the spectators, and destroyed great numbers of them.

28 Q. What influence had this upon the king?
   Ans. He durst no longer prosecute his rage against them; but fearing the vengeance of the God of Israel upon himself, he revoked his cruel decrees, restored their privileges, and gave leave to put to death the Jews that had abandoned their religion and worshiped idols.

Note. This story is found in that which is called the third book of Maccabees, written by some ancient Jew under that title, because it gives an account of the persecution and deliverance of the Jews, as the first and second book of Maccabees do; though this was transacted long before the name of Maccabees arose; and therefore it ought rather to have been called the first book than the third. It is not found among our Apocryphal books, because it was never inserted in the vulgar Latin version of the Bible, but it is found in many of the manuscripts of the Greek Septuagint, and particularly the Alexandrian manuscript in the British Museum.
CHAPTER IV.

LESSON VIII.

The Jews' submission to Antiochus, &c:

1 Q. Did the Jews at Jerusalem continue afterwards under the government of the Ptolemies, who were kings of Egypt?

Ans. When Ptolemy Philopater was dead, and Ptolemy Epiphanes came to the crown, the Jews having been greatly persecuted by the Ptolemies, submitted themselves to Antiochus the Great, king of Syria; and when he came to Jerusalem in a solemn procession, they went to meet him, and received him gladly.

2 Q. How did Antiochus reward them?

Ans. He granted them many privileges, as he had done to their countrymen who were settled in Babylonia and Mesopotamia, having always found the men of that nation faithful to him.

3 Q. What confidence did he put in them on this account?

Ans. He transported several of them from Babylonia to the lesser Asia, to keep his forts and garrisons, and gave them good settlements there; whence sprang a great part of the Jews that were found in that country in the Apostles' times.

[4 Q. Who succeeded in the order of the high priesthood, from Eleazar to Onias the 3d, or the holy?

Ans. (1.) Manasses, the nephew of Eleazar. (2.) Onias, the Courageous. (3.) Simon the Just.

5 Q. In what years did they respectively flourish?

Ans. Manasses, A. M. 3776; Onias, A. M. 3779; Simon, A. M. 3797. See Chart, chron. VI. Ep.]
6 Q. What remarkable events fell out in the days of Seleucus Philopater, son and successor to Antiochus the Great?

Ans. Simon, a Benjamite, being made governor of the temple, some differences arose between him and Onias the third, the high priest, an excellent man, concerning some disorders in the city; and when Simon could not obtain his will, he informed Apollonius, the governor of the province under Seleucus, that great treasures were hid in the temple; whereupon Heliodorus the treasurer was sent to seize them.

7 Q. How did the hand of God appear against Heliodorus in his attempt to enter the temple?

Ans. The priests and the people made great outcries and supplications to God; upon which Heliodorus is reported to have seen a vision of a horse, with a terrible rider upon him, who smote Heliodorus with his forefeet; and two young men appeared who scourged him sorely; upon which Heliodorus fell suddenly to the ground in darkness and confusion; but being restored by the prayers of Onias, he acknowledged the power of God, and departed from the city.

Note. Read this story more at large, 2 Maccabees, chap. iii. I confess it seems to have something a little fabulous in the air of it, as have also other stories in that book.

8 Q. How came so good a man as Onias to be turned out of the priesthood?

Ans. When Antiochus Epiphanes succeeded his brother Seleucus in the kingdom of Syria, Jason bribed him with a large sum of money to turn out his own brother Onias, banish him to Antioch, and confer the priesthood on himself; not that he affected it as it was a religious office, but as it included the power of civil government, 2 Macc. iv. 7.

9 Q. What did this wicked Jason do when he was high priest?

Ans. He erected a place of exercise at Jerusalem for training up youth according to the fashion of the Greeks, and made as many of them as he could forsake the religious customs and usages of their forefathers, and conform themselves in many things to the customs and ceremonies of the heathens, v. 9, &c.

[10 Q. When did this event take place?

Ans. A. M. 3828. See Chart, chron. VI. Ep.]

11 Q. What became of this Jason?

Ans. A few years after, when he employed Menelaus his brother to pay his tribute at the Syrian court, he was supplanted by him; for Menelaus by bribery obtained the priesthood, and put Jason to flight.
[12 Q. When did Menelaus succeed to the high priesthood?
Ans. A. M. 3831. See Chart. chron. VI. Ep.]

13 Q. Did Menelaus behave himself better in his office?
Ans. He was worse than Jason; he stole some of the vessels of gold out of the temple, he went to Antioch, where he was reproved by Onias, who was yet living, for his wickedness, and out of revenge, procured Onias to be slain.

14 Q. What was done at Jerusalem in the mean time?
Ans. Lysimachus being left as deputy by Menelaus, practiced many sacrileges in the vessels of the temple, which occasioned a great insurrection in the city, wherein multitudes on the part of Lysimachus were wounded and slain, and the church-robber himself was killed.

15 Q. Did Jason ever return again to Jerusalem?
Ans. When there was a false report of the death of Antiochus, Jason, with a thousand men, assaulted the city, and slew many citizens, but was at last put to flight; and being driven from country to country, and from city to city, he perished in a strange land, without the honor of a burial, 2 Mac. v. 5—10.

LESSON IX.

Massacre of the Jews, &c.

16 Q. Did Antiochus the king suffer these things to pass unresented?
Ans. Upon the report of such a tumult in Jerusalem, he imagined that Judea had revolted, and he came upon the city, and ordered his men of war not to spare young or old, and there were fourscore thousand destroyed in the space of three days.

[17 Q. When did this event take place?
Ans. A. M. 3834. See Chart, chron. VI. Ep.]

18 Q. What profaneness was Antiochus guilty of in the temple?
Ans. Being conducted by Menelaus into the temple, he took away the remaining holy vessels, the altar of incense, the golden table, and the candlestick; he tore off the golden ornaments of the temple, and robbed it of the hidden treasures; he offered a large sow (that unclean and forbidden beast) on the altar of burnt-offering, and left Jerusalem overwhelmed in blood and mourning.
19 Q. Did he pursue this mischief and madness any longer?

Ans. Two years after he sent Apollonius, his collector of tribute, with a thousand men, who fell suddenly on the city on the sabbath, while they were at worship, and slew the citizens and the priests; he made the sacrifices cease, led the women and children captive, pulled down the houses and the walls, built a castle or fortress on a high hill in the city of David, over against the temple, to overlook and annoy them, and placed a garrison therein, and laid up the spoils of the city there.

20 Q. What further instances of rage did Antiochus show against the Jewish religion?

Ans. He issued an order that all his dominions should be of one religion, chiefly designing to distress the Jews: he forbade their children to be circumcised, and prohibited all burnt-offerings and sacrifices in the temple to the God of Israel: he called it the temple of Jupiter Olympus, set up his image on the altar, and sacrificed to it; he commanded the people to profane the sabbath; he set up altars and groves, and chapels of idols, throughout the cities, and required them to offer the flesh of swine and other unclean beasts, and then to eat it; and he destroyed the books of the law wheresoever they were found.

Note. This image of Jupiter, set up on the altar by Antiochus Epiphanes, is supposed to be the abomination that maketh desolate, foretold by Daniel, chap. xi. 31, as the Roman ensign, with the eagle on it, which was the bird of Jupiter, set up in the temple, was the abomination of desolation which Daniel foretells, Dan. ix. 27, and chap. xii. 11, and which our Savior refers to, Matt. xxiv. 15. Abomination is the common name for an idol in the Old Testament: and when such is set up in the sanctuary, it may well be called desolation, for the priests are driven away, and the true worship of God ceases.

Observe yet further, that this Antiochus Epiphanes is called by some the Jewish Antichrist; because several of the same things are foretold of him by the prophet Daniel, which are also predicted of the Roman Antichrist, in the Christian church, by the apostle John.

21 Q. Did any of the Israelites comply with his commands?

Ans. Though there were multitudes who would not defile themselves, and break the law of God, yet too many of them for fear, and some out of ambition to please the king, conformed to his religion, and sacrificed and burnt incense to idols in the streets of the cities of Judea.

22 Q. How did the king punish those that refused?

Ans. He put the men to death every month, he slew several women that had caused their children to be circumcised, hanged the infants about their necks, and killed those that circumcised them. This persecution may be seen more at large, 1 Macc. i. and iii. and 2 Macc. vi.

23 Q. What did the Samaritans do on this occasion? Ans. When the Jews were in prosperity, they challenged kindred with the Jews; but they disowned them when they were under persecution; and therefore, on this occasion, they made no apology to Antiochus the king, for having heretofore used the Jewish rites; but once having renounced them, they complied with the heathen religion, and desired their temple on mount Gerizim might be made the temple of the Grecian Jupiter, the "defender of strangers," 2 Macc. vi.

CHAPTER V.

LESSON X.

Of Mattathias, &c.

1 Q. When the persecution was so violent in Judea, was there any eminent public opposition made to it by any of the Jews? Ans. Mattathias, a priest of the course of Joarib, who dwelt in Modin, was complimented by the king's officers, and tempted to comply with heathen worship there, according to the king's commandment; but he boldly renounced their superstitions, and declared his resolution to die in the religion of the Jews, 1 Macc. ii.

2 Q. What instance did he give of his courage and zeal? Ans. When one of the Jews came to sacrifice on the heathen altar, which was at Modin, he could not forbear to show his indignation, as a zealot, but ran and slew the man upon the altar, and at the same time killed the king's chief officer there, who came to enforce these wicked commands.

3 Q. In what manner did he maintain this bold enterprise?

Ans. He cried with a loud voice through the city, "whosoever is zealous of the law, let him follow me." So he and his sons fled to the mountains, and a great number of the Jews fled with them, and hid themselves in the wilderness.

4 Q. Did not the king's army pursue them?

Ans. Yes, and encamped against them, and attacked a considerable number of them on the sabbath-day.

5 Q. And did the Jews make no resistance?

Ans. None at all, because it was the sabbath; but they said "let us all die in our innocency," whereupon a thousand people were slain.

6 Q. Did Mattathias and his friends approve of this conduct?

Ans. It seems as if their zeal at first approved of it; but upon better consideration they decreed, it was lawful and necessary for them to defend themselves, if they were attacked again on the sabbath-day.

Note. This decree was ratified by the consent of all the priests and elders amongst them; and it was sent to all others through the land, and was made a rule in their following wars.

7 Q. What did king Antiochus do, when he heard of this bold and public resistance made to his commands and his government?

Ans. He executed very great cruelties on all the Jews who fell into his hands, who would not forsake the law of Moses; since the mere terrors of death did not affright them.

8 Q. What very remarkable instances do we find in history of this cruelty?

Ans. Seven brethren, with their mother, were terribly tormented, to constrain them to eat swine's flesh, which the law of Moses forbids.

9 Q. How did they endure their tortures?

Ans. With great courage, one after another, in a long succession, they bore the various tortures that were inflicted on them, and declared they were ready to suffer, rather than transgress the laws of their fathers.

10 Q. What tortures were those which the king executed upon them?

Ans. A great variety of exquisite and bloody cruelties; their limbs were cut off, their tongues were cut out, they were fried in frying-pans, the skin of the head was torn off with the hair, and they died under the anguish and violence of these torments; while their mother at the same time looked on, and encouraged them all to suffer boldly, in opposition to the entreaties, threatenings, and commands of the king.

11 Q. In what manner did she encourage her sons in their sufferings?

Ans. By the tenderest speeches of an affectionate mother to her sons, she besought them to fear God, and not man; and to endure, in hope of a happy resurrection, when she should receive them all again in mercy.

12 Q. Did she herself also suffer the torment?

Ans. When she had seen all her sons die like martyrs before her, she finished that sad spectacle, and died also for her religion, 2 Macc. vii.

13 Q. What did Mattathias do all this while in the mountains?

Ans. He still encouraged the Jews to join with him; and among others, many of the Assideans, who were zealous for the law, resorted to him.

14 Q. Who were these Assideans, or Chassideans, as it ought to be written?

Ans. A sect among the Jews called Chasidim, or the pious, who were not only zealous of the law, but of many other constitutions and traditions, and forms of mortifications, beyond what the law required; whereas those who contented themselves with what was written in the law, were called Zadikim, or the righteous.

15 Q. What exploits did Mattathias and his friends perform?

Ans. They went round about the towns and villages, pulled down the heathen altars, and circumcised the children; they slew and put to flight many of their enemies, and recovered several copies of the Jewish law.

LESSON XI.

Judas succeeds Mattathias, &c.

16 Q. When Mattathias died, who succeeded him?

Ans. Just before his death he made a noble speech to his five sons, to encourage them in the defense of their religion and their country; he recommended his son Simon, as a man of counsel, but he made his son Judas, surnamed Maccabeus, their captain.

17 Q. How came he to be called Maccabeus?
Ans. The motto of his standard was the first letters of that Hebrew sentence, Ex. xv. 11. Mi Camoka, Baelin Jehovah, that is, "Who is like to thee among the gods, O Lord?" which letters formed into the artificial word Maccabi, and all that fought under the standard were called Maccabees.

Note. This has been a common practice among the Jews to frame words in this manner. So Rabbi Moses Ben Maimon, that is, the son of Maimon, is called Rambam, Rabbi Solomon Jarchi, is called Rasi. Nor is the use of the first letters of words for such kind of purposes unknown among heathens or Christians. The letters S. P. Q. R. were written on the Roman standard, for Senatus Populus Que Romanus; that is, "the Roman Senate and People." Jesus Christ our Savior hath been called a fish, in Greek, ἸΧΘΥΣ, by the fathers, because these are the first letters of those Greek words, Jesus Christ, God's Son, the Savior.

18 Q. What valiant actions did Judas and his brethren do in defense of the law, and against their persecutors?

Ans. He won many battles against king Antiochus and his generals, and encouraged himself and his soldiers in the name of God, whenever they began to faint.

19 Q. Where are these acts of Judas and his brethren recorded?

Ans. The earliest account of them is found in the first and second book of Maccabees.

Here note, that the first book of Maccabees is a very accurate and excellent history, and comes nearest to the style and manner of the sacred writings; and is supposed to be written a little after these persecutions and wars were ended. But the second book consists of several pieces of much less value; it begins with two epistles from the Jews of Jerusalem, but both are supposed to be fabulous stories, and are in some parts impossible to be true. The following parts of it pretend to be an abridgment of the history of one Jason; it relates some of the persecutions of Antiochus, and the acts of Judas amplified with particular circumstances; but it is not of equal esteem with the first book, for it seems to affect miracles and prodigious events, beyond reasonable credibility.

20 Q. How did king Antiochus resent these attempts of Judas, and his success against him?

Ans. When he went into Persia to gather the tribute of the countries there, he left Lysias with half his army, and with express orders to destroy and root the Jews out of their land.

21 Q. Did Lysias pursue the king's orders?

Ans. Yes, with great diligence he sought to execute these cruel orders: his army of forty thousand foot and seven thousand horse encamped at Emmaus, near Jerusalem; and an... other army of a thousand merchants flocked thither upon presumption of their victory, with great quantities of silver and gold to buy the captives for slaves.

22 Q. How did their wicked counsel to destroy Israel succeed?

Ans. When they were thus secure and confident of success, Judas and his brethren assembled at Mizpah, fasted, put on sackcloth, laid open the book of the law before God, where the heathens had painted their images, cried mightily unto God for help, sounded the trumpets, brought the army into order, and prepared for battle and for death; unless God pleased to make them conquerors.

23 Q. What was the event of so much pious zeal and courage?

Ans. Judas and his army put to flight and destroyed several large parties that Lysias had sent against him, they drove the enemy out of Jerusalem, and almost out of the land of Judea, and took a very large booty both from the army and the merchants.

24 Q. What was the first work that Judas and his people applied themselves to upon this great success?

Ans. They went up into Mount Sion, and when they saw the sanctuary desolate, the altar profaned, the gates burnt up, shrubs and grass growing in the courts of the temple, they rent their clothes, fell down upon their faces, and made great lamentation, with humble cries to heaven.

25 Q. Had they power and time to repair the temple, and restore the worship of God?

Ans. Yes; they applied themselves to the work with all diligence; they sought out priests of blameless conversation to cleanse the sanctuary; they pulled down the altar of burnt offering, because the heathens had defiled it; they built a new altar, as the law directs, with whole stones; they made new holy vessels, the altar of incense, the table, and the candlesticks, all of gold, which they had taken from their enemies; and they set all the parts of divine worship in order again, and offered sacrifices according to the law.

[26 Q. When did this event take place?

Ans. A. M. 3888. See Chart, chron. VI. Ep.]

27 Q. How did they kindle the sacred fire on the altar?

Ans. Having lost the fire which came down from heaven, which was kept burning on the altar at Jerusalem before the Babylonish captivity, they struck fire with flints, and so kindled the sacrifices and the lamps, 2 Macc. x. 3.
Note. We do not read that the second temple ever had the sacred fire; the story of Jeremiah's hiding it, in 2 Macc. is accounted a mere fable.

LESSON XII.

The temple purified.

28 Q. Was there anything remarkable in the time or day of this restoration of temple worship?

Ans. That very day three years whereon the heathen had profaned it by the offering of unclean beasts on the altar, it was dedicated with songs, and harps, and cymbals, and burnt-offerings of God's appointment, and the ceremonies continued for eight days together. This was two years after Judas had the chief command, and three years and a half after the city and temple had been laid desolate by Apollonius.

29 Q. What lasting memorial was appointed for this restoration of the worship of God in the temple?

Ans. Judas and his brethren and the whole congregation ordained, that three days of the dedication of the altar should be kept yearly with mirth and gladness.

30 Q. Did the worship of God continue long here after this solemnity?

Ans. We are told by historians, that it continued from this time without any interruption from the heathens, till the destruction of the temple by the Romans, though Jerusalem and the temple were often in the hands of the heathens.

Note. Some say this was that very feast of dedication which our Savior honored with his presence at Jerusalem; though others think it was the dedication of Solomon's temple. Yet the season being winter, it rather agrees to the time of Maccabees' dedication.

31 Q. Were not the Jews at all annoyed or disturbed by the enemy in this pious work?

Ans. There was still that fortress built by Apollonius remaining in the hands of the heathens and apostate Jews; it stood on Mount Acra, a rising ground over against the mountain of the temple, and rather higher than that mountain, whence the Jews received some annoyance in going to the temple.

32 Q. What farther care did Judas and his people take for their own security?

Ans. When they could not drive out the enemy at once, they built up Mount Sion with high walls and strong towers, and put a garrison there to keep it, and as far as possible secure the priests and people when they went to worship, and to prevent the Gentiles from treading down the sanctuary again.
33 Q. Did Judas and his people continue to enjoy peace?
   Ans. Though they maintained the temple worship, yet they were still engaged in war: for all the nations round about them were much displeased that the sanctuary was restored, and they attacked the Jews on every side: but God gave Judas and his brethren the victory in many battles; and they returned to Jerusalem, and gave thanks to God in Sion for his remarkable protection of them, that they had not lost one man, 1 Macc. v. 54.

34 Q. Did Judas make any more expeditions against his enemies?
   Ans. He led forth his forces against Georgias, one of Antiochus’ generals, and against the Idumeans who had been very vexatious to the Jews; and though several of the Jews were slain, yet Judas renewed the courage of his army in singing psalms with a loud voice, and, rushing upon their enemies, put them to flight.

35 Q. What remarkable crime was found among the Jews that were slain?
   Ans. When they came to bury their dead, they found things consecrated to idols under the garments of every Jew that was slain, whereupon the people praised the Lord, the righteous Judge of men; but, without any encouragement from scripture they offered sacrifices and prayers for the pardon of the dead, 2 Macc. xii. 34, &c.

Note. It is from this place, in the second book of the Maccabees, that the Papists borrow their prayers for the dead.

36 Q. Where was Antiochus the king all this while?
   Ans. He was gone to Persia, not only to receive his tribute, as 1 Macc. iii. 31, but to plunder the temple of Diana, (who among the Persians is called Zarates,) which temple stood at Elymas, and had incredible riches of gold and silver, and golden armor, which were laid up there.

37 Q. Did he succeed in this enterprise?
   Ans. The people of the country, having notice of his design, joined together in defense of that idol’s temple, and beat him off with shame.

38 Q. How did he receive the news of the defeat of his generals and armies in Judea?
   Ans. With the utmost rage and indignation, as well as grief of mind; but he resolved to make haste thither, and threatened to make the city of Jerusalem as one grave for the Jews, where he would bury the whole nation.
39 Q. What followed upon this insolent speech of Antiochus the king?

Ans. He was immediately smitten with an incurable plague in the midst of his journey, his bowels were seized with grievous torment, his chariot was overthrown, and he was sorely bruised, and forced to be confined to his bed in a little town on the road, where he lay languishing under foul ulcers of body, and sharp terror of mind, till he died.

Note. It has been observed by historians that death by foul ulcers has befallen many persecutors both in former and latter times.

40 Q. Had he any regret upon his conscience, particularly for his cruelty and wickedness practiced upon the Jews?

Ans. Both Jews and heathens give us an account of the dreadful anguish of mind which he then suffered: and though the heathen historians attribute it to the intended sacrilege and robbery designed upon the temple of Diana, yet the Jewish historians acquaint us, that Antiochus himself imputed his calamities to the horrid impieties and cruelties that he had been guilty of against the God of Israel and his people, and bitterly repented of them with inward horror on his death-bed.

Note. This Antiochus Epiphanes having been a great oppressor of the Jewish church, and the type of Antichrist, there is a larger account of him in Daniel's prophecy than of any other prince. The xi. ch. ver. 11—45, relates wholly to him, as well as some passages in the viii. and xii. chapters, the explication and accomplishment of which may be read in Dr. Prideaux's Connections, part ii. b. iii. And the accomplishment is so exact, that Porphyry, a learned heathen in the third century, pretends that it is mere history, and that it was written after the event.

LESSON XIII.

Judas Maccabeus wars with Antiochus Eupator.

41 Q. What became of the garrison of the Syrians in the tower of Acra, which so much molested the Jews in Jerusalem?

Ans. Judas Maccabeus besieged them, whereupon Antiochus Eupator, the son and successor of Epiphanes, brought a vast army against Judas, consisting of a hundred thousand foot, twenty thousand horse, thirty-two elephants, and three hundred armed chariots of war.

42 Q. What could the Jews do against so great an army?
Ans. Judas having given the watch-word, Victory is of the Lord, fell upon them in the night, and having slain four thousand immediately, and six hundred the next morning, made a safe retreat to Jerusalem.

43 Q. What remarkable instance of courage was given by Eleazar, the brother of Judas, in this battle?
Ans. When he saw one elephant higher and more adorned than the rest, he supposed the king himself was on it; therefore he ran furiously through the troops, and making his way to the beast, he thrust up his spear under his belly, and the beast with the tower that was upon him falling down, crushed him to death.

44 Q. When did this event take place?

45 Q. Had Antiochus Eupator's army any success afterwards against the Jews?
Ans. They marched to Jerusalem under the command of Lysias, they besieged the sanctuary, and when the Jews were nearly surrendering for want of provision, they were strangely relieved by the providence of God.

46 Q. In what manner did this relief come?
Ans. Lysias hearing that the city of Antioch was seized by one Philip, a favorite of the late king, who had taken upon him the government of Syria, persuaded the present king to grant peace to the Jews, which he did; yet, contrary to his own promise, he pulled down the fortifications of the temple, when he came and saw how strong they were.

47 Q. What became of Menelaus, the wicked high priest?
Ans. He attended the king's army in the expedition against Jerusalem in hopes to recover his office, and to be made governor there: but Lysias, finding this war exceedingly troublesome, accused Menelaus to the king as the author of all this mischief: whereupon he was condemned to a miserable death, being cast headlong into a tower of ashes fifty cubits high.

48 Q. Who was his successor in the priesthood?
Ans. Onias, the son of Onias the third, and nephew to Menelaus, was the more rightful successor, but the king rejected him; and being disappointed of it, he fled into Egypt; while Alcimus or Jocimus, one of the family of Aaron (though not in the right line of Josedech, to which the priesthood belonged) was made high priest by Antiochus Eupator the king.

Note. Joshua, the son of Josedech or Jozadek, was the rightful high priest at the return from Babylon. See Ezra iii. 2. and Hag. i. 1.
49 Q. When was Alcimus admitted to the high priesthood?

50 Q. Was Alcimus admitted to the exercise of the office in Jerusalem?
   Ans. He was refused by the Jews, because he had complied with the heathen superstition in the time of the persecution: but he besought the aid of Demetrius the new king against Judas and the people, who refused to receive him.

51 Q. How came this Demetrius to be king?
   Ans. He was the son of Seleucus Philopater, who was the eldest brother of Antiochus Epiphanes: and although he could not persuade the Romans to assist him in seizing the kingdom of Syria, since Antiochus Epiphanes was dead, yet he landed in Syria, and persuaded the people that the Romans had sent him; whereupon Antiochus Eupator and Lysias were seized by their own soldiers, and put to death by order of Demetrius.

52 Q. Did Demetrius establish Alcimus in the priesthood, in opposition to Judas and his people?
   Ans. He endeavored to do it by sending one Bacchides against them, but without success: afterwards making Nicanor, who was master of his elephants, governor of Judea, he sent him to slay Judas, and to subdue the Jews.

53 Q. What success had Nicanor in this attempt?
   Ans. Though at first he was unwilling to make war on Judas, yet being urged by the king, he pursued it with fury; and having spoken many blasphemous words against the temple and the God of Israel, and threatened to demolish it, and build a temple to Bacchus in the room of it, he himself was slain, and his army was shamefully routed by Judas.

54 Q. What encouragement had Judas to hope for victory in this battle?
   Ans. Not only from the blasphemies of Nicanor, but he was animated also by a divine vision, and thus he encountered his enemies with cheerfulness, and with earnest prayer to God, 2 Macc. xiv. and xv.

55 Q. What rejoicing did Judas and the Jews make on this occasion?
   Ans. He cut off Nicanor's head, and his right hand which he had stretched out against the temple, and hanged them upon one of the towers of Jerusalem, and appointed a yearly day of thanksgiving in memory of this victory, which is called Nicanor's day.

56 Q. What was the next act of Judas for the good of his country?
Ans. Hearing of the growing greatness of the Romans, he sent to make a league for mutual defense with them; to which the Romans consented, and established it, acknowledging the Jews as their friends and allies, and ordered Demetrius to vex them no more.

57 Q. Did Deinethrios obey these orders?
Ans. Before these orders came to his hand, he had sent Bacchides the second time to revenge Nicanor's death, and to establish Alcimus in the priesthood.

58 Q. What success had this second expedition of Bacchides against the Jews?
Ans. A very unhappy one indeed for the Jews; for he so much overpowered Judas with the number of his forces, who had then but three thousand men with him, that even the greatest part of these three thousand fled from him for fear; and Judas being ashamed to fly for his life, was slain through an excess of courage.

CHAPTER VI.

[FROM THE DEATH OF JUDAS MACCABEUS, A. M. 3850, TO THE ACCESSION OF JUDAS ARISTOBULUS, SON OF HYRCANUS, TO THE SOVEREIGNTY AND PRIESTHOOD OF THE JEWS, A. M. 3897; AND EMBRACING A PERIOD OF 47 YEARS.] OF THE SEVERAL SECTS AMONG THE JEWS, NAMELY, PHARISEES, SADDUCCEES, ESSENEES, HERODIANS, KARAITES.

LESSON XIV.

Consequences of the death of Judas Maccabacus.

1 Q. What mischiefs ensued on the death of Judas?
Ans. The Jews were greatly disheartened; Bacchides prevailed everywhere, took Jerusalem, subdued the greater part of the country, and put to death the friends of Judas, where he could find them; many apostate Jews sided with him. Alcimus exercised the high priesthood in a very wicked manner.
and imitated the heathen superstition in the worship of God. He gave orders to pull down the wall of the inner court of the sanctuary, and is supposed also to have broken down the wall which divided the more holy part of the mountain of the temple from the less holy, and gave the Gentiles equal liberty with the Jews to enter there.

Note, first. It is said in 1 Macc. ix. 54, that he actually "pulled down the works of the prophets," whatever those were: but it is thought he only gave orders for pulling down the wall of the inner court, which may be supposed to be the court of the priests.

Note, second. It is difficult to determine how far the wall which separated the Gentiles from that outer court of the temple which was made for the Jews, was of God's appointment, or how early it was built. We do not read of it in scripture, neither in the building of the temple of Solomon, where there was only the court of the priests, and the great court; nor in the rebuilding it by Zerubbabel does scripture tell us of such a separation. Indeed, in Jehoshaphat's time, we read of a new court, 2 Chron. xx. 5. What it was no man knows certainly; perhaps it was only one court renewed. For in Manasseh's days, which was about 200 years after, there were but two courts, 2 Chron. xxxii. 5. Dr. Prideaux indeed supposes that the latter prophets, Haggai and Zechariah, ordered a low wall, or rather inclosure, to be built, called Chel, in the second temple, within which no uncircumcised person should enter: and one reason of that opinion is because 1 Macc. iv. 54, it is said that "Alcimus pulled down also the work of the prophets." That there was such a separating wall in the days of the Maccabees, or before, is generally supposed: that this court of the Gentiles was also in Herod's temple, is agreed; and there seems to be a reference to it in Ephes. ii. 14., "having broken down the middle wall, or partition." See Lowth on Ezek. xl. 17. But whether any of the arguments are effectual to prove it was of divine appointment, the learned reader must judge. See Prideaux's Connection of the Old and New Testament, part ii. book iv, page 281, in 8vo. and Lightfoot of the Temple, chap. xvii.

If it be, as some have maintained, that the Jews, in rebuilding that temple under Zerubbabel, took pattern, in a great measure, from the prophetic temple in Ezekiel's vision, then there seems to have been a court large enough for the court of the Gentiles: for, chap. xl. 5. and xlii. 20., "There was a wall on the outside of the house round about, of five hundred reeds square, to make a separation between the sanctuary and the profane place." See Lowth on those texts. Perhaps in those times this was called the mount of the temple.

2 Q. What became of Alcimus when he practiced these things with insolence?

Ans. He was smitten by the hand of God with a palsy, his speech was taken away, so that he could give no further wicked commands, nor so much as set in order his own house, and he died in great torment, 1 Macc. ix. 54, 55.

3 Q. Did the surviving brethren of Judas Maccabeus make no efforts against these their enemies?

Ans. Yes; his brother Jonathan being chosen by the people, took on him the government; and though their brother
John was slain by the Jambrites, yet Simon remained: and these two made such a continual resistance, that in some years' time, Alcimus being dead, Baccides grew weary of the war, and he was inclined at last to make a firm peace: and then he restored the Jews who had been his prisoners, and departed from Judea, without ever returning.

4 Q. What use did Jonathan make of this peace?
   Ans. He governed Israel according to the law; he restored the Jewish religion, reformed every thing as far as he could, both in church and state, and rebuilt the walls and fortifications of Sion.

LESSON XV.

Jonathan officiates as high priest.

5 Q. Who performed the office of high priest all this time?
   Ans. There was a vacancy of the office for seven years, after the death of Alcimus; till Alexander, an impostor, pretending to be the son of Antiochus Epiphanes, seized the kingdom of Syria, and made high proposals to engage Jonathan on his side against Demetrius, who had been their enemy. Among these proposals, one was this, "That he should be constituted and maintained the governor and the high priest of the Jews, and be called the king's friend," 1 Macc. x. 18—20.

Note. I think Josephus supposes Judas to have been made high priest before his death; but Dr. Prideaux does not seem to follow him in this matter; nor does the book of Maccabees give any account of it. Though upon Judas' restoring the Jewish worship in the temple, there must be some person to officiate as high priest upon some occasions. And Onias being fled into Egypt, whether Judas himself did it occasionally, or deputed one of the other priests to do it, is not certain: perhaps Judas might do the duty, as being of the chief family of the priesthood, though he did not assume the title.

6 Q. Did Jonathan accept of these proposals?
   Ans. There being no other high priest in view, he accepted it, by the consent of all the people; and at the feast of tabernacles he put on the holy robe. Being thus dignified, he joined with Alexander, who still grew stronger, and slew his rival Demetrius in battle.

Note. Here, That from this time forward the high priesthood continued in this family of the Asmoneans, or Maccabees, till the time of Herod, who changed it from an office of inheritance to an arbitrary appointment. It may be proper to observe here, that the family whence the Maccabees came, are called Asmoneans; for Mattathias, their father, was the son of John, the son of Simon, the son of Asmoneus.
7 Q. But was Jonathan of the eldest family of Aaron, to whom the priesthood belonged?
   Ans. Whether the Maccabees or Asmonaean were of the race of Josedech the high priest, is uncertain, Ezra iii. 2., but it is certain they were of the course of Joarib, which was the first of the class of the sons of Aaron, 1 Macc. ii. 1. 1 Chron. xxiv. 7. And therefore on the failure of the former family of priests, and none appearing there with a better title, he had the first right to succeed; besides that he was chosen to it in a vacancy by all the people.

8 Q. Where was Onias all this while?
   Ans. Having fled into Egypt, he gained such an interest in Ptolemy Philometer, the king, as to build a Jewish temple in Egypt, exactly like that at Jerusalem, adorned with the same furniture of vessels and altars for incense and sacrifice; and to have himself and his family establish the high priests of it, where they performed the same religious services as was done at Jerusalem.

9 Q. In what part of Egypt did he build this temple?
   Ans. In the place where Heliopolis, or the city of the sun, stood: and there he built a city also, and called it Onion, after his own name.

10 Q. But how did he persuade the Jews to perform such worship at this temple?
   Ans. By citing the words of Isaiah, chap. xix. ver. 18, 19. "In that day shall five cities in the land of Egypt speak the language of Canaan: In that day there shall be an altar to the Lord in the midst of the land of Egypt," &c. Which is truly to be interpreted concerning the future state of the gospel in that country in the days of the Messiah; but Onias applied it to his own temple and altar.

11 Q. How long did this temple continue?
   Ans. Till after the destruction of the temple at Jerusalem, which was about two hundred years; and then the city of Onion, and the temple, were both destroyed by the command of Vespasian, the emperor of Rome.

12 Q. Did Jonathan go on to secure the Jews of Judea in their possessions and their religion?
   Ans. By making league with the princes and states that favored him, and by assisting sometimes one and sometimes another, as the interest and powers of princes were often changing, he defended and governed his own nation.

13 Q. What became of him at last?
   Ans. By the treachery of one Tryphon, who sought the kingdom of Syria, he was seized, and shut up close prisoner in Ptolemais, 1 Macc. xi. and xii. And afterwards was slain with his two sons, chap. xiii.

LESSON XVI.

Jonathan succeeded by Simon his brother.

14 Q. Who succeeded Jonathan in the high priesthood and government?
   Ans. Simon his brother, by the request of all the people.
   15 Q. What were some of the first enterprises of Simon?
   Ans. After an honorable burial of his brother at Modin, the city of his fathers, and the noble and lofty monument, and seven pyramids which he set up for his parents, his four brethren and himself, he fortified the cities of Judea, made a league with young Demetrius, the son of Demetrius, took the city of Gaza, cleansed the houses from idols, and built himself a house there.
   16 Q. Did the garrison in the tower of Acra, near the temple, continue to annoy the Jews in their worship?
   Ans. Notwithstanding all the attempts of Judas and Jonathan, these enemies remained still till the days of Simon, who shut them up so closely, that after great numbers perished with famine, the rest yielded up the tower to Simon; immediately he cleansed it from its pollutions, and entered into it with harps and songs, and great triumph.
   17 Q. What precaution did Simon take against the like annoyance for time to come?
   Ans. By consent and assistance of the people, he pulled down the tower, and reduced the mountain itself so low, that there might be no possibility of any future annoyance to the worship of the temple from that place.
   18 Q. What further success had Simon in his government?
   Ans. He established Jerusalem and Judea in great peace and plenty; he sought out the law, and made it to be obeyed; he beautified the sanctuary, multiplied the vessels of the temple, and maintained their religion in the divine institutions of it.
   19 Q. What peculiar honor was done him by the Jews?
   Ans. In a general assembly of the priests and elders, and the people of the Jews, met together at Jerusalem, he was constituted their prince as well as their high priest; and these dignities and offices were settled upon his posterity forever. This was engraved on tables of brass, together with the good deeds of himself and his family, which had merited such an honor; and these tables were hung up in the sanctuary.

20 Q. What regard was paid to him among the heathen nations?
Ans. Several princes and people, the Lacedemonians, the Romans, and Antiochus, surnamed Sidetes, the son of Demetrius, king of Syria, all sought his friendship, made leagues and covenants with him, and conferred on him special honors, 1 Macc. xiv. and xv.

21 Q. Did Antiochus keep his covenant with Simon?
Ans. By no means; for when he had vanquished Tryphon, his rival, he broke his league with Simon, and invaded some parts of Judea; but his general, Cendebeus, was routed by Simon, and his two eldest sons, Judas and John, whose surname was Hyrcanus.

22 Q. What was the fate of Simon at last?
Ans. When Simon was visiting the cities, and giving orders for their welfare, one Ptolemeus, who was his son-in-law, invited him and his sons to banquet at Jericho, and slew Simon with two of his sons, in order to get the government of the country into his own hands, and sent privately to kill John also.

23 Q. When did this event take place?

24 Q. Did Ptolemeus succeed in this his treachery and murderous enterprise?
Ans. John having got timely notice of it, slew the assassins, and was invested with the high priesthood, and the government after his father.

Note. Here ends that excellent history, the first book of the Maccabees. The following part of this account of the Jews is borrowed chiefly from Josephus, who usually calls John by the surname of Hyrcanus.

LESSON VII.
Of John Hyrcanus, &c.

25 Q. Did John Hyrcanus enjoy his office in peace?
Ans. Antiochus Sidetes being informed of the death of Simon, and being invited by Ptolemeus, invaded Judea again, besieged Jerusalem, and reduced Hyrcanus and the Jews to the last extremity by famine; but when they sued for peace he granted it, upon condition of paying certain tributes to the king, and demolished the fortifications of Jerusalem.
Note. About this time Jesus the son of Sirach, a Jew of Jerusalem, coming into Egypt, translated the book of Ecclesiasticus, written by Jesus his grandfather, out of Hebrew into Greek, for the use of the Hellenistic Jews there. The ancients called it Panareton, or the treasury of all virtue.

26 Q. How did the affairs of the Jews succeed under Hyrcanus?

Ans. A few years afterwards he took advantage of the vast confusions that ensued among the nations, upon the death of Antiochus, to enlarge his borders, by seizing some neighboring towns on several sides of Judea, and to renounce all his dependence upon the kings of Syria.

27 Q. Was he supported therein by any foreign power?

Ans. He renewed the league of friendship which his father Simon had made with the Romans, who were then growing to their grandeur; and they ordered that he should be freed from the late imposed tribute, and that the Syrians should make reparation for the damages they had done him.

28 Q. In what manner did Hyrcanus deal with the Edomites, or Idumeans, who were on the south of Judea?

Ans. He constrained them to embrace the Jewish religion, or to leave their country; whereupon they chose to forsake their idolatry, and became proselytes to Judaism, and were mingled and incorporated with the Jews; and, by this means, in less than two hundred years, their very name was lost.

Note. In defense of this practice of Hyrcanus, among the Idumeans, which seems to be so contrary to the laws of nature and Scripture, it may be said, that at this time these Edomites had encroached on the land of Judea, and inhabited all the south part of it: so that Hyrcanus, in banishing those who would not become Jews, did but dispossess them of that country which was given to the Jews by God himself. Yet it must be confessed, by this practice, he seems to have set an unhappy pattern to his successors, to impose the religion of the Jews on conquered countries by force.

29 Q. How did he treat the Samaritans on the north, when his power was thus increased?

Ans. He marched with his army and took Shechem, which was then the chief seat of the Samaritan sect; and he destroyed their temple on mount Gerizim, which Sanballat had built; though they continued still to keep an altar there, and to offer sacrifices.

30 Q. In what year of the world did this occur?

Ans. 3870. See Chart, chron. VI. Ep.

31 Q. How came Shechem to be their chief seat instead of Samaria?
Ans. They were expelled from Samaria, by Alexander, for killing one of his deputy-governors in a tumult, and they retiring to Shechem, made that their chief seat; while Alexander repeopled Samaria with heathens of the Syrian and Macedonian race.

32 Q. Did Hyrcanus extend his power further on that side of the country?
Ans. He besieged Samaria, and took it, and utterly demolished it: he not only ruled in Judea, but in Galilee also, and the neighboring towns; he became one of the most considerable princes of his age, and preserved the Jewish church and state in safety from their enemies throughout a long government.

33 Q. What other remarkable actions are ascribed to Hyrcanus?
Ans. He was esteemed a prophet for one or two notable predictions, or knowledge of things done at a distance. He built the castle Baris, on a steep rock, fifty cubits high, without the outer square of the temple, but on the same mountain; this was the palace of all the Asmonean princes in Jerusalem, and here the sacred robes of the high-priest were always laid up when they were not in use.

34 Q. What use was afterwards made of the castle?
Ans. Herod new built it, and made it a very strong fortress, to command both the city and the temple, and called it Antonia, in honor of his great friend Mark Anthony of Rome: he raised it so high, that he might see what was done in the temple, and send his soldiers, in case of any tumult. Here the Romans kept a strong garrison, and the governor of it was called captain of the temple; Acts xxii. 31.

Note. It was from this place the sentinel, spying the Jews ready to kill Paul, gave notice to the governor, or chief captain, who went down immediately with some soldiers into the court of the Gentiles, whither they had dragged St. Paul to kill him, and rescued him, and brought him up the stairs into this castle; and it was upon these stairs that Paul obtained leave to speak to the people, Acts xxii. 26, &c.

LESSON XVIII.

35 Q. What troubles did Hyrcanus meet with toward the end of his life?
Ans. His title to the high priesthood was unjustly called in question by a bold man among the Pharisees; and, being craftily imposed upon to think it the opinion of all that party, he hastily renounced that sect, for which he had before the greatest value; he abolished their constitutions and falling in with the sect of the Sadducees, lost his esteem and love among the common people.

36 Q. Since you mention the sect of the Pharisees here, pray let us know what were the chief sects among the Jews?

Ans. About this time, the most considerable sects were the Pharisees, the Sadducees, and the Essenes; though in the next century arose also the Herodians; and some hundred years after was a sect called the Karaites.

37 Q. What peculiar opinions were held by the Pharisees?

Ans. The most distinguishing character of this sect was their zeal for the traditions of the elders; for while they acknowledged the writings of Moses and the prophets to the divine, they pretended that these traditions also were delivered to Moses on Mount Sinai; and conveyed down, without writ-ting, through the several generations of the Jews, from father to son; and by reason of their pretenses to a more strict and rigorous observance of the law, according to their traditions, which they superadded to it, they looked on themselves as more holy than other men, and they were called Pharisees, that is, persons separated from others.

Note. These are the persons who had so much corrupted the law in our Savior's time, and made it void by their traditions; yet their doctrine generally prevailed among the scribes and the lawyers, who were writers and explainers of the law; and the bulk of the common people had them in high esteem and veneration, so that they were the most numerous of any sect.

38 Q. Is the sect of the Pharisees still in being?

Ans. The present religion of the Jews, in their several dispersions (except among the few Karaites,) is wholly formed and practiced according to the traditions of the Pharisees, rather than according to the law and prophets; so that they have corrupted the old Jewish religion, in that same manner as the Papists have the Christian.

39 Q. What were the opinions of the Sadducees?

Ans. The Sadducees at first are supposed by Dr. Prideaux to be no more than the Zadikim, who only stuck to the written word of God, and renounced all other traditions; and that probably they went no farther than this in the days of Hyrcanus; though the Talmudical writers derive their name, and their dangerous doctrines, more early, from one Zaddock, as is before related. But it is certain, that afterwards the Sadducees denied the resurrection of the dead, and the very being of angels, or spirits, or souls of men departed, and any existence in a future state: they supposed God to be the only spirit, and that he rewarded and punished mankind in this world only, and that there was nothing to be hoped or feared after death; which principles render this sect an impious party of men.

40 Q. What did they profess as the rule of their religion?

Ans. They not only rejected all unwritten traditions, but all the written word of God, except the five books of Moses; for the doctrine of a future state is not so evidently taught therein: and therefore Christ argues not with them out of the Psalms and prophets, but only out of the law of Moses, when he proves a future state of resurrection, from God's being the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, Luke xx. 37.

41 Q. How long did this sect of the Sadducees continue?

Ans. Though all the common people had the chief veneration of the Pharisees, yet most of the richest and the greatest among them fell into the opinions of the Sadducees for several generations, but they were all cut off in the destruction of Jerusalem; nor do we find any mention of them as a sect for many years after, till their name was revived and applied to the Karaites, by way of reproach.

LESSON XIX.

Concerning the Karaites.

42 Q. Who were these Karaites?

Ans. A much better sect among the Jews, who in the sixth century after Christ began to be so much offended with the incredible stories and fooleries of the Talmud, which was then published, and with the strange mystical senses which some of the Jews put on the Scriptures, that they confined themselves to the written word of the Scripture, which in the Babylonish language is called Kara; and for the most part content themselves with the literal sense of it. They are sometimes, but very unjustly, called Sadducees, by the Rabbinical or Talmudical Jews.

43 Q. Where are these Karaites to be found?

Ans. Very few of them dwell in these western parts of the world. They are found chiefly in Poland, and among the Crim Tartars; a few also in Egypt and Persia. But they are counted men of the best learning, and greatest probity and virtue among the Jews; and it is remarkable among them, that they perform their public worship in the language of the country where they dwell.

44 Q. What were the Essenes?
Anns. They seem to have been originally of the same sect as the Pharisees; but they set up for a more mortified way of living, and perhaps more unblameable. They so far agreed with the Sadducees, as to acknowledge or expect no resurrection of the body; but they believed a future state of eternal happiness or misery, according to their behavior in this life; they seem to have been distributed into societies or fraternities, and to have had no private possessions, but a common stock for the supply of all. They were in a special manner religious toward God, both on the sabbath, and in their daily devotions; and exceedingly friendly and benevolent toward men. They did not disclaim marriage; but they entered into that state more rarely, and with great caution; and instead of children of their own, they bred up poor children in their own sect. They were very abstemious as to their food, and their habit was a plain white garment. Their rules of life are reported to us more at large by Josephus and by Philo, two Jews; they are also described by Pliny, a heathen, and by some of the Christian fathers.

45 Q. If they were a considerable sect in the days of our Savior, how came it to pass that they are not mentioned in the New Testament?

Ans. Some have supposed that they seldom came into cities, but living so very plain and abstemious a life, they resided for the most part in the country; and thus they fell not under our Savior's observation. And besides, being a very honest and sincere sort of people, they gave no such reason for reproof and censure, as others very justly deserved. Though it must be confessed also, that their disbelief of the resurrection of the body, their non-attendance on the temple worship, their traditional washings and self-invented purifications, their rigorous and needless abstinences from some sorts of meats, and other like superstitious customs and will-worship, might have given our Savior just occasion for reproof, had they come in his way; and perhaps they are censured under the general name of Pharisees, in those superstitious traditions wherein they both agreed.

46 Q. Now we are speaking of the several sects of the Jews, let us know also what were the Herodians?

Ans. This sect arose not till the time of Herod the Great, king of Judea: and it is plain they had peculiar evil tenets as well as the other sects, since our Savior warned his disciples against the leaven of the Pharisees and of Herod. Indeed, they oppose the Pharisees, and very justly, on one point; for the Pharisees scarce thought it lawful to pay taxes directly to heathens, though they acquired the sovereign power, and particularly to Caesar, in that day; but their special error, which Christ calls their leaven, seems to be this: that it was lawful when constrained by superiors to comply with idolatry, and with a false religion. Herod seems to have framed this sect on purpose to justify himself in this practice; who being an Idumean by nation, was indeed half a Jew and half a heathen; and affected a conformity to the Gentiles in some things, to please the Romans, who made him king, while at the same time he professed Judaism.

Note. The Sadducees generally came into this complaisant opinion: the same persons which are called Herodians in Mark viii. 15, are called Sadducees in Matt. xvi. 6. But this sect died in a little time, for we hear no more of them after the days of our Savior.

CHAPTER VII.

FROM THE ACCESSION OF JUDAS ARISTOBULUS TO THE SOVEREIGNTY AND PRIESTHOOD, A. M. 3897, TO THE ACCESSION OF HEROD THE GREAT TO THE THRONE OF JUDEA, A. M. 3968, EMBRACING A PERIOD OF 71 YEARS.

LESSON XX.

_Hyrcanus succeeded by Aristobulus._

1 Q. Having done with the several sects of the Jews, let us return now and inquire who succeeded Hyrcanus at his death?

Ans. Aristobulus, his eldest son, took the office of the high priest, and governor of the country: and he was the first, since the captivity of Babylon, who put a diadem upon his head, and assumed the title of king.

2 Q. In what year of the world did Aristobulus succeed to the high priesthood?

Ans. A. M. 3895. _See Chart. chron. VI. Ep._

3 Q. What is recorded of him?

Ans. He put his own mother to death, because she made some pretense to the government; he sent all his brothers, save one, to prison; then he attacked and subdued the Itureans, who lived on the northeast of the land of Galilee, and forced them to be circumcised and receive the Jewish religion. At last he was persuaded to put his favorite brother to death, upon an unjust suspicion: and then he died himself, vomiting blood, and in great horror for his crimes.

4 Q. Who succeeded him, [and when ?]

Ans. His next brother, A. M. 3897, Alexander, surnamed Jannæus, took the kingdom, who also put another of the brothers to death, because of some attempt to supplant him.

5 Q. What success had Alexander in his government?

Ans. He, having settled his affairs at home, attacked some of his neighbors, and dealt very deceitfully with Ptolemy Lathyrus, the heir to the crown of Egypt, who came to their assistance; whereupon there ensued a bloody battle between them, near the river Jordan, in Galilee, wherein Alexander's army was utterly defeated, and he lost thirty thousand men.

Note. There is a very cruel and barbarous action attributed to Lathyrus on this occasion, namely, that coming with his army in the evening after the victory, to take up his quarters in the adjoining villages, and finding them full of women and children, he caused them to be all slaughtered, and their bodies to be cut in pieces, and put into cauldrons over the fire to be boiled, as if they were for supper; that so he might leave the opinion in that country, that his men fed upon human flesh, and thereby might create the greater dread and terror of his army through all those parts. After this, Lathyrus ranged at liberty all over the country, ravaging, plundering, and destroying it in a very lamentable manner; for Alexander, after this battle, was in no condition to resist him.

6 Q. Did Alexander ever recover this defeat?

Ans. Cleopatra, queen of Egypt, who with her younger son withheld the kingdom from Lathyrus the eldest, did assist and support Alexander Jannæus, lest, if Lythyrus should become master of Judea, he might also have recovered Egypt out of her hands: whereupon Alexander raised his head again, besieged other places, and took Gadara and Amáthus toward Galilee, together with much treasure; but he was surprised by Theodorus, prince of Philadelphia, who had laid up that treasure there, and was overthrown, with the slaughter of ten thousand men. Yet, being a man of courage and diligence, he again recruited his army, took the city of Gaza from the Philistines, and gave free license to his soldiers there to kill, plunder, and destroy as they pleased. He subdued their principal cities, and made them part of his dominions; whereupon several of the Philistines turned Jews, and indeed it was now grown a custom among the Asmonean princes to impose their religion upon all their conquests, leaving them no other choice but to become proselytes or to be banished.

7 Q. How did his own people, the Jews, conduct themselves towards him?
Ans. The Pharisees continued their wrath against him for rigorously maintaining the decrees of his father, who abolished their constitutions; and by their powerful influence they stirred up the people against him so far, that while he was executing the high priest's office at the altar, they pelted him with citrons, and called him reproachful names.

8 Q. In what manner did Alexander resent it?

Ans. He slew six thousand of them immediately, and he chose his own guards out of the heathen nations, never daring afterwards to trust himself with the Jews. At last there broke out a civil war between him and his people, which lasted six years, brought great calamity on both, and occasioned the death of above fifty thousand people.

LESSON XXI.

Hatred of the Jews towards Alexander Jannæus.

9 Q. How was this war carried on?

Ans. Though Alexander gained many victories over them, yet being wearied out, he desired peace, and offered to grant them whatsoever they could reasonably desire; but upon his inquiry what terms would please them, they answered with one voice, that he should cut his own throat; so dreadful was their enmity against him; and upon this answer the war was still pursued with fury on both sides.

10 Q. How was this war ended at last?

Ans. Alexander Jannæus, the king, having lost one great battle, resumed his courage, and afterwards gained another, which concluded the war; for having cut off the greatest part of his enemies, he drove the rest into the city of Bethome, and besieged them there: and having taken the place, he carried eight hundred of them to Jerusalem, and there caused them to be all crucified in one day; and their wives and children to be slain before their faces, while they hung dying on their crosses. In the mean time, he treated his wives and concubines with this bloody spectacle at a feast. This terrified the Jews indeed so effectually, that they made no more insurrections against him; though he got a most infamous name by it, in that and the following ages. A dreadful instance of the barbarity of a high priest invested with civil power!

11 Q. Did this cruel tyrant come to a natural death?

Ans. The providence of God, which does not always punish sinners in this life, permitted him to die in the camp of a quartan ague, which had hung long upon him, while he was besieging a castle of the Gerasenes beyond Jordan. And though he left two sons behind him, yet he bequeathed the government. to Alexandra, his wife, during her life; and to be disposed of at her death to which of her sons she pleased.

12 Q. How did this woman reconcile herself to the Jews so as to permit her to reign over them?

Ans. By her husband's advice upon his death-bed, she concealed his death till the castle was taken; then leading back the army to Jerusalem in triumph, made her court to the Pharisees, resigned up his dead corpse to their pleasure, to be abused or buried, as they should think fit, and promised to follow their advice in all the affairs of government; for he had assured her that they were the best of friends and the worst of enemies; and that if she would be but ruled by them, they would make her rule over others.

13 Q. What success had this conduct of Alexandra?

Ans. All the success she desired; the people were influenced by the Pharisees to give the corpse of her husband an honorable funeral; she herself was settled in the government of the nation; and she made her eldest son Hyrcanus high priest.

[14 Q. When was Hyrcanus made high priest?
Ans. A. M. 3935. See Chart, chron. VI. Ep.]

15 Q. How did she administer the government under the direction of the Pharisees?

Ans. She immediately revoked the decree of John Hyrcanus, whereby he had abolished their traditional constitutions; by which means the Pharisees, and their traditions, grew into greater esteem and power than ever; and she permitted them to put to death many of those who advised the late king Alexander to deal so cruelly with the people; and some others of their own adversaries also were executed on this pretense, by her leave; for she dreaded a new civil war, and of two evils thought to choose the least.

16 Q. To whom did she leave the kingdom at her death?

Ans. To Hyrcanus, her eldest son, who had been entirely bred up under the influence and tutorage of the Pharisees.

17 Q. Did this Hyrcanus the second continue to reign in peace?

Ans. Aristobulus, the younger son, finding that the army and the people were weary of the oppressive administration of the Pharisees, raised an army against his brother Hyrcanus, put him to flight, forced him to resign the kingdom and the high priesthood, and to live a private life; which he consented to, after he had been king three months; for he naturally loved his own ease and quiet more than any thing else.
[18 Q. When did this event take place?
Ans. A. M. 3937. See Chart, chron. VI. Ep.]

19 Q. Was Aristobulus disturbed in his government?
Ans. There was one Antipater, an Idumean, (whose father was advanced to the government of Idumea by the late king Alexander) and he himself being bred up with Hyrcanus, in the court of Alexander, prevailed upon Hyrcanus to accept of the assistance of Aretas, the Arabian king, to restore him to the kingdom; for he assured him that his life was in so great danger from his brother Aristobulus, that he could save it no other way but by dethroning him.

20 Q. What success had Hyrcanus in following this counsel of Antipater?
Ans. By the help of Aretas he gained an absolute victory over Aristobulus, drove him into the mountain of the temple, and there besieged him; where the priests stood by Aristobulus, while the people declared for Hyrcanus.

LESSON XXII.

The death of Onias.

21 Q. What henious murder were the people guilty of at that time?
Ans. There was one Onias, at Jerusalem, so holy a man, that he was thought by his prayers to have obtained rain from heaven in a great drought; and the people concluding that his curses would be as powerful as his prayers, pressed him to curse Aristobulus, and all that were with him. The good man, finding no rest from their importunities, lifted up his hand toward heaven, and prayed thus: O Lord God, Creator of the Universe, since those that are with us are thy people, and they that are besieged in the temple are thy priests, I pray that thou wouldst hear the prayers of neither of them against the other! Hereupon the multitude was so enraged that they stoned him to death.

22 Q. Did Hyrcanus's party prosper after this murder?
Ans. Hyrcanus and his people fell under great disappointments at first; for the Romans spreading their empire far at this time, and being largely bribed by Aristobulus, they forced Aretas to raise the siege; whereupon Aristobulus pursued and routed him in battle, and slew multitudes of Hyrcanus' party.

23 Q. In what manner was the contest carried on afterwards?
Ans. The two brothers, Hyrcanus and Aristobulus, first by their embassadors, and afterwards in person, pleaded their cause before Pompey, the general of the Romans, who was now at Damascus, while, at the same time, the people declared against both; for they pretended they were not to be governed by kings, but by the priests of God.

24 Q. How was the controversy decided?

Ans. Pompey not giving a speedy determination, and Aristobulus suspecting the event, he retired and prepared for war; whereupon Pompey seized Aristobulus in one of his castles, and confined him in prison, and laid siege to Jerusalem; and being received into the city by Hyrcanus’ party, besieged also the temple and the castle Baris, and took it in three months’ time.

25 Q. How came the Romans to take so strong a place so soon?

Ans. Though the Jews had learned from the beginning of the Maccabean wars to defend themselves when attacked on the sabbath; yet, being not actually assaulted, they permitted the Romans to build up their works and engines on the sabbath, without disturbing them; whereby the tower, or castle, and with it the temple, were taken.

26 Q. On what day was the temple taken?

Ans. On the very day which the Jews kept as a solemn fast, for the taking of Jerusalem and the temple by Nebuchadnezzar; and it is remarkable that the priests, who were at the altar, continued their devotions, and their rites of worship, till they perished by the hands of the enemy.

27 Q. What blood and plunder ensued in the temple?

Ans. Twelve thousand Jews were slain on this occasion, partly by Pompey’s army, and partly by their own brethren, of the party of Hyrcanus. But when Pompey entered the sanctuary, he forbore to touch any of the sacred vessels thereof, or the two thousand talents which were laid up there for sacred uses; he ordered the temple to be cleansed, and sacrifices to be offered there according to their own laws.

Note. Though Pompey was so moderate in his victory, yet, in a little time after, Crassus, another Roman general, in his march through the country, seized and took away those two thousand talents, and the golden vessels of the temple, and rich hangings of inestimable worth. But the vengeance of heaven seemed to follow him: his counsels in his wars, from this time forward, were under perpetual disappointment; he was slain in a war with the Parthians; his head was cut off, and melted gold was poured down his throat, by way of insult over his insatiable covetousness.

28 Q. What was the final effect of the victory of the Romans?
Ans. Pompey demolished the walls of Jerusalem, put to death some of the chief supporters of Aristobulus, restored Hyrcanus to the high priesthood, and made him also governor, but under tribute to the Romans, and reduced his dominions to narrow bounds; then he carried Aristobulus and his children prisoners to Rome, except his eldest son, who escaped.

Note. From this quarrel between Hyrcanus the second and Aristobulus, the ruin of Judea and Jerusalem must be dated; the final loss of the liberty of the Jews, and the translation of the sovereign authority to the Romans, which had till then descended with the priesthood, and been possessed by the Jews, though often under some tribute to heathen princes.

[29 Q. When did this event take place?

30 Q. Who now follow in the succession of high priests, from Hyrcanus to Ananelus?
Ans. (1.) Alexander; (2.) Antigonus; (3.) Ananelus; (4.) Aristobulus; (5.) Ananelus.

31 Q. When did they respectively commence their offices?
Ans. Alexander, A. M. 3966; Antigonus, A. M. 3966; Ananelus, A. M. 3966; Aristobulus, A. M. 3967; Ananelus, the second time, A. M. 3968.]

32 Q. Did Aristobulus or his son ever attempt the recovery of their power and government?
Ans. Being escaped from prison, they made several vigorous attempts, but without success.

LESSON XXIII.

Changes of government among the Jews under Gabinius, &c.

33 Q. What changes did Jerusalem pass under through these times?
Ans. Gabinius, a Roman general, marching through Judea, in a little time made a great change in the government, lessened the power of Hyrcanus yet further, altered the constitution of the Sanhedrim or Jewish senate; but all was restored again shortly after by Julius Caesar; for at Hyrcanus' request, he gave them leave to rebuild the walls of Jerusalem, and by a decree from the senate of Rome, the ancient friendship with the Jews was renewed.

34 Q. Where was Antipater all this while, who had excited Hyrcanus to recover the government of Judea?
Ans. He did many services for Caesar in his wars in the neighboring countries whereupon he was made his lieutenant in Judea, under Hyrcanus, who was confirmed by Caesar in the government and high priesthood; and, at the same time, Antipater procured Phasael, his eldest son, to be made governor of the city of Jerusalem; and Herod, his second son, governor of Judea.

Note. This Herod grew up to high power afterward; he was called Herod the Great, and was king of Judea when our Savior was born.

35 Q. What became of Antipater at last?
Ans. He was poisoned by one Malichus, a rival, who envied his greatness and power in Judea; but his death was revenged by his son Herod, who was permitted by the Roman general to procure Malichus to be murdered.

36 Q. What further troubles did the Jews meet with about this time?
Ans. Some part or other of their nation was continually subject to plunders, sometimes from the Roman generals, for not paying the tribute demanded, or on some other pretenses; sometimes by the Parthians, who assisted Antigonus, son of the late king Aristobulus, to recover Jerusalem and Judea, in opposition to the united forces of Phasael, Herod, and Hyrcanus.

37 Q. Did Antigonus ever recover this government?
Ans. The Parthian general, Pacorus, who was at war with the Romans, did, by mere treachery, get into his custody both Hyrcanus and Phasael, seized Jerusalem and rifled it, made Antigonus governor of Judea, and delivered up Hyrcanus and Phasael to him in chains; but Herod made his escape.

38 Q. What became of Phasael and Hyrcanus?
Ans. Phasael beat out his own brains in prison; Hyrcanus's ears were cut off; that, being maimed, he might be no longer a high priest, Lev. xxi. 17., and he was sent afar off among the Parthians, that he might raise no disturbances against Antigonus.

39 Q. Whither did Herod take his flight?
Ans. After a little time he went to Rome to represent all these transactions, and he made his complaints with great and unexpected success; for Julius Caesar being slain in the Roman senate, Mark Anthony and Octavius (who was afterwards Augustus Caesar) governed all things there, and they agreed to make Herod king of Judea, with the consent of the senate, hoping it would be for their interest in the Parthian war.
CHAPTER VIII.

OF THE GOVERNMENT OF HEROD THE GREAT, [WHICH COMMENCED A. M. 3968, AND HIS POSTERITY, OVER THE JEWS, TO THE BIRTH OF CHRIST, A. M. 4004, EMBRACING A PERIOD OF 36 YEARS.]

LESSON XXIV.

Accession of Herod to the Jewish throne.

1 Q. What did Herod do on his receiving this new dignity?

Ans. He returned to Judea, first relieving his mother, who was put in prison by Antigonus; he made himself master of Galilee; he destroyed some large bands of robbers which infested the country thereabout, sheltering themselves in mountains, and the caves of steep and craggy rocks.

2 Q. What artifice did he use in order to attack them?

Ans. By reason of their dwelling in such hollow caves in precipices, there was no scaling them from below; and therefore, to ferret them out of their dens, he made large open chests, and filled them with soldiers, which he let down into the entrances of those caves by chains from engines which he had fixed above, and thus he destroyed great numbers of them.

Note. This country was often annoyed with the remains of these plunderers in the reign of Herod; but he treated them without mercy, and all the country that sheltered them with great rigor, till he restored peace to Galilee.

3 Q. Where was his next march?

Ans. Into Judea against Antigonus, and after several battles, with various success on both sides, he at last, by the assistance of the Roman legions, besieged Antigonus in Jerusalem.

4 Q. Did not Herod himself attend this siege?

Ans. Yes; but while the preparations were making for it he went to Samaria, and there he married Mariamne, a lady of the family of Maccabees or Asmoneans, the granddaughter of Hyrcanus the second, a woman of great beauty and virtue, and admirable qualifications, hoping the Jews would more readily receive him for their king by this alliance; and having done this, he returned to the siege.
5 Q. Did he carry this place at last?
Ans. He took Jerusalem by storm, after six months’ hard and bloody service in the siege, at which the Romans being enraged ravaged the city with plunder, notwithstanding all that Herod could do to prevent it; and having taken king Antigonus there, and sent him to Antioch, Herod persuaded Mark Anthony, by a large bribe, to put him to death.

Note. Here ended the reign of the Asmoneans, or Maccabees, after that race had held the government one hundred and twenty years. During great part of this time, as well as before, the various changes of these Jewish governors, or the interruption by heathen conquerors, filled the country of Judea with innumerable calamities and desolations, of which Jerusalem itself had a very large share, nor did they cease in the following years.

6 Q. How did Herod begin his reign?
Ans. As he was forced to make his way to the kingdom through much blood, so he established himself by the same means, putting to death several of the partizans of Antigonus, and among them all the counselors of the great Sanhedrim, except Pollio, who is called Hillel, and Samaas, who is called Shammai, for both of them had encouraged the city to receive Herod; though it was not out of love to him, but merely on this view, that it was in vain to resist him.

Note. This Hillel and Shammai were two very great and eminent teachers among the doctors of traditions in the Jewish schools.

LESSON XXV.

Changes in the high priesthood.

7 Q. Who was made high priest after the death of Antigonus, who was both priest and king?
Ans. At first Herod made one Ananelus or Ananus high priest, who was an obscure man, but of the house of Aaron, educated among the Jews afar off in Babylonia, and therefore not so likely to oppose any of Herod’s designs in Judea.

8 Q. Did Ananelus continue in the high priesthood?
Ans. Herod’s beloved wife Mariamne, and her mother, being of the race of the Maccabees, were ever teasing him to make Aristobulus, Mariamne’s brother, a lad of seventeen years old, high priest, in Ananelus’ room, to whom indeed it rather belonged as an heir male of that family; this he at last complied with, against his will; but in a very little time he procured him to be drowned under pretense of bathing.

9 Q. What became of Hyrcanus all this while?
Ans. Though he had been banished for so many years among the Parthians and Babylonians, yet he returned to Jerusalem upon the advancement of Herod, presuming that the marriage of his granddaughter, and his own merits towards him, would secure to himself a peaceful old age in his own country under Herod's protection.

10 Q. How did Herod deal with him?
Ans. He received him at first with all respect, but some time after found a pretense to put him to death, when he was above eighty years of age, lest one time or other, being of the family of the Maccabees, or Asmoneans, he should be restored to the kingdom.

11 Q. Besides all these confusions, what other calamity happened to the Jews about this time?
Ans. A terrible earthquake ran through the whole land of Judea, and buried thirty thousand of the inhabitants in the ruin of their houses, in the seventh year of his reign; a grievous pestilence followed it in a little time, and a desolating famine a very few years after, at which time Herod was very liberal to the people, but he could not gain their hearty affection.

12 Q. Did Herod maintain his government, when his great friend Mark Anthony was ruined and vanquished by Octavius?
Ans. He took care to make early submission to Octavius; he laid aside his diadem when he waited on him, and with open heart he confessed his former friendship for Anthony; but he now assured Octavius of the same faithful friendship and obedience, if he might be trusted; upon which, Octavius, who now assumed the name of Augustus Cæsar, bade him resume his diadem, confirmed him in the kingdom, and was his friend and protector even to his death.

13 Q. Did he then continue to reign in perfect peace?
Ans. Domestic troubles broke the peace of his mind, and threw him into violent grief and rage, which further soured his temper for all his life after.

14 Q. What were those domestic troubles?
Ans. He was jealous lest any man should possess so great a beauty as Mariamne his queen after his death, and lest any remains of the family of the Asmoneans should hinder the succession of his own family to the kingdom of Judea; and for these reasons he gave private orders that in case he died both his wife and her mother should be put to death: which dreadful secret being communicated to his queen, she resented it to such a degree that she would never afterwards receive him; but notwithstanding all his kind addresses and importunities, she perpetually followed him with sharp reproaches for the murder of her relations, by which he secured the crown to himself, and upbraided his mother and sister with the meanness of their parentage. So that, between his excess of love and rage and jealousy, he was so tormented, and so wrought upon by the artifices of his mother and sister Salome, that at last he put his beloved Mariamne to death, under a pretense of an attempt to poison him: and he executed her mother too a little after the daughter, for a real plot against his life.

15 Q. Did the death of Mariamne relieve him from this tumult of passion?

Ans. By no means; for now his love returned with violence, and his grief and vexation joined with other passions to render him a most miserable wretch, a torment to himself, and outrageous to all about him.

LESSON XXVI.

Herod's tyrannical reign after the death of Mariamne.

16 Q. What course of life did he follow afterward?

Ans. He grew more arbitrary and cruel in his government; he put what persons he pleased into the high priesthood, and turned them out again at pleasure: he made several innovations in the laws, customs, and religion of the Jews; and introduced spectacles of wrestlers, of combats between wild beasts and criminals, &c., in conformity to the heathens; pretending it was all necessary to please Cesar; and thus set the hearts of the Jews much more against him, who were very jealous of their religion and customs. Then thinking it needful for his defense, as well as for his grandeur and glory, he built several strong places and towers within and without Jerusalem; he raised temples in several cities, and dedicated them to Cesar, who was his great friend; and though sometimes he remitted part of the taxes, and did several beneficent actions to ingratiate himself with the people, it was all in vain, he could not obtain their love.

17 Q. What was his greatest and most considerable attempt to please the people, and to perpetuate his own name?

Ans. He proposed to rebuild the temple at Jerusalem; for it having now stood near five hundred years, and being so often injured, broken, and repaired, he persuaded the people that a new one should be built with much more magnificence and glory.

18 Q. But could he persuade the Jews to consent that their temple should be demolished, in order to rebuild it?
Ans. Not till he had assured them that the old temple should remain untouched till all materials were ready to build the new one: which he actually provided at vast expense and labor in two years' time, by employing ten thousand artificers for the work, a thousand wagons for carriage, and a thousand priests for direction.

19 Q. Did he fulfill his promise in building this new temple?

Ans. Yes, he performed the work with prodigious cost and splendor, as it is described by Josephus: it was built of large stones, each twenty-five cubits long, twelve cubits broad, and eight in thickness, which the disciples desired our Savior to take notice of with wonder, Mark xiii. 1, 2. The sanctuary, that is, the holy place and the most holy, which were more properly called the temple, were finished in a year and a half, so that divine worship was performed there; and in eight years more he completed the several walls, and galleries, and pillars, and courts, according to his design.

20 Q. How could it be said then, John ii. 20, "Forty and six years was the temple building?"

Ans. It was begun near forty-six years before that passover when our Savior, being near thirty-one years old, was present at Jerusalem: and though the great design and plan was executed in nine years and a half, yet Herod and his successors were always building outworks round it, or adding new ornaments to it, even to that very day when Christ was there, and long afterward.

21 Q. When was it dedicated?

Ans. The same year when it was finished, and on the anniversary day of Herod's accession to the crown, and on this account it was celebrated with a vast number of sacrifices and universal rejoicing.

Note. Within four years after this dedication, Jesus Christ our Savior was born, and was presented there an infant according to the law.

22 Q. Was not this then the third temple of the Jews?

Ans. No; it was called the second temple still, because though it was built anew from the foundation, yet it was only by way of reparation, it not having been razed and demolished with a ruinous design, nor did it lie in ashes and desolation, as it did when Nebuchadnezzar destroyed it.

23 Q. Did Herod do any thing after this in favor of the Jews?

Ans. When the Jews who were scattered throughout Greece and Asia Minor grew very numerous, and were much disturbed and oppressed by the other inhabitants, Herod procured for them a new establishment of their liberties and privileges, and permission to live in other countries, according to their own laws and religion, which had been granted them before by the kings of Syria, and by the Romans.

LESSON XXVII.

Herod's family troubles, &c.

24 Q. What further troubles did Herod meet with in his family?

Ans. His two eldest sons by Mariamne, namely, Aristobulus and Alexander, whom he had sent to Rome for education, being returned to Jerusalem in the heat of their youth, they frequently expressed their resentments for the death of their mother, and thereby they became obnoxious to the rage of Sa-lobe, Herod's sister and favorite; and thus she, who had been one great and constant instrument to blow the coals of jealousy and discontent between Herod and his queen, and at last to occasion her death, pursued the same course to make him jealous of some designs of his sons against his life.

25 Q. What issue had these quarrels and jealousies?

Ans. They continued several years; plots were invented on both sides; these gave Herod in his old age perpetual disquitudes, suspicions, and fears: but Salome his sister prevailed so far by her craft against his two sons, that after many acu-sations and acquittments of them, she at last procured their condemnation and execution by Herod's order, and the consent of Augustus Caesar. This was about a year or two before the birth of Christ.

26 Q. What was the general state of the heathen world about this time?

Ans. All the known parts of the world were subdued to the Romans, and the nations were in peace; on which account the temple of Janus was shut up at Rome, which had never been shut but five times since the first building of that city; and then Jesus Christ the prince of peace, came into the world and was born at Bethlehem.

27 Q. Wherein does it appear that the world was thus all at quiet under the government or dominion of the Romans?

Ans. Augustus Caesar, the emperor of Rome, issued out a decree that year for a general register of his whole empire, which St. Luke calls a "taxing" or enrolling "of all the world," Luke ii. 1. This brought Mary, the mother of Christ, to Bethlehem, the city of David, to which family she belonged, and while she was there, she brought forth her son Jesus, as it is written, Luke ii. 1—11.

Note. This year, in which Christ was born, according to Bishop Usher's exact computation, is the four thousandth year from the creation; which falls in with an old tradition of the Jews, that the world was to last six thousand years; namely, two thousand years before the law, (or before Abraham, who was the father of circumcision and the Jews;) and two thousand under the law; that is, from Abraham to the Messiah; and two thousand under the Messiah.

And here I might conclude this chapter, having brought the Jewish affairs down to the birth of Christ. But it may give some light to the New Testament to carry it on a little farther.

28 Q. What piece of cruelty was Herod guilty of when he heard that a child was born who was to be king of the Jews?

Ans. He slew all the young children in Bethlehem, that he might be sure to destroy Christ, and that his own posterity might be kings of Judea.

29 Q. Whom did Herod design then for the successor to his kingdom?

Ans. Antipater, his eldest son by Doris, a wife that Herod had before Mariamne; his father had raised him to some post of honor upon his displeasure with his other sons, and he had been also active and busy himself towards procuring the death of those two brothers.

30 Q. Did Antipater succeed his father in the kingdom according to Herod's present design?

Ans. Antipater, longing for the crown, and for his father's death, did readily conspire to poison him, and being convicted thereof, had a sentence of condemnation passed upon him, and being confirmed by Augustus Cesar, he was executed by his father's approbation. This was the third son whom Herod put to death.

31 Q. When and in what manner did Herod die?

Ans. In the seventieth year of his age, and five days after the execution of his son Antipater, Herod himself died by a dreadful complication of diseases. He had a slow fever, an asthma, an ulcer in his bowels and his lower parts, which bred worms and lice; he languished under extreme pain and torment till he expired, and seems to have been smitten of God, in a signal and terrible manner for his cruelty, and the multiplied iniquities of his whole life.

32 Q. What instance of cruelty was he guilty of even at his death?

Ans. Knowing how much he was hated of the Jews, he concluded there would be no lamentation for him, but rather rejoicing when he died: and to prevent this he framed a project, one of the most horrid that could enter into the heart of man; he summoned all the chief Jews over the whole kingdom on pain of death to appear at Jericho, where he then lay; he shut them up prisoners in the Circus, or public place of shows; he ordered and adjured his sister Salome and her husband, who were his chief confidants, to send in soldiers as soon as he was dead, and put them all to the sword: "for this," said he, "will provide mourners for my funeral all the land over."

33 Q. Was this barbarous and bloody command executed?

Ans. His sister Salome, as bad as she was, chose rather to break her oath to him than to execute so horrid a design, and therefore she released them all after his death.

LESSON XXVIII.

Herod's posterity.

34 Q. What posterity did Herod leave behind him?

Ans. He had nine wives, and such of his posterity as are named in scripture are these that follow, namely: Archelaus his son, who succeed him in the kingdom of Judea and Samaria, Matt. ii. 22; Herod Antipas, tetrarch or governor of Galilee, who cut off John the Baptist's head, Matt. xiv. 1—10; Philip, governor of Iturea and Trachonitis, Luke iii. 1; and Herod Philip, who married his own niece, Herodias, and had a daughter by her called Salome who danced well: but Herodias afterwards left him to marry Herod Antipas his brother, for which John the Baptist reproved him, Luke iii. 19.

Nota. This Herodias was daughter of Herod's son Aristobulus, whom he put to death, and sister of Herod Agrippa, who slew the apostle James, Acts xii. 1, 2, and was afterwards smitten of God at Cæsarea, ver. 20—23. Of this Herod Agrippa was born that king Agrippa the second, before whom Paul pleaded his cause, Acts xxv. and xxvi. and his two sisters were, Drusilla, wife to Felix the governor, Acts xxiv. 24, and Bernice, who attended her brother Agrippa to hear Paul plead. This genealogy is borrowed from Dr. Pridcaux.

35 Q. Did Archelaus continue long in his government?

Ans. He was guilty of many and great instances of tyranny, for which he was deposed, and banished to a town in France by the Roman emperor, when he had reigned in Judea between nine and ten years.

36 Q. How was Judea governed afterwards?

Ans. The Romans were so much displeased with the evil practices of Archelaus, that they reduced Judea to the form of a Roman province, and ruled it afterwards by procurators or governors, who were sent thither and recalled at their pleasure; the power of life and death was taken out of the hands of the Jews, and placed in the Roman governor, and their taxes were paid more directly to the Roman emperor, and gathered by the publicans.

37 Q. How did the Jews resent this?

Ans. The Pharisees, and the people under their influence, thought it unlawful to acknowledge a king who was not a Jew, Deut. xvii. 15, “From among thy brethren shalt thou set a king over thee:” and therefore, though they were constrained to pay tribute to Cæsar, yet they scarce allowed it to be lawful; upon this account they looked upon these publicans with greater detestation than any of the tax-gatherers in former ages, while their governor was of the Jewish nation or religion.

Note. Though Herod was an Idumean by nation, yet all the Idumeans having received the Jewish religion, Herod was so far counted a lawful governor, as that they did not scruple paying taxes to him.

38 Q. How was the high priesthood carried on at this time?

Ans. As Herod had done before, so the Roman governors continued to make high priests, and to depose them as often as they pleased, to answer their own purposes.

39 Q. Who was high priest when our blessed Savior was put to death?

Ans. Caiaphas, who was son-in-law to Ananias, who had been himself high priest for fifteen years, and was deposed by one of their governors.

Note. Caiaphas was not the immediate successor of Annas, for there were three high priests came between them who had been instituted in that office, and deposed by the Romans; hence it comes to pass, that in the history of the gospels, we frequently read of several chief priests at the same time, and of Annas and Caiaphas being high priests at the beginning of John the Baptist’s ministry, Luke iii. 2. For whether they had any concurring power given them by the Romans or no, yet being still alive after they had been in that office, they might have their title given them by the people, and some of them had probably considerable influence in the Jewish affairs. In the case of Annas and Caiaphas, some suppose one to have been head of the Sanhedrim, and to have chiefly managed in civil affairs, the other in sacred. Others fancy one to have been the high priest, and the other the deputy high priest, or Sagan, who was always ready to perform the office, if the high priest was indisposed or hindered; and some think they might rule alternately, or together, by permission or appointment of the Romans. It is evident, the sacred laws of Moses were not strictly observed at that time among them, nor long before.

Note. This Annas is supposed to be the same person with that Ananias, whom Paul did not seem to acknowledge for God’s high priest when he reproved him and called him, "Thou whited wall," Acts xxiii. 3—5.

40 Q. Who was governor of Judea at that time?
Ans. Pontius Pilate, for Tiberius Caesar (who had reigned two or three years together with Augustus at Rome, and had after his death succeeded him now nineteen years in the empire) had a few years before made this Pilate governor; he was a man thoroughly prepared for all manner of iniquity, which he executed through his whole government; and gave further proof of it in that unjust sentence, which he passed even against his own conscience, for the crucifixion of our blessed Lord, at the request of the wicked Jews.

41 Q. What became of Pontius Pilate at last?
Ans. He was in a very short time recalled by the Roman emperor for misdemeanors in his government, and banished to Vienne, in France, where he is reported to have put an end to his own life by the sword.

42 Q. Did the Jews grow wiser and better afterwards?
Ans. They went on by persecution and rage against the gospel of Christ and the professors of it, and by many other crimes to fill up the measure of their iniquities, till at last, upon their insurrection against the Romans, they were exposed to the fury of a conquering army; their city and temple were utterly destroyed, according to the prophecy of Christ; eleven hundred thousand of the people perished, and the remains of the nation have been scattered abroad through the earth unto this day.

43 Q. What general remark may be drawn from the whole history of the Jews since their return from the captivity of Babylon?
Ans. That the affairs of their church and of their state have been for the most part so unhappy, they have been so much disquieted by the invasions and persecutions of the kings of the earth, so wretchedly corrupted with the introduction of human traditions, pharisaical superstitions, and heathenish rites among them; and so frequently and grievously oppressed by their own priests and princes, as well as strangers, that they never did enjoy so peaceful, so pious, and so flourishing a state as to give a full accomplishment to all those glorious prophecies which relate to their happiness after their return from captivity.

44 Q. What follows from this remark?
Ans. That there must be in the decrees and providence of God, a further reserve of peace, holiness, and happiness for the seed of Israel, which shall be conferred upon them in the latter days; and therefore we cannot but expect a more glarge and general conversion of the Jews to the faith of Jesus the true Messiah, than has ever yet appeared, with greater blessings upon that people, who were once so dear to God, and are "beloved for their fathers' sakes." St. Paul, in his eleventh chapter to the Romans, abundantly confirms what the prophets encourage us to hope for.
PART III.

OF THE PROPHECIES WHICH RELATE TO JESUS CHRIST OUR SAVIOR, AND THEIR ACCOMPLISHMENT: OR, A PROPHETICAL CONNECTION BETWEEN THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENT.

INTRODUCTION.

As I have given an Historical Continuation of the affairs of the Jews from the time of Nehemiah, where the Old Testament ends, to the time of Jesus Christ our Lord; so I have here inserted a chapter concerning some of the plainest predictions or prophecies which are found in the Old Testament, that relate to the person, offices, and glories of the Lord Jesus Christ our Savior, and are fulfilled in the gospel: and it may be called, A Prophetical Connection between the Old Testament and the New.

And because I would not give offense by introducing such prophecies as are either much doubted or denied by any Christians; therefore I shall scarce mention any but what some of the writers of the New Testament either directly cite, or to which they have a plain reference in some of their expressions.

1 Q. Since the great subject of the New Testament is our Lord Jesus Christ and his gospel, tell me now what are the chief discoveries or representations made of him in the Old Testament?

Ans. Besides the types or emblems of Christ and his gospel which are found in the Jewish worship, there are also several plain expressions in the books of the Old Testament, which are predictions or prophecies concerning him, long before he came into the world.*

2 Q. What is the first and earliest prophecies of Christ? Ans. Gen. iii. 15.

3 Q. Wherein is this prophecy fulfilled? Ans. Gal. iv. 4. 1 John iii. 8.

4 Q. What is the next plain prophecy of Christ? Ans. Gen. xviii. 18. and xxii. 18.

5 Q. How does this appear to have a reference to Christ? Ans. Gal. iii. 8. Matt. i. 1. See Chart, Christ, whose genealogy trace to Abraham.

* See Types and Antitypes.
6 Q. To whom was this promise given besides Abraham? Ans. Gen. xxvi. 4, xxviii. 14.

7 Q. Did Jacob prophecy concerning Christ? Ans. Gen. xlix. 10.

8 Q. How can you prove that his prophecy relates to Christ? Ans. Shiloh signifies one that is sent, which is the frequent character of Christ, that he was sent by the Father, John x. 36, &c., and xvii. 18, 21, 23.

9 Q. Who was the next person that prophesied concerning Christ? Ans. Deut. xviii. 15, 18.

11 Q. But were not many prophets, as Isaiah, Jeremiah, Elijah, Elisha, and several others, like unto Moses? Ans. None of them, besides Jesus Christ, came to institute a new religion, as Moses did; or wrought such numerous and various miracles to attest their doctrine.

12 Q. Who was the next eminent prophet that spoke plainly of Christ? Ans. David speaks often of him in his book of Psalms in many remarkable expressions, and describes his incarnation, his sufferings, his exaltation, and his various offices of prophet, priest, and king: namely,

1) Psalm xl. 6, 7, 8. Heb. x. 5, &c.
2) Psalm lxxxix. 19, &c. Col. i. 15. Rev. xix. 16.
6) His resurrection from the dead, Psalm xvi. 10. Acts ii. 31, and xiii. 33–38. 1 Cor. xv. 4.
7) His ascension, &c. Eph. iv. 8. See also, Col. ii. 15.
9) The character of this king is described, Psalm xliv. 6, 7. Heb. i. 8, 9. Acts x. 28. John iii. 34. Psalm lxii. and lxxxix.
10) His resurrection and exaltation are described, Psalm 6, 7. Acts xiii. 33. Heb. v. 5. Rev. ii. 27.

Note. 1. In some of these Psalms, we should not have known Christ or the Messiah was intended, if Christ himself or the Apostles had not cited them for this purpose; yet some of them are so evident, that the ancient Jews applied them to the Messiah, and we cannot but apply them to him, because they could not be applied to David, or to any other person.
Note 2. There might be also many other texts cited out of the book of Psalms, which are interpreted concerning Jesus Christ in the New Testament which we should not otherwise have known to belong to him: as Psalm xxvii. 7. "Worship him all ye Gods;" which is applied to him in Heb. i. 6. "Let all the angels of God worship him," who in scripture are sometimes called Gods. So Psalm cii. 25—27, are applied in the same chapter to Christ, and show us that the world was created by him: "Thou, Lord, in the beginning hast laid the foundations of the earth, and the heavens are the work of thy hands," &c. In both which texts, as well as in several others, the very same names, characters, and actions, which are attributed to Jehovah, the God of the Jews, the only true God, in the Old Testament, are applied to Jesus Christ in the New: which plainly advances his character so high, as to assure us, that he is one with the Father; that he is God manifested in the flesh; whose name is Immanuel, or God with us; as we shall learn immediately from Isaiah the prophet.

13 Q. We have heard various and express prophecies which David gave concerning the Messiah; and did not Solomon also prophecy of Christ?
Ans. Many Christians, in elder and later times, have supposed that the eighth chapter of Solomon's Proverbs speaks of Christ in his divine nature, under the character of Wisdom.

Note. Some of the ancient fathers suppose Wisdom, in this chapter, to denote Jesus Christ; some think it means the Holy Spirit; but other writers question whether there be any such full and sufficient proof of either of these opinions in the New Testament, as to write them down with assurance. Athanasius sometimes explains it of Christ's human nature. And on these accounts Dr. Patrick himself doubts whether this be a prophecy of Christ or no: or whether it only relates to divine and human wisdom.

14 Q. But did not Solomon write the Song of Songs? And is not Christ there foretold as the bridegroom and husband of the Church?
Ans. The metaphors and similitudes of the same kind which are used in the xlv. Psalm, and in some of the Epistles, and the book of Revelations, have generally persuaded our Christian expositors to apply that Song to the spiritual characters and transactions of Christ and his Church: but the expressions are so much borrowed from the affairs of a human love, that they hardly afford sufficient argument for the proof of the Messiah as more evident and direct prophecies, which is my present chief business; nor indeed do I know that the New Testament cites any of Solomon's writings, as prophecies of Christ.

15 Q. Which is the next of the prophets that speak of Christ, as they stand in order in our Bible?
Ans. Isaiah, who was called the evangelical or gospel prophet, because he foretells the greatest variety of events that relate to him, namely: (1.) That he shall be born of a virgin,
Isa. vii. 14. Matt. i. 20—23. (2.) That he shall be of the family of Jesse or David, Isa. xi. 10. Isa. ix. 6, 7. (3.) And yet that he should be rejected, viii. 14. Rom. ix. 33. 1 Peter ii. 8. Isa. liii. 1, 2, 3. Isa. xlix. 6, 7. Isa. xii. Isa. liii. 10. and lv. 4, 5. Isa. lxv. 15. (4.) That he shall be full of the Spirit of God, &c. Isa. xi. 1, 2. John iii. 34. Col. ii. 3. John i. 32. (5.) His commission for the ministry, &c. Isa. xi. 4. Isa. lxi. 1—3. Luke iv. 18—21. (6.) That he shall work miracles, Isa. xxxiv. 4, &c. Matt. xi. 2—6. (7.) That he should have a forerunner to prepare his way in the wilderness, Isa. xl. 3, 5. 1 Tim. iii. 16. Matt. iii. 1, 2, 3. (8.) The sufferings of Christ also, and his meekness and patience under the contempt, reproaches, and persecution he met with; his death as an atonement for sin; his being numbered among vile sinners; his burial with the rich; his resurrection, exaltation, and intercession; are all spoken of in that admirable chapter, Isa. liii., which I desire my readers to peruse in this place, for the whole of it is expressed in language so exceedingly plain, that it seems sufficient to convince any honest infidel or heathen; and it did actually convince that wild and atheistical nobleman, the earl of Rochester, in the last age, of the truth of the gospel, when he compared these words of the prophecy of Isaiah with the xxvi. and the following chapters of the gospel of St. Matthew; and he became a Christian penitent.

21 Q. Does Zechariah tell us any thing concerning Christ? Ans. Though his prophecy be generally pretty obscure, yet in several places he speaks those things which plainly relate to the Messiah; some whereof are cited and applied to Christ in the New Testament, and several of them were attributed to the Messiah by the ancient Jews. See Zech. vi. 12, &c. and ix. 9. Matt. xxii. 5. and John xii. 15.

23 Q. And what does Malachi, the last of the prophets, speak concerning Christ? Ans. Mal. iii. 1, 3. Matt. xi.

24 Q. You have given us a large account of what the Jewish prophets have foretold; but were there no others besides the Jews which prophesied concerning Christ?

Ans. Yes, there are two very remarkable persons who were not Jews, whose expressions have a reference to our blessed Savior; and these were Balaam and Job.

29 Q. What reason is given to prove that this refers to Christ? Ans. Rev. xxii. 16. Psalm ii. 6—9.

28 Q. When is this prophecy to be fulfilled? Ans. 1 Thes. iv. 16, 17. 1 Cor. 24—24. 1 Tim. iii. 16.

29 Q. What great and evident truths may be inferred from this long train of prophecies concerning Jesus Christ our Savior?

Ans. We learn, that from the beginning of the world, ever since the sin and fall of Adam, throughout the several ages of mankind, there hath been a continual succession of prophecies given from God, who foreknows all things, concerning some great and glorious Deliverer and Savior, who should be manifested to the world in time; and that he should appear as the king of Israel, and for the salvation both of Jews and Gentiles: and accordingly he has been expected by those good men in the several ages who were best acquainted with the scriptures, and particularly in that age wherein Jesus Christ appeared. See Luke i. 68, 70. and xxiv. 27. Acts iii. 18—24.

30 Q. But does this determine Jesus the Son of Mary to be this glorious person, this expected Savior?

Ans. Since all the characters which so many prophets, in so many different ages, have given concerning the Messiah or Christ the Savior, do really agree and meet together in Jesus, and in none besides, they leave us no room to doubt whether this Jesus of Nazareth, the son of Mary, be Christ or no.
CH. IV. HARMONY OF THE GOSPELS.

The following concise harmony of the gospels is revised and corrected from that of the late Rev. John Brown. It is presumed that it will be found useful to the reader. By this means every narration and discourse may be exhibited at one view, with all their concurrent circumstances, as recorded by the several evangelists.

CH. V.—CHRONOLOGICAL TABLE OF THE NEW TESTAMENT SCRIPTURES.

The New Testament was originally written in the Greek language; but concerning the exact time when each of the several books was written, it is now difficult to determine; consequently there is some little difference of opinion among the learned commentators, in reference to some of them. The following table has been compiled from the most celebrated writers on the subject.

INTRODUCTION.

Having finished the history of the Old Testament, and related briefly the short affairs of the Jews, so far as we find them recorded elsewhere, we proceed now to the history of the New: the chief subjects of it are our Lord Jesus Christ, the Savior of mankind; John the Baptist, who was the forerunner; and the Apostles, who were his followers.

The history of John the Baptist is but short; it contains a brief narrative of his birth, his ministry, and his death.

The history of Christ our Savior is much larger, and it may be divided into three distinct parts, namely, the account of his BIRTH AND CHILDHOOD; the account of his PUBLIC LIFE AND MINISTRY; and the account of his DEATH, RESURRECTION, AND ASCENSION.

The history of the Apostles, after our Savior's ascension, begins with an account of the twelve Apostles, in general, but chiefly of St. Peter and St. John; and proceeds more largely to a particular account of the travels, labors, and sufferings of St. Paul; and this concludes the Scripture History, except what is contained in the visions of St. John, in the Revelations.

The writers of this history are St. Matthew and St. John, the Apostles; St. Mark, the companion of St. Peter, and St. Luke, the companion of St. Paul. It is contained chiefly in the four Gospels, written by those Evangelists whose names they bear; and in the Acts of the Apostles, of which Luke was the writer; though some further hints and memoirs may be collected from some parts of the Epistles.

John in the Wilderness
CHAPTER I.

OF JOHN THE BAPTIST.

LESSON I.

The state of the world at the birth of Christ.

1 Q. As the Old Testament begins with the creation of the world, so the first question here is, Who was the Savior of the world? Ans. Matt. i. 21. 1 Tim. i. 15. John iii. 17. 1 John iv. 14. Matt. xvi. 16.

3 Q. Were there any plain marks or characters given him whereby he might be known?

Ans. Yes; many characters of him are found in the books of the Old Testament, as the foregoing chapter declares; and he has answered them all, in his life, his doctrine, his death, and his resurrection.

4 Q. Was such a Messiah expected by the Jews, to whom the books of the Old Testament were given? Ans. John i. 45. Luke iii. 15. John iv. 25, 29.

Note. It is worth our observation, that not only the Jews and Samaritans, but the heathens also, about this time, expected some great king or glorious person to be born.

Virgil, the Roman poet, who lived in the time of Augustus Caesar, in his fourth Eclogue, is supposed to describe the blessings of the government and age of some great person, who was or should be born about this time; and he does it in language very agreeable to the Jewish prophet's description of the Messiah and his kingdom. Some suppose that he borrowed this sense from some ancient books of the prophetesses, who were called Sibyls; but it is evident that those writings of the Sibyls which are delivered down to us have so many signs of forgery, that we can give no credit to them.

Suetonius, a Roman writer, tells us, in the life of Augustus Caesar, that there was one Julius Marathus declared, "that nature was about to bring forth a king for the people of Rome." He says also, in the life of Vespasian, "that there had prevailed over all the eastern part of the world a constant opinion that about that time there should come out of Judea those who should obtain the empire of the world." Tacitus, another of their historians, says the same thing; and "that it was contained in the ancient books of the Jewish priests," so that both Jews and Gentiles expected now some glorious person to arise in the world."
5 Q. Who was the forerunner or the messenger sent to declare that he was just at hand? Ans. Luke i. 6. 67. Mark i. 2. See Chart, Priests' Courses, around map No. 5.

[6 Q. Who was king of Judea at the time of the commencement of this history; and what priest then officiated in the temple? Ans. Luke i. 5. See Chart, map No. 4, and Priests' Courses.]

7 Q. What was Zacharias? Ans. Luke i. 6, 7.

[Note. Zacharias and Elisabeth were both the descendants of Aaron, in whose family the succession of the priesthood was confined. Ex. xxviii. "The course of Abia," or Abijah, was the eighth of the twenty-four classes of priests, as they served by lot in the temple.]

8 Q. What was there remarkable in the birth of John? Ans. Luke i. [8.] 9, &c.

[9 Q. What part of the daily service did Zacharias perform in the temple; and in what were the people engaged "without" at the time? Ans. (1.) Luke i. 8, 9. (2.) 10. For the altar of incense, see p. 125. For the incense of holy perfume, see p. 115.

10 Q. Who now appeared to Zacharias; and what effect followed? Ans. (1.) Luke i. 11. (2.) 12.

11 Q. How were his fears removed; and what prediction did the angel then announce to him? Ans. (1.) Luke i. 13, first clause. (2.) 13, 14.

[Note. "The children of Israel," whom John was to "turn to the Lord," were the Jews, the descendants of Jacob or Israel, Gen. xxxii. 32. 2 Kings xvii. 34., who were at that time in subjection to the Romans, and were greatly corrupted in morals. By Elias is here meant the prophet Elijah, of whom he was the antitype. See Types, &c.]

13 Q. What did Zacharias now say to the angel; and what was his reply? Ans. (1.) Luke i. 18. (2.) 19.]

16 Q. Whither did he go after accomplishing his ministration? Ans. Luke i. 23. For the term of their ministration, see 2 Chron. xxiii. 4—8.]

17 Q. What honor was done to Elisabeth while she was with child of her son? Ans. Luke i. 39—55.

[18 Q. What did Elisabeth now utter, under the influences of the Holy Ghost; and what response was made by Mary? Ans. (1.) Luke i. 41—45. (2.) 46—55.

21 Q. When was Zacharias released from his dumbness, and his voice restored to him? Ans. Luke i. 59–64. [Com. v. 20, with v. 64.

23 Q. What was further uttered by Zacharias? Ans. Luke i. 67–79.

Note. About fourteen years after the birth of Christ, Caesar Augustus died, and was succeeded by Tiberius Caesar. Valerius Gratus, then governor of Rome, constituted Josephus, called Caiaphas, high priest of the Jews; and about the close of the year of our Lord 26, Pontius Pilate was sent to be procurator of Judea in the place of Valerius Gratus. And it was "in those days," Luke iii. 1, 2, that John commenced to preach and baptize, an account of which now follows.

LESSON II.

The preaching of John the Baptist.

26 Q. What was his chief commission from God? Ans. Mark i. 4, 5. John i. 20, 31.

27 Q. Can you describe his dress, &c.; who came out to hear him; and what was his success? Ans. (1.) Matt. iii. 4. (2.) 5, 6.

29 Q. What directions did he give to the Pharisees and Sadducees? Ans. Matt. iii. 7, 8.

31 Q. And what was his counsel to the soldiers? Ans. Luke iii. 14.

34 Q. Wherein did he imitate or look like Elias or Elijah?

* For an account of the Pharisees, Sadducees, &c., see history of the Jews, part ii. chap. vii. q. 36.
Ans. That he wore a garment of hair; that he lived an austere life, like Elijah, in the wilderness; that he came to begin a reformation among the Jews, as Elias did, when they were greatly corrupted; and he reproved Herod, as Elias reproved Ahab, Mark i. 6. and ix. 13. Matt. xiv. 3.

35 Q. What did he say concerning Jesus Christ? Ans. John i. 21—34. Matt. iii. 11.

36 Q. How did he come to know Jesus Christ? Ans. He had some notice given him privately from God, and he had a further public sign from heaven to confirm his knowledge of him.

37 Q. What was that public sign? Ans. Matt. iii. 16, 17. and John i. 31—33.

38 Q. Did the disciples of John immediately leave him and follow Jesus? Ans. No; for Jesus had not then begun his public ministry.

41 Q. Did not Herod hear John preach sometimes, and reform some of his evil practices upon it? Ans. Mark vi. 20—29.

43 Q. And did Herod then comply with this bloody request? Ans. Matt. xiv. 9—11.

CHAPTER II.

OF THE BIRTH AND CHILDHOOD OF JESUS CHRIST.

LESSON III.

Christ born at Bethlehem, &c.

2 Q. What does the name of Jesus Christ signify? Ans. Jesus (which is his proper name) signifies a Savior; and Christ is the same in Greek that Messiah is in Hebrew, Parable of the Sower.

John's Head brought to Herodias. which signifies his being anointed, or appointed to that office, Matt. i. 21. John i. 41. Psalm ii. 2. For the genealogy of Christ, see Chart, Salathiel, No. 16.

3 Q. Where did he dwell before he came into this world? Ans. John xvii. 5. and chap. i. 1, 2, 14.

5 Q. Who was this Mary, the mother of Jesus Christ? Ans. Matt. i. 18, 20. Luke i. 32. Matt. xiii. 55. See Chart, Salathiel, No. 16, and Hist. Rem. to index.

7 Q. What notice had Mary that she should have such a son? Ans. Luke i. 26—35.

8 Q. How was Mary further encouraged in this hope? Ans. Luke i. 39—55.

[Note. This taxation of the Jews under Augustus Caesar, was but the fulfillment of what God had declared he would inflict upon the Jews in case of disobedience. See Deut. xxviii. 15, 48—50, &c.]

11 Q. What provision was made for her there? Ans. Luke ii. 7.

12 Q. What special notices were given that this child was the Messiah, or Christ, the King of Israel? Ans. Many notices of it were given by angels and men, by Jews and Gentiles.

13 Q. What notice was given by angels that Christ was born? Ans. Luke ii. 8—16.

14 Q. What joy was shown among the angels upon this occasion? Ans. Luke ii. 13, 14.

LESSON IV.

Simeon and Anna testify of Christ. —He is worshiped by the wise men, &c.

15 Q. What testimonies were given to Jesus Christ in his infancy by any of the Jews? Ans. Luke ii. 25, 36.

16 Q. What was the witness which Simeon bore to the infant Jesus? Ans. Luke ii. 28—30.

19 Q. How did they find out the house where Jesus was? Ans. Matt. ii. 9.

22 Q. What means did Herod use to destroy him? Ans. Matt. ii. 16.

[Note. The cruel Herod the Great, issued the bloody mandate to slay "all the children" of Bethlehem, "from two years old and under," with the hope that the child Jesus, then about that age, would fall a victim to the general massacre. But Joseph had prudently escaped under cover of "night," and lay safely concealed in Egypt. The slaughter of these children by Herod, was a fulfillment of the prediction of Jeremiah, ch. xxxi. 15.

When this Herod (not the one mentioned Acts xii. 20—23) had reigned over Judea about thirty-five years, after having been guilty of a series of atrocities, at the recital of which humanity revolts, he came to a most miserable end, having been smitten with a loathsome disease, which terminated his life. The names of several other Herods may be found Matt. xiv. Mark vi. Acts xii.]

28 Q. How did Jesus employ his younger years. Ans. Mark vi. 3.
CHAPTER III.

OF THE PUBLIC LIFE AND MINISTRY OF CHRIST.

INTRODUCTION.

His preparation for his public work.

LESSON V.

First. His Baptism.

2 Q. How was he prepared for his public work?
   Ans. He was eminently prepared for it by his baptism, by the descent of the Holy Spirit upon him, by his retirement, and his temptations, Luke iii. and iv.

[3 Q. By whom was Christ baptized? Ans. Matt. iii. 13, 16. See Chart, map No. 6.

4 Q. What did John say to Christ; and what was his reply? Ans. Matt. iii. 14, 15.

5 Q. Where was he baptized? Ans. Matt. iii. 5, 6.]

6 Q. When was Jesus Christ baptized? Ans. Matt. iii. 1-15.

[8 Q. What does the Evangelist John say of the different objects of the mission of the Baptist, and of Jesus? Ans. (1.) John i. 6, 7. (2.) 8, 9.

9 Q. Did the Baptist bear witness to the pre-eminence of Christ accordingly? Ans. (1.) John i. 15, 16—18. (2.) 19—22. (3.) 23—28. (4.) 29—34. (5) 35, 36.]

LESSON VI.

Second. The Temptation.

12 Q. Was this the place of his contest with the tempter? Ans. Matt. iv. 1—11.
[19 Q. Who came to Christ during his fast of forty days and nights? Ans. Matt. i. 2, 3.]

14 Q. What was the first temptation? Ans. Matt. iv. 3.
16 Q. What was the second temptation? Ans. Matt. iv. 5, 6. Psalm xci. 11.

[Note. This "pinnacle of the temple" is supposed to be the same with the gallery of king Herod, raised to an immense height from a valley of almost unfathomed depth, mentioned by Josephus, I. xv. c. 14.]

18 Q. What was the third temptation? Ans. Matt. iv. 8, 9.
19 Q. How was this temptation vanquished? Ans. Matt. iv. 10. Deut. vi. 13. and x. 20.
20 Q. Whence did Jesus derive his answer to these several temptations?
Ans. From several texts of scripture which he cited upon this occasion, and all out of the book of Deuteronomy.

SECTION I.

Jesus Christ's appearance with the characters of the Messiah.

LESSON VII.

22 Q. We are now come to the public life and ministry of Jesus Christ; let us hear what were the chief parts or designs of it?
Ans. The first design of his public life and ministry was, to appear in the world with the marks of a divine commission, and the characters of the Messiah upon him.

[23 Q. How did Jesus fulfill this first design of his public life and ministry?
Ans. He healed the sick, he raised the dead, he preached the glad tidings of salvation to the poor, he set about the reformation of the world, and all this without noise or uproar; and he received several testimonies from heaven.

24 Q. What remarkable predictions did the prophet Isaiah utter in reference to these characteristics of the Messiah's works? Ans. Isa. xxxv. 4. 5. and xli. 1, 2. and xlii. 2.
25 Q. In what manner did Malachi speak of Christ? Ans. Mal. iii. 1, 2, 3.
26 Q. Were these predictions verified? Ans. Matt. xi. 3-5. and v. 17-20. and xii. 19-21.]

27 Q. But did not Christ preach up his own character as the Messiah, or anointed Savior? Ans. Matt. xvi. 20. Mark i. 34.

28 Q. Why did our Savior so long abstain from declaring that he was the Messiah who should come into the world?

Ans. Partly that men might learn his office and character in a rational way, and infer that he was the Messiah by his doctrine and his works; and partly that he might not expose himself to the rage of his enemies, and to death before his time. Luke vii. 19-28.

29 Q. What were some of the testimonies which Christ received from heaven in his life?

Ans. Voices from heaven at several times; once at his baptism, which was mentioned before; once among the people, in answer to his prayer; and once on the mount of transfiguration, when Moses and Elias came from heaven to attend him.

30 Q. What was that voice which came in answer to his prayer? Ans. John xii. 28.

[31 Q. What did the people say concerning the voice which was heard at this time? Ans. John xii. 29.

32 Q. What was Christ's reply? Ans. John xii. 30-32.

33 Q. To what event did Christ refer in these remarks? Ans. John xii. 33.

34 Q. What answer did “the people” return; and what did Christ further say to them? Ans. (1.) John xii. 34. (2.) 35, 36.

35 Q. What is said of the result of the miracles which Christ wrought in the presence of the people? Ans. John xii. 37-41.

36 Q. What is said of those who did believe on him? Ans. John xii. 42, 43.

37 Q. What did Christ further say on this occasion? Ans. John xii. 44-50.]

LESSON VIII.

Christ's Transfiguration.

38 Q. What was the transfiguration? Ans. Matt. xvii. 1-5. [Mark ix. 2-10. Luke ix. 28-36.]

Note. This was one of the mountains of Galilee, but whether mount Tabor or Hermon, is uncertain.

40 Q. What is related of Christ while there? Ans. Matt. i. 2. Heb. i. 3.
41 Q. In what was Christ engaged at this time? Ans. Luke ix. 29.
43 Q. What is said of the disciples at this time? Ans. Luke ix. 32.
44 Q. What did they subsequently say to Christ; and did they understand what they said? Ans. (1.) Matt. xvii. 4. (2.) Luke ix. 33, last clause.
45 Q. What occurred while Peter was thus addressing Christ? Ans. Matt. xvii. 5. See also Ex. xiv. 19, 20. xxiv. 15, 16. 1 Kings viii. 10, 11. Ezek. i. 4. x. 4.
46 Q. What was said of Christ by a voice from the cloud; and how were the disciples affected? Ans. (1.) Matt. xvii. 5. (2.) 6.
48 Q. What charge did Christ give them as they descended the mount? Ans. Matt. xvii. 9.
49 Q. What conversation ensued between Christ and his disciples? Ans. Matt. xvii. 10—13.]

SECTION II.

OF THE SUBJECTS OF [CHRIST'S] PREACHING, HIS PARABLES, AND HIS DISPUTES.

LESSON IX.

Of Christ's preaching.

50 Q. What was the second part or design of his public life and ministry? Ans. Mark i. 38. Isa. lxi. 1. Luke iv. 18.
51 Q. In what manner did our Lord Jesus Christ preach to the world, and teach mankind? Ans. Matt. v. 2, 3, &c., and xiii. 3.
52 Q. What were some of the chief subjects of our Savior's public preaching? Ans. Matt. v. 17—20. ix. 12, 13.

(1.) He explained the law of God, &c.

Note. The moral law, or ten commandments, is now obligatory upon all men, and will remain to be, till the final consummation of all things. Com. Matt. v. 18, with 2 Peter iii. 10.

54 Q. What is said of those who, by their actions, speech, or explanations, should violate this law? Ans. Matt. v. 19. Rom. viii. 7.
55 Q. What of those who should "do and teach them?" Ans. Matt. v. 19.]
(2. He taught them the vanity of depending upon any outward privileges, &c.
[56 Q. Was not this implied in the conversation between Christ and Nicodemus? Ans. John iii. 3—13.
57 Q. What reply did the Jews make to Christ, who taught them that a continuance in his word should make them "free?" Ans. John viii. 32.
58 Q. What did Christ further say; and what did they answer? Ans. (1.) John viii. 34—38. (2.) 39.
59 Q. Did Christ now show them that their lineal descent from Abraham did not constitute them true believers? Ans. John viii. 39—41.
60 Q. What reply did they make to these things; and how did Christ further confirm his declaration? Ans. John viii. 42—47.
61 Q. Of what did they now accuse Christ; and how did he vindicate himself? Ans. (1.) John viii. 48, 49—51. (2.) 52, 53, 54—56. (3.) 57, 58, 59.
64 Q. Where does Christ elsewhere teach that "all are not Israel who are of Israel?" Ans. Matt. viii. 12.
66 Q. What did Christ now say he would do; and what consequence was to follow? Ans. (1.) Matt. xxiii. 34. (2.) 35, 36.
67 Q. In what compassionate language does Christ now address them? Ans. Matt. xxiii. 37—39.]

LESSON X.

Christ's preaching, continued.

(3. He corrected several sinful customs and practices, and gave particular directions for the practice of many duties.
69 Q. What accusation, in consequence of this practice, did they prefer against the disciples of Christ? Ans. Mark vii. 1, 2.
70 Q. How did Christ vindicate his disciples against this charge? Ans. Mark vii. 5, 6—13.

72 Q. With whom did Christ set after going up into the mountain? Ans. (1.) John vi. 1. (2.) Matt. v. 1.

73 Q. What did he do after spending the night in prayer; what were the names of the twelve; and by what epithet were they to be subsequently distinguished? Ans. (1.) Luke vi, 12, 13. (2.) 14—16. (3.) 13, last clause.

74 Q. Of whom did Christ first speak, in imparting instruction to his disciples, in his sermon on the mount; and to what were they entitled? Ans. Matt. v. 3. Matt. xi. 29.

7 Q. What prediction was fulfilled in them? Ans. Matt. xiii. 14, 15. See Isa. vi. 9, 10.

Note. The import of this parable is simply this—when ministers preach the gospel, the world becomes more or less faithful, or unfaithful, according to the good or evil hearts of the hearers. See James iv. 7. 1 Peter v. 8, 9. John xv. 5, 8.

(2.) The parable of the tares in the field.
11 Q. What explanation did Christ give of this parable to his disciples? Ans. Matt. xiii. 36—43.

16 Q. What three persons passed by where the wounded man lay, and who of the number “had compassion on him?” Ans. Luke x. 31, 32, 33, 34, 35.

(6.) The parable of the wicked husbandmen.
23 Q. What did Christ now say to the Jews; and what was their reply? Ans. (1.) Matt. xxi. 40. (2.) 41.

In this parable our Savior designed to show how the Jews brought no fruit to God, notwithstanding all their advantages; that they abused his prophets, and would [finally] slay his Son; that God would turn them out of his church, and give his gospel to the Gentiles. [2 Chron. xxiv. 20, 21. Heb. xi. 37. Jer. xliv. 4—6. Neh. ix. 26. Matt. xxvii. 20, 25. Acts ii. 23. vii. 52.]

32 Q. What after his long absence? Ans. Matt. xxv. 19, 20, 21, 22, 23; 24—30. See 1 Cor. xii. 7. 2 Cor. vii. 12. 1 Cor. xii. 11—31. Luke xii. 48. 1 Cor. iv. 2.]

Note. The plain design of this parable is, to show the necessity of diligence in the improvement of all our mercies and advantages.
LESSON XIX.

The parables of Christ, continued.

(9.) The parables of the prodigal son.

[33 Q. What is here said of “a rich man,” and his “two sons.” Ans. Luke xv. 11, 12.

34 Q. What is related concerning the “younger of them?”

Note. This parable is designed to represent, that thus shall the mercy of God be shown to the repenting Gentiles, when they shall forsake their sins, and return to God, though the Jews will be cnvious, and quarrel with this conduct of Providence.

(10.) The parable of the rich man and Lazarus.

[36 Q. What two prominent personages are here brought to view; and what is said of them? Ans. (1.) Luke xvi. 19, 20, 21. (2.) 22, 23. See Prov. xi. 4, 7. xiv. 32.

Note. “This parable is a representation of the progress of the gospel in the world, and of the growth of grace in the soul.” Clarke.

(13.) The parable of the leaven.

42 Q. What is the substance and the import of this parable?

Ans. (1.) Matt. xiii. 33. (2.) The progress of leaven in dough is, to assimilate to its likeness—so by the grace of God in the heart, we "are changed into the same image, from glory to glory, even as by the spirit of the Lord." 2 Cor. iii. 18.

(14.) The parables of the found treasure; the goodly pearls; and the net cast into the sea.
43 Q. Relate the parable of the found treasure? Ans. Matt. xiii. 44. See Ps. xix. 9, 10. Prov. iii. 13—15.
44 Q. What was requisite to be done, in order to obtain this field? Ans. Matt. xii. 44, last clause. Luke xiv. 33. Phil. iii. 7, 8.

Note. The "field" in this parable, represents the revealed word of God, 2 Tim. iii. 16. The "hid treasure," the precious and inestimable gospel, 2 Cor. iv. 7. The discovery of it, an enlightened conscience, James i. 25. Selling "all that he had, the abandonment of sin," Luke xviii. 22, 23, 28—30. The "purchase" of the field, reliance upon Christ for salvation, Titus iii. 4—7. The parable of the "pearls," the same.

45 Q. Relate the parable of the net, &c.? Ans. Matt. xiii. 47, 48.

(15.) The parable of the two debtors.

Note. The "creditor" here spoken of, is God; the "two debtors," Simon, (supposed to be the same with Simon the leper, Matt. xxvi. 6,) and the woman, v. 37. The comparison of "Simon's debt to God," being a religious Pharisee, with that of the woman, who probably was a heathen, was "as fifty to five hundred." Having "nothing to pay," the helpless state of both, Rom. iii. 20. Their forgiveness; the sinner's release from condemnation through Christ, Rom. x. 4.

LESSON XX.

55 Q. What further instances, as predicated of this parable, did Christ impart to his disciples? Ans. Luke xii. 22—34.

(17.) The parable of the servants waiting for their Lord.

Note. This parable is designed to teach the necessity of a vigilant improvement of the light afforded us, and the present error, and future punishment of those who remain in voluntary ignorance of their heavenly Master's will.

(18.) The parables of the barren fig-tree; the lost sheep; and the lost piece of money.

Note. The "certain man" in this parable represents God Almighty; the "fig-tree," the Jewish church, which was planted in "his vineyard," Judea or Palestine; the "vine-dresser," the Lord Jesus Christ; his seeking "fruit" and finding "none," the continued rebellion of the Jews; the command to "cut it down," let them be destroyed by their enemies; the plea, "let it alone, &c." the intercession of Christ for sinners; "then after that, &c.," the final destruction of the impotent.

Note. Both these parables were designed as a vindication of Christ's conduct in receiving into his fold the lost and wandering sheep, both of the Jews and Gentiles, which was the grand design of his mission upon earth.

(19.) The parable of the dishonest steward.
65 Q. What lessons of instruction were deduced from this parable? Ans. Luke xvi. 9—13. See Mark xii. 42. 2 Cor. ix. 9.

Note. That part of this parable contained in v. 1, 2, teaches that there will be a day of final reckoning with mankind, all of whom are considered as God's stewards. Heb. ix. 27. Rom. ii. 16. Jude 14, 15. That in v. 3—6, that cunning subtlety with which many practice works of injustice, to secure earthly riches. The 8th v. may be considered as an ironical commendation of the unjust steward’s conduct, but is intended as an example to “the children of light,” of that vigilance and carefulness necessary to be exercised in securing spiritual things. Compare v. 9—13 with Luke xii. 33, 34, and 1 Tim. vi. 17—19.

LESSON XXI.

By the “nobleman” in this parable, is meant Christ; his going “into a far country,” the ascension of Christ to heaven after his death, “to receive a kingdom,” to assume his mediatorial throne, Phil. ii. 8—11. Heb. i. 3—9. “And to return,” at the day of judgment, (1.) to punish the “citizens,” the Jews, who “hated him,” &c. v. 14, 20—27; and (2.) to reward the faithful, v. 15—19.

72 Q. What was this parable? Ans. Matt. xxi. 28—32.

73 Q. How did Christ apply this parable? Ans. Matt. xxi. 31, 32.
(24.) The parable of the marriage-feast.

Note. In this parable, the “king” represents God; his “son,” Jesus Christ, his “marriage,” the incarnation, Heb. ii. 17; the “feast,” the provisions of the Gospel; those “bidden,” v. 3, the Jews; and the “servants” sent out, John the Baptist and the seventy disciples, Luke xi.; the other “servants,” v. 4, the Apostles and their successors. The Jews neglected this salvation by making “light of it,” and slaying the “servants.” In v. 7, their destruction by the Romans under Titus, is pointed out. The ninth and tenth verses refer to the calling of the Gentiles. Compare verses 11—14 with Zeph. i. 7, 8.

83 Q. Did Nicodemus understand this truth; and what did Christ further say? Ans. (1.) John iii. 9. (2.) 16—21.

Note. For the reason of Nicodemus' ignorance of this subject, see 1 Cor. ii. 14. John v. 46, 47. 1 Tim. i. 7. For the nature of the new birth, see Eph. iv. 22—24. 1 John iii. 9, 10.]

86 Q. What effect had this interview upon the disciples? Ans. John iv. 27.
87 Q. Whither went the woman; and what did she do? Ans. John iv. 28, 29.
89 Q. What effect followed the declaration of the Samaritan woman, concerning the Messiahship of Christ? Ans. John iv. 39—42.]

(3.) Christ's conversation with the Herodians, Pharisees, Sadducees, &c.

LESSON XXIII.

Christ's conversations, &c., continued.

97 Q. What reply did Christ make to the scribes and Pharisees who accused his disciples of transgressing the tradition of the elders in neglecting to wash their hands? Ans. Matt. xv. 1, 2, 3—9. See Mark vii. 1—23.

100 Q. But did not Christ teach the people to regard the instructions of the scribes and Pharisees? Ans. Matt. xxiii. 1, 2, 3, first clause.

101 Q. In what respects were they not to be imitated; and for what reason? Ans. (1.) Matt. xxiii. 3, last clause. (2.) 4—12.

103 Q. What other charge did the Pharisees prefer against Christ's disciples; and how did he vindicate them? Ans. (1.) Matt. xii. 1, 2. (2.) 3—8.

104 Q. What was his debate with the ruler of the synagogues and other Jews? Ans. Luke xiii. 14—17.

105 Q. What controversy had Christ with the chief priests and elders of the people? Ans. Matt. xxi. 23—27.

106 Q. For what did Christ upbraid the city of Chorazin, or Bethsaida; and what did he say of them? Ans. Matt. xi. 20—22. For Bethsaida, Tyre, and Sidon, see Geog., index, and Chart, maps No. 4 and 6.

107 Q. What did he say of Capernaum? Ans. Matt. xi. 23, 24. For Capernaum, see Chart, maps No. 4 and 6.

109 Q. At what were the people amazed while Christ was at Capernaum? Ans. Matt. xii. 22, 23. See Mark iii. 22—27. Luke xi. 14—22.

111 Q. How did Christ vindicate himself against this charge; and what did he say of them? Ans. (1.) Matt. xii. 25—29. (2.) 30—32 (3.) 33—37.

Note. The expression, "by whom do your children cast them out," v. 27, does not mean that they, (the Jews) as well as Christ, possessed this power. See Acts xix. 13—19. The nature of "blasphemy against the Holy Spirit," is explained Mark iii. 30. That it cannot and will not be forgiven; see Matt. xxvi. 46. 2 Thess. i. 9. Rev. xxii. 11.

LESSON XXIV.

Christ's conversations, &c., continued.

(5.) Christ teaches humility, and forgiveness of injuries, and admonishes against giving or taking offenses, &c.
112 Q. What contention arose among the disciples; and what method did Christ adopt to silence it? Ans. (1.) Matt.

Note. The term "converted," in v. 3., is to be understood the same as in Is. ix. 5., and Acts iii. 19., and as synonymous with being "born again."

113 Q. What connection is formed between Christ and the believer, as a consequence of receiving a "little child in" his.
114 Q. What circumstance is here omitted by Matthew, Luke ix. 49.

Note. Here is an acknowledgment from John, one of the apostles of Christ, that he "saw one casting out devils in his name." It was impossible for a miracle to be wrought except by faith in Christ. Acts xix. 13—19. The inference, therefore, is, that this person must have known and believed in Christ. This is evident from Christ's command, "forbid him not, &c." The query is, who could this person have been? Ans. Either one of John the Baptist's disciples, or one of the 115 Q. What did Christ say concerning offenses which were to come; and what admonitions followed? Ans. (1.)

Matt. xviii. 7. (2.) 8, 9.
116 Q. To what were they to take heed; and why? Ans.
Matt. xviii. 10, 11. For the parable, v. 12—14., see lesson
xix. q. 57.
117 Q. What is to be our conduct towards an offending brother? Ans. Matt. xviii. 15—17. See Lev. xix. 17. For the number of witnesses requisite, see Deut. xix. 15. 2 Cor. xiii.
1. John viii. 17.
118 Q. What works performed by the apostles on earth, were to be ratified in heaven? Ans. Matt. xviii. 18. Com.
Matt. xvi. 19, with the above.
119 Q. What follows? Ans. Matt. xviii. 19, 20. For the following parable, see lesson xvi. q. 12.
120 Q. What passed between the scribes, &c., in the temple, concerning the woman taken in adultery? Ans. John viii. 1—11.
121 Q. What effect was produced by the relation and explanation of the parable of the shepherd, John x. 1—5. 6—18! Ans. John x. 19—21. For this parable, see lesson xx. q. 75.

123 Q. What did the Jews then do? Ans. John x. 31.

124 Q. How did Christ vindicate himself against the charge of "blasphemy"? Ans. John x. 32—38.

125 Q. After Christ escaped out of the hands of these persecuting Jews, whither did he go; and what followed? Ans. (1.) John x. 39, 40. (2.) 41, 42.

127 Q. What were those woes? Ans. Luke xi. 42—52.

LESSON XXV.

Christ's conversations, &c., continued.

130 Q. What was then said by one who sat at meat with him? Ans. Luke xiv. 15. For the parable which follows, see lesson xx. q. 73.

132 Q. What did Christ say to his disciples on his way to Jerusalem? Ans. Matt. xx. 17—19. See Mark x. 32—34. Luke xviii. 31—34. For the parable which precedes, see lesson xvii. q. 18.

Note. For the fulfillment of the predictions here disclosed, see (1.) Matt. xxvi. 15. (2.) xxvi. 57. Mark x. 34. Luke xviii. 32. (3.) xxvii. See also Isa. liii. Dan. ix. 26, 27.

133 Q. Who now came to Christ; and for what favor did they petition him? Ans. Matt. xx. 20, 21. 1 Sam. xx. 25. Ps. cx. 1. 1 Kings ii. 19. See Mark x. 35—45. The names of this woman and her two sons, were Salome, James, and John. Mark xv. 40. xvi. 1. See Chart, Salatheid, No. 10.

Note. The expressions "the cup that I shall drink of," and "the baptism that I am to be baptized with," denote extreme suffering, Ps. lxxv. 8. Isa. lii. 17, 22. Ps. lxix. 2. cxxiv. 4. 5. xliii. 2. Lam. iii. 54. and the prediction following the declaration of Zebedee's two sons, 135 Q. How were the ten affected toward these two brethren; and what did Christ say on the occasion? Ans. (1.) Matt. xx. 24. (2.) 25—28.

136 Q. Where was Christ before “he came to minister,” &c.? Ans. Ps. cx. 2. Prov. viii. 22—31.

137 Q. What was he at that time? Ans. Phil. ii. 6. John i. 1. xvii. 5.

138 Q. How did he come into the world? Ans. Phil. ii. 7, 8.

140 Q. Why was this necessary? Ans. This appears (1.) From the present condition of man. Eph. ii. 3. Rom. iii. 9—20, 23. 1 John v. 19. Gal. iii. 10.

(3.) From the impossibility of atoning for sin by a human sacrifice? Ps. xlix. 6, 7. Matt. xvi. 26. Micah vi. 6, 7.

LESSON XXVI.

(6.) The destruction of Jerusalem foretold.

142 Q. As Christ leaves the temple for the last time, what predictions did he utter in reference to its future destiny? Ans. Matt. xxiv. 1, 2. See Mark xiii. Luke xxi. 5—38.

Note. These stones of the temple, according to Josephus, were white and strong; their length 50 feet, their breadth 24 feet, their thickness 16 feet.—Antiq. b. 15. ch. xi. The prediction, v. 2, was literally fulfilled: even the temple was burnt, contrary to the command of the Roman general.—Antiq. b. 7.

143 Q. What private inquiries did the disciples now make of Christ; and what did he answer? Ans. (1.) Matt. xxiv. 3. (2.) 4—31.

Note. The first sign which was to precede the fulfillment of the above prediction was, the appearance of false Christs, v. 4, 5. The Jews had rejected the true Christ, and they were now to be delivered up to deceivers, which was verified, Acts v. 36, 37. viii. 9—11. xxi. 38. During the reign of Nero, these impostures were numerous. Antiq. b. xxv. c. iv. viii. See 2 Cor. xi. 13. 2 Tim. ii. 17, 18.

The second sign was “wars,” &c. v. 67. These were so numerous, and the Jews were kept in such consternation by them, as to neglect agriculture. Antiq. b. xviii. c. 9, &c. The nation of the Syrians in Caesarea about this time slew of the Jews, 20,000. They in turn lost the same number. Then there fell of the Jews at Scythopolis 13,000; at Ptolemais, 2,500. Many of them fell by the hands of the Tyrians, &c. At Alexandria were slain 50,000, and at Damascus 10,000.

The third sign, "famines, pestilences, and earthquakes," see Acts xi. 28. This famine prevailed in the days of Claudius Caesar, in consequence of which many died. Antiq. b. xx. c. ii. About these days there were earthquakes at Crete, Smyrna, Miletus, Chios, Samos, [Grotius;] Rome, Laodicea, Hierapolis, and Colosse, [Tacitus;] Campania, [Seneca;] Judea, &c., [Josephus.]

144 Q. Wherein does it appear that the declaration concerning the disciples, v. 9, was verified? Ans. Acts iv. 5, 6, 7. xvi. 28. 2 Cor. xi. 24. Acts iv. 3. xvi. xviii. 12. xxiv. 24. xxv. 23. Acts vii. 59. xii. 2.

Note. At the siege of Jerusalem, 1,100,000 Jews perished! Antiq. War, b. vi. c. 9. But those days of calamity were "shortened for the elect's sake," v. 22. Who these are, see 1 Peter i. 2. Rom. i. 7. Eph. i. 4. 1 Thess. i. 4. 2 Thess. ii. 13. Rom. viii. 30. Col. v. 29, with Luke xxi. 25, 26.

147 Q. Does the coming of the Son of man, as spoken of v. 30, allude to the destruction of Jerusalem or to the day of judgment? Ans. 1 Thess. iv. 16. Luke xxi. 27. Matt. xxvi. 64. Acts i. 11. What will follow is described in the thirty-first verse.

148 Q. What was taught the disciples by the parable which follows? Ans. Matt. xxiv. 32—35.

Note. The 36th verse may be explained by comparing it with Luke ii. 52. For the history of Noe, as alluded to v. 37—39, see Gen. vi. and ix. chapters inclusive. The labor of grinding at the mill was anciently performed by women. Ex. xi. 5. As the term "household," v. 45, refers to the church, 1 Peter ii. 5, so the "ruler" over that household is the minister of the sanctuary. 1 Thess. v. 12, 13. 1 Cor. iii. 5. iv. 1, 2. xii. 28. His duty is pointed out, John xxi. 15—17. Acts xx. 28. 1 Cor. iv. 1, 2.

150 Q. What passed between Christ and his disciples on his way to Gethsemane? Ans. Matt. xxvi. 31—36.

(12.) The withered hand restored.

117 Q. What inquiry did the Pharisees make in reference to the propriety of curing the man with a withered hand on the sabbath-day? Ans. Matt. xii. 9, 10. See Mark iii. 1—5. Luke vi. 6—10.

118 Q. How did Christ answer them? Ans. Matt. xii. 11, 12.

(13.) Canaanite woman's daughter cured.

120 Q. Who came to Christ as he went into the coasts of Tyre and Sidon; and for what purpose? Ans. Matt. xv. 21, 22.

121 Q. What did the disciples do when they saw that "he answered her not a word!" Matt. xv. 23.

124 Q. What reply did Christ make; and what was her answer? Ans. Matt. xv. 26, 27.

(14.) The woman of eighteen years' infirmity cured.

(15.) The fig-tree blasted.

128 Q. Whither did Christ come; and what is said of him the next morning? Ans. Matt. xxi. 17, 18.

129 Q. What is said of the fig-tree which he saw in the way? Ans. Matt. xxi. 19.

130 Q. How were the disciples affected by this thing; and what followed? Ans. (1.) Matt. xxi. 20. (2.) 21, 22.

(16.) The ear of Malchus healed.

131 Q. What were the circumstances which preceded this miracle? Ans. Luke xxii. 47—50.
(17.) The miraculous draught of fishes.
133 Q. Relate the circumstances of this miracle? Ans. John xxi. 1—13.
134 Q. When was this miracle performed? Ans. John xxi. 14.
135 Q. What is there remarkable in these miracles of our Savior?
Ans. These four things:
1. That almost every wondrous work performed by Christ was a work of love and goodness, whereas many of the wonders of Moses were works of destruction.
2. His miracles were very numerous, so that mankind could not be mistaken in all of them, though they should object against some.
3. They were wrought in many places of the Jewish nation, and several of them before the eyes of the multitude, who could attest them.
4. They were such miracles as were foretold should be wrought in the days of the Messiah; and therefore he continually appeals to his miraculous works for a testimony of his commission from God. John x. 37, 38. xv. 24. and xiv. 11.

SECTION IV.
THE EXAMPLE OF CHRIST.

LESSON IX.

136 Q. Let us proceed now and inquire what was the fourth thing designed in the public life and ministry of Christ?
Ans. To give an example to the world of universal holiness and goodness. John xiii. 15. 1 Cor. xi. 1. Rom. xv. 5.
137 Q. What are some of the more remarkable virtues, graces, or duties, wherein Christ appears to be our example?
Ans. (1.) John xiii. 50. xvii. 4. and ii. 16, 17. Matt. xxiii.
(2.) Matt. iii. 15. and v. 17. John xiv. 31. iv. 34. and vii. 10.
(4.) Luke ix. 58. and viii. 3.
(5.) 1 Peter ii. 21—23. Matt. xi. 29. Luke xxii. 42. and xxiii. 34.
Rom. v. 6, 8, 10.
John ii. 13, &c.
(10.) John vii. 1. and xi. 54. Matt. xvii. 27.

SECTION V.

HIS CALLING THE APOSTLES, AND INSTRUCTING THEM.

1 Q. What was the fifth part of the business and design of his public ministry?
Ans. To call his apostles, and instruct them in their great commission of preaching the gospel.
2 Q. How many preachers did our Savior send forth? Ans.
3 Q. What was the commission that Christ gave them all? Ans. Matt. x. 1—8. Luke x. 9, 17.

Note. For Simon and Jose, James and John, and James and Judas, (not Iscariot) see Chart, Salathiel, No. 16. For Judas Iscariot, Simon, No. 7.

Note. Simon was not a Canaanite by nation, for the apostles were all Jews. Some, therefore, think it is only the Hebrew or Syriac word Caca, which signifies a zealot, with a Greek termination added.

Some suppose Bartholomew to be the same with Nathanael.

6 Q. Had these messengers of Christ success in their work? Ans. Luke x. 17.

8 Q. What peculiar instructions did he give his apostles? Ans. (1.) He explained the parables to them at home, which he spake to the people, and acquainted them in private what they should preach in public. Matt. x. 27. Mark iv. 34.

(2.) He foretold they must expect difficulties and persecutions, but he promised the aids of his Spirit and his own presence with them, and a large reward in heaven. Matt. x. 16—33. xxviii. 20.

(3.) John xiii. 34, 35. Mark xi. 25.

(4.) Matt. x. 11. Luke x. 4, 5, &c.

(5.) Matt. xvi. 16—22. and xx. 28.

(8.) Luke xxiv. 49.

9 Q. Were there any of these apostles that seemed to be his favorites? Ans. Mark v. 37, 38. Matt. xvii. 1. and xxvi. 37. John xiii. 23.

SECTION VI.

HIS APPOINTMENT OR INSTITUTION OF THE TWO SACRAMENTS.

10 Q. What is the last part of the public ministry of Christ? Ans. His appointment of the two sensible ordinances, which are called sacraments, namely, baptism, and the Lord's supper.
11 Q. When did he appoint baptism? Ans. See Matt. iii.

Note. It may justly be doubted whether our Savior always from the beginning required the belief and profession of him to be the Messiah, as a necessary thing in order to become one of his disciples, and to receive his baptism, in those early days; since he studiously avoided the preaching up his own character as the Messiah, and concealed it from the public notice. Matt. xvi. 20. But after his resurrection, and newinstituted form of baptism, none were to be baptized but those who professed Jesus to be the Christ, or the Messiah.

12 Q. Did he make any alteration in the form of baptism
13 Q. When did he appoint the Lord's supper? Ans. 1
Cor. xi. 23.
14 Q. How did Christ appoint this ordinance to be per-15 Q. Do these ordinances of the gospel come in the room of any of the ceremonies of the Jewish law?
Ans. It has been generally supposed that baptism comes in the room of circumcision, and the Lord's supper in the room of the passover; but the proof of this does not belong to this place.
16 Q. How long is this ordinance of baptism to continue?
17 Q. How long is the ordinance of the supper to continue?
Ans. 1 Cor. xi. 24, 25, 26.

SECTION VII.

REMARKABLE OCCURRENCES IN THE LIFE OF CHRIST.

18 Q. What other remarkable occurrences are recorded in the life of Christ, besides those that have been mentioned?
Ans. These that follow, namely:
(1.) Matt. viii. 5—13.
(2.) Mark v. 1—17.
(3.) Matt. ix. 1—8.
(4.) Matt. ix. 20—22.
(5.) Matt. xii. 1—8.
(6.) Matt. xii. 38—41.
(7.) Matt. xii. 46—50.
(8.) Matt. xiii. 54—55.
(9.) Matt. xiv. 24—32.
(10.) Matt. xvi. 16—23.
(11.) Matt. xvii. 24—27.
(12.) Mark x. 13—16.
(13.) Matt. xix. 16—24.
(14.) Matt. xx. 20—28.
(16.) Luke x. 38—42. See Chart, map No. 6.
(17.) John xi.
(20.) Matt. xxi. 17—20.

Conclusion of this chapter.

19 Q. After we have heard this brief account of the transactions of the life of Christ, tell me what was the sum of that religion which Christ taught during his life?

Ans. It consisted chiefly in these few articles:

1. He confirmed the doctrine of the one true God, and the revelation of his mind and will to men by Moses and the prophets.

2. He explained the moral law, and enforced the observance of it forever; and summed it up in short in two great commandments, namely, "Love God with all your heart, and love your neighbor as yourself."

3. He continued the observance of the ceremonial law for the present, that is, wherever it did not interfere with the duties of the moral law; but where it did interfere, he taught that the moral law was always to be preferred.

4. He required repentance for sin, and faith in himself, as the great prophet who came to reveal the grace of God to men, both for the pardon of sin, and eternal life.

5. He appointed the profession of his religion to be made by baptism, to denote the washing away of our sins, and our being renewed to holiness by the Spirit of God.

6. Just before his sufferings and death, he appointed the feast of the Lord's supper, as a constant memorial of his dying for the sins of men, and our partaking of the benefits thereof. Matt. xxvi. 17—31. 1 Cor. x. 16, 17.

Note. This dispensation during the life of Christ was a medium between the Jewish and Christian dispensations.
CHAPTER II.

OF THE DEATH, RESURRECTION, AND ASCENSION OF CHRIST.

SECTION I.

OF HIS SUFFERINGS, DEATH, AND BURIAL.

1 Q. When Jesus had instituted his holy supper, where did he go? Ans. Matt. xxvi. 38, 39. See Chart, map No. 4.

2 Q. How did it appear that his anguish was so great? Ans. Mark xiv. 33, 34. Luke xxii. 44.

4 Q. What did Jesus do in these agonies? Ans. Mark xiv. 35, 36.

5 Q. What assistance had he to support him under this agony? Ans. Luke xxii. 43.

6 Q. Where were his disciples at this time? Ans. Mark xiv. 32, 33, 37.

7 Q. Was Judas the traitor with the rest of his disciples in the garden? Ans. Mark xiv. 43. Matt. xxvi. 14—16.

8 Q. How came the rulers of the Jews to be so much offended with Christ as to seek to destroy him? Ans. For several reasons, namely:

1. Because he, being a poor man in Israel, and the supposed son of a carpenter, owned himself to be the Messiah, whom they expected to be an earthly king, and to deliver them from subjection to the Romans.

2. Because in his sermons, and in his whole conduct, he endeavored to reform those corruptions which the priests and teachers, and rulers of the Jews, had brought into their religion.

3. He had foretold the anger of God against them and their nation, in some of his parables, pretty plainly, for their great sins, and for the rejection of his ministry.

4. They envied him because many of the people followed him.

9 Q. How did Judas give notice to the officers which was Jesus? Ans. Matt. xxvi. 48, 49.

Judas betrays Christ.

Return of the Prodigal Son.
11 Q. Did Christ show any further instance of his divine power upon this occasion? Ans. John xviii. 5, 6.
12 Q. Did they yet, after this, persist to lay hands on him? Ans. Matt. xxvi. 57.
14 Q. What did Peter do, who particularly boasted of his love and courage? Ans. Mark xiv. 70—72.
15 Q. How was Peter brought to conviction and repentance for this sin? Ans. Mark xiv. 72. Luke xxii. 61, 62.
16 Q. What accusation did they bring against Christ? Ans. Mark xiv. 56.
17 Q. How did they condemn him at last? Ans. Mark xiv. 61—64.
18 Q. Did they then put him to death immediately? Ans. The Jews being under the government of the Romans had not the full power of life and death in their own hands; but they showed their spite against him by many indignities offered to him, and never desisted till they had procured a sentence of death against him from the Roman governor.
19 Q. What were these indignities? Ans. Mark xiv. 65, and xv. 1.
20 Q. What became of Judas the traitor, when he saw the priests had condemned Christ? Ans. Matt. xxvii. 1—5. Acts i. 18.
22 Q. How did Pilate propose to release him, when he was charged as so great a criminal by their accusations? Ans. Mark xv. 6—9.
26 Q. What further indignities were cast on our Savior? Ans. Mark xv. 17—19.
29 Q. Did our Savior then make no resistance, nor give a rebuke to their wicked cruelty? Ans. Luke xxiii. 34.
30 Q. What was the inscription set over his head? Ans. John xix. 19.
33 Q. What answer did Christ make to his faith and prayer? Ans. ver. 48.
34 Q. What respect did Jesus pay to his own mother Mary, when he saw her near the cross? Ans. John xix. 26, 27.
35 Q. What were some of the last words of Jesus on the cross? Ans. Mark xv. 34. Luke xxiii. 46. John xix. 30.
36 Q. What remarkable occurrences attended the death of Christ?
   Ans. (1.) Mark xv. 33.
   (2.) Mark xv. 38.
   (3.) Matt. xxvii. 51—53.
   (4.) Mark xv. 39.
37 Q. What was done to the body of Jesus after his death? Ans. John xix. 31—37.
39 Q. What was done by the enemies of Christ to secure him from rising again? Ans. Matt. xxvii. 62—66.

SECTION II.

OF THE RESURRECTION AND APPEARANCES OF CHRIST.

41 Q. What was the first notice the apostles of Christ had of his resurrection? Ans. Mark xvi. 1—8.
42 Q. Which of the apostles came to the sepulchre to examine this matter? Ans. John xx. 1—10.
45 Q. To whom did Jesus appear after his resurrection? Ans. First to Mary Magdalen; afterwards to two disciples going to Emmaus; then to the apostles assembled, without Thomas; and all this on the day of his resurrection: afterwards he appeared to the apostles when Thomas was with them; again at the sea of Tiberias to seven of his disciples; then to eleven of his disciples on a mountain in Galilee; then near Jerusalem, when he ascended to heaven.
48 Q. What did he say to her? Ans. John xx. 17.
56 Q. How did he reveal himself to the apostles when Thomas was absent the same evening? Ans. John xx. 19—23.
51 Q. How did he appear to them when Thomas was with them? Ans. John xx. 24—28.
54 Q. What remarkable occurrence happened at this meeting? Ans. John xxi. 7—13.

SECTION III.

OF HIS ASCENSION TO HEAVEN.

58 Q. Did he not appear to five hundred brethren at once? 1 Cor. xv. 6.
59 Q. What notice was there given from heaven of his return again? Ans. Acts i. 10, 11.
60 Q. Whither went the disciples then? Ans. Luke xxiv. 52, 53.
CHAPTER III.

OF THE ACTS OF THE APOSTLES, CHIEFLY PETER AND JOHN; AND THE DEACONS, STEPHEN AND PHILIP.

1 Q. What was the first remarkable thing the apostles did toward their future ministry, after they returned to Jerusalem? Ans. Acts i. 15—28.

2 Q. How did they determine which of those two should be the man? Ans. Acts i. 24—26.

3 Q. How long did they wait for the promised Spirit to fall on them? Ans. Acts ii. 1, &c.

4 Q. In what manner did the Spirit come upon them? Ans. Acts ii. 2, 3.

5 Q. What was the first effect of the descent of the Holy Spirit upon them? Ans. Acts ii. 4—11.

6 Q. Which of the apostles seemed to be the chief speaker at that time; and what was their doctrine? Ans. Acts ii. 14—40.

7 Q. What success had this sermon? Ans. Acts ii. 41.

8 Q. What was the temper of spirit, which was admirable in these primitive converts? Ans. Acts ii. 42—47.

9 Q. How did the apostles effectually prove their doctrine, and their commission to preach? Ans. Acts ii. 33—43.

Note. This was the proper beginning of the kingdom of Christ, or the Christian dispensation; which was set up in the world in its glory, at the pouring down of the Spirit, after the ascension of Christ, and his exaltation to the government of the world and the church.

10 Q. What remarkable miracle was wrought by Peter and John at the temple-gate? Ans. Acts iii. 1—9.

11 Q. What use was made of this miracle? Ans. Acts iii. 12—26.

12 Q. What was the effect of this sermon? Ans. Acts iv. 1—4.

13 Q. What defense did the apostles make when they were brought the next day before the priests and rulers? Ans. Acts iv. 5—14.

16 Q. What remarkable instance of goodness and compassion was practiced by these first believers? Ans. Acts ii. 44, 45, and iv. 32—35.
17 Q. Were they all faithful and honest in bringing the price of their estates to the joint-stock? Ans. Acts v. 1, 2.
18 Q. Did they meet with any punishment for this their hypocrisy and deceit? Ans. Acts v. 3—10.
19 Q. What effect had this upon the multitude? Ans. Acts v. 11.
20 Q. What other miracles were wrought by the apostles? Ans. Acts v. 15, 16.
21 Q. Did the high priests and rulers let the apostles go on at this rate? Ans. Acts v. 17—21.
22 Q. When they were brought again before the rulers, how did they behave themselves? Ans. Acts v. 29—32.
23 Q. What effect had this speech upon the rulers and elders? Ans. Acts v. 34—42.
24 Q. When there were such multitudes of converts, how could the apostles both preach the gospel, and distribute money to the poor? Ans. Acts vi. 1—5.
25 Q. How did the apostles separate those whom the people chose to this office of a deacon? Ans. Acts vi. 6.
26 Q. Who were the most considerable of these seven men? Ans. Stephen and Philip, who were full of faith and zeal, and had great gifts communicated to them.
30 Q. How did Stephen behave at his death? Ans. He, being the first martyr for Christ, gave a glorious instance of his faith and love.
33 Q. What is recorded concerning Philip the deacon? Ans. Acts viii. 5, 6, 7. See Chart, map No. 6.

Note. This makes it evident that Philip, who preached to the Samaritans, was not the apostle so named, but the deacon; for had he been the apostle, there would have been no need for Peter and John to come from Jerusalem to lay hands on those that believed.

37 Q. How was he reproved for his rashness and folly? Ans. Acts viii. 20, 21.
38 Q. Whither was Philip sent next to preach? Ans. Acts viii. 26, 27.
39 Q. How was he employed when Philip met him? Ans. Acts viii. 28—32.
40 Q. In what manner did Philip preach the gospel? Ans. Acts viii. 34, 35.
43 Q. What are the next remarkable actions of Peter? Ans. Acts ix. 32—41. See Chart, map No. 6.
44 Q. Who was this Dorcas? Ans. Acts ix. 36—39.
45 Q. What was the effect of these miracles? Ans. Acts ix. 35, 42.
46 Q. What message did Peter receive while he was at Joppa? Ans. Acts x. 1—6.
47 Q. Did Peter readily go upon this message, and preach to Cornelius, who was one of the Gentiles? Ans. Acts x. 19, 20, 28, 29.
48 Q. What sort of vision was this whereby God forewarned Peter that the Gentiles should not be judged unclean any longer? *Ans. Acts. x. 9—20.

Note. By this vision Peter seems to have been taught these two things at once, namely; he was taught literally and expressly that there were no more Jewish distinctions of meats to be observed; and he was taught, by way of emblem, that the Gentiles should no longer be counted unclean, or unfit for Jews familiarly to eat and converse with.

49 Q. How did Peter begin his sermon to Cornelius and his friends? Ans. Acts x. 34, 35.
50 Q. What was the chief substance of his discourse? Ans. Acts x. 36—43.
52 Q. How did Peter defend himself for conversing and eating with the Gentiles, when the Jewish believers reproved him for it? Ans. Acts xi. 1—18.
53 Q. Were the disciples of Christ free from persecution at this time? Ans. Acts ix. 31. and xii. 1—4.
54 Q. How did Peter escape from his hands? Ans. Acts xii. 5—10.
The last Supper.

Conversion of Saul.
59 Q. Is there any thing else recorded concerning the apostle John?

Ans. He also preached the word, and wrote the history of the life and death of Christ, which is called the Gospel: he wrote several epistles to the Christians: he was banished to the isle of Patmos, for the sake of Christ, where he wrote the book of the Revelation: in what order he wrote the things does not appear from scripture.

60 Q. You have informed us what were the doctrines, and what was the religion that the apostles and disciples taught after Christ went to heaven; but how comes it to pass that among these doctrines we do not find them insisting more expressly on that great article of the gospel, the redemption by Christ’s death, and the atonement made for sin by his sufferings?

Ans. It is sufficiently evident that this doctrine was taught the world by Peter and John, as well as by Paul, since there is frequent mention of it in their epistles, as well as that it shines everywhere through the epistles of St. Paul; nor can we suppose their preaching utterly forgot or neglected what their writings abound with. 1 Pet. i. 18, 19. ii. 24. iii. 18. and iv. 1. 1 John i. 7. ii. 2. iii. 16. and v. 6., and therefore it is possible they might preach it sometimes at first, though it be not expressly recorded in such short abstracts of their sermons as we find in the book of Acts; or, if this doctrine was not published at first with frequency and freedom, there seems to be a very good reason for it, namely, because neither the Jews nor Gentiles could well bear it so soon: for it was “a stumblingblock to the Jews, and foolishness to the Greeks.” 1 Cor. i. 23. And they were to be led by degrees into a full acquaintance with the mystery of the gospel; even as Christ himself led his own disciples by slow degrees into the knowledge of this and other things, “as they were able to bear them.” John xvi. 12.

CHAPTER IV.

THE ACTS OF PAUL THE APOSTLE, HIS TRAVELS AND SUFFERINGS, HIS LIFE AND DEATH.

2 Q. What was his behavior towards the Christians while he continued a Pharisee? Ans. Acts viii. 1—3. and vii. 53.

4 Q. Did he hear any voice at the same time? Ans. Acts ix. 4, 5.

5 Q. What effect had this upon Saul? Ans. Acts ix. 6.

6 Q. Did Saul obey this divine vision? Ans. Acts ix. 8–11.

7 Q. Who was sent to teach him his duty there? Ans. Acts ix. 11, 12.

8 Q. Did Ananias go willingly on this errand? Ans. Acts ix. 10, &c.

Note. Here. In St. Paul's rehearsal of this matter to Agrippa, Acts xxvi. 16, &c., Christ himself is represented as giving Paul his first commission from heaven to the Gentiles at this time; yet it has been questioned whether the apostle does not in this rehearsal join together all that Christ said to him, both in his first vision upon the road to Damascus, and his second vision at Jerusalem in the temple, when he was more expressly sent to the Gentiles, Acts xxii. 17, 18, 21., but this is too large a debate to be assumed here.

12 Q. How came he to learn and preach the gospel so soon? Ans. Gal. i. 1, 11–16.

13 Q. Where did he preach the gospel when he went to Damascus? Ans. Gal. i. 17, 18. See Chart, map No. 7.

14 Q. When he returned to Damascus, how did the Jews bear with him? Ans. Acts ix. 23–25. and 2 Cor. xi. 32, 33.

15 Q. When he came to Jerusalem, how was he received by the disciples? Ans. Acts ix. 26.

16 Q. How were they persuaded to believe that he was now a disciple of Christ? Ans. Acts ix. 26, 27.

17 Q. Who was Barnabas? Ans. Acts iv. 36. See Chart, map No. 7.

19 Q. What was that other vision which he had of Christ when he was at Jerusalem? Ans. Acts xxii. 17–21.

Note. Though this account of Paul's seeing Christ in the temple at Jerusalem seems here immediately to follow the account of his conversion, Acts xxii. 16, 17.; yet some think he had not this vision till the second time of his coming to Jerusalem.

20 Q. Whither was Barnabas sent by the apostles? Ans. Acts xi. 22–24. See Chart, map No. 7.

Note. This great success of the gospel at this time was partly among the Jews who resided in other countries, and partly the Jewish proselytes of the gate, or the "devout persons, and such as feared God." Acts x. 2, and xiii. 26, 50.

22 Q. What further commission had Barnabas and Saul to preach the gospel to the Gentiles? Ans. Acts xiii. 1—3.

23 Q. Who was their assistant or attendant in this journey? Ans. Acts xii. 25. xiii. 5. Col. iv. 10.

25 Q. How was Elymas punished for this crime? Ans. Acts xiii. 10—12.

Note. From Paphos they went to Pamphylia in Asia, and thence John Mark returned to Jerusalem, and left Paul and Barnabas, v. 13. See Chart, map No. 7.

26 Q. Where were the next remarkable labors of Paul and Barnabas? Ans. Acts xiii. 14—41. See Chart, map No. 7.

27 Q. What effect had Paul’s preaching upon the inhabitants of that city? Ans. Acts xiii. 45—47.

34 Q. What new troubles arose while they were at Antioch? Ans. Acts xv. 1.

35 Q. How was this controversy continued? Ans. Acts xv. 2.

Note. It is probable that at this time Paul told Peter, James, and John, of the liberty of the gospel, or the freedom from all Jewish ceremonies, which he preached to the Gentiles, Gal. ii. 1—9, and which he calls his gospel, being eminently the apostle of the Gentiles. Gal. ii. 7—9. and I Tim. ii. 7.

37 Q. Why were these few things so particularly forbidden to the Gentile converts?

Ans. Some suppose these were the things always forbidden to the Jewish proselytes of the gate. See note on q. 20. And that it would have given too much offense to the Jews, as well as to those proselytes, if the apostle had not required the Gentile converts to observe these rules, at least for the present season.

Note. Fornication was a thing always unlawful in itself, yet here other things are joined with it which are not sinful in their own nature; because the eating of blood, and things offered to idols, were frequently attended with fornication and impurity among the Gentiles, at their idolatrous feasts; and therefore this sin of fornication is expressly forbidden here, to put the Christians always in mind of the unlawfulness of it; and more particularly, because some professed Christians in that age pretended it to be lawful, such as the Gnostics, Nicolaitans, &c. Abstinence from things offered to idols seems to be but a temporary command, for particular times and places; since it is permitted in some cases by the apostle, namely, where it gives no offense. 1 Cor. x. 19—31. And abstinence from blood, not being in itself unlawful, seems to stand on the same footing: for it is plain that the reason given against eating blood is, because it was devoted to God to make atonement for sin. Lev. xvii. 10—14. And the blood of beasts slain for food was to be poured out on the ground, because the life, or most noble part of the creature, was contained in it, and was devoted to God, as a sort of first-fruits, to sanctify the rest for the eater's sake. But now the blood of Christ having made full atonement for sin, and all sorts of food under the New Testament being sanctified to the eater by the word and prayer, 1 Tim. iv. 3—5, blood has neither of these uses continued; and is therefore one of those meats which may be eaten with thanksgiving, though it was forbidden at first for a season, together with meats offered to idols, lest the Jews and proselytes should take offense.

38 Q. What were the next travels of Paul and Barnabas? Ans. Acts xv. 36—38. See Chart, map No. 7.

39 Q. How was this contention ended between Barnabas and Paul? Ans. Acts xv. 39—41.

Note. Asia is a large country, one quarter of the world. The lesser Asia is the same with Natolia, a square country between the Euxine sea and the Mediterranean. But the Asia which the scripture so frequently speaks of in the Acts, seems to be but a small part of this lesser Asia, including only Phrygia, Mysia, Caria, and Lydia, which are washed on the west by the Ægean sea; and where the famous seven churches were. Rev. i. 1.

41 Q. Where was the next remarkable place of their ministry? Ans. Acts xvi. 9—15. See Chart, map No. 7.

Note. Here it is probable that Luke, who wrote the Acts of the apostles, became a companion of Paul, because from this time he uses the word we in his history.

42 Q. What miracle was wrought there? Ans. Acts xvi. 16—18.

43 Q. How did her masters bear it when they saw their gains were gone? Ans. Acts xvi. 19—24.
44 Q. How were they released thence? Ans. Acts xvi. 25—27.
45 Q. How was this self-murder prevented? Ans. Acts xvi. 31—34.
46 Q. But did the magistrates then dismiss them? Ans. Acts xvi. 35—40.
52 Q. What effect had his preaching there? Ans. Acts xviii. 5—11.

Note 1. Though Paul found such great and remarkable success in his ministry among the Corinthians, yet by the means of some false brethren, and some ambitious pretenders to apostleship, there were such factions and contentions raised in this church, that cost him much sorrow of heart; and this was increased by the irregular lives and immoral practices of some of his converts there, which occasioned his writing two large and excellent epistles to them.

Note 2. It is thought most probable that Paul, who went from Corinth to Cenchrea, and to Ephesus, left Aquila and Priscilla at Ephesus, where they instructed Apollos, a fervent preacher, a disciple of John the Baptist, in the gospel of Christ; but that Paul himself went to Jerusalem to the feast, and returned to Ephesus again before Aquila went thence, and before his great success at Ephesus began; which is related in the very next chapter, namely, the sixth.

54 Q. When Paul came to Ephesus, what remarkable occurrences did he meet with there? Ans. Acts xix. 1—7. See Chart, map No. 7.
55 Q. How did he perform the rest of his ministry there? Ans. Acts xix. 8—12.
56 Q. Was he not persecuted by the heathens in this place? Ans. Acts xix. 24—29.
58 Q. Was there any thing of importance fell out in the seven days while Paul traveled at Troas? Ans. Acts xx. 6—9.
59 Q. How was the young man recovered? Ans. Acts xx. 10—12.

62 Q. In what manner did Agabus deliver this prophecy? Ans. Acts xxi. 11.

63 Q. What was the noble speech and resolution of Paul on this occasion? Ans. Acts xxi. 12, 13.

64 Q. What was the first thing he did when he came to Jerusalem? Ans. Acts xxi. 17--20. See Chart, map No. 7.

Note. Here he now published freely to the whole church his success among idolaters, which he had communicated only before privately, and to a few. Gal. ii. 2.

Note. This compliance of St. Paul being recommended to him by one apostle, namely, James, and by the elders at Jerusalem, Acts xxi. 18, 20, &c., and being put in practice by himself, who was, perhaps, the chief of the apostles, we cannot reasonably suppose it sinful or blame-worthy, especially since the scripture passes no censure on it: and yet must we not say the religious ceremonies of the Jews, and particularly all the sin-offerings, (such as this was, Num. vi. 14,) were abolished by the great sacrifice of Christ, and the introduction of Christianity by the Holy Ghost at Pentecost?--In order, therefore, to vindicate this practice of St. Paul, we may consider the Jewish ceremonies under a twofold aspect: 1. As they were part of their national laws, under God as their King; and 2. As part of their religious worship paid to him as their God. Now the Jewish state being not yet destroyed, may we not suppose that St. Paul might comply with these practices as a part of the national Jewish laws, rather than as religious worship; for he everywhere declared the Gentiles to be free from them?

Or, if we consider these ceremonies only in their religious design, may we not suppose, that from the death of Christ, which was the substantial sacrifice, these shadows so far vanished, that they ceased to be necessary, but were left, for a season, as indifferent things to the Jews, which, as the apostle expresses, Heb. viii. 13, "were decaying and waxing old, and ready to vanish away?" May we not suppose the divine indulgence of them for a season, because of the weakness of mankind, who cannot easily bear a universal change of their ancient customs all at once; and for this reason, lest the Jews should take too great offense, St. Paul took Timothy and circumcised him, in order to make him a preacher, since his mother was a Jewess, Acts xvi. 1, 3., this being a lawful thing to him, though not necessary. At the same time he would not have Titus circumcised, because he was a Gentile, and had nothing to do with the Jewish law. Gal. ii. 3. And the same apostle being a Jew, for the same reason might comply with the Jewish rites of shaving his head, and sacrificing, as things left indifferent to the Jews for a season, by the will of God, in compliance with the weakness of man.

66 Q. Did this piece of compliance secure Paul from the persecution of the Jews? Ans. Acts xxi. 27--40.

69 Q. How was he secured from their rage? Ans. Acts xxii. 24—30.
71 Q. What effect had this upon the council? Ans. Acts xxiii. 9, 10.
72 Q. What particular encouragement had Paul from heaven under these sufferings? Ans. Acts xxiii. 11.
73 Q. What was the next danger he was exposed to? Ans. Acts xxiii. 12—15.
74 Q. By what means did the providence of God secure Paul from this conspiracy? Ans. Acts xxiii. 16—35.
75 Q. What was the next step taken by the high priests and elders to condemn Paul; and how did Paul defend himself? Ans. Acts xxiv. 1—21. See Chart, map No. 7.
78 Q. Did the high priests and elders entirely drop their accusations against Paul? Ans. Acts xxiv. 27, and xxv. 2. See Chart, map No. 7.
80 Q. What occasion had Paul then to plead his cause again before Agrippa, who was the king of Galilee? Ans. Acts xxv. 13—27.
81 Q. What was the substance of Paul’s speech to Agrippa? Ans. Acts xxvi. 1—23.
82 Q. What influence had this speech upon Agrippa? Ans. Acts xxvi. 26—32.
83 Q. How was Paul sent to Caesar at Rome? Ans. Acts xxvii. See Chart, map No. 7.
84 Q. Was there any remarkable occurrence fell out there? Ans. Acts xxviii. 1—5.
85 Q. What did the barbarous people of the island think of this when they saw it? Ans. Acts xxviii. 4—6.
88 Q. How was Paul disposed of when he came into the city? Ans. Acts xxviii. 16.
89 Q. What was Paul’s first work when he came to Rome? Ans. Acts xxviii. 17—23.

92 Q. Since several of the Epistles of Paul are said to be written from Rome, which are those he is supposed to have written at this time? Ans. Phil. i. 13, 26. Eph. vi. 20. Col. iv. 18. Philem. 9, 22.

93 Q. When he was released from prison at Rome, whither did he go?

Ans. Into several countries, both of Europe and Asia, preaching the gospel, and confirming the Christian converts. See Chart, map No. 7.

95 Q. What became of him when he came the second time to Rome? Ans. 2 Tim. iv. 14—16.

96 Q. Did he finish his life and labors here? Ans. 2 Tim. iv. 6. 1 Cor. xv. 10. 2 Cor. xi. 23, &c.

Note. Paul was beheaded as a martyr for Christ, under the reign of Nero, emperor of Rome, as the ancient historians inform us.

1. The period of Messiah’s death, &c. is determined. Matt. xxxii. 27—50. Mk. xii. 15, xviii. 26—37.

REMARKS.—The learned are not agreed as to the time when Daniel’s 70 prophetic weeks commence; though they all understand them to mean weeks of years. Certain it is, however, that they commenced with the edict to build the city, not the temple, of Jerusalem, as given to Ezra by Artaxerxes Longimanus: (Ezra vii. and viii.) or 20 years after, as given to Nehemiah. (See ch. ii.) From either of these dates
It is precisely 490 years to the death of Christ, which answers to the number of the prophetic weeks.

The first seven of these weeks, or 49 years, was devoted to the rebuilding of the city, its walls, &c. The next 62, or 434 years, expired before the commencement of the public ministry either of John or of Christ. In the last half of the 70th week, when the "covenant" was "confirmed with many," the Messiah, when he exclaimed, "It is finished," "caused the sacrifice and oblation to cease."

PREDICTIONS.

XIV. BALAAM'S PROPHECY.

Num. xxiv. 17. 1. Literally, as applied to David. 2 Sam. viii. 14. 1 Kings xi. 15, 16. Ps. ix. 6.

REMARKS.—Some predictions of scripture have a twofold significance, as in this instance.

XV. JOS'S PROPHECY.

II. PROPHECIES CONCERNING NOAH'S THREE SONS, SHEM, HAM, AND JAPHETH.

XVI. NOAH'S PROPHECY.

Gen. ix. 25. 1. Of Ham and Canaan.

REMARKS. This curse respects the posterity of Ham and Canaan, not themselves. The same of the blessing pronounced upon Shem and Japheth. The descendants of Shem and Japheth, were at first measurably subdued by those of Ham and Canaan. Egypt, however, "the land of Ham," (Ps. cv. 23.) was finally conquered by the Persians and Grecians, who descended from Shem and Japheth. Africa, for the most part, for centuries past, has been subjected, first to the Romans, then to the Saracens, and now to the Turks. Their present degraded state is but the fulfillment of this prophecy in continuation.

Gen. ix. 26, 27, last clause. 2. Of Shem.

REMARKS. Through the posterity of Shem, the church was preserved, from the days of Noah to Christ. "In the tents of Shem" the shekinah dwelt, first in the tabernacle, then in the temple. And of them, "as concerning the flesh, Christ came." See Chart, Shem, No. 4.

Gen. ix. 27. 3. Of Japheth.

REMARKS. The territory of country possessed by the descendants of Japheth, as also their number, evince the actual fulfillment of this prediction. Subsequently, the Greeks and Romans, who descended from Japheth, subdued Judea and part of Asia, which belonged to Shem. Japheth was blessed spiritually, when the Gentiles were received into the Christian church.

III. PROPHECIES CONCERNING ISHMAEL.

XVII.

Gen. xvi. 10. 1. His posterity, name. Gen. xxxvii. 27, 28. &c.
xxi. 13, 18. Gen. xvi. 15.
PREDICTIONS.

Gen. xvii. 20.

2. The number of his children.
3. His character, residence, occupation, &c.

REM. The Hagarceans, from Hagar, Ishmael's mother; the Nabateans, from Nebaioth, and the Itureans, from Jetur, his sons; and the Arabian Scenites, and the Seracens, who established one of the greatest empires ever known; and also the present numerous race of Arabs, are all his descendants.

The present character of the Arabs answers to that of their great progenitor. They still continue to range the desert, dwell in the wilderness, use the bow and arrow, as the Itureans, and the children of Kedar. Is. xxxi. 17. They subsist principally by rapine, and though a Sesostrias, Cyrus, and his successors, Alexander the Great, Antigonus, Lucullus and Pompey, Caius Gallus, Trajan, Severus, and other Egyptian, Persian, Grecian, and Roman emperors, have made repeated efforts to subdue them, yet, to this day, they remain unconquered by any nation.

IV. PROMISES CONCERNING ABRAHAM, ISAAC, AND JACOB.

1. To Abraham. Gen. xii. 1—3, xv.
13, 14, 16, 18, xvii.
2, 6, 8, xxii. 17.

xxvi. 3, 4.

2. The Israelites, from Jacob or Israel. Gen. xxxii. 32. 2 Kings xvii. 34.

Gen. xxv. 17. 2 Chron. xv. 14, 15. Ex. ii.
25. Deut. xi. 13—

12. 2 Kings xiv. 22.
2 Chron. xxvi. 2. 2
Sam. viii. 14. 15. 1
Kings iv. 21.

REMARKS. At first the Edomites were more numerous and powerful than the Israelites. Gen. xxxvi. 31. They revolted under the reign of Jeroboam, king of Judah, 2 Kings viii. 20. 2 Chron. xxi. 8. 10. and regained the liberty which they lost under David. Finally, they were subdued by Judas Maccabaeus, and incorporated with the Jews.

5. Their temporal blessings similar.

XVIII. Jacob's prophecies.

1. Reuben.
Gen. xlix. 3, 4. Inferiority.

REMARKS. The tribe of Reuben was inferior to several others in number, and among the first carried captive.

2. Simeon and Levi.
Gen. xlix. 5, 6, 7. Divided and scattered.
See Chart, map No. 4.

REMARKS. The tribe of Simeon, according to Jewish tradition, was exceedingly impoverished, and though the curse was removed from the descendants of Levi, yet their cities were scattered throughout the other tribes.

XIX. BALAAM'S prophecy.

Num. xxiii. 9.

2. Conquests over their enemies.

REMARKS.—See the history of their conquests over their numerous enemies under Moses, Joshua, the Judges and Kings, particularly David, and their universal peace under Solomon.

Num. xxiv. 21, 22. | 9. The fate of the Kenites.
| and xix. 12, 13, with 1 Chron. ii. 55.

REMARKS.—The Kenites here mentioned are not the same with Gen. xv. 19. They became extinct, as also did the Kenissites, between the interval of Abraham and Moses. They are the same with the Midianites, (Com. Ex. xiii. 1. with Judge 16.) The greater part of whom dwelt among the Moabites and Amalikites. (1 Sam. xv. 6.)

Num. xxiv. 23, 24. The fulfillment of this prophecy was more remote than those which preceded. (v. 23, last clause.) It was verified when “Asher,” or the Assyrians were conquered, first by Alexander the Great, and then by the Romans under Trajan. And “Ebre,” whether it be understood of nations contiguous to the Assyrians, or of the Hebrews his descendants, the prophecy and its fulfillment holds equally true; for both were afflicted by the Selducæ, the successors of Alexander, and also by the Romans.—“And he also” (i.e. Chittim, or the Romans,) “shall perish forever.” What now remains of that once powerful empire, but its name? It has been utterly destroyed by the incursions of the northern nations.

VIII. PROPHECIES CONCERNING THE JEWS.

XX. Moses’ prophecies.

Deut. xxviii. 49. | 1. The destruction of the Jews by | Jer. v. 15. Lam. iv. 19.

PREDICTIONS.
Deut. xxviii. 52. § 3. Their cities were to be besieged.

FULFILLMENTS.
2 Kings xviii. 9, 10. v. 13. xxv. 19.

REMARKS.—Although the Jews confided in the strength of their walls, cities, &c., yet at different times it was besieged by Ishak, Nebuchadnezzar, Antiochus Epiphanes, Pompey, Socius, Herod, and finally, by Titus.

Deut. xxviii. 53, 54, § 4. Their sufferings were to be great.
56. Lev. xxvi. 29. xxv. 3. Lam. iv. 10.

REMARKS.—Josephus gives a most awful account of the sufferings of the Jews, when their city was destroyed by Titus.

Deut. xxviii. 62. § 5. They were to be destroyed in great numbers.

REMARKS.—Josephus informs us, that at the last siege of Jerusalem by Titus, eleven hundred thousand perished by famine and war.

Deut. xxviii. 68. Ps. xlv. 13.

REMARKS.—This, according to Josephus, was the case during the reigns of the two first Ptolemies, Adrian, Titus, &c.

Deut. xxviii. 63. § 6. They were to be sold into Egypt as slaves, &c.

REMARKS.—After their extirpation by Adrian they were forbidden, upon pain of death, to enter Jerusalem. The holy land is now for the most part inhabited by Moors, Arabians, Turks, Greeks, &c.

Deut. xxviii. 25. § 7. They were to be rooted out of their own land.

REMARKS.—They are to be found at this day in all the four quarters of the globe.

Lev. xxvi. 44. § 8. They were dispersed into all nations.

REMARKS.—Notwithstanding all their wars, battles, sieges, fires, famines, pestilences, massacres, persecutions, captivities, slavery, &c. &c., they still exist!

Deut. xxviii. 65. § 9. They were nevertheless a distinct people.

REMARKS.—Not to record their ancient banishments, we will mention that from England by Edward I.; seven times from France by Charles VI.; from Spain by Ferdinand and Isabella; and within a few years from Prague by the queen of Bohemia.
PREDICTIONS.

Deut. xxviii. 29. 11. They should be oppressed and spoiled evermore.

REMARKS.—This was particularly the case under Henry the III. and Edward the I., when their estates were confiscated, &c.

Deut. xxviii. 32. 12. Their sons and daughters should be given to other people.

REMARKS.—This has prevailed in Spain and Portugal, where their children have been taken, and educated into the Popish religion, &c.

Deut. xxviii. 34. 13. The sight of their calamities should make them mad.

REMARKS.—At the destruction of Jerusalem by Titus, 960 Jews destroyed themselves in the castle of Masada. During the reign of Richard the I., 1500 Jews in the city of York, first stabbed their wives and children, and then burnt themselves in the King's palace, rather than fall into the hands of their enemies.

Deut. xxviii. v. 36, 44. 14. They should become idolators.

REMARKS.—In Popish countries the Jews have often complied with the idolatry of the church of Rome, to save their property from confiscation, &c.

Deut. xxviii. 37. 15. They should become a proverb and a by-word.

REMARKS.—Their avarice, &c., is proverbial to this day. The Mahommedan, Heathen, and nominal Christian all unite in detesting a Jew.

Deut. xxviii. 59. 16. Their distresses should be of long continuance.

REMARKS.—The condition of the Jews in every part of the world; since the destruction of their city and temple, is an evidence of this. See Deut. xxviii. 45, 46.

XXI. JEREMIAH'S prophecies.

Jer. xxv. 1, 11. xxix. 10. 1. The captivity and restoration of Judah and Benjamin.

Lev. xxvi. 33. Is. i. 7, 8, 9. Jer. xii. 10, 11. 4. Judea should be come desolate.

Remarks.—The land of Judea was originally a most luxuriant country—a land flowing with milk and honey. But for many ages it has been almost entirely uninhabited, being “covered with parched rocks, on which is not one line of soil.”

Remarks.—Their present blindness, obtinacy, and unbelief, is but the fulfilment of these predictions in continuation.

Mic. iv. 1. Is. ii. 3, 5, 22.

3. 5. 22.

Remarks.—“I the Lord will hasten it in his time.”

Remarks. The destruction of Nineveh is supposed to have been consummated by the joint invasion of Nebuchadonosor and Cyaxares, or Ahasuerus. Tobit xiv. 15. It remains to this day one vast heap of ruins, as a standing monument of the truth of the scripture prophecy.

Remarks. They were to be found in Africa and Spain, in Carthage, and some of the Ionian and Ægean sea Islands. The curse of Canaan, Gen. ix. 25, seemed to pursue them to the most distant parts of the earth, they being descended from the Sidonians, who sprang from Sidon, the eldest son of Canaan. Gen. x. 16.

| Is. xxiii. 15, 16, 17. Jer. xxv. 11, 12. | 3. The city should be restored again after seventy years. |

Remarks. The conquered nations were restored to their liberties at the destruction of Babylon by Cyrus and the Persians.

| Is. xxiii. 6. Ezek. xxvii. 32. xxviii. 8. Zech. ix. 3, 4. Ezek. xxviii. 18. xxvi. 12. | 4. But the city was to be invaded again. |

Remarks. This was accomplished both by Nebuchadnezzar and Alexander the Great.

| Joel iii. 6, 7, 8. | 5. They were to be sold for captives, &c. |

Remarks. Alexander, after slaying 8,000 in taking the city, had 2,000 crucified, and sold 30,000 for slaves.

Remarks. The work of destruction was commenced by Nebuchadnezzar, continued by Alexander, the Ptolemies, and the Seleucids, and completed by the Romans. Her present condition is gathered from Is. xxiii. 8, 9. Ezek. xxvii. 3, 4. and xxviii. 5, &c.

XII. PROPHECIES CONCERNING EGYPT.

Remarks. Nebuchadnezzar conquered the greater part of Africa, and constituted Amasis king in the place of Pharoh Hophra, or Apis, of whom Ezekiel speaks, ch. xxix. 3. See also Jer. xliv. 30. and Ezek. xxix. 12.
PREDICTIONS.

Is. xix. 1. Jer. ixiii. 2. Its conquest should be sudden.

REMARKS. This was accomplished both by Cambyses, Ochus, &c., Persian kings.

Is. xix. 2, 3, 4.

3. It should be distracted with civil wars, &c.

REMARKS. This occurred, as some think, during the anarchy which prevailed, consequent upon the reign of the twelve kings, but more probably in the civil wars between Apius and Amas, at the time of Nebuchadnezzar's invasion. The fourth verse records its accomplishment in the cruelty exercised over the Egyptians by Cambyses and Ochus. See also Is. xix. 5—10, 11—17.

Is. xix. 18—25.

Zeph. iii. 9.

4. They should, notwithstanding, be brought to the knowledge of the true religion.

REMARKS. The way was prepared by the conquest of Alexander the Great over the Persians. Consult Jer. xliii, &c. xliv. 1. Acts ii. 10. viii. 27.

Ezek. xxix. 12, 13, 14, 15.

5. Its character designated from the time of Nebuchadnezzar to the present.

REMARKS. At the conquest of Egypt by Nebuchadnezzar, it became tributary. Look at its condition under the Persian kings—Cambyses, Darius, Xerxes, Artaxerxes Longimanus, &c., &c. Also the Macedonians—then the Romans. After them the Saracens—Mamaleus, and is now the province of the Ottoman empire.
